State Offering Mortgage Financing

As a result of new legislation signed by Acting Governor Blair Lee III, effective on July 1, the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development last week announced that a limited amount of funds has become available for use in the State's home financing program.

Under the new legislation, a small amount of money received by the Department in pre-payment of principal by first-time mortgages now may be loaned again to qualifying applicants on a first-come, first-served basis.

Credit-worthy, eligible low-income families, who cannot qualify for federal mortgage programs or existing private financing, can apply for these State home loans of up to 95 percent of total acquisition cost. Under the program, terms can run up to 40 years. The low down payment requirements together with preferred interest rates enable families or individuals to become homeowners at about the same monthly cost as rent.

The Department's Maryland Home Financing Program is a direct-loan mortgage plan for limited-income Marylanders. Founded in 1972, it is a self-supporting program funded with the proceeds of State general obligation bonds. Interest rates to borrowers are placed nominally above the bond rate to cover administrative costs and anticipated losses and are generally two to three percent below market interest rates. To date, 1896 loans with a total value of $45 million have been made.

Information about eligibility and procedure for filing applications can be obtained by telephoning the Maryland Home Financing Program in Annapolis, 269-3924.

A thought for the day: Social worker Jane Addams said, "The common stock of intellectual enjoyment should not be difficult of access because of the economic position of him who would approach it."

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 102 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1978 | PER COPY 20c | NUMBER 29

Primary election day has come and gone. For some, it's all over but the crying. For others, there is jubilation. Little more can be said, except that it was encouraging to see a fairly strong turnout of voters. The 50% response was certainly an improvement over the 32% response of the last primary. Still, one wonders, where is the other 50%?

The Loar Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital indeed deserves a medal of commendation for its outstanding work in providing better health care to the people of Garrett County. The purchase of various new pieces of needed diagnostic and life saving equipment has been made possible from the financial backing of this organization. Donations to the organization are strongly urged. Each one of us is going to need treatment at the hospital at one time or another and we will want, and deserve, the best possible care.

Due to the diligent efforts and perserverance of numerous volunteers, a man who was lost for six days in the Elk Garden area was found unharmed this week. The searchers never gave up. Once again we see an example of real concern and caring for our fellow man.

Firefighting is another example of service to others. It is service of the highest degree, for this one often involves risking one's own life to help others. It is indeed comforting to see Garrett County firefighters, already some of the finest anywhere, steadily pursuing more and more training.

We appreciate the work of the Garrett County Commissioners and the Garrett County Development Corporation in securing a parcel of land for use as an industrial site. Our county needs some new, clean industry, as is evidenced by the county's unemployment rate (7%). We also must strive to keep our youth from having to leave the county in order to find employment.

Commissioners Execute Purchase Option For Industrial Parcel

The Garrett County Commissioners formally executed a purchase option on Tuesday, September 5, with W. H. Fratz, Incorporated, Accident, transferring title of approximately 53 acres of land to the commissioners for use as an industrial park.

This formal action by the commissioners culminates many years of work, originating in 1971, when the Accident Town Council designated the subject parcel as industrial land. Subsequent to this designation and optioning by the Town Council, American H.V. Test System, Inc., purchased ten acres from this parcel to develop an assembly plant, currently employing approximately 25 people. The purchase by the commissioners of the remaining land will enable the county to sell additional parcels to other prospective industries wishing to locate in the area, according to Marshall Rickert, county administrator.

Garrett County received a loan of $135,000 in July of this year from the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development for this project. Under the terms of the loan, the county will repay interest payments to the state for the first five years, followed by a 20-year principle and interest amortization. This Maryland Industrial Land Acts project enables counties to conduct an active industrial development project with a minimum of capital investment, as in many cases the land will be sold at cost to small industries prior to the beginning of amortization period, according to Thomas Jones, Executive Director of the Garrett County Development Corporation.

Mr. Jones pointed out to the commissioners that he had received several inquiries from small industries looking for suitable county sites. He said the availability of this land in the Accident area will give the county developed industrial land to offer to perspective purchasers.

Mr. Jones stated that when the industrial park is developed to its fullest extent, private investment is expected to total 2.5 million dollars in several small industries, with employment of approximately 225 persons at an approximate annual payroll of 2.7 million dollars. The commissioners hope as a result of this project to arrest the exodus of young people from Garrett County.

Weather

Much cooler today with considerable cloudiness and a chance of morning showers. High in the 70s. Cool and mostly cloudy with a chance of a little rain or drizzle late tonight or thursday. Low in the 50s. High around 70. The chance of rain 30 percent today, 20 percent tonight, 40 percent Thursday. Winds Northeast 5 to 15 MPH today becoming light Southeast tonight.

The Loar Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital donated a check for $5,000 yesterday to the hospital to be used towards the purchase of a gastroscope and a colonscope. These two pieces of equipment will enable the patient to have early diagnosis and treatment of certain gastrointestinal problems. Monies for the equipment were received from the community in the form of donations, memorial or otherwise, to the Loar Auxiliary Diagnostic Equipment Fund. Pictured above are Mrs. Francis Riley, Loar Auxiliary president, and hospital staff members, Dr. Joseph Alvarez, Chief of Surgery and Thomas Earley, Assistant Administrator.

One-Half of Garrett County's Voters Turn Out For Election Tuesday

Approximately 50% of Garrett County's registered voters turned out at the poles for yesterday's primary election. This figure compares to a 32% turnout in the 1974 primary.

As expected, a few of the political races are extremely close and cannot be decided until absentee ballots are counted Thursday. In Garrett County, 159 absentee ballots have been collected, with roughly two thirds of that total Republican and one third Democrat.

The present Garrett County totals, with all precinct reporting, are as follows:

Judge Dismisses Charges In Armed Robbery Incident

Charges of robbery with a deadly weapon against three Garrett County young men ended when the case was dismissed in Hagerstown September 1.

Henry Steyer, Alfred Friend and Joe Kisselovich had been charged in connection with the armed robbery of William Knotts, Smithsburg, at the Venice Motel in Hagerstown August 12. At a preliminary hearing in Washington County District Court, Judge Fred C. Wright III ruled that there was no probable cause for the charges and dismissed the case.

Martin Clarifies Wording In Junk Yard News Story

Adrian T. Martin, owner of a junk yard at the intersection of Route 38 and Pysell Crosscut, has pointed out several discrepancies between an article which appeared in the August 30 issue of The Republican, and factual history involved in his case.

Six-Day Search In Elk Garden Area Ends, Man Found Unharmed

Eddie C. Simons of Elk Garden, who had been missing in the Allegheny Front area near there since last Tuesday evening, was discovered Monday along Burgess Hollow Road, approximately 2 miles from U. S. Route 50.

Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, reported that Simons, a 33 year-old epileptic had been thoroughly examined and apparently did not suffer any after effects from his six-day ordeal.

Simons was discovered by Harold Morton, a North Carolina native who had also become lost. He came across Simons sitting along the road, weak and asking for water.

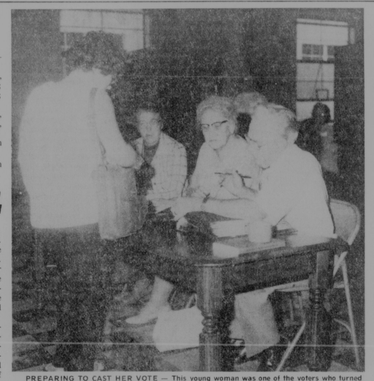
Officials with the State Police and Department of Natural Resources talked with Simons Monday afternoon and ascertained he had remained within a two-mile radius while he was lost.

State Police said Simons told them he walked for a while and would then lie down and rest. He also reported sighting the helicopter which was used in the search.

Simons underwent additional testing yesterday at Potomac Valley.

Among the groups and officials who joined in the search for Simons were State Police, National Guard, members of fire and rescue companies in Southern Garrett County, volunteers, the Mineral County Sheriff's Department, the Scott Air Force Base in Illinois which obtained the services of an Adirondak Dog Rescue Team from Albany, N.Y., and C. Battery, 201st Artillery of Keyser. Search headquarters were established at the Elk Garden Fire Hall.

Simons became lost last Tuesday evening while he and a companion were guessing hunting on the eastern slope of the Allegheny Front.



PREPARING TO CAST HER VOTE — This young woman was one of the voters who turned out in District 14 (West Oakland) yesterday. Half of the county's registered voters turned out for the primary, according to election figures released this morning. Assisting the voter are, left to right, Mrs. James Panther, Mrs. H. D. Swartzentruber and Charles Malone. This was the first time computerized voting machines were used in Garrett County, and the new machines made the job of tallying results easier and faster for those working with the Board of Election Supervisors.

Unemployment Dips To Seven Percent In July

Garrett County registered a drop in unemployment in July to 7 percent from an 8.4 percent figure in June.

Allegany County's unemployment was 7.8 percent, down from 8.4 percent in June, noted the Maryland Department of Human Resources.

Garrett County's jobless total was 812 in July compared to 971 in June.

Statewide, the unemployment rate dropped to 4.8 percent, lowest this year and substantially below the national percentage of 6.3 percent.

Maryland employment was up 2.7 percent from July 1977 and Baltimore's employment grew 3.4 percent.

State employment continued to expand in July with the addition of 3,963 employes. Main reason for the increase was the implementation of summer youth employment programs in the Baltimore area, according to the department.

Non-agricultural employment statewide dropped by 4,400 from June to July, but was still 42,000 higher than at the same time last year.

Regional Fire School Scheduled Sunday At Deep Creek Company

Members of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association were informed during an executive committee meeting Sunday that the next regional fire school will be held this coming Sunday at Deep Creek Fire Company headquarters in McHenry.

Last Sunday's meeting was held at Accident with 23 departments represented. Robert Stevenson, Midland, president of the Association, presided.

Registration for the fire school next Sunday will be from 8 to 9 a.m. with classes running from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Lunch will be served from noon to 1 p.m.

The all-day school will deal with breathing apparatus, classes two and three; relay pumping, flammable gases, inspection and fire cause.

The Midland Volunteer fire company is to start a basic course Friday.

George Comp, director of Civil Defense in Garrett County, told association members that the "911" emergency system is working well and proving to be a help to emergency units. All towns in Garrett, with the exception of Bloomington and Finzel, are on the system. Emergency situations in those two areas should be reported to the Allegany County Emergency Communications Center.

The Associations annual firemen's ball will be held at the Clary Club October 28 with music by the Wally Grager Orchestra.

Table reservations may be made by calling Willy Wilson, 734-1096. Each department and its auxiliary is requested to make financial donations to benefit the dance.

The Association's "Miss Fire Prevention" queen contest will be staged at the Midland Fire Company October 8, with the queen being named that evening. Wilson and his wife Dorothy are in charge of the contest.

There are four candidates from Garrett County and seven entries from Allegany County for the state fireman of the year to be selected October 28. Contestants and their chiefs will be guests of honor at the awards dinner.

During Sunday's meeting, the committee approved the donation of the association's pumper to the Bowman's Addition Fire Company.

Those attending the meeting were served a ham dinner by members of the Accident Company's ladies auxiliary.

One Killed In 3-Vehicle Mishap

A three vehicle accident on Route 219, south of the Friendsville-Hoyes Road, Monday afternoon killed one and seriously injured another.

Charles Reed Carr, Jr., 53, of Star Route 2, Box 40, McHenry was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. James H. Feaster, medical examiner for Garrett County.

The injured, Cynthia K. Carr, a passenger in the right front seat of the car and the daughter of the deceased was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Northern Rescue Squad where she was listed in "serious condition yesterday.

The second vehicle involved in the accident was driven by Urban I. Jackson of Box 54, Woodland Drive, Oakland, and the third vehicle, a tractor trailer, was driven by Howard F. Burton, Louisville, Ky.

State Police said the Carr vehicle was southbound on Route 219 when it crossed the center line and sideswiped the vehicle driven by Jackson. The Carr vehicle continued down the left-hand side of the road and struck the tractor trailer head-on.

Officials with Garrett County Central Alarm reported the trailer being driven by Burton was a tanker which had just been unloaded. They noted firemen and ambulance crews had a difficult time extricating the deceased from the car.

Besides his father, he is survived by a daughter, Cynthia K. Carr, who was injured in the accident and is now listed in "guarded" condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Also surviving are two sons, Charles E. Carr, and Gary L. Carr, both of McHenry; a sister, Mrs. Bernice L. Friend, Uniontown, Pa.; three brothers, Donald Carr, John W. Carr and Thomas Carr, all of Friendsville, and two grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Stewart Funeral Home today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. The body will be taken to the church one hour prior to the service.

A native of Sang Run, Carr was a son of Charles R. Carr Sr., McHenry and the late Mary A. DeWitt Carr. His wife, Yvonne W. (Helmo) Carr, died in 1974.

Grand Jury Returns One Indictment

Panel Deliberates One Day; Makes Recommendations

The September term of the Garrett County Circuit Court Grand Jury deliberated one day, September 11, and returned one indictment for larceny. Three witnesses were examined by the 23-member panel.

Mrs. Louise Stanton was appointed forelady of the grand jury, Mrs. Marilyn Ilick and Beryl D. Gortner as clerks, and Roger Gower as doorkeeper.

The grand jury completed its work about 4 p.m., and filed their report after hearing testimony from the Garrett County Commissioners; Ken Richmond from Garrett County Memorial Hospital; Herb McCrobie, Garrett County Roads Department; John Evans, Jr., sheriff; and Roy Arnold, dog warden.

Commissioners George Edwards, Wayne Hamilton, and Don S. Bender informed the jury of plans for funding the county roads and for snow removal. They also informed the group of the budgetary methods of the county and methods of keeping the county levy reduced.

Mr. Richmond told of present and future operations of the hospital and answered questions posed by jury members. He also discussed tentative plans for hospital improvements.

Mr. McCrobie told the jury of road conditions, maintenance procedures and working conditions in the county garage, and the jurors noted that the roads workers should be praised for their work, especially snow removal efforts.

Sheriff Evans was questioned on qualitications of deputies, services provided by the sheriff's department, and enforcement of the laws of the state. After hearing the sheriff's testimony, the jury recommended that the sheriff's department be allowed to hire additional deputies and that jailers be provided for the new jail.

Roy Arnold, dog warden, informed the jurors of conditions at the county Animal Shelter

Young Peoples Theater Of Center Stage To Appear September 20 At Dennett Road School

Stan Wojewodski, Jr., Center Stage Artistic Director in Baltimore, announced this week that The Young People's Theater of Center Stage will present the World Premiere of a new children's play, THIS IS MY PLAY, by Peter Parnell with original music composed for toy instruments by Bruce Coughlin, September 20 at Dennett Road Elementary School.

THIS IS MY PLAY is a unique venture for the Center Stage company as it has been specially commissioned by the theater for The Young People's Company. Under the direction of Donald Hicken, Associate Director of The Young People's Theater, two companies will travel the state bringing the special magic of live theater to young audiences. It is the most ambitious and challenging project for both the company and the 100,000 Maryland school children who will participate in the experience.

THIS IS MY PLAY is set in Ms. Pringle's (played by Nancy Krebs from Company A and Jane Ives from Company B) elementary school music class. During the class, Merton (played by Kim Sullivan of Company A and Ted May of Company B) — the youngest in his family and the smallest in his class — decides to use the magical power of a play to force the students in his class to become his friends. The magic backfires and Merton is left alone to contemplate his failure to make friends. The magic blossoms when Merton learns to share his play with classmates Benny Knish and Lucy Lorn (played by Dana Hart and Brenda Thomas of Company A and Gregg Daniel and Denise Koch of Company B). THIS IS MY PLAY then becomes THIS IS OUR PLAY.

The Young People's Theater of Center Stage, now in its sixteenth season, will tour in all 23 Maryland counties and Baltimore City and is sponsored in part by The Maryland Arts Council, Mayor's Advisory Committee on Art and Culture, Baltimore City Schools, Anne Arundel County Commission on Culture and Arts, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The Young People's Theater company of four actors and stage manager spend a full day with the students, teachers and staff of the individual school. In addition to the specially developed assembly-length production, the actors perform individual storytelling sessions in the afternoon. In storytelling sessions actors use theatrical imagery to bring to life selections from American, African and Eastern folk tales, fables and mythology, as well as traditional newly published children's stories. Storytelling provides a chance for the children to interact with the actors and experience first-hand the process of creating live theater.

Hospital Board Issues Resolution

The Board of Directors of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital presented Jacqueline Shirer, widow of local contractor William Shirer, with a Resolution of Respect last Wednesday.

The resolution stated, "Whereas, on July 18, 1978, it pleased Almighty God to call unto himself, William Shirer; and,

"Whereas, the late William Shirer, while a Board Member of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital acquired and retained the respect and esteem of his associates, and the public in general whom he served; and,

"Whereas, the other Board Members of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital will feel the loss of one who was always conscientious in the performance of his duties to the community, a worthwhile citizen, a builder of uniquely fine buildings, and to his family, to whom our sympathy extends, a devoted husband, son, brother and father.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Board of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, in meeting assembled, this 26 day of July, 1978, that a copy of these Resolutions be spread upon the Proceedings of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital; that a copy thereof be published in The Republican, a local newspaper, and that a copy be mailed to the family of the deceased, in token of the high regard in which he was held."

The Resolution was signed by the hospital board members and local attorney, Jack R. Turney.

Editor,

I am writing this in regard to our bus driver. I understand after this month they are going to put other drivers on the bus, mostly hippies, and we don't want any other driver as we all like Stewart Fike and he is reliable and careful, so we want Stewart as our bus driver, no one else.

Dear Editor,

I'd like to use this opportunity to attempt to get consideration from some neighbors. Our community used to be a peaceful area until we got new neighbors down the road.

It seems they have no idea of the disturbance their dog(s) cause at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. This has gone on for several months now and it's time to put a stop to it. Several people in the area feel this way.

Maybe everyone doesn't sleep at the same hours, but all people need more than one or two hours of rest and you certainly can't get it with a dog barking 18 of the 24 hours a day.

I'm hoping this won't cause hard feelings, but, neighbor, it's time you know. I'm sure there can be further action taken to bring our community to a quiet, restful area once again.

void due to the Commissioners' failure to record it in accordance with the law. Mr. Martin pointed out that the case did not render a decision on the legality or constitutionality of the 1968 ordinance, as stated in The Republican.

He also noted that the county never attempted to block the existence or location of Mr. Martin's automobile dismantling yard as it issued him a junk yard license on June 1, 1977, which was valid until its natural expiration on September 30, 1977. It was after he had been in business for four months and sought renewal of the license that the real issues arose, according to his statement. At that time, it was a question of the right of the Commissioners to deny renewal of a license to an operator who held a valid license and who met all requirements of the old ordinance.

Mr. Martin's operation will continue because of constitutional issues which do not allow new laws to retroactively prohibit existing businesses to continue their operations.

The junk yard operator also stated that The Republican was in error when it stated that "testimony" had been received at either of the public hearings held on this matter. Comments, suggestions and opinions were offered but no sworn testimony was taken, he said.

Jury Returns

and plans for the new dog shelter to be built by the county and Garrett Community College.

The jurors then made required inspections of county facilities, and made various recommendations for improvements. At the solid waste facility, the members suggested that a drainage problem in the garage be checked, the heating system examined, the floor repaired, and another man be hired to operate a dozer in the landfill.

The jurors visited the Clerk's office and county commissioners' office and stated that the staff does well under the circumstances of remodeling. The jurors also expressed a positive reaction to the renovation plans for the Court House.

After a visit to the hospital, the jury suggested that more rooms are needed for patients so they need not be placed in the halls, and noted the emergency room could be improved upon. They were appreciative of the use of brighter colors in the hospital, and of the addition of a physical therapist.

At the county garage, the 23 jurors noted that offices are neat and well organized, and recommended that the county replace worn floor coverings, repair rolled carpet at the entrance office, and install a new exhaust fan in the garage area.

The jurors followed instructions from Associate Judge Fred A. Thayer, who in his charge to the jurors said that due to the competent work of law enforcement officials, "Criminal activity has been controlled in Garrett County; there is absolutely no evidence of organized crime."

Also in his charge, Judge Thayer said "Service on the grand jury is regarded as a high honor and a serious duty" and "there is a double duty cast upon you as grand jurors." He then went on to point out that jurors have a duty to the public to see that "parties against whom there is just ground to charge the commission of a crime shall be held to answer that charge; and also a duty to the individual to see that he or she is not subjected to prosecution upon accusation having no better foundation than public clamor or private malice."

He told them that it is not the grand jury function to decide whether a person is guilty or innocent of the crime with which he is charged, but that they are simply to determine whether or not there is sufficient evidence against the accused to require him to stand trial.

State's Attorney Ralph Burnett was legal advisor of the jurors. Mr. Burnett was complimented for his four years of service by Judge Thayer, who noted that the state's attorney had fulfilled his promise made when elected and had upgraded the office by adding two assistants, a full-time investigator and the State's Attorney's Co-operative Reimbursement Office.

Judge Thayer acknowleged the "competent work of our law enforcement officials: the Maryland State Police, our very competent and dedicated sheriff, John Evans; members of his staff, and our Juvenile Services Officer, Wayne Wilt."

The Judge also pointed out that the grand jury has an interesting and colorful history dating from the twelfth century and providing our country part of the English legal tradition on which much of the common law basis of the country was founded.

Merchants Discuss Parking Fee Dilemma

The town's new parking lot situation was the chief topic of discussion Tuesday at a meeting of the Downtown Oakland Merchants Association.

According to Association president Ernie Gregg, the fee situation to date is unresolved. Some money had been collected to install an automatic gate, but funds were insufficient for the purchase. The town of Oakland had indicated it may place meters in the lot, located off Liberty Street, but nothing definite has been decided. Since the departure of the CETA employe who collected parking fees, there is currently no charge for parking in the lot.

The Association will be sponsoring a pre-Autumn Glory parade October 12 from 10 a.m. to noon in downtown Oakland.

Hospital Offering Cardio-Pulmonary Respiratory Service

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital will begin immediately providing around the clock, seven day a week cardio-pulmonary and respiratory services as a diagnostic and treatment tool for the physician and his patient, according to Kenneth A. Richmond, administrator.

Mr. Richmond said this expanded service covers most basic tests provided under the classifications of (a) clinical services including breathing treatments, aerosol therapy, and chest psychotherapy; (b) diagnostic services, some which were previously unavailable in Garrett County such as pulmonary function testing, 24-hour blood gas determinations, 24-hour holter monitoring and stress testing, and EKG's; (c) in-home follow up for persons suffering from chronic lung diseases. Continuing physician education will also be available through the facilities of the company.

The technical service will be provided through a contractural arrangement between the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and Ventilation Associates, Inc., a national firm providing similar services to over twenty-five other hospitals.

Highly qualified respiratory therapists and cardio-pulmonary technicians will be provided through Ventilation Associates as well as two local personnel who will be recruited and trained to serve as technicians, thus making it possible to provide service around the clock. In addition, all necessary equipment and supplies will be provided by Ventilation Associates.

Dr. George Stoltzfus will be the medical director of this service which has developed an excellent reputation throughout the country for providing comprehensive programs to assist the doctor in the evaluation and treatment of his patients, according to Mr. Richmond.

Stock car racing is continuing at a few tracks in the tri-state area through October, and local runners traveled to Elkins Saturday to compete.

Frank Lewis, driving his late model Camaro, placed fifth in his heat. Features for both late models and semi-lates were "fogged out," however, so there will be double features next Saturday night in both divisions.

Rams Open With Loss To Beall, 12-0

In their first game of the season, the Southern High Rams fell to Beall High, 12-0, on the Frostburg gridiron last Friday evening.

In the opening action, it appeared that the Rams were going to have a rather easy evening as, in their first offensive drive, they crashed all the way down to Beall's 11-yard line, only to be stopped when a 27-yard field goal attempt by John Sanders went wide to the left.

A strong cross wind throughout the game kept both quarterbacks from putting the ball in the air. The Rams seemed to have a strong ground game going throughout the first half, but failed to take advantage of scoring opportunities.

The Mountaineers reached paydirt in the second quarter on a 37-yard bomb from Dwayne Miller to Marty Thomas.

The Beall offense really began to move the first part of the third quarter by using an off tackle play with Bryon Arnone and Miller being the main ball carriers. Arnone dashed over from the six-yard line in the third period to cap an 80-yard drive.

Arnone finished with 93 yards on 20 carries and was also the defensive standout for Beall, recording 13 individual tackles and 14 assists.

Southern was again stopped from scoring late in the game as the Beall defense held firm on their own four-yard line.

Southern's next game is slated for this Friday evening at Kingwood against Central Preston.

Beall, sparked by a 150 yard effort by Mike Atkinson was halted twice on the one by Southern, the final time following a 32 yard run by Atkinson as the half ended.

Stolen I.D., Check Case Investigated

Cumberland City Police are investigating an incident which occurred Saturday at the Lerner Shop when three young females allegedly tried to pass a check for $421.93 to cover the cost of merchandise taken from a rack.

Further investigation by authorities in that city revealed the check which the girls attempted to pass at the store and the driver's license belonged to Susan D. Downton, Mt. Lake Park. Miss Downton told police her checkbook and wallet were stolen while she was in the dressing room of a Somerset, Pa. store last week.

Miss Downton's description of a girl in an adjoining dressing room stall resembled one of the suspects Saturday in Cumberland.

The check which the girls attempted to pass at the local store was personal and drawn on First National Bank of Oakland. Numbers of the stolen checks are 309 through 325 and payment has been stopped on them, according to the police report.

The store clerk had become suspicious when the picture on the driver's license did not match the girl trying to cash the check. The girl also could not answer a question about her birth date.

Police are seeking two girls in their teens and one in her early 20s in connection with the incident.

People begin to shrink after the age of thirty.

EPA Demands Pollution Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency has called for a $10 billion crackdown on air pollution from future coal-fired power plants, saying the proposed new standard could be one of the most costly it has issued.

But the agency also may ease the new regulations, and thus cut the cost of compliance, for plants that burn low sulfur coal.

Whatever it does, the clean-up move will mean higher home electric bills because utilities will pass the cost of compliance on to their customers.

Under the plan outlined Monday by EPA chief Douglas Costle, all new coal-fired power plants — no matter what type of coal they burn — would have to eliminate 85 percent of their potential sulphur dioxide pollution by 1990.

Such a uniform percentage cutback would cause power plants burning low-sulfur coal from mines in the West to produce much less total pollution than plants burning high-sulfur coal from mines in the Midwest and East.

Costle acknowledged it is a controversial approach. He said another option would be to let plants burning low-sulfur coal reduce their potential emissions by a lower percent, making their total pollution comparable to that from plants using high-sulfur coal.

Saying he has not made up his mind which route to take in a final rule, Costle urged "spirited and thoughtful debate" on the issue during the next three months when the proposal will be open to public comment.

Costle said meeting the 85 percent cleanup target could add $10 billion or more to the cost of power plant construction during the next 12 years and might boost home electric power bills by between 30 cents and $1.10 a month.

Tax Meeting To Be Open To Public

The Internal Revenue Service announced this week that a tax practitioner liaison meeting on September 20 in downtown Baltimore between members of The Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants, The Federal Bar Association, and The Association of Enrolled Agents — Washington Chapter, will be open to the general public.

Gerald G. Portney, IRS Director for Maryland and the District of Columbia, said "It is the policy of IRS to meet when warranted with a representative group of tax practitioners, at their request, to explain and elaborate on Service policies and procedures and to conduct those meetings under public scrutiny."

Wednesday's meeting will be held from 9:00 a.m. to noon in Room 806-A, Fallon Federal Office Building, 31 Hopkins Plaza in Baltimore. Anyone interested may register to attend on a first-come first-served basis by calling 962-3353.

Week Is Warm Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy and overcast skies have prevailed in the area much of the past week along with the haze and humidity. Heavy thunder storms passed over the Mountain Top last night. Warm, above normal temperatures prevailed all week.

Last Wednesday was clear but clouds gathered later in the day. Thursday was variably cloudy. Haze settled over the area by Friday with a break in the overcast condition part of the afternoon. Saturday was much the same. Sunday began hazy but the sun broke through in the afternoon. There were, however, few local showers. Monday began clear but with clouds gathering in the afternoon. Yesterday was mostly cloudy, hazy and humid. Heavy thunder showers broke early last evening. Showers and overcast skies have prevailed since. Only .73 inch of rain fell the past week.

Temperatures averaged 7.8 degrees above normal. Highs averaged 79.4 degrees. This would be normal for August but it is 5.2 degrees above the normal for this month. The high was 82 degrees last Wednesday. It was 80 degrees Thursday, Friday and Sunday. Lows averaged 57.9 degrees or 10.5 above normal. It is also above normal for any month of the year, being 2.4 degrees above the July normal. The coolest morning was Friday with 52 degrees. Saturday it was a mild 65.

Restraining Order Extended At VEPCO

The temporary restraining order issued in the Virginia Electric Power Company dispute between Local Union IBEW 2308 members and the company has been extended by Judge John Maxwell in the Federal District Court of Elkins, W. Va.

The VEPCO employes at the Mt. Storm plant are protesting safety violations at the plant, and mandated overtime and poor working conditions. Among the claimed poor working conditions being protested are improper ventilation, insufficient locker space, lack of space to eat and unhealthy conditions because of dirt.

A VEPCO spokesman in Richmond reported Monday afternoon worker interviews at Mt. Storm are continuing and should continue two or three more weeks.

The interviews, the spokesman noted, depend on the availability of the workers and Judge Maxwell.

Powlen Apparent Low Bidder For 5 Road Graders

The Board of Commissioners for Garrett County and County Roads Administrative Engineer Herb McCrobie opened bids Monday for five new road graders to replace 1953 machines presently in use.

Apparent low bidder meeting all specifications was Powlen Equipment, with a bid of $68,546 for each.

Sheriff John Evans, Jr. and Gary Mullich, in charge of construction and remodeling at the Courthouse, discussed details of equipping the jail for expected occupancy October 15. Sheriff Evans told the commissioners that the results of a sale of items from the old jail building had netted $3,500, which was used to purchase office equipment for the new jail.

Commissioners Edwards, Hamilton and Bender unanimously voted to adopt six technical amendments to the Deep Creek Lake zoning ordinance. A public hearing was held at Garrett Community College in July for the changes, which deal with language corrections.

Alfred (Blue) Marucci will throw the first ball at the Three Rivers Stadium this month, in observance of "Garrett County Day" there. Roy Miller, Little Leaguer from Grantsville, and Troy Lundquist, Little Leaguer from Oakland, will be warm up bat boys for the Pirates, announced the Commissioners.

Federation Gets $10,000 Strip Mine Regulations Grant

The National Wildlife Federation has received a $10,000 grant from the Public Welfare Foundation, of Washington, D.C., to continue its work in developing proposed new regulations to implement the federal strip-mining act of 1977.

NWF will also study ways of assisting local citizens in the exercise of their rights under the new law. Terence Thatcher, a Yale law graduate and former fellow at Georgetown University's Institute for Public Representation, will work with NWF and other conservation groups.

Seniors Encouraged To Join Competition For Scholarships

Seniors from Southern High School are being encouraged to compete in the Century III Leaders Scholarship Program to win local, state and national awards. Students must demonstrate their awareness, concern, and knowledgeability about the needs and challenges expected to face the nation in the future.

Top prize is a $10,000 scholarship for the national winner. Two students from each state and the District of Columbia will win $1,500 scholarships and the opportunity to talk with national leaders in a conference at historic Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Two state alternates from each state will receive $500 scholarships.

According to Luther Parrack, principal at Southern, students are judged on their leadership abilities, community involvement and current events awareness. The school winner is also required to write a brief projection outlining what he thinks is a particular issue America is likely to confront in the future and how such a challenge should be met.

The Century III program is administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and funded by the Shell Oil Company.

Deadline for student submission of applications is October 13.

Hughes Comes From Behind to Defeat Lee For Gubernatorial Nomination

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Riding on promises of ending machine politics in Maryland, Harry Hughes took a come-from-behind victory over acting Gov.Blair Lee III in the Democratic primary for governor, while the state's congressional incumbents easily won renomination.

The Republican nomination for governor Tuesday was easily taken by J. Glenn Beall, a former U.S. senator.

About one third of those eligible to vote in the primaries actually cast ballots.

Beall, 57, said he would stress tax reduction and improving job opportunities in the general election.

Beall and running mate Aris Allen took the GOP nomination with 73,035 votes with 99 percent of the precincts reporting.

His nearest rival was Carlton Beall (no relation), who had 29,171 votes. Louise Gore, GOP national committeewoman and an unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate in 1974, received 20,104 votes.

Ross Pierpont, chief of surgery at Maryland General Hospital and a perennial office seeker, had only 4,829 votes.

In the first four-way Democratic primary since 1966, Hughes edged acting Gov. Blair Lee III 209,240 to 187,135 with 99 percent of the precincts reporting.

Baltimore County Executive Theodore Venetoulis came in third with 136,062 and Baltimore City Council President Walter Orlinsky was a distant fourth with 24,546.

Hughes based his campaign on fighting political corruption and today said the people of Maryland showed "they wanted something different in Maryland."

"It wasn't Harry Hughes it was you the voters of Maryland who won the election," he said. "You the voters have showed you can beat the machine and beat the big money."

A former state senator, Hughes also served as state transportation secretary until 1977, when he resigned because he said political influence was being used to affect the award of a Baltimore subway contract award.

Hughes, 57, who was low in the polls until the last week of the race, said his endorsement by the Baltimore Sun helped push him forward in the ranks of candidates.

The other Democratic candidates also said the Sun endorsement was a decisive factor.

Lee, the 62-year-old Silver Spring native who has spent most of his adult life in the State House either as a legislator, lieutenant governor or acting governor, said he will retire from political life when his term ends in January.

"I was hoping to be a winner," he said at his election night party. "But I always had a funny feeling about polls and tonight that is justified."

Venetolis was surprised at Hughes' victory and took some of the credit for it.

"I am impressed with Hughes," he said. "I think Hughes' endorsement by the Sun was a contributing factor. And you have to remember that my campaign stimulated a lot of citizens who wanted change. And Hughes secured some of their votes."

Former U.S. Attorney Stephen Sachs gained a commanding Democratic primary victory in the attorney general's race, Warren Rich, a former Baltimore County prosecutor, was the Republican attorney general nominee.

State Comptroller Louis Goldstein was unopposed for the Democratic comptroller nomination and will face Republican Don Devine, a University of Maryland professor who ran on the Beall ticket, in the general election.

All of the incumbents in Maryland's eight congressional districts won their primaries without trouble.

Rep. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., will have no Republican opposition in the Nov. 7 general election and automatically will be returned to Congress.

The closest congressional race was in the 6th District, where Dan Rupli unsuccessfully attempted to cash in on his relation to the late President Harry Truman to unseat Rep. Goodloe Byron, D-Md.

However, a last minute advertising blunder in which Rupli made erroneous statements concerning Byron helped assure Byron of making it to the general election, where he will face Republican Melvin Perkins.

Incumbents also did well in the legislative races.

Senate Economic Affairs Committee Chairman Harry McGuirk, D-Baltimore, rumored to be the next Senate President, easily won renomination.

Senate President Steny Hoyer will not return because he was Lee's running mate.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Benjamin Cardin, D-Baltimore, also won his primary. Cardin is a possible successor to retiring House Speaker John Hanson Briscoe, D-St. Mary's.

Maryland Primary Changes General Assembly Makeup

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Politicians who decided not to run for office and voters who sent other elected officials into involuntary retirement have drastically changed the makeup of the Maryland General Assembly for the next four years.

Gone through retirement, ambition for higher office, or plain election defeat are the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House, the majority leaders in both houses and incumbents in both houses.

Based on still incomplete and unofficial returns from Tuesday's Democratic and Republican primaries, at least three of the state's 47 senators and 23 of 141 delegates were knocked out of the November general election running.

Leading the list of those defeated were Sens. Lawrence Wiser, D-Montgomery; Michael Wagner, D-Anne Arundel; and Homer White, D-Wicomico.

On the House side, all three incumbent Democratic delegates in Anne Arundel County's 31st district, Harold Bachman, John Fallon and William Helms, were unseated.

Two incumbent delegates were defeated in each of three Baltimore districts.

Delegates Richard Emory and William Madonna lost in Northwest Baltimore's 39th district; Lloyd Randolph and Kenneth Webster lost in central Baltimore's 40th; Pinkney Howell and Walter Dean lost in west Baltimore's 41st; and Edward Dabrowski and John Linz were defeated in east Baltimore's 46th.

Baltimore Sen. Cornell Dypski barely survived an election challenge from George Della, beating the 47th district hopeful by a paper-thin margin of 5,727 to 5,697.

In Western Maryland, Sen. Edward Mason, R-Garrett, barely hung on to his GOP nomination, slipping past challenger William Wilson, 4,506 to 4,435.

Delegate John S. Arnick, D-Baltimore County, gave up his secure House seat and status as majority leader to run for retiring Senate Majority Leader Roy N. Staten's seat, but lost it to Delegate Patrick Welsh, 6,750 to 5,554.

In addition to Arnick and Staten, other legislative leaders who will not be returning include Senate President Steny H. Hoyer, D-Prince George's, who gave up his safe post to run as acting Gov. Blair Lee III's running mate, and House Speaker John Hanson Briscoe, D-St. Mary's, who is retiring from lawmaking.

A number of legislators gave up their jobs to run for their local county executive post, including Sens. Donald B. Hutchinson and John Coolahan and Delegate Howard J. Needle in Baltimore County; Delegate J. Hugh Nichols in Howard County; and Sen. Charles Gilchrist in Montgomery County.

Other delegates defeated in their primary election bids included: DeCorsey E. Bolden, R-Garrett; Robert Jacques, D-Montgomery; Eugene Zander, D-Montgomery; Alexander Bell, D-Montgomery; Andrew Mothershead, D-Prince George's; Charles Sullivan, D-Prince George's; Perry Wilkinson, D-Prince George's; Franklin Thomason, D-Anne Arundel; Richard D. Mackie, D-Cecil; Joseph W. Lanasa, D-Baltimore; and, Elmo E. Walters, D-Baltimore.

Among the winners were Delegate George Price, D-Carroll, who captured the Republican nomination to run for the seat vacated by Sen. C. A. Porter Hopkins, R-Carroll.

The Democrats were assured of a Senate majority at the outset since there were no Republican candidates in 27 senate races.

No GOP opposition materialized in 53 of the 141 House races either, so the Democrats who won this week will get a free ride into the legislature.

Senate Economic Affairs Chairman Harry McGuirk, D-Baltimore, a south Baltimore political power broker, sailed to an easy victory over Salvatore Anello III, 4,347 to 2,429, and has no GOP opposition this fall.

Baltimore Democratic Sens. Robert Douglass and Joseph Bonvegna, who exercise much control over East Baltimore politics, also won lopsided primary victories, as did city Democratic Sens. Julian Lapides, Verda Welcome, Rosalie Abrams, Joseph Curran, and John Byrnes.

Senate Majority Whip Clarence Blount, D-Baltimore, was unopposed in both the primary and general election.

In Baltimore County, Democratic Sens. Norman Stone and Melvin Steinberg automatically retained their seats because they were unopposed in both the primary and general elections.

The same was true of Sens. Victor Cushwa, D-Washington, who was appointed to the Senate for the 1978 session.

Stephen Sachs and Warren Rich Are Candidates for State Attorney General

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Amidst the strains of "Happy Days Are Here Again" and the swirl of green and blue balloons spilling into a glittering ballroom, Stephen Sachs celebrated his win in the Democratic primary for State Attorney general.

On the other side of town, Sachs' major opponent, Deputy Attorney General Jon Oster, Tuesday sat solemnly before a television in a hushed bar, a handful of supporters quietly watching the vote tabulations.

With 92 percent of the precincts reporting in the Democratic primary, Sachs had 218,941 votes or 58 percent; Oster 58,190 votes or 15 percent; Richard Byrd 52,605 or 15 percent and Walter Finch 46,748 or 12 percent.

The differences in the atmosphere at the primary night celebrations mirrored the differences in campaign — Oster's lack of sufficient money and support compared to Sachs' plentiful supply.

In the GOP primary, Warren Rich, a Baltimore attorney and former Baltimore County prosecutor who made his first try for public office, defeated Edward Blanton 43,649 to 38,765 with 98 percent of the precincts reporting.

Rich said waiting for election night results "was like waiting for a final exam." He said he will wage a campaign based on issues to defeat Sachs in the Nov. 7 general election.

Sachs stood before a throng of supporters at the Lord Baltimore Hotel and said, "I watched a great tide of votes roll across the state and I had a great sense of confidence."

"All the words I have can't express the feelings tonight and I want to say to my old friends and my new that I am grateful."

The former U.S. attorney, who refused to align himself with any gubernatorial ticket, said the fact that he has been running for the office for a long time put him ahead of any latecomers.

Oster said his inability to raise enough money and his late election bid announcement made it impossible for him to pose a serious challenge to Sachs.

Asked to list his strong points in the campaign, Oster answered, "Are you serious? Give me 20 minutes to explain and I might be able to tell you."

Sachs billed himself as a politically independent, professional lawyer.

He said an attorney general who is not independently elected is unlikely to have the political freedom to ferrett out wrongdoing, to have the detachment to tell the governor or his appointees when they are wrong or to understand and express the concerns of the people.

Sachs's campaign called for the aggressive prosecution of white-collar crime by the attorney general — a type of prosecution that Oster claimed was not the role of the office.

As U.S. attorney from 1967 to 1970, Sachs was responsible for prosecuting two congressmen, a U.S. senator and a speaker of the House of Delegates.

During the campaign, Sachs said if elected his first order of business would be to make sure the laws are applied equally to the state and its citizens.

Sachs said the attorney general is the only statewide elected officer who can provide statewide elected leadership in the fight against crime and the corruption that "has marred the name of Maryland for too long."

Rich, who ran on former Maryland Sen. J. Glenn Beall's gubernatorial ticket, was an assistant attorney general from 1970 until March, 1978, when he entered private practice.

"This is my first try and my last," he said. "I know state government better than any other candidate."

Rich also said he was an expert in the relations between state and federal law enforcement agencies and knows how to cut through red tape that can entangle and kill programs.

Incumbents Take Congressional Primary

BALTIMORE (UPI) — All five of Maryland's congressmen who faced primary opposition have easily won renomination, taking as much as 85 percent of the vote in some races.

But four of the winning Democrats and three Republicans who were unopposed in Tuesday's primary will face opposition in the November 7 general election.

Democrat Goodloe Byron faced the toughest opposition, but decisively beat back the challenge of Dan Rupli, 35, for the nomination in the 6th District, which includes all of Western Maryland and small areas in Montgomery and Baltimore counties.

Byron, 49, picked up 61 percent of the vote in winning his party's nomination for a fifth term in Congress.

In the November 7 general election, Byron will face Republican Melvin Perkins, who was unopposed in the GOP primary.

Talking above the clamor of his primary night celebration, Byron said, "I think the voters were responding to hard work. I'm going to work hard in the next two years and do my best to go back to the people in my district and help solve their constituent problems."

Rupli, who claimed to be a relative of the late President Harry Truman, conducted a whistle-stop campaign complete with a make-shift train caboose tacked on the back of a truck.

However, during the final weeks of the campaign, a blunder in one of Rupli's radio commercials perhaps cost him a large percentage of votes.

In the commercial, Rupli named a number of utility and oil companies whose executives or political committees contributed to Byron's campaign.

The Rupli advertisement incorrectly accused the Florida Power and Light Co. of "cheating homeowners of over $8 million." The company in question was the Florida Power Corp.

The ad was pulled by the Rupli campaign, but the mistake afforded Byron the chance to accuse Rupli of deceptive advertising.

Scientists Discover Way to Convert Sludge

BELTSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — Federal scientists stationed in Beltsville are converting damp sewage into fertilizer in an attempt to find alternatives to dumping human and industrial wastes into the ocean.

The project, sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is the easiest and least costly way of converting sludge, said Rufus Chaney, a plant physiologist at the Agricultural Research Center in Beltsville.

Most cities have disposed of sludge by dumping it into the ocean, burying it or burning it. But a federal ban will prohibit the dumping of wastes into the ocean after December 31, 1980.

Scientists at the center said researchers have converted nearly 100 tons of sewage daily into compost on the 15-acre test site.

The compost has little odor, is an excellent soil fertilizer and is being used on public land, said project manager Charles Shriver.

Chaney said Bangor and Yarmouth, Maine; Durham, N. H.; and Camden, N. J., have already begun using the Beltsville method.

The method calls for mixing the sludge with woodchips and then draining it, cooking it for 21 days and storing it for a month before the final conversion is made.

UNICEF Fund-Raising Efforts Planned For Garrett County

The Rev. Martin Feild of St. Peter's Church in Oakland will again coordinate the annual campaign for UNICEF in Garrett County, and is beginning plans for the 1978 fund-raising efforts for the United Nations Children's Fund.

Last year $218.05 was raised for UNICEF in the county, with the combined efforts of a number of church groups in the area. The organizers of the campaign hope that there will be generous support this year to help UNICEF provide the under-privileged children of under-developed countries with the basic necessities of life and growth.

Groups of all ages are invited to participate in the UNICEF campaign. They may get information and campaign materials from Pastor Feild. Contributions this year may be specially designated for UNICEF work in Guatemala, Kenya, or Sri Lanka, describe in new country/project information kits that will be available locally.

Funds raised during the campaign for UNICEF's work in over 100 developing countries are used for the most part in long-term programs to establish basic services for lasting help to children in health, education and nutrition. Some funds are also used for emergency aid including feeding programs and emergency relief in response to natural disasters such as famine and earthquake.

UNICEF aid takes the form of pipes and pumps for clean water, stipends for training local health and sanitation workers, seeds and tools for school vegetable gardens, and pencils and exercise books so that children can attend school.

Since four-fifths of the world's people have no access to any permanent form of health care, and an estimated 80% of the world's cases of disease are traceable to impure water and lack of sanitary facilities, the largest share of UNICEF assistance is for health programs, safe water, and improved sanitation. In 1977, for example, UNICEF assisted programs supplying clean water and sanitation in 77 countries. Over 100 million people, half of them children, benefited from approximately 60,000 pure water supply systems.

All of the money for UNICEF's work is contributed voluntarily by private citizens, groups, and more than 100 governments. UNICEF does not share in the United Nations budget.

All UNICEF aid is given under strict rules of control and supervision, but the country aided participates at every state of the UNICEF-assisted project. By far the largest contribution to a project comes from the assisted country itself.

October 31 is National UNICEF Day by Presidential proclamation. National UNICEF Day 1978 is headed by Natalie Wood, best know for her starring role in "West Side Story." Joining her in support of UNICEF are the Bee Gees, of "Saturday Night Fever" fame, who are planning other support activities including a televised gala concert.

Eleven Killed In Vehicle Accidents

Eleven persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of the persons killed, eight were drivers and three were pedestrians.

In the opinion of the investigating officers, two of this week's deaths could possibly have been prevented had seat belts been in in use.

The time has come again for the younger generation to be back in school and drivers should be alert near schools and playgrounds. If while driving down streets and roads, an operator spots a group of children waiting for a school bus, speed should be reduced. A late arrival could suddenly run across the road without a thought or warning, or horseplay could cause a youngster to dart into the road.

Persons killed through September 10, 1977 totaled 446, compared to 465 for 1978.

Shapiro Claims Auto Mechanics' Billing Is Unfair

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Car mechanics should be required to tell customers whether they use a flat rate to charge for labor or just bill for the actual time spent on the vehicle, the state attorney general's office said.

A study of eight repair shops in the state presented Monday to the Maryland Consumer Council found that some mechanics finish repairs to cars in less time than the "flat-rate" quoted in industrial manuals.

Assistant Attorney General Jack Shapiro, who prepared the study, said consumers are being charged the flat rate, a policy known as "double-dipping," even if the repair takes less time to complete.

He urged the council to adopt rules that would require mechanics to inform customers on the method of billing used in service repairs.

According to the study, repairs were listed in two manuals, "Motor" and "Chilton's," at a two-hour labor charge, when the work could be completed in one hour, Shapiro said.

But the study also found that if the job actually took three hours, the customer was only charged for two hours.

Shapiro said the study did not find any excessive, or continued overbilling through the use of the labor rate manuals.

"It is the practice of automative repair facilities to tender invoices to a customer which do not describe the labor computations at all, but rather simply indicate the cost of labor in dollars and cents without further description," the study said.

The report also suggested that car mechanics punch a clock at the beginning and end of a repair.

Trout Unlimited Demands Chlorine Control For Sewage Plant

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A representative of a national environmental group said the state could face a court battle unless controls for chlorine discharge at a proposed sewage plant are established.

James Gracie, a local representative of Trout Unlimited, said the state has not moved towards setting controls for chlorine discharge at the proposed plant, to be located at Deep Creek west of Deep Creek Lake.

A total of 600,000 gallons of wastewater a day would be dumped into the creek by the plant proposed by the Department of Natural Resources.

Gracie said the discharged chlorine can kill trout and other aquatic life and poison breeding areas in streams.

Both the state and Trout Unlimited agreed on June 23 to guidelines for the chlorine discharge. However, the state has not drafted schedules for scientific tests to monitor the discharge.

"It was obvious to us they had done very little work on this," Gracie said.

Funding for the scientific studies must also be guaranteed, he added.

Ma Bell Receives Vote of Confidence

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A professor at Johns Hopkins has not reinvented the telephone, but his research confirms the instrument is a marvelous way to communicate.

Dr. Alphonse Chapanis, a professor of psychology at the university's Homewood campus, directed a seven-year project involving several forms of communication.

Chapanis, who received the American Psychological Associations' highest honor for studies in engineering psychology, described the results of his work in an address to the organization in Toronto.

"One finding that at the time was a surprise to us was the very small difference between subjects who communicated in the communication-rich mode and those who communicated by voice only," Chapanis said.

He said the term "communication-rich" term referred to the simultaneous use of many types of communications — getting ideas across to other people by speaking, listening, gesturing and reading and writing.

"We had been led to expect from the voluminous literature on this matter that non-verbal communications — gestures, movements of the body — would contribute greatly to the communication," Chapanis said.

He noted, however, that in one of the experiments "subjects who communicated by voice-only solved their problems almost as fast as those who communicated face-to-face."

Chapanis conducted his study with students from Baltimore area high schools and students at Johns Hopkins University.

Specially-equipped rooms at the university were used for the experiments and several modern means of communications, such as television cameras and receivers, microphones and teletype machines, were employed, he said.

Problems were given to the students, who were arranged in two-person, three-person and four-person groups.

Chapanis reported that in another experimental series of tests students with only a voice channel "actually solved their problems faster than did those who were face-to-face."

"The difference is not statistically significant but it provides confirmation of the extremely small or non-existent difference that we consistently find between face-to-face and voice-only communication," he said.

"A telephone sort of captures and holds your full attention," he added.

Household Hints

Some Cooking Conservation Hints

Sure, we want to pamper our families just as much as possible but it isn't necessary to serve them three hot meals a day. Such foods as meats, salads, cheeses, vegetables, fruits and soups can be just as appetizing and are often just as nutritious when served cold.

Smart homemakers have found, too, that they can save time and energy by preparing and cooking two meals at one time, keeping half in the refrigerator or freezer for another day.

Weather permitting, cook outdoors on a charcoal grill.

Use your oven to cook entire meals. Breads, meats, stews, casseroles and vegetables can all be cooked at one time.

Also, when you use your oven, keep the door closed. Each time you sneak a peek, you may lose 25 percent of the heat.

I've found that slicing potatoes lengthwise before baking them cuts back on the necessary cooking time. So does using a "potato nail" or aluminum foil with the shiney side in.

Thaw meats before cooking. A defrosted roast for example, uses about one-third less energy than a frozen one.

For many foods—beans and rice for example—you'll save on energy bills by using a pressure cooker.

And, as with all appliances, your range and oven will operate more efficiently if it's kept clean.

The most common surname in the United States is Smith.

Ban On Group Homes Reversed By Court

BETHLEHEM, MD (UPI) — At least eight youngsters will benefit from a circuit court judge's ruling reversing a Caroline County ban on group homes, a Bethlehem couple said.

Circuit Court Judge George Rasin, Jr. ruled Tuesday that the county could not use its zoning authority to prevent the operation of group homes. Rasin ruled in the case of Bea and Ricky Loscomb, who were denied a special zoning permit last October to run the home. The county had sought an injunction to close the home.

Mrs. Loscomb, 34, said Tuesday she and her husband will receive their license to operate a group home from the Department of Juvenile Services later this week.

The Loscombs were caring for six boys when the county zoning board denied their request, but were only caring for a 15-year-old boy when the decision was made.

The Loscombs have three children of their own. In January, they were told to return two foster boys to their mother. Two other teenagers were later sent home and one boy turned 18 and was released.

"We have room for eight," Mrs. Loscomb said. "We can take anywhere from four to six children and up to eight. We're ready for them, the rooms are ready, the beds are ready. We just want to be able to give them the love and affection they need."

Zoning ordinances restricing the number of unrelated occupants from living together in a single family home prompted the county to deny the request to operate a group home.

The Loscomb's request for a special permit was denied after 50 residents of Bethlehem, which has a population of about 130, signed a petition opposing the home.

Rasin ruled that "the state. . .preempted the county from regulating group homes, whether directly or indirectly, through zoning ordinances" and denied an injunction by the county seeking to close the Loscomb's home.

Korchnoi Wins 21st Round In Chess Match

BAGUIO, Philippines (UPI) — World chess challenger Viktor Korchnoi beat champion Anatoly Karpov today in the resumed 21st game of the chess championship to move back into contention for the $350,000 first prize.

Korchnoi, 47, dealt himself back into the title match with a 60-move victory — his second of the series — in the match that was adjourned Tuesday after the sealed 43rd move.

Korchnoi won the adjourned game when he sacrificed a knight in order to queen the advanced pawn, and the young Russian champion resigned, giving Korchnoi the win he sorely needed to stay in contention for the championship.

Karpov leads the match by four games to two with 15 draws. The first player to win six games takes the world title and the $350,000 in prize money.

Korchnoi arrived late again today for the resumed match, walking into the playing hall and sitting down after officials had started the time clock and opened and demonstrated for the audience the 43rd move the challenger sealed when play was halted Tuesday.

Karpov sat motionless, chin cupped in his left hand and looking at the audience, as he waited for Korchnoi.

The challenger made the obvious move of pushing ahead his bishop's pawn two squares to try to force Karpov to move a bishop. Karpov's bishop was covering the main corner of action.

Korchnoi was obviously at ease after 10 days of meditation and yoga lessons from a pair of American gurus, and experts said he had a good chance of winning the game.

He apparently was no longer bothered by a Russian parapsychologist expert attending Karpov.

Two of Korchnoi's losses came back-to-back when he was obviously upset by Vladimir Zoukhar, a recognized expert in the study of extra sensory perception and telekinesis.

But Korchnoi began meditating Sept. 2 with two American followers of the India-based Ananda Marga sect and Tuesday appeared unbothered by Zoukhar.

VOLUNTEERS FROM ALL OVER spent six days searching the rugged, forested areas in the vicinity of Routes 50 and 42, five miles from Elk Garden for Eddie C. Simons, who disappeared last Tuesday evening. Efforts yielded results six days later when Simons was located in "good" condition along Burgess Hollow Road. The organized search was coordinated from the fire department in Elk Garden. Helicopters and bloodhounds were utilized by the search crews, which included National Guardsmen, rescue squads, police, and fire departments.

Baltimore May Close Four Fire Departments

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Four more fire companies may have to close if the city's fire department is to keep within its 1979 budget of $51.7 million, a city finance official has predicted.

"They need to close several more before the end of the fiscal year," said George Piendak, chief of the Finance Department's Bureau of Budget and Management Research. "From a budgetary point of view, the earlier you take action to correct a budgetary problem the better it is."

It was not made immediately clear just which fire companies would be affected by the closings. Officials also indicated the firefighters affected would be transferred to other companies to alleviate a serious overtime problem within the department.

In August, fire officials closed Engine Company No. 15 at the Steadman firehouse because of extensive overtime payments. And last April, when overtime payments were at the same level, fire officials closed Engine Company No. 9 because of budgetary problems.

"The Fire Department, in order to keep operating as it is now, will require additional monies from within its own budget and it is very tight now," said Calhoun Bond, president of the Board of Fire Commissioners, on Tuesday.

Seven-Year-Old Girl Missing in Baltimore

Baltimore (UPI) — A 7-year-old northeast girl was still missing Tuesday after police unsuccessfully searched Clifton Park for a second day.

Police identifed the missing child as Telethia Good. More than 30 city police officers have combed the area where she was reported missing Sunday.

Police said the little girl was visiting her aunt's house when she disappeared and was last seen playing with three other little girls. The missing child was described as black, 3-feet-4 inches tall and with two missing front teeth. She was last seen wearing a blue T-shirt with "Collington Square" inscribed on it and blue pants.

Norfolk & Western Walkout Blocked

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The president of the clerks union that is striking Norfolk & Western Railway said he hopes a judge's refusal to block expansion of the walkout will cause the railroad to "negotiate constructively."

"I can only hope that Judge Robinson's action will spur Norfolk & Western management to enter into a contructive phase of collective bargaining," Fred J. Kroll of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks said Tuesday.

"At the same time the decision and order open up new avenues of legal activity by N&W strikers which we shall not hesitate to use as the situation warrants," Kroll added.

U. S. District Judge Aubrey Robinson, Jr., Tuesday refused a request for a preliminary injunction to bar BRAC from striking railroads assisting the strike-bound N&W through a mutual aid pact.

The injunction was sought by 73 railroads threatened with an expansion of the BRAC strike because they were thought to be paying Norfolk & Western as much as $300,000 a day.

Robinson also dissolved his 10-day-old temporary order halting expansion of the strike to the other carriers.

Kroll, whose clerks struck N&W July 10, said the firm "had little incentive to negotiate constructively" because of its financial support from the industry.

"At the same time it has sought to deny to BRAC members at N&W any right to counter action against those railroads whose financial contributions have materially lengthened the strike," he said.

He said Robinson's decision showed that the 4,500 striking unionists have a right to take action against railroads helping N&W.

Robinson's ruling followed that of a Chicago-based federal judge who said several weeks ago the strike could be expanded.

But the decision did not affect the Conrail system, which was partially shut down last week by striking clerks.

In Charleston, W. Va., West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller held separate, private meetings with Kroll and N&W President John Fishwick to help get stalled negotiations moving.

The strike spawned coal mine layoffs in Virginia, West Virginia and other states served by N&W, a major coalhauler. Scattered violence has been reported in Ohio and West Virginia, where coal production has ground to a halt.

The scope of union jurisdiction has emerged as a key strike issue, with BRAC demanding 1,000 supervisory workers at N&W as union clerks, the railroad said.

The union says its demands for job security in the face of increasing automation are crucial to any settlement.

N&W spokesman Joseph Neikirk, however, said job security is not as important as the issue of union jurisdiction.

Bombings Decrease Across U. S.

According to preliminary figures, 613 bombing incidents occurred in the United States and Puerto Rico during the first six months of 1978, William H. Webster, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today.

As a result of these incidents, 10 persons were killed and 67 injured.

The 613 incidents caused more than $5,645,000 property damage, Mr. Webster said.

By comparison, 689 incidents, resulting in the deaths of 6 persons and injuries to 77 others, occurred in the first half of 1977. Property damage during the period was set at approximately $5,016,000.

The Director noted that these figures included all bombing incidents, terrorist bombings as well as all other criminal bombings.

"In contrast to the decrease in the number of these attacks, loss to victims of these crimes in terms of property damage is on the increase," Mr. Webster said. "This rise, coupled with the relatively stable number of deaths and injuries resulting from the incidents, points to the need for tenacity on the part of law enforcement in devising measures to curtail these occurrences."

During the first half of 1978, 431 of the 613 incidents involved explosive bombs, and 182 were incendiary. There were 684 devices used. Four hundred and fifty-six were explosives and 228 incendiary.

By a narrow margin, the leading targets were residences with 136 attacks. Of these attacks, 75 were explosive and 61 incendiary. There were 135 against commercial operations and office buildings, of which 96 were explosive and 39 incendiary. Seventy attacks were made against vehicles, 40 explosive and 30 incendiary. School facilities were targets in 52 attacks. Forty-one involved explosive bombs and 11 incendiary. Sixteen attacks were directed at law enforcement, 10 of which were explosive and 6 incendiary. The remaining 204 attacks were widely distributed among a variety of other targets.

Regionally, the Western States reported 207 bombing incidents, the Southern States 146, the North Central States 130, the Northeastern States 91, and Puerto Rico 39.

Government Spends Two Million On Metric Education

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Government Monday announced $2 million in grants to continue preparing American school children and adults for eventual use of the metric measurement system.

A total of 66 Department of Education grants were being awarded to local education agencies, colleges, non-profit organizations and state education agencies.

The United States is one of only a few countries in the world that still uses the English measuring system of inches and feet, ounces and pounds and pints and quarts. Most other countries use such metric measurements as meters, kilos and liters.

Although Congress passed the National Metric Conversion Act in 1975, it set no specific date for a changeover by Americans. Instead, a very loose goal of 10 years was planned for a voluntary change to the metric system.

The University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls got the largest grant announced Monday — $95,972.

The Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation in Washington, D. C., will use its $65,795 to train participants and volunteers in the Special Olympics for the nation's handicapped children. The organization plans to convert to the metric system in time for the 1979 Special Olympics national and international games.

The University of Washington will spend $26,597 in federal funds on developing a 3½ hour sound film in English and other languages to train teachers, parents and secondary students in the use of the metric system.

The current school year is the third for the Metric Education Program awards.

Police Seeking Red-Haired Thief

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Police today sought a man who robbed the Loyola Federal Savings & Loan Association of an undetermined amount of money and fled on foot.

Witnesses Tuesday described the robber as red-haired, middle-aged, about six feet tall and wearing a green baseball jacket, police said.

The man gave a teller a note that read: "I have a gun, ($10s), ($20s), ($50s), ($100s) quickly."

Police searched the Inner Harbor area for the man, who bank officials said displayed no weapon during the 2 p.m. robbery.

That's when she came at me, wattles flying, wings flapping.

My first nest egg.

The eggs were still warm. Felt just like a pillow that's been slept on all night. I picked the last one up and gingerly placed it in the basket. That's when she came at me, wattles flying, wings flapping. Chased me out of the hen house and right into the arms of my grandpa.

"Ol' Mabel get ya?" Bet you accidentally took her nest egg.

He poked into the basket and drew out an egg. "This one here, see? It's china. Put it in there just for Mabel. Little something of her own so she's not sitting there all alone. Mighty comfortin' to a hen, boy. Nest egg can be mighty comfortin' to some folks, too."

Later that day, Grandpa gave me my first Savings Bond. Said he'd planned to give me a lecture about saving, but Ol' Mabel had done it all for him. Told me that the Bond was my start on a personal nest egg. A little something stashed away to keep me going.

Every year after that, Grandpa gave me another Bond. And every time I got a chance, I added a Bond of my own to the pile. Those Bonds grew up right along with me.

Today, I run one of the biggest ranches in the Southwest. And you know how it all got started? From a little bitty nest egg. Guess I owe a lot to Grandpa. And Ol' Mabel.

Start building your nest egg. Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan at work. Or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you save. Whether you're saving for an education, retirement or even a new home. Bonds can make sure there's a fund in your future.

GOP Don Devine Takes Easy Win Over Andrews

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Don Devine, a professor at the University of Maryland, took an easy victory in the Republican state comptroller primary and will face incumbent Louis Goldstein, who was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Devine, 41, of Wheaton, defeated Baltimore businessman Richard Andrews, 53,044 to 25,295 with 99 percent of the precincts reporting.

In the November general election, the UM government professor faces Goldstein, who has been comptroller since 1958 and is running for his sixth term.

Devine, who was on the ticket of Republican gubernatorial nominee J. Glenn Beall, said Maryland "needs a fiscal watchdog to protect our tax dollars and to reduce the taxes we pay."

He said the liquor and tobacco businesses "are overregulated by the state government" and pledged as comptroller "to loosen regulation of businesses so we can enjoy a growing economy once again."

Last of Teenage Gang Arrested in Wheaton

Wheaton, Md. (UPI) — The last of a group of six teenagers, who may be responsible for as many as 75 percent of recent crimes here, have been arrested, police say.

Investigators described the suspects as a "loosely-knit gang" that ranges in age from 14 to 17 years old.

All were said to be from the same neighborhood in Wheaton. Police said more than $2,100 in stolen property has been recovered in the case.

Hospital Care Cost Dropping

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The average cost of hospital care in Montgomery and Prince George's counties, two Maryland counties outside Washington, dropped 7.3 percent between March of 1977 and 1978, the state Health Services Cost Review Commission says.

That figure compared to an average increase of 9.4 percent in Northern Virginia and 33 percent in the District of Columbia.

The study was based on a report by Group Hospitalization Inc., the Blue Cross agency serving Washington, the Maryland suburbs and Northern Virginia, commission spokesman Harold A. Cohen said.

Between March 1977 and March 1978, the average cost of admission in Washington hospitals increased 33.8 percent from $1,943 to $2,600.

Comparable figures for Prince George's and Montgomery counties in Maryland showed a 7.3 percent decrease, from $1,504 to $1,394.

Cohen predicted that the average cost of hospital admissions statewide would probably increase between 6 and 7 percent this year. The statewide figures will not be available until November.

The Group Hospitalization report was based on hospital cost per day, rather than cost per admission.

The study found that the average cost of a day's care at a Washington Hospital increased 18.3 percent, compared to 15.4 percent in Northern Virginia and 5.7 percent in the Maryland suburbs.

On a cost per day basis, Cohen said he expected an 8 to 9 percent increase this year compared to a 9.7 percent jump last year.

First Choice Young Refuses Promotion At University of Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — The University of Maryland's first choice for acting chairman of the Department of Government and Politics has turned down the job.

Oran Young, who joined the university in 1976, said Tuesday he refused the position because of the constraints the college administration wanted to put on the acting chairmanship.

The job has been the subject of controversy in recent months. This summer John Toll, university president, vetoed the appointment of Bertell Ollman, an avowed Marxist.

Young had suggested he would like to appoint Ollman as a full professor with tenure. He also wanted to be appointed chairman, rather than acting chairman, for a two-year term. Young said such a move would allow him to make key department appointments and change the curriculum to improve the department.

But when the chairmanship was offered, Young was informed he could not appoint anyone to a senior faculty position.

Robert Gluckstern, the college chancellor, said the department needs a new chairman soon.

Before his appointment was rejected, but after a long period in which the university did not act on it, Ollman filed suit in federal court asking that the university be ordered to give him the job. Regarding Ollman's suit, Gluckstern said the search for someone to fill the post permanently will not begin "until we have a much clearer idea of what's involved."

Young said he was approached about the chairmanship after the Ollman rejection. He said Murray Polakoff, provost for social sciences, asked if Young would accept the chairmanship on an interim basis.

New Hiring Policies Reviewed In Howard

ELLICOTT CITY, MD (UPI) — New affirmative action hiring policies in the Howard County government have led to an increase in the number of female and minority employees, a hiring official says.

Affirmative action coordinator Janet Haddad said Tuesday the 882 employees of the county force are 26 percent women and 12 percent from minority groups.

Those figures represent a 1 percent increase in the number of female employees and a 2 percent increase in minority group employment since last year.

Computers Will Control Heat In Baltimore Schools

TOWSON, MD (UPI) — Computers will control the heating of eight Baltimore County school buildings this year, school officials said.

The experiment is a continuation of one begun last year that produced energy cost savings, officials said.

Philip A. Rhoads, associate-superintendent for physical facilities, said Monday that four buildings will house computers and four will be heated by computers located off school property.

The experiment begun last year at Loch Raven Senior High School produced a projected 32 percent energy savings, or $41,414, compared to normal heating costs, Rhoads said.

Month Of August Warm And Arid

August was a very dry month until the last two days when more rain fell than the rest of the entire month. Temperatures averaged above normal due to mild nighttime readings.

Rainfall on twelve days, other than the last two, was mostly a tenth of an inch or less. A total of an inch did fall on the 4th and 5th. The total through the 29th was only 1.9 inches. On the 31st, 1.8 inches fell with .44 inch the day before. The total for the month was then 4.14 inches or .36 inch below normal.

Temperatures averaged 2.5 inches above normal.

Highs averaged 79.3 degrees or .1 degree above normal. The high, 84 degrees, occurred on two days, the 15th and 19th. The coolest day, the 30th was mild 73 degrees. It was 80 or above on 13 days in all.

Lows averaged 59.5 degrees or 4.9 above normal. The low was 45 degrees on the 22nd, 46 the day before and 49 the 23rd. These were the only readings in the 40s. The mercury remained in the 60s on 19 days, the mildest being 65 degrees on, both, the 7th and 25th.

Thunder storms occurred on two days. Much humidity made the heat more oppressive.

Statistics are derived from information given by Logan Weber, local observer of the National Weather Service.

Ban On Group Homes Reversed By Court

BETHLEHEM, MD (UPI) — At least eight youngsters will benefit from a circuit court judge's ruling reversing a Caroline County ban on group homes, a Bethlehem couple said.

Circuit Court Judge George Rasin, Jr. ruled Tuesday that the county could not use its zoning authority to prevent the operation of group homes. Rasin ruled in the case of Bea and Ricky Loscomb, who were denied a special zoning permit last October to run the home. The county had sought an injunction to close the home.

Mrs. Loscomb, 34, said Tuesday she and her husband will receive their license to operate a group home from the Department of Juvenile Services later this week.

The Loscombs were caring for six boys when the county zoning board denied their request, but were only caring for a 15-year-old boy when the decision was made.

The Loscombs have three children of their own. In January, they were told to return two foster boys to their mother. Two other teenagers were later sent home and one boy turned 18 and was released.

"We have room for eight," Mrs. Loscomb said. "We can take anywhere from four to six children and up to eight. We're ready for them, the rooms are ready, the beds are ready. We just want to be able to give them the love and affection they need."

Zoning ordinances restricing the number of unrelated occupants from living together in a single family home prompted the county to deny the request to operate a group home.

The Loscomb's request for a special permit was denied after 50 residents of Bethlehem, which has a population of about 130, signed a petition opposing the home.

Rasin ruled that "the state. . .preempted the county from regulating group homes, whether directly or indirectly, through zoning ordinances" and denied an injunction by the county seeking to close the Loscomb's home.

Korchnoi Wins 21st Round In Chess Match

BAGUIO, Philippines (UPI) — World chess challenger Viktor Korchnoi beat champion Anatoly Karpov today in the resumed 21st game of the chess championship to move back into contention for the $350,000 first prize.

Korchnoi, 47, dealt himself back into the title match with a 60-move victory — his second of the series — in the match that was adjourned Tuesday after the sealed 43rd move.

Korchnoi won the adjourned game when he sacrificed a knight in order to queen the advanced pawn, and the young Russian champion resigned, giving Korchnoi the win he sorely needed to stay in contention for the championship.

Karpov leads the match by four games to two with 15 draws. The first player to win six games takes the world title and the $350,000 in prize money.

Korchnoi arrived late again today for the resumed match, walking into the playing hall and sitting down after officials had started the time clock and opened and demonstrated for the audience the 43rd move the challenger sealed when play was halted Tuesday.

Karpov sat motionless, chin cupped in his left hand and looking at the audience, as he waited for Korchnoi.

The challenger made the obvious move of pushing ahead his bishop's pawn two squares to try to force Karpov to move a bishop. Karpov's bishop was covering the main corner of action.

Korchnoi was obviously at ease after 10 days of meditation and yoga lessons from a pair of American gurus, and experts said he had a good chance of winning the game.

He apparently was no longer bothered by a Russian parapsychologist expert attending Karpov.

Two of Korchnoi's losses came back-to-back when he was obviously upset by Vladimir Zoukhar, a recognized expert in the study of extra sensory perception and telekinesis.

But Korchnoi began meditating Sept. 2 with two American followers of the India-based Ananda Marga sect and Tuesday appeared unbothered by Zoukhar.

VOLUNTEERS FROM ALL OVER spent six days searching the rugged, forested areas in the vicinity of Routes 50 and 42, five miles from Elk Garden for Eddie C. Simons, who disappeared last Tuesday evening. Efforts yielded results six days later when Simons was located in "good" condition along Burgess Hollow Road. The organized search was coordinated from the fire department in Elk Garden. Helicopters and bloodhounds were utilized by the search crews, which included National Guardsmen, rescue squads, police, and fire departments.

Baltimore May Close Four Fire Departments

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Four more fire companies may have to close if the city's fire department is to keep within its 1979 budget of $51.7 million, a city finance official has predicted.

"They need to close several more before the end of the fiscal year," said George Piendak, chief of the Finance Department's Bureau of Budget and Management Research. "From a budgetary point of view, the earlier you take action to correct a budgetary problem the better it is."

It was not made immediately clear just which fire companies would be affected by the closings. Officials also indicated the firefighters affected would be transferred to other companies to alleviate a serious overtime problem within the department.

In August, fire officials closed Engine Company No. 15 at the Steadman firehouse because of extensive overtime payments. And last April, when overtime payments were at the same level, fire officials closed Engine Company No. 9 because of budgetary problems.

"The Fire Department, in order to keep operating as it is now, will require additional monies from within its own budget and it is very tight now," said Calhoun Bond, president of the Board of Fire Commissioners, on Tuesday.

Seven-Year-Old Girl Missing in Baltimore

Baltimore (UPI) — A 7-year-old northeast girl was still missing Tuesday after police unsuccessfully searched Clifton Park for a second day.

Police identifed the missing child as Telethia Good. More than 30 city police officers have combed the area where she was reported missing Sunday.

Police said the little girl was visiting her aunt's house when she disappeared and was last seen playing with three other little girls. The missing child was described as black, 3-feet-4 inches tall and with two missing front teeth. She was last seen wearing a blue T-shirt with "Collington Square" inscribed on it and blue pants.

Norfolk & Western Walkout Blocked

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The president of the clerks union that is striking Norfolk & Western Railway said he hopes a judge's refusal to block expansion of the walkout will cause the railroad to "negotiate constructively."

"I can only hope that Judge Robinson's action will spur Norfolk & Western management to enter into a contructive phase of collective bargaining," Fred J. Kroll of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks said Tuesday.

"At the same time the decision and order open up new avenues of legal activity by N&W strikers which we shall not hesitate to use as the situation warrants," Kroll added.

U. S. District Judge Aubrey Robinson, Jr., Tuesday refused a request for a preliminary injunction to bar BRAC from striking railroads assisting the strike-bound N&W through a mutual aid pact.

The injunction was sought by 73 railroads threatened with an expansion of the BRAC strike because they were thought to be paying Norfolk & Western as much as $300,000 a day.

Robinson also dissolved his 10-day-old temporary order halting expansion of the strike to the other carriers.

Kroll, whose clerks struck N&W July 10, said the firm "had little incentive to negotiate constructively" because of its financial support from the industry.

"At the same time it has sought to deny to BRAC members at N&W any right to counter action against those railroads whose financial contributions have materially lengthened the strike," he said.

He said Robinson's decision showed that the 4,500 striking unionists have a right to take action against railroads helping N&W.

Robinson's ruling followed that of a Chicago-based federal judge who said several weeks ago the strike could be expanded.

But the decision did not affect the Conrail system, which was partially shut down last week by striking clerks.

In Charleston, W. Va., West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller held separate, private meetings with Kroll and N&W President John Fishwick to help get stalled negotiations moving.

The strike spawned coal mine layoffs in Virginia, West Virginia and other states served by N&W, a major coalhauler. Scattered violence has been reported in Ohio and West Virginia, where coal production has ground to a halt.

The scope of union jurisdiction has emerged as a key strike issue, with BRAC demanding 1,000 supervisory workers at N&W as union clerks, the railroad said.

The union says its demands for job security in the face of increasing automation are crucial to any settlement.

N&W spokesman Joseph Neikirk, however, said job security is not as important as the issue of union jurisdiction.

Bombings Decrease Across U. S.

According to preliminary figures, 613 bombing incidents occurred in the United States and Puerto Rico during the first six months of 1978, William H. Webster, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today.

As a result of these incidents, 10 persons were killed and 67 injured.

The 613 incidents caused more than $5,645,000 property damage, Mr. Webster said.

By comparison, 689 incidents, resulting in the deaths of 6 persons and injuries to 77 others, occurred in the first half of 1977. Property damage during the period was set at approximately $5,016,000.

The Director noted that these figures included all bombing incidents, terrorist bombings as well as all other criminal bombings.

"In contrast to the decrease in the number of these attacks, loss to victims of these crimes in terms of property damage is on the increase," Mr. Webster said. "This rise, coupled with the relatively stable number of deaths and injuries resulting from the incidents, points to the need for tenacity on the part of law enforcement in devising measures to curtail these occurrences."

During the first half of 1978, 431 of the 613 incidents involved explosive bombs, and 182 were incendiary. There were 684 devices used. Four hundred and fifty-six were explosives and 228 incendiary.

By a narrow margin, the leading targets were residences with 136 attacks. Of these attacks, 75 were explosive and 61 incendiary. There were 135 against commercial operations and office buildings, of which 96 were explosive and 39 incendiary. Seventy attacks were made against vehicles, 40 explosive and 30 incendiary. School facilities were targets in 52 attacks. Forty-one involved explosive bombs and 11 incendiary. Sixteen attacks were directed at law enforcement, 10 of which were explosive and 6 incendiary. The remaining 204 attacks were widely distributed among a variety of other targets.

Regionally, the Western States reported 207 bombing incidents, the Southern States 146, the North Central States 130, the Northeastern States 91, and Puerto Rico 39.

Government Spends Two Million On Metric Education

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Government Monday announced $2 million in grants to continue preparing American school children and adults for eventual use of the metric measurement system.

A total of 66 Department of Education grants were being awarded to local education agencies, colleges, non-profit organizations and state education agencies.

The United States is one of only a few countries in the world that still uses the English measuring system of inches and feet, ounces and pounds and pints and quarts. Most other countries use such metric measurements as meters, kilos and liters.

Although Congress passed the National Metric Conversion Act in 1975, it set no specific date for a changeover by Americans. Instead, a very loose goal of 10 years was planned for a voluntary change to the metric system.

The University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls got the largest grant announced Monday — $95,972.

The Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation in Washington, D. C., will use its $65,795 to train participants and volunteers in the Special Olympics for the nation's handicapped children. The organization plans to convert to the metric system in time for the 1979 Special Olympics national and international games.

The University of Washington will spend $26,597 in federal funds on developing a 3½ hour sound film in English and other languages to train teachers, parents and secondary students in the use of the metric system.

The current school year is the third for the Metric Education Program awards.

Police Seeking Red-Haired Thief

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Police today sought a man who robbed the Loyola Federal Savings & Loan Association of an undetermined amount of money and fled on foot.

Witnesses Tuesday described the robber as red-haired, middle-aged, about six feet tall and wearing a green baseball jacket, police said.

The man gave a teller a note that read: "I have a gun, ($10s), ($20s), ($50s), ($100s) quickly."

Police searched the Inner Harbor area for the man, who bank officials said displayed no weapon during the 2 p.m. robbery.

That's when she came at me. wattles flying, wings flapping.

My first nest egg.

The eggs were still warm. Felt just like a pillow that's been slept on all night. I picked the last one up and gingerly placed it in the basket. That's when she came at me. wattles flying, wings flapping. Chased me out of the hen house and right into the arms of my grandpa.

"Ol' Mabel get ya? Bet you accidentally took her nest egg.

He poked into the basket and drew out an egg. "This one here, see? It's china. Put it in there just for Mabel. Little something of her own so she's not sitting there all alone. Mighty comfortin' to a hen, boy. Nest egg can be mighty comfortin' to some folks, too."

Later that day, Grandpa gave me my first Savings Bond. Said he'd planned to give me a lecture about saving, but Ol' Mabel had done it all for him. Told me that the Bond was my start on a personal nest egg. A little something stashed away to keep me going.

Every year after that, Grandpa gave me another Bond. And every time I got a chance, I added a Bond of my own to the pile. Those Bonds grew up right along with me.

Today, I run one of the biggest ranches in the Southwest. And you know how it all got started? From a little bitty nest egg. Guess I owe a lot to Grandpa. And Ol' Mabel.

Start building your nest egg. Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan at work. Or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you save. Whether you're saving for an education, retirement or even a new home. Bonds can make sure there's a fund in your future.

GOP Don Devine Takes Easy Win Over Andrews

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Don Devine, a professor at the University of Maryland, took an easy victory in the Republican state comptroller primary and will face incumbent Louis Goldstein, who was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Devine, 41, of Wheaton, defeated Baltimore businessman Richard Andrews, 53,044 to 25,295 with 99 percent of the precincts reporting.

In the November general election, the UM government professor faces Goldstein, who has been comptroller since 1958 and is running for his sixth term.

Devine, who was on the ticket of Republican gubernatorial nominee J. Glenn Beall, said Maryland "needs a fiscal watchdog to protect our tax dollars and to reduce the taxes we pay."

He said the liquor and tobacco businesses "are overregulated by the state government" and pledged as comptroller "to loosen regulation of businesses so we can enjoy a growing economy once again."

Last of Teenage Gang Arrested in Wheaton

Wheaton, Md. (UPI) — The last of a group of six teenagers, who may be responsible for as many as 75 percent of recent crimes here, have been arrested, police say.

Investigators described the suspects as a "loosely-knit gang" that ranges in age from 14 to 17 years old.

All were said to be from the same neighborhood in Wheaton. Police said more than $2,100 in stolen property has been recovered in the case.

Hospital Care Cost Dropping

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The average cost of hospital care in Montgomery and Prince George's counties, two Maryland counties outside Washington, dropped 7.3 percent between March of 1977 and 1978, the state Health Services Cost Review Commission says.

That figure compared to an average increase of 9.4 percent in Northern Virginia and 33 percent in the District of Columbia.

The study was based on a report by Group Hospitalization Inc., the Blue Cross agency serving Washington, the Maryland suburbs and Northern Virginia, commission spokesman Harold A. Cohen said.

Between March 1977 and March 1978, the average cost of admission in Washington hospitals increased 33.8 percent from $1,943 to $2,600.

Comparable figures for Prince George's and Montgomery counties in Maryland showed a 7.3 percent decrease, from $1,504 to $1,394.

Cohen predicted that the average cost of hospital admissions statewide would probably increase between 6 and 7 percent this year. The statewide figures will not be available until November.

The Group Hospitalization report was based on hospital cost per day, rather than cost per admission.

The study found that the average cost of a day's care at a Washington Hospital increased 18.3 percent, compared to 15.4 percent in Northern Virginia and 5.7 percent in the Maryland suburbs.

On a cost per day basis, Cohen said he expected an 8 to 9 percent increase this year compared to a 9.7 percent jump last year.

First Choice Young Refuses Promotion At University of Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — The University of Maryland's first choice for acting chairman of the Department of Government and Politics has turned down the job.

Oran Young, who joined the university in 1976, said Tuesday he refused the position because of the constraints the college administration wanted to put on the acting chairmanship.

The job has been the subject of controversy in recent months. This summer John Toll, university president, vetoed the appointment of Bertell Ollman, an avowed Marxist.

Young had suggested he would like to appoint Ollman as a full professor with tenure. He also wanted to be appointed chairman, rather than acting chairman, for a two-year term. Young said such a move would allow him to make key department appointments and change the curriculum to improve the department.

But when the chairmanship was offered, Young was informed he could not appoint anyone to a senior faculty position.

Robert Gluckstern, the college chancellor, said the department needs a new chairman soon.

Before his appointment was rejected, but after a long period in which the university did not act on it, Ollman filed suit in federal court asking that the university be ordered to give him the job. Regarding Ollman's suit, Gluckstern said the search for someone to fill the post permanently will not begin "until we have a much clearer idea of what's involved."

Young said he was approached about the chairmanship after the Ollman rejection. He said Murray Polakoff, provost for social sciences, asked if Young would accept the chairmanship on an interim basis.

New Hiring Policies Reviewed In Howard

ELLICOTT CITY, MD (UPI) — New affirmative action hiring policies in the Howard County government have led to an increase in the number of female and minority employees, a hiring official says.

Affirmative action coordinator Janet Haddad said Tuesday the 882 employees of the county force are 26 percent women and 12 percent from minority groups.

Those figures represent a 1 percent increase in the number of female employees and a 2 percent increase in minority group employment since last year.

Computers Will Control Heat In Baltimore Schools

TOWSON, MD (UPI) — Computers will control the heating of eight Baltimore County school buildings this year, school officials said.

The experiment is a continuation of one begun last year that produced energy cost savings, officials said.

Philip A. Rhoads, associate-superintendent for physical facilities, said Monday that four buildings will house computers and four will be heated by computers located off school property.

The experiment begun last year at Loch Raven Senior High School produced a projected 32 percent energy savings, or $41,414, compared to normal heating costs, Rhoads said.

Kristine Maffett Is July Bride

St. Marks Lutheran Church was setting for the marriage of Miss Kristine L. Maffett, Oakland, to Mr. Alan W. Meyer, Rockville. The double ring ceremony was performed July 1, 1978 by Rev. Richard A. Seaks and Rev. Manning L. Smith, rector of St. Matthews Episcopal Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Maffett, Oakland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Winfield H. Meyer, Walkersville, Md.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of white crepe fashioned with scoop neckline and featuring seed pearl lace outlining the empire waist line and sleeve inserts of lace. The seed pearl lace also formed a panel at the front of the skirt and encircled the hem of the gown and chapel train. Her mantilla veil of illusion was also edged with seed pearl lace. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and baby's breath. Her only jewelry was a necklace of small pearls worn by her mother for her wedding.

Maid of honor was Miss Sally L. Holland, Morgantown, W. Va. Her gown of cream color crepe with yellow print was made with a scoop neckline and featured a sheer jacket of matching print. Bridesmaids were Ellen and Janet Maffett, sisters of the bride. Their gowns were of peach color print and made the same style as the maid of honor. Another sister, Carol Maffett, was junior bridesmaid. She also wore a peach print gown featuring a full gathered skirt and long sleeves. The bride's gown and veil and those of her sisters were all made by their mother. The flowers carried by the bridal attendants were nosegays of carnations tinted to match their gowns and baby's breath.

Her gown was floor length white eyelet with yellow and peach sash at the gathered waistline. Steve and Greg Few, nephews of the bridegroom distributed packets of bird seed. Mrs. Robert Few, sister of Alan, registered guests.

Miss Susan Eberly, organist, played a selection of music during the seating of the guests and also a flute solo, "We've Only Just Begun." The traditional bridal song from Lohengrin was used and the recessional "With Trumpets and Horns" from Water Music by G. F. Handel. The chancel featured lighted candles and arrangements of white carnations. During the ceremony, the couple lighted one candle from two separate candles, symbolizing the union of their marriage.

Paula Locke Is August 26 Bride

Paula Jean Locke became the bride of Randal Jay Resh on August 26 at 1:30 p.m. at the Maranatha Assembly of God in a double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. William Ferguson.

Paula is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Locke, Springs. Mr. Resh is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Resh, Grantsville.

Wedding music was provided by Cindy Tissue, who played the organ, and Janet Kraybill, who played the guitar and sang "The Wedding Song."

The church was decorated with white carnations and pompon with baby's breath and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a bouffant gown of sheer organza and Alencon-type lace. The bodice featured a capelet edged with lace and fastened with tiny buttons in the back as were the fitted sleeves. The skirt fell in lace-edged tiers, sweeping to a semi-cathedral train. A camelot headpiece of coordinating lace held a semi-cathedral mantilla of lace-edged English illusion.

The bride carried a nosegay of cascading greenery with stephanotis, yellow miniature carnations, baby's breath, and yellow orchids.

Serving as maid of honor was Janet Kraybill. Bridesmaids were Carol Diehl, Carol Locke, Missy King, and Nancy Albright. They wore seafoam floor-length gowns of Victorian-style accented with chiffon and lace with capelet bodice. The sleeves were sheer with ruffled cuffs and the hemline was ruffled with lace. Underwood Church To Show Movie

A new film from Underground Evangelism, "Beyond the Cross," will be shown at the Underwood U. B. Church on Friday, September 15, at 7:30 p.m.

The movie, filmed inside Russia by the Persecuted Church over a period of years, tells the story of Ivan Moiseyev, the young Russian soldier who was put to death for his faith. Glimpses will also be given into the life of a Believer family in banishment for their faith in the wastelands of Siberia.

The public is invited, and there is no admission charge according to Rev. Charles Teets, pastor.

Summers-Coddington Wedding May 20

The wedding of Miss Jo Ann Coddington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Coddington, McHenry, and Terry Lynn Summers, son of Clarence T. Summers, Fairmont, W. Va., and Mrs. Wilma Arney, Akron, O., took place at McHenry United Methodist Church on Saturday, May 20.

Rev. Ellis Harvey performed the double-ring ceremony. Organ music was provided by Mrs. Lucille Sines of Friendsville. Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of nylon dotted swiss, fashioned with empire bodice, high neckline, long tapered sleeves, and classic bell skirt flowing into a chapel train. Venise lace and seed pearls accented the bodice, and lace trimmed the sleeves and hemline. Her elbow-length veil of nylon illusion was also bordered with lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of multicolor daisies and miniature mums surrounding red roses and blue carnations.

Sharon Culver, Potomac, was matron of honor. She wore a pale blue dress of dotted swiss trimmed in lace. Bridesmaids were Deborah Summers, Akron, O., sister of the groom; Nancy Coddington, McHenry, sister-in-law of the bride; and Kathy Youngblood, Severn, sister of the bride, who also wore dotted swiss dresses trimmed in lace in lavender, yellow and green respectively. All attendants carried bouquets of daisies and miniature mums with ribbons matching the shades of their dresses.

The bride's mother wore a long gown of pale pink polyester with a chiffon cape. The bridegroom's mother wore a long gown of pale blue. Both mothers' corsages were carnations matching their gowns.

Ted Summers, Fairmont, W. Va., was best man for his brother. Ushers were Dennis Sibley, Bethesda; Gregory Davis, Hyattsville; and Donald Coddington, College Park.

A reception followed at the McHenry Fire Hall. The wedding cake, made by Mrs. Margaret Hicks, Rockville, was a wedding gift and was served by Mrs. Kathleen Bunch, College Park, and Mrs. Flora Barnard, aunt of the bride, Newport News, Va. Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Edna Parker, aunt of the bride, Newport News, Va., and Mrs. Eunice Rovertini, Takoma Park. Mrs. Paula Coddington, sister-in-law of the bride, registered guests. Mrs. Patricia DiCarlo, Tabb, Va., served as mistress of ceremonies.

For her going away outfit the bride wore a powder blue suit with a red rose and blue carnation corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet. After a Florida honeymoon, the couple are at home at College Park.

Both bride and groom are employed at the Naval Medical Research Institute at Bethesda. The groom is a Medical Research Laboratory Technician, and the bride is supply clerk for the Institute.

They will be on assignment with the Navy at Rota, Spain, later in the fall.

Hoping

Hope does, indeed, spring eternal. It's worth getting on tiptoes to see if there's something in the mailbox, because it's so wonderful when there is.

Children don't give up easily. She'll go back every day . . . she'll keep trying. It's different when you're older. Then footsteps tend to lag; some of the bounce has been taken out of you.

All right. No one expects you to be a rubber ball, bouncing back every time life slaps you down. But on the other hand, balls that never bounce back, like flat tires, get tossed on the scrap heap, for obvious reasons.

Next time there's no mail in your box, whether that box is real or imaginary, start thinking that maybe you should write the first letter, take the first step.

Why not make it toward church?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE PRESCRIPTION

Lesson for September 17, 1978

Background Scripture:
Acts 2:42-47
Galatians 5:25 through 6:5
Ephesians 6:10-18
1 Peter 5:6-11
Devotional Reading:
John 12:1-11

Rev. Althouse

If I told you that I have in my possession a prescription that, if filled and taken, would guarantee a life of peace and power — assuming, of course, that you believed me — I am sure that you would be willing to pay a substantial sum of money for that prescription. Your assumption, very likely, would be that what you would receive for your money would be a bottle of pills, capsules, or some medicinal formula from your local pharmacist.

If, instead of receiving some kind of pharmaceutical product, however, you were to be given a piece of paper upon which was inscribed various passages of scripture — such as those listed above — you would probably feel you had been cheated. After all, we're a society that pops pills, not scriptures, to deal with our ills.

A Pill Or A Program?

A man suffering from a very serious disease came to a physician friend of mine, proclaiming, "I'll do anything to be cured of this condition!" The physician outlined a program of various practices and disciplines which would have substantially altered the patient's lifestyle. The program included only a minimal amount of medication. Although the prognosis without this program was "terminal," the man who had said he'd "do anything" refused the program that was proposed. He had been looking for a pill, not a program. He wanted to be healed, but he didn't want to have his life changed.

The Bible gives us many prescriptions for the kind of life all of us say we would "give anything" to have. Perhaps one reason we do not take them seriously is that they seem too simple, too commonplace. In 2 Kings 5 we find the fascinating story of Naaman the Syrian general whose career is threatened by leprosy. Journeying to Israel to seek healing from the Prophet Elisha, the great general is contemptuous of Elisha's command to "Go and wash in the Jordan seven times, and your flesh will be restored." He is on the verge of going back to Syria when his servants come to him and reason: "My father, if the prophet had commanded you to do some great thing, would you not have done it? How much rather, then, when he says to you 'Wash, and be clean'?" (5:8-14).

They Devoted Themselves

So too, when the writer of Acts spells out the simple resources which made great the life of the apostolic Church — "they devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching and fellowship, to the breaking of bread and the prayers" (2:42) — we tend to dismiss them because they do not seem very unique or dramatic. Yet it was because of that simple prescription of the ordered life together that we also read that "many wonders and signs were done through the apostles" (2:43).

The prescription for a life of spiritual power and peace is no secret and it is never beyond our means if we really want it.

Southern States Annual Membership Meeting Held Aug. 29

William Merrill and Simon Tice, both of Grantsville, were elected to the local Stockholder Committee at the Southern States Annual Membership meeting held in Grantsville on August 29. Over 100 stockholder-members and their families attended the session.

George Shawley, II, of Bittinger, was named chairman of the local committee, while Cleland Beitzel, of Bittinger, was picked as vice-chairman.

Elected to the local Southern States Farm Home Advisory Committee were Mrs. William Merrill and Mrs. Frank Stanton, of Grantsville.

Mrs. Stanton was also chosen as chairperson of the Farm Home Advisory Committee while Mrs. William Kamp, of Grantsville, was named secretary.

Mr. Tice was also chosen as a delegate to represent the local membership at the Southern States Cooperative's 55th Annual Stockholders meeting to be held in November. Mr. Merrill was named alternate.

Wayne Harman, of Clarksburg, a member of Southern States Cooperative's regional staff, in reporting on the overall operations of the co-op for the past year, told the session that volume was over $373 million.

The report on local operations and services rendered to farmer members was given by Jesse Harsh, manager of Grantsville Service. He reported that total volume for their operation for the past year was about $1 million. His report included the use of a number of color slides showing the co-op's present service as well as pictures of patron's farming operations.

There was also a special recognition ceremony for new committee members, Farm Home Advisory Committee members, as well as those from these groups who were retiring. These included Harry Hummel and Frank Stanton, both of Grantsville; and Mrs. Harry Hummel and Mrs. Lowell Merrill, both of Grantsville.

Naughton Holds Review Hearing For Mattingly

A post conviction review hearing was conducted Friday by Associate Judge Harold E. Naughton for Roger Lee Mattingly, who is a prisoner in the Maryland House of Correction in Jessup following his conviction in 1975 in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Mattingly was given a sentence of three years and eight months in May 1975 by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, now retired, on a charge of breaking and entering larceny. The following September he received an additional six-year sentence for abduction.

Judge Naughton was hearing the case because Judge Fred Thayer of Garrett County was the state's attorney at the time of Mattingly's trials.

Ralph M. Burnett, Garrett County state's attorney, appeared for the state at Friday's hearing. John L. Calhoun, assistant public defender of Baltimore, represented Mattingly. Judge Naughton took the matter under advisement.

FILM CLIPS
by jim willis

At long last an honest-to-goodness family film is about to make its debut. "All Things Bright and Beautiful," the film version of Dr. James Herriot's autobiographical bestseller will open in theatres throughout Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia in mid-September.

Produced by David Susskind and Readers Digest, the story captures all the warmth and humor depicted in Herriot's best-selling novel of the same name. It colorfully portrays the life of an English veterinarian, and is a return to the kind of film all members of the family can enjoy together.

Starring in the role of Dr. Herriot is John Alderton, who won worldwide acclaim for his role in the popular television series, "Upstairs, Downstairs." In addition, veteran filmmaker, Colin Blakely, plays Dr. Herriot's mentor and friend, Siegfried, and Lisa Harrow, one of Britian's brightest new stars, plays Dr. Herroit's wife.

David Susskind, executive producer of the movie said, "This is a film of the world set right."

The film opens with James Herriot, a young veterinarian, new to Yorkshire, new to practice, and new to marriage. The stern Yorkshire farmers view him as a city fellow, not likely to be able to deal with anything more complex than a cat's cold.

His irascible senior partner, Siegfried Farnon sees him as a feckless, if amiable, boy. His wife Helen, longs to exchange their attic room in Siegfried's house for a home of their own.

Herriot himself wonders if he was right in choosing a difficult, demanding country practice when he might have had a comfortable, more lucrative, small animal practice in town.

In a series of episodes, all these questions are resolved.

The farmers warm to James after he extracts Mr. Kirby's summer underwear from the throat of a gagging goat; delivers a baby calf handily, while slightly besotted on Mr. Crump's homemade wines, and makes a difficult diagnosis of an ailment afflicting Mrs. Dalby's dairy herd.

After learning that James is considering an offer by a city veterinarian, Siegfried cries as he tells Helen, bewilderedly, "But I love you both."

Helen, now pregnant, needn't tell James that she doesn't want to rear a child in Siegfried's attic. He suggests that they buy a house.

And James learns that despite the infinitely taxing regimen of a country vet, the beauty of the Yorkshire Dales and of the people and animals who live there, have an unbreakable hold on his mind and heart. He turns down the offer of a city practice.

The picture ends as James takes an afternoon off to wheel his newborn son down a peaceful country land; a moment made especially poignant by Britian's declaration of war on Germany that day.

James and Helen then know that the bittersweet world of the Dales may never again be the same.

As a special note, look closely at the scene when young Dr. Herriot, portrayed by John Alderton, delivers a calf.

Other actors might think Alderton carries reality too far. He actually did deliver the calf himself.

Actor Alderton was briefed on the birth process at a veterinary college near the Yorkshire Dales where the film was shot. Then, he had to wait weeks before an available cow was ready to give birth.

True to real life, the baby decided to arrive in the wee small hours. Alderton was hauled out of bed, successfully delivered the animal, and all the time acted the role of a tipsy vet who had partaken too freely of a local farm's homemade wines.

How did he manage the feat? "I'm a Yorkshire man myself," said Alderton.

Q. I'm having a root canal done on a tooth that was hit and moved out of position. Can it be straightened?

A. Probably after the root canal is completed, ask your regular family dentist about moving it (slowly) back into position. It may be possible to change its position with a brace or fixed (cemented) bands may be needed. You may also wish to consult an orthodontist.

As long as there is a healthy bone around the root and the root itself is healthy, the tooth can be moved even if you are not a teenager. Tooth movement may be slower in adults but it can be done successfully. It is not unusual now for people in their 20's and 30's to have orthodontic treatment rendered that was needed but not carried out in the teen years.

Q. Why is it bad to have cap at a young age?

A. In order to cap (crown) a tooth, the tooth must be reduced in size by removing the outer 1 to 4 mm of tooth structure. In younger people the pulp ("nerve") chamber in the center of the tooth is very large so that preparing the tooth for a crown may cause the pulp to be injured. In later years, the pulp would not be as vulnerable to injury because there is more tooth between the pulp and the outer enamel as a result of the pulp area decreasing in size.

If the tooth has had root canal treatment carried out then not only can the crown be safely done, but it should be crowned because root canal treated teeth tend to fracture easier than other teeth. Occasionally an internal core (post) must be created which is to seat the crown on.

If nothing else can be done and the tooth must be crowned, then those procedures which require the least amount of tooth reduction should be used. Due to changes which take place normally, crowns on young people have to be removed at least once as the person matures.

POET'S PODIUM
By Jim Willis

The following is a selection of free verse by Donna Lee Shaffer, Oakland:

Ocean Growing

We are like little children playing at the seashore, adventuring into the ocean
a little at a time.

Midway

My thoughts are like a seagull floating softly,
its wings above the clouds, dancing merrily with time.

Second Street

It is hot,
hot,
hot,
my feet baking, burning on the ribbon of concrete, with not a trace
to stir
the hot,
hot,
humid summer air.

Health and Safety Tip
From the American Medical Association

POST-NASAL DRIP CAN BE PREVENTED

Post-nasal drip is a common term for a common condition which annoys many persons.

Quite often its effects are encountered during the night or early in the morning. A sleeper moves and changes position, coughs, and spits up mucus.

Some of the causes of post-nasal drip are allergic reactions, irritants in the air, smoking, changes in barometric pressure, chemical or physical damage to the membranes, gross deformities of the airways, and individual responses to such conditions as climate, altitude and humidity. Post-nasal drip often is closely related to sinusitis, the American Medical Association points out.

At the root of the problem are abnormal secretions in the upper throat, the nasopharynx. One of the functions of the nasopharynx is to warm and moisten air drawn into the lungs through the nose and to catch dust and bacteria on its moist surfaces.

To maintain moisture, the nasal passageways normally produce rather copious quantities of two types of secretions — a watery, or serous, secretion, and a thicker mucus. A certain amount of these secretions lingers in the nasopharynx, but when an over supply accumulates there, particularly of mucus, the result is post-nasal drip.

Modern drugs can restore normal function in a high percentage of cases, and severe deformities of the airways can be corrected surgically. Gargling is not effective against post-nasal drip or the offensive breath which frequently accompanies it. Gargling reaches only the front two-thirds of the oral cavity, and the secretions causing the trouble are the rear one-third.

Sometimes coughing fails to expel the accumulation. Breathing can then be made easier by using certain medicines.

Finally, a sizeable number of the millions of cases of post-nasal drip among Americans would clear up if the sufferer would just stop smoking.

Sewage Plant Negotiations Snag On Chlorine Use

Trout fishermen, who are attempting to reach an agreement with the state over the construction of a sewage plant near Deep Creek Lake in the Youghiogheny River, say negotiations have snagged over the proposed use of toxic chlorine.

A spokesman for the fishermen said the group's major concern is that state officials will use chlorine to disinfect the 600,000 gallons of sewage effluent that would flow down about 2,000 yards of dry-creek bed and then into the river.

Chlorine is toxic to aquatic life in quantities as low as .002 parts per million of water.

The immediate issue is how to regulate the purity of the plant's discharge to the relatively pristine river.

Both sides feel that, with more sewage plants planned for trout streams in Maryland and nationwide, the decision about the Youghiogheny River will set an important precedent.

The fishermen, represented by the Trout Unlimited's Natural Resource Management and Protection Committee, agreed two months ago to try and formulate an agreement on the project with the state Department of Natural Resources.

The state has agreed to conduct water quality studies over three years to ensure the plant's discharge is not damaging the aquatic environment.

But the fishermen said at a recent progress meeting that the state has not yet come up with the money to finance the studies.

"What guarantee do we have that a change in administrations in November won't lead to a different attitude?" said James Gracie, chairman of the committee.

Clayton Dunham, 21, Deer Park; Connie Jordon, 18, RD 4, Oakland; and Darlene Clary, 18, Hollylane, Mt. Lake Park, were riding in the car driven by Eddie H. Jordon, 19, of Albright, W. Va. Two other passengers were not injured. Jordon was driving east on Rt. 50 about 4:40 a.m. when he failed to negotiate a sharp left turn. The car went off the road to the right and struck the guard rails. Tfc. J. E. Foley charged Jordon with operating at excess speed.

An accident on G Street in Mt. Lake Park, injured the passenger of one car in a two-vehicle mishap on Saturday afternoon. Paula Schrock, Mt. Lake Park, was a passenger in a car driven by Barbara Louise Guthrie, H Street, Mt. Lake Park. Four other passengers were not injured.

Lake Park, following slowed down when the Guthrie car appeared to be pulling into the restaurant parking lot. But when the Guthrie car speeded up and stopped, Sines was unable to stop in time to avoid the collision. Cpl. R. S. Lewis investigated.

BY JIM WILLIS

Twins (Signet Books) by Bari Wood and Jack Geasland is a disappointment from two respected writers. Bari Wood is the author of the award-winning novel, The Killing Gift, a former editor of "Drug Therapy" magazine and a medical writer. Geasland also is a medical writer and novelist.

The book jacket calls Twins the "#1 Shocker of the Year! A Riveting Novel of Unspeakable Obsession." A closer evaluation would call it a trying study of two mal-adjusted identical twins with unrealistic physical and emotional bonds.

Drs. David and Michael Ross spend most of their medical careers trying to outdo each other and most of their personal lives in degenerative endeavors. The pointless ending has them die together thus ending the futility of their lives and the plot.

The book is neither thrilling nor "riveting", in fact, it's not even worth the cover price.

The Center is now able to formally determine an individual's ability to compete in competitive employment. Also, the Unit can determine an individual's ability to perform semi-skilled/skilled labor tasks such as: word adjustment, mechanical, clerical, office procedures, office machine operating, etc.

The new service will be offered to other agencies and to any private business desiring work profiles on tentative employees. For more information concerning the Evaluation Unit, please contact David J. Koontz, Director, at 334-8146.

GCC Schedules Graphics Classes

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College has scheduled two new courses for the fall term.

"Introduction into Graphic Design" will be taught by Jim Willis and is slated to begin on Tuesday, September 19 at 6 p.m. This course is especially directed to local merchants, real estate agents and businessmen who feel a need to contain their advertising or to be better able to specify conceptual goals to an ad department. It will stress basic design elements, logos and symbolism, product appeal and presentation, advertising layout, color concepts, use of positive and negative space, client counseling, advertising purpose and theory and a general knowledge of techniques.

"Applied Photography," taught by Jim Crabtree will encompass areas of professional photography such as architectural, commercial, industrial and copy work, the analysis of various problems in design as applied to photography, audio-visual production, dark room techniques and composition. The course objective is to instruct the student in the basic elements of public relations and advertising for business and industry through applied photography. It will begin Thursday, September 21 at 6 p.m.

The course structures are such that they may be taken in conjunction with each other, therefore composing a complete package for the student with interests in these areas. Each course will meet for 12 weekly sessions totalling 36 hours and registration may be made at the Oakland Center of the College, East Center Street, Oakland, up to and including the evening of the courses.

TUNES by jim willis

In these days of Bee Geemania, one LP and its star track have successfully knocked the Aussie's soundtrack, "Saturday Night Fever," from the record charts — Gerry Rafferty and his City to City featuring the hit, "Baker Street."

Rafferty has been around for a decade, but not since his "Stuck in the Middle With You," (done in conjunction with Joe Egan,) has he climbed the charts.

His original group, "Stealers Wheel," folded years ago in Scotland, but Rafferty has continued writing songs that convey "pretty scary kinds of feelings."

City to City has all the social comment of Bob Dylan and Bruce Springsteen, plus the music to back it up. The best-known cut is, "Baker Street" and it features the haunting saxophone of Raphael Ravenscroft, a session musician.

Rafferty continues fighting the instant stardom head-trip and recently told Rolling Stone, "to be a star is probably the last thing I want."

Rumors of his aversion to record company executives, producers and the like are traveling through the industry. Possibly his first hit was directed to them when he said, "Fools to the left of me/jokers on the right/here I am, stuck in the middle with you."

DEER PARK

Mrs. Mary Rollman entertained members of the United Methodist Women at her home Thursday, September 7.

Miss Lola King gave the lesson, Psalms 90:17 and Isaiah 65:24.

Mrs. Flora Haines had charge of the business session, with all officers remaining the same for the coming year.

Others present were Mrs. Rosemary Filsinger, Mrs. Mary DeBerry, Mrs. May Weimer, Mrs. Laura Flanigan, Mrs. Jessie Lee and Mrs. Pleasant Thrasher.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with the citizens of Central and Western Maryland. You may send your questions to me, in care of the U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I will answer each of you who writes. The following questions are typical of those asked of me in recent weeks;

What are your views on the Summer Career Interest program?

I support the Summer Career Interest program. In fact, I have co-sponsored legislation to reauthorize the U.S. Army Reserve to continue this program. Originally authorized by the Chief of the Army Reserve in 1971, this program utilized Army Reservists on summer active duty to instruct youth 14 to 19 years old, in various fields. This is not a military program and is open to anyone. The student pays a minimal amount for a two-week intensive course of study. Among the courses offered are Amateur Radio, Basic Photography, Medical Lab Technology, Basic Automotive Maintenance and an Introduction to Law Enforcement. So far, the program has provided educational training to more than 5,000 students.

How can the average citizen provide input for federal government proposals?

One way is to subscribe to Consumer News, a monthly newsletter which outlines what the government is planning and tells you how you can provide advice and comments. This Office of Consumer Affairs publication includes summaries of Federal consumer proposals and actions, new consumer laws, recalls and consumer tips. For more information you may write the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

How accurate are the automobile gasoline ratings published by the Environmental Protection Agency?

Many people are puzzled by generous gas mileage ratings which seem impossible to get in actual everyday driving. However, according to a government survey, over half of all drivers report achieving gasoline mileage within two miles per gallon of EPA estimates. The remaining ten percent report that they are getting five or more gallons per miles less than EPA ratings.

I would like to know more about solar energy. Who can I contact?

I suggest you contact the National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center at Post office Box 1607, Rockville, Maryland 20850. The Center also has a toll-free number you can call if you would like immediate answers to a specific question or if you would like to order any of the material they have in print. The toll-free number is 1-800-523-2929.

Congress recently considered their first budget resolution, setting budget targets and guidelines. What was your vote?

I feel very strongly that both Congress and the President should make more progress towards a balanced Federal budget. I therefore voted against the final version of the budget resolution, which passed by the very narrow margin of 201 to 197. The fact that the vote was so close — as were many of the votes on amendments I supported to cut the budget — reflects widespread concern in the country, and in Congress, over the continued inability to make significant progress in reducing the Federal deficit which stands at a staggering $750 billion. Because of this lack of progress, I will continue to press for legislation I have introduced to require the Federal government to balance its budget — except in times of national emergency.

I understand you have contacted a Congressional Committee concerning the ability of Senior Citizens to pay rising utility bills? Please explain.

I have presented several hundred letters from Central & Western Maryland retirees to the Select Committee on Aging which is currently holding hearings on the affects of energy costs on older Americans. The letters are in response to my recent appeal to area senior citizens in which I requested grass-roots suggestions on ways the government can assist in easing the financial strain of paying high utility bills. Anti-inflation programs, tax credits and senior citizen discounts were among the recommended ideas and I hope the outpouring of opinions will lead to remedial legislation to aid the elderly. There is little doubt retired individuals living on a fixed income cannot absorb higher fuel costs, they have less savings to make necessary home improvements, and are generally more vulnerable to the rising utility rate squeeze. Although energy conservation is a goal toward which we all must strive, we have to make a special effort to maintain the older person's environment safe for his or her minimum physical needs.

Can you please explain Medicare to me?

To help you understand the Medicare program, the Social Security Administration has published a pamphlet called, "A Brief Explanation of Medicare." For your free copy, write Consumer Information Center, Department 685F, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

How did you vote on the $2 billion New York City Fiscal Assistance Act?

I opposed this bill just as I had opposed the original legislation providing special assistance to New York in 1975. I felt that the bill in 1975 providing the original federal loans for New York City established a bad precedent and the new legislation continued the unfortunate practice of the federal government bailing-out a local government which has not practiced responsible fiscal management in the past. There has been a lot of publicity given to the fact that per capita municipal spending in New York City is nearly 50 percent higher than spending in the average American city, and I don't want other large cities to believe that if they have a similiar unsound fiscal posture that the federal government and taxpayers will provide special loans.

Nurses Workshop Set For Sept. 21

A one-day workshop on "Respiratory Emergencies in the Newborn" will be held on Thursday, September 21, 9:00 a.m. till 4:00 p.m., in the Class Room, Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

This workshop is presented in cooperation with the Maryland State Intensive Care Neonatal Program. The workshop is designed primarily for obsteterical and neonatal nurses responsible for initial evaluation and intervention. Topics covered include anatomy and physiology of the respiratory system, causes of respiratory distress, and assessment of the newborn's respiratory status.

For further information persons should call David P. Ramsey at 895-5934, weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. A registration fee of $2.00 per nurse will be collected to cover cost incurred by the hospital. Pre-registration is required.

Straight Talk About Aging

By Dr. Matthew Tayback,
State Director on Aging

New furniture for a retirement apartment, or new appliances . . .

A trans-continental airplane flight, to be present for the birth of a first grandchild. . .

Expensive sickroom equipment for a bedridden spouse. .

Whether for necessities or conveniences or luxuries, one's need for credit doesn't abruptly end when one reaches 65 years of age.

Until recently, however, older Americans were often victims of "credit discrimination." That is, they were denied credit solely because of their age. Such discrimination is now illegal. It has been since March of last year, when special amendments to the 1975 Equal Credit Opportunity Act went into effect.

Now, because of the amendments, if you as an elderly citizen feel you have been denied credit because of your age, you can bring suit for substantial damages — or the Federal government can take action in your behalf against the offending creditor.

The amendments do not, of course, give you the right to demand credit because you are over a certain age. You must still prove that you are a good credit risk.

If you have not already established your creditworthiness (and many older people haven't, particularly recent widows who have always relied on their husbands' accounts) there are several steps you can take to do so.

First, apply to a department store for a charge account in your own name. Make small purchases that you're sure you can afford. Pay your bill each month, and pay it promptly.

If you do, this first step will cost you nothing because no finance charges will be levied against your purchases — and, most important, you'll be establishing that indispensible pattern of responsible payment.

Another step: open a checking and/or savings account, again in your name. Don't overdraw! The most important part of a credit history is a blemish-free record.

Most people don't realize it, but having a telephone in one's own name can be a factor in building a good credit rating. Once again, though, make sure you pay the monthly bill promptly.

If you have not already retired, remember that it is much easier to get credit while you are working than it will be later.

Your past credit record is only one of the things a lender will consider when deciding whether to extend credit to you. Others are:

—Your ability to pay. Your income — and it can be from a salary, investments, self-employment, pensions, or alimony and child support payments — will naturally be a prime consideration.

—Your other indebtedness. A large income won't impress a credit manager if most of it is already committed to other obligations.

—Your stability. Have you held one or only a few jobs, or have you flitted about the marketplace? Have you lived at the same address for a number of years? Answers to these questions will tell the credit manager a great deal about your reliability.

—Your assets and possessions. If you have no previous credit history, you might have to pledge a car, part of the value of your house or securities as a guarantee of repayment.

There's one thing, though, that credit managers will not — they cannot — now consider when you apply for credit, and that's your age.

If you feel that you have been denied credit solely on the basis of age, there are several sources of redress. Among them are the Maryland State Commissioner on Banking, the Maryland Commissioner of Consumer Credit, or, in the case of denial by a retail establishment, your nearest Federal Trade Commission office.

A covered dish dinner will begin for members and their husbands or friends at 6:30. Any other interested persons may join the group at 8 o'clock to hear Mrs. VanLandingham speak.

Visiting Friends Complete Training

The Garrett County Team on Child Abuse and Neglect announced the beginning of the "Visiting Friends" program as four volunteers completed two days of training at Garrett Community College last week.

The Volunteers will establish a relationship with the mother of a family that is under stress. It is their job to be a nurturing supportive friend who is available in times of distress. The concern and caring of a "Friend" is expected to help mothers that are experiencing frustration and loneliness, and aid in the prevention of a transference of these feelings to the children.

According to Mrs. Ann Abrahamson, director of the program, ". . .a parent who gets unduly angry at their children really wants to be a good parent, but just needs someone to talk to and someone to share their burden."

Training of the Visiting Friends covered the basic principles of supportive counseling. The volunteers learned various communication skills, community resources and child management techniques.

Although the Team is funded by the county, it is being recognized throughout the State. The Team recently received a commendation from "Help Resources" in Baltimore for the development of the program. Mrs. Abrahamson's program proposal is being published and distributed to all Child Abuse Teams within the state as a model guide.

Mrs. Abrahamson stated that she believes that family problems such as abuse and neglect are handled more effectively and economically through the development of such community volunteer teams.

Hutton Named Executive Director

A former Frederick County commissioner and member of the House of Delegates has been appointed executive director of the Maryland Association of Counties (MACO).

New director is Wallace Hutton, a Frederick attorney, announced Wayne B. Hamilton, Garrett County Commissioner and vice president of MACO. Hutton was named to the post Friday during a meeting of the association in Annapolis.

Mr. Hutton will succeed the late Joseph J. Murnane, of Baltimore City. MACO is funded solely by its 23 member counties and Baltimore City, and its informational and lobbying activities are directed by its elected Board of Directors and a Legislative Committee, all of whom are elected members of their government's governing body.

The new executive director was selected by unanimous vote at a special meeting last week from some 70 persons seeking the position. He will be closing his Frederick law office and will assume his new, full-time leadership post October 1.

Mr. Hutton, 49, holds a Juris Doctor degree from Washington University Law School. He served as a county commissioner for Frederick County from 1966 to 1970 when he was elected to the Maryland General Assembly. During his four-year term in the General Assembly, he served on the House Appropriations Committee and was a frequent sponsor of legislation designed to improve local government in the state.

Camp Potomac Ends 28th Season

Camp Potomac, the summer camp operated by Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, has completed its 28th season, according to William Gardner, Council Camping Chairman.

Located near Oldtown, Camp Potomac offers Scouts a place to learn about swimming, boating, canoeing, archery, marksmanship, handicraft, nature, cooking, space exploration, Indian Lore, and Scouting fellowship. Over 400 Scouts and leaders participated from the six county area served by Potomac Council in the adventure of a summer camp.

Each troop in camp is under its own adult leadership, assisted by a central camp staff. The Scouts arrive on Sunday afternoon and return home the following Saturday noon. Parents and guests spent an evening at Camp each Wednesday and participated in a special evening program and campfire.

As a part of the Camp Program, 80 Webelos Scouts and fathers participated in an overnight camping experience at Camp Potomac on Saturday and Sunday, July 8th and 9th. The Webelos and Dads shared the same program that the Scouts take part in. The overnight was highlighted by a water olympics, rocket launch, closing campfire, and and an outdoor adventure for both the Webelos Scout and his dad.

Eric Bruner, a member of the Council Professional Staff, was the Camp Director, Edgar Bucy, Health Officer, John Smith, Business Manager, and Marty Rohman, Quartermaster.

The Program Staff was under the direction of Rob Rephan, also a member of the Council Professional Staff. PET POINTERS

by jim willis

There may come a time when a pet owner decides to get a second pet. If you decide to take the plunge, don't be discouraged by predictions of constant pet battles, or the first pet "forgetting" its toilet training as a result of jealousy. Despite what some people say, two or more animals can peacefully coexist in the same household, if a little care is taken in bringing them together.

First, remember that young animals get acquainted quicker than older animals. Kittens and puppies are accustomed to having littermates around and will readily accept other young animals as playmates. Just take care that a large, frisky puppy doesn't overwhelm a small kitten with its size.

The match works best when the new addition is the younger of the two pets. A kitten or puppy will not be as much a threat to the already established pet, since it will not immediately seek the top position in the pecking order. An older cat may hiss and shy away from a puppy, but will not feel as threatened as by an older dog.

If you have to mix two older pets, do so gradually. True affection may never bloom, but your household should not be an armed camp, either.

First, keep the two in separate rooms, so that the scent of the new pet will announce its presence to the older pet. Maintain this situation for two or three days, until the older pet feels secure that "nothing has changed" by the addition of the new animal.

Next, let the two animals see each other, perhaps through a screen or gate. After several glimpses, your pets should tolerate each other, and will be ready to meet in the same room, with you standing by.

When you acquire the second pet, make sure that you pay special attention to the first. One of the primary reasons animals in the same household don't get along is jealousy. Don't make your old pet feel that he is now a second-class citizen. Continue to take him for his own walks, and pet him the same as before.

It's also a good idea for each pet to have its own food bowl. Not only will you be able to insure that the new pet is eating well, but your old pet will maintain its sense of security. Probably after they have been together for a while, they will eat from each other's bowls, but it's not a good idea this soon.

If possible, let each pet have a private corner for a retreat. Nothing is more aggravating for a mature cat than to have a strange kitten or puppy constantly chasing and biting her tail or feet. She should have a spot where she can relax undisturbed. This will also help maintain your pet's sense of security.

One final step that should not be overlooked is a visit to the veterinarian for your new pet. Even if your first pet is vaccinated against the more serious diseases, it could still pick up a variety of skin infections or intestinal worms from a new animal that has not been cared for properly.

C&P Says Coinless Pay Telephones Are Not Being Utilized

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. said Monday large numbers of coinless pay telephones will not be installed in Maryland until at least mid-1979 because of lukewarm responses to trial installations.

The "charge-a-call" telephones, approved by the Public Service Commission May 31, would allow users to charge calls to a credit card number, their home telephone numbers or to call collect — all without depositing any coins.

C&P spokesman Walter Haschert said the 13 coinless telephones installed during the past few years have not been greatly used.

"There was a problem with identification at first," he said. "People either didn't know to use them or walked up with money in their hands."

He said the company will develop a sign to clearly identify the telephones when more are installed.

Haschert said other problems include technical revisions and negotiations of rental agreements with the owners of facilities in which they will be placed.

ARE DAMAGES TAX DEDUCTIBLE?

As a homeowner, expenses from damage or improvements may affect your income taxes. For instance: damage to your house from, say, fire or windstorm may be partially deductible as a casualty loss. After subtracting insurance compensation, deduct $100 for each accident and the remainder can be claimed as a tax deduction.

Improvements, such as a porch, garage, finished basement, and so-on cannot be deducted. However, they can be added to the cost of the house when figuring profit on the sale. So, keep good records of such expenses. Try to preserve cancelled checks and receipted bills. They will help substantiate the figures if necessary.

I'm just scratching the surface here. If this situation applies to you, I suggest you contact your nearest Internal Revenue Office for a copy of their pamphlet #530 "Tax Information on Deductions for Homeowners." It may save you some money.

GET MORE USE FROM DINING ROOM

When you stop to think about it, you'll realize that many people have what amounts to a "wasted" room or area in their homes - and that is the dining room.

We say "wasted" because many families use this area just once a day, for the evening meal, or at most twice or three times a day.

But with proper furnishings and planning, the dining room - whether it's a separate room, or an area off the living room - can be utilized more beautifully and more fully.

Perhaps you never thought about it, but you might want to make your dining area become, for instance, a charming second sitting room or a study. One way to do this would be by maybe placing your dining table away from the center of the room and adding the necessary furniture while making better use of the space within the room. Out of habit, many people furnish a dining room simply for eating but it can be more than that.

You might think about using your dining area for games, or for work, or for some other use - and furnish it accordingly. We can help you with ideas, and the furniture for this and all other rooms in your home. Stop in.

So, please feel free to stop in and see us at your convenience. We're here to serve you.

Property Tax Credit Deadline Is October 1

Homeowners who think they might be eligible for a property tax credit under the new Maryland Homeowners' Tax Credit Program have less than one month left before the October 1 filing deadline. The October 1 deadline applies to both under and over age 60 homeowners.

Robert Young, Administrator of the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program, states that this is a special reminder for homeowners under age 60 since the program was expanded by the last session of the General Assembly to cover this group, and therefore the application process is entirely new to them. Mr. Young further states that others might be encouraged to apply by being made aware of the fact that approximately 90% of the persons under age 60 who have filed an application to date will be receiving a credit.

Tax credits of as much as $900, for those over 60 or disabled, or $450, for those under 60, are available to an estimated one in four homeowners. The program attempts to limit property tax to ability to pay by relating it to income.

The new Homeowners' Tax Credit Program is the one part of the property tax relief package recently enacted by the last session of the General Assembly where the homeowner must submit an application to receive the benefit. Eligibility for a property tax credit and the actual amount of the credit are based upon the individual homeowner's family income, information only the homeowner can provide.

There are different application forms for persons under age 60 and for those age 60 and over or the disabled. Homeowners under age 60 should obtain one of the new blue application forms by telephoning the central office of the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program at 321-3750 (persons living outside of the Baltimore metropolitan area should call that same number collect) or they can pick it up directly by going to the local Assessments office, all branches of the public library and at many of the local banks.

Homeowners age 60 and over or the disabled will continue using for this year only the white circuit breaker forms which can be obtained by telephoning the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program office at 321-3750 (call collect if living outside the Baltimore metropolitan area) or by telephoning the local Assessments office.

Each form has a simple table printed on it which enables homeowners themselves to determine whether it would be worthwhile to file an application. If the total property taxes on your home (not including fixed metropolitan charges for such services as water and sewer) exceed the amount shown for your non-adjusted gross family income level, you may be eligible for a credit and you are urged to file an application. No set income automatically cuts off one's eligibility for a credit, but your tax liability increases along with your income.

Since the credit is based on income, a copy of the homeowner's 1977 income tax return must be attached to the application. If the homeowner has misplaced his or her copy of the tax return, the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program will send that person the necessary form for requesting another copy from the Internal Revenue Service. In the meantime, the program will accept the application for purposes of meeting the October 1 filing deadline, and the calculation of any credit due will simply await receipt of the copy of the Federal income tax return.

Anyone having a question about the program or needing assistance in completing the appropriate application form, should telephone the special public information number at 321-3750 (call collect if living outside the Baltimore metropolitan area). The normal hours of operation for this information number are Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Westvaco, EPA Make Tentative Monitoring Plans

Sen. Paul Sarbanes (D.-Maryland) has announced that representatives of Westvaco Corporation and the Environmental Protection Agency met last Thursday in Philadelphia, resulting in the proposal of a plan to permit Westvaco at Luke to undertake an extensive three-year monitoring program to measure sulfur-dioxide emission.

The tentative proposal, if finalized, would allow Luke mill to burn locally-mined coal during the three-year monitoring period.

Sen. Sarbanes said, "Athough there are technical details to be worked out and final agreement by all sides is not yet attained, this is a most positive step in the direction of resolving this long standing problem.

"The revised state plan was originally proposed in 1975, and uncertainty surrounding its status has had serious impact. It is my hope that a final agreement can be reached which allows the mill to continue using locally mined coal."

The meeting at Philadelphia involved representatives of Westvaco, EPA and Maryland Environmental Health Administration. Further meetings are scheduled in coming weeks after the EPA presents details of the technical proposal to Westvaco.

2, 4, 5-T Determined Safe Management Method In Forests

The latest scientific data available indicates that 2,4,5-T when properly applied is a safe, effective and economic forest management tool used to reduce undesirable competition in Maryland's forests according to Maryland Forest Service Director Donald MacLauchlan.

The Maryland Forest Service has used this method of management on state forests for at least 20 years under carefully regulated conditions. The chemical is applied by direct application to individual stems on unmerchantable hardwoods or by mistblowing to reduce undesirable sprout growth. The chemical is not used near water, food crops or in areas of human habitation.

Of the more than 130,000 acres of state forest land, less than 150 acres have been treated with 2,4,5-T in Maryland. No aerial spraying of 2,4,5-T is done on state forest lands in Maryland.

The position of the Maryland Forest Service follows closely that of the Society of American Foresters, a National organization representing 25,000 professional foresters. We concur with the SAF in their support of the use of registered herbicides in the forest environment when the chemicals are properly applied, environmentally safe, cost effective and necessary to control unwanted vegetation.

Much commercial forest land in Maryland is growing wood at less than optimum rates due in part to undesirable competition. The use of 2,4,5-T has been instrumental in forest management, allowing more land to be managed than could have been done otherwise.

Most forest areas never receive any herbicide treatment. Areas treated are treated only once every forty to fifty years. 2,4,5-T is relatively short-lived, breaks down easily and is relatively immobile. The method of use and the concentration of the chemical is important. On state lands less than ½ lb. of 2,4,5-T per acre is used.

Comparing the cost of removing the hardwood competition manually or chemically, it has been found to be too costly by hand. One comparison on an Eastern Shore state forest estimated manual treatment to cost $200/acre as compared to $20/acre with the chemical application.

Scientific evidence indicates that 2,4,5-T used in Maryland by the recommendation of the Maryland Forest Service poses no threat to humans, wildlife or the environment.

Labor Day Accidents Cause Two Injuries

(Delayed One Week)

There were a number of Labor Day weekend auto accidents but apparently only two caused any injuries.

A predawn Labor Day one-car wreck caused injury to the driver. Silven Darrell Stein, 20, Boynton, Pa., was driving south on First Street near the limits of Friendsville at a high rate of speed. As he rounded a curve, the car ran off the road and overturned. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore charged him with operating at excess speed.

A late Labor Day afternoon accident caused injury to the driver of one car and his passenger. Benjamin John Sellers, 36, and Joan Colleen Sellers, 26, both of Germantown, were apparently only slightly injured. Jimmy Lee Ringer, Rockwood, Pa., was southbound on U. S. 219, north of McHenry, when he stated he had trouble with his steering. He crossed the center line of the road and sideswiped the Seller car, traveling northbound. Ringer then went off the northbound shoulder. Cpl. R. S. Lewis investigated.

Two other accidents occurred about the same time.

Jane Ann Willis, Keyser, W. Va., was driving south on the Green Glade road just north of the Steiding Church Road. Richard P. Tasker, RD 1, Swanton, failed to yield at least half the roadway and struck the Willis car. Tfc. L. N. Smith checked the mishap.

A one-car wreck occurred on the Crellin-Hutton Road just east of Dilley Road. Paul G. Brock, Eglon, W. Va., was westbound when a deer jumped into the roadway and he was unable to avoid hitting the animal. Tfc. Smith investigated this one also.

An accident occurred in Loch Lynn at the right-angle turn of Md. 560 about 5 p.m. Sunday. William Lee Mayhew, Elk Garden, W. Va., was southbound on Route 560 when Thelma J. Pill, Morgantown, W. Va., northbound, ran a stop sign and crossed in front of the Mayhew car. Cpl. Lewis charged Thelma Pill with failing to obey a stop sign.

About an hour later there was a two-car mishap on U. S. 219 at Old 219 just south of Oakland. Lavinia D. Sullivan, Hambleton, W. Va., was northbound on U. S. 219 and started to make a right turn onto old 219. Joseph D. Donato, Tridelphia, W. Va., following, failed to note the Sullivan car stopping and ran into the rear of it. Cpl. Lewis charged Donato with failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Craig W. Baer, Salisbury, Pa. was eastbound on U. S. 40 about two miles east of Pigs Ear Road. As he crested a hill, due to inattention, he crossed the center line of the road into the westbound lane. Arthur Cicero, Pittsburgh, westbound, crested the hill and met the Baer vehicle in his lane. Cicero could not avoid Baer and the two sideswiped. Tfc. R. C. Georg charged Baer with failing to keep to the right side of the road.

CITY IN THE SKY, a musical performance with color slides, will be presented by the Hetrick Family at the Mt. Grove Church of the Brethren on September 21 and 22, at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Victor Kope, pastor, invites the public to this special event. The church is located on U. S. Rt. 219 South, just two miles past Silver Lake.

NEW TRENDS IN HOUSING PATTERNS

By Janet C. Wunderlick

Population migration and family size are two important influences on housing patterns. According to "Farm Index" there is a great out-migration to the sunbelt, the south and the southwest, away from the northern regions of the country. Within the northeast, however, there is a migration from cities and metropolitan areas to rural communities. While the population of the northeast region declined a tenth of one percent, the non-metropolitan areas grew by 7%.

Between 1970 and 1975, non-metropolitan counties in the U.S. received a net in-movement of about 1.8-million people — thus reversing a long term trend. In the 1960's, the same counties reported a net out-migration of about 3-million, on the heels of a 5-million loss during the 1950's.

Locally, migration has resulted in increasing population in all counties in the tri-state area except Allegany County. Population trends projected for Garrett County from 1970-1976 estimated a net increase of 11.7%. For the same period, Washington County was projecting a population increase of 3.3%, but Allegany County's projection was an out-migration of 2.7% or 2200 people.

Rural growth has not been even. Exclusive of urban sprawl, non-metro population growth has been most highly associated with retirement counties, with most agricultural counties still losing population.

Retirement counties are counties which have a high in-migration of persons 60 years old or older. In general, coasts, lakes, reservoirs and hill country are favorite locations. The numbers of retired people relocating in rural counties appear to be on the increase.

Such a migration of people will predict changes in counties losing or gaining population. The areas on the receiving end of the population shift are challenged with meeting the needs of a changing age mix. Increased population will mean increased needs for the support services of new housing, including fuel, water and sewer.

In counties suffering population decline, there are growing problems of too many public facilities and services, most notably, vacant and abandoned housing and vandalized, underutilized schools. The out-migration also tends to leave a large proportion of elderly people, often requiring economic aid for housing and health care.

Like population migration, housing demand is influenced by family size. Smaller households will demand more housing units to house the same number of people. While it used to take 318 units to house 1,000 people, for example, it now takes 349. Interestingly, however, while family size decreases, the size of the sought-after home does not. The August issue of HUD Challenge reports that while the three bedroom home continues to be the lead seller, commanding 55% of 1977 resales, homes with four or more bedrooms have shown a slight increase since 1968 — up from 22.4% to 26% in 1977, while those with two or less bedrooms have dropped. Affluence could account for larger homes with fewer people.

These population trends and consumer patterns will affect the future of new housing in Garrett County, especially for housing designed for one to four family members, and well suited for the elderly.

There are many problems on the housing horizon including rapidly inflating prices and the need for fuel efficient energy systems. The development of new housing will reflect local norms, but may also help to mold them, both by its quality and price. The adequacy of housing for senior citizens may help to attract an in-migration, especially since they are not dependent on jobs in choosing a home.

Janet C. Wunderlick, Community Resource Development Agent for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, is preparing a series of articles to inform the public in Western Maryland of various legislation, programs, laws, services and general issues that may, at one time or other, affect the lives of everyone. More detailed information is usually available on request. Ms. Wunderlick may be contacted through the Garrett County Extension office (334-2145) or at her Cumberland office at 11 Prospect Square (724-3320). She visits the Garrett County office at least once a week.

HARVEST MOON

The Full Moon occurring closest to the Autumnal Equinox is called the Harvest Moon. Moonrise is normally delayed about 50 minutes each night. At this time of the year, however, moonrise may be delayed as little as 20 minutes from one evening to the next. This shortened delay provides moonlight earlier for a few days around the time of Full Moon. The added light at sunset provides the farmer with additional light to see if more time is required to gather in the harvest.

MOON

Harvest Moon rises on Saturday evening. It passes through the Full Moon phase at 3:01 p.m. Saturday. Moonrise varies during the week from 5:25 p.m. today to 9:16 p.m. next Tuesday.

Also on Saturday, the moon will pass through the earth's shadow. Although not visible in North America, this total eclipse of the moon may be seen on the other side of the earth.

Tomorrow the moon will be 363,650 kilometers (226,000 miles) from earth at 5:00 a.m. This perigee is the closest the moon will be to earth this month. The Harvest Moon may even appear larger as a result of its proximity to us.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn are the visible planets to the unaided eye this week. Venus is the bright object low in the southwest sky. It sets an hour and one-half after the sun sets. Mars is in Virgo and is also low in the southwest sky. It sets about two hours after the sun sets. Jupiter is found among the stars of Cancer. It rises about four and one-half hours before sunrise. Saturn rises with the stars of Leo, just before sunrise.

DAYLIGHT DECREASES

By the end of the week, there will be 15 minutes less daylight each day. Sunrise was at 6:56 this morning. Sunset will follow 12 hours 34 minutes later at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday the sun will rise at 7:02 a.m. and set 12 hours 19 minutes later at 7:21 p.m.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. I am a widow now fifty-eight years old. I have an income of $2,100 a year from the pension plan where my husband worked for thirty-one years. This is the only income I have. I own my home which is assessed at $1,940. It was $1,700 in 1976. I live alone. Will the new tax laws help me and if so, when? How do I get the forms to fill out?

A. The way the tax credit law is written, first you have to compute your credit as though you were sixty years of age or older, and then take fifty percent of this figure if you are under sixty. Using this method, your tax liability on an income of $2,100 a year is $31.50. No credit applies to this. The tax credit will be figured on the difference between this amount and the total of your tax bill, excluding such ineligible items as metropolitan district charges. Your property taxes based on the location of your residence should be about $119.70 on an assessment of $1,940. The difference between the $119.70 tax and the $31.50 tax liability is $88.20. As you are still under sixty, you would be entitled to a tax credit for fifty percent of this amount, or $44.10.

You can get a form at any assessments office. The applications which are printed on blue paper are also available at most banks and libraries. You will find them there for the taking in display boxes on the counters. If you do not see them, ask someone — they have them.

I think it bears repeating that the final date for filing is October 1.

Q. I am writing to find out whether I am eligible for a property tax credit. I am a fifty-nine year old, single salesperson. I live alone, and the only income I have is what I earn at my job! To simplify things, I have had my house tax and earnings of last year xeroxed. I am enclosing them.

A. Your potential tax credit this year will be based on your income for last year, and you are right in enclosing a copy of your earnings statement for last year, but you should have sent a copy of the current tax bill rather than your tax bill for last year. Since you did not, it is impossible to tell you precisely what your tax credit will be this year. The best I can do is to tell you what the credit would be, assuming your tax bill for this year and last year are approximately the same.

The eligible parts of your tax bill are the county or city tax and the state tax. Combined, these amount to $378.19. The metropolitan district charges of $62 are not eligible. On your earnings of $4,562.32, which in your case is your total income, the maximum tax liability for a person over sixty is $79.68. The difference between this amount and your tax is $298.51. This would be your tax credit if you were over sixty. Since you are only fifty-nine, your tax credit would be one-half this amount or $149.26. Homeowners under sixty years of age are entitled to a credit amounting to fifty percent of the credit that a person over sixty would get.

You can use this only as a guide for a number of reasons. Your assessment may have been increased this year. The tax rate dropped slightly. And, the rollback has occurred which reduces assessments by ten percent. You will be sixty years old next year when property tax time rolls around, and you will be a "full credit" homeowner which means your tax credit will double. Not a bad birthday gift.

Q. How does a person under sixty years old qualify for a reduction in property taxes? I saw the write-up about property tax credits in the newspaper, please explain.

A. To help in getting these answers to homeowners such as this one and as a public service, the major Maryland gas and electric companies are distributing an insert entitled, "Tax Talk" along with their bills to their customers. The Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, for example, is reaching about 725,000 customers with this notice. The insert, which has been prepared by the State Department of Assessments and Taxation in cooperation with the utility companies, attempts to answer the basic questions which are still being asked.

Some of the confusion arises from the extension of the filing date to October 1. Normally, the deadline is September 1, but because of the changes in the law, the date has been extended so that everybody who is eligible can file. Also many people do not realize that they must apply if they have not previously participated in the program. The insert makes it clear that you must apply.

The notice explains that if you have any question or need any help that you can call a special number. The special number is 321-3750. By dialing this number, the homeowner will reach the telephone bank system in the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program that is manned by a number of specially trained operators who will help homeowners by answering the basic questions, such as, how to apply, where to apply, etc. Those residing outside the metropolitan Baltimore area can call this same number collect.

The insert also shows a condensed table that gives examples of income and shows the maximum tax that person in that income category would have to pay before the credit allowance would apply.

So to all readers, if you are still confused about the new property tax credit program or would simply like information on how, when, or where to apply, pick up your phone and call 321-3750. The call will cost you nothing, and the information you get may save you something on your property tax bill.

Q. My wife and I have been separated for almost a year and a half. She resides in what was our home which is still in both of our names.

Thinking herself eligible, my wife applied for the Homeowners' Property Tax Credit based upon her income and the fact that she lives in the home. The application has been returned along with a letter asking for both of our income tax returns for last year.

It is my understanding that the law stipulates that the credit is only to be granted to the owner who lives in the home at least six months of the year, including July 1, of the year for which the credit is granted. Since I do not live in the home nor meet the other requirements, why must I submit my income tax return?

A. You will not have to submit your income tax return. Tell your wife to resubmit the application and have her attach a copy of her own income tax return if she filed one. This will be all that is necessary.

The income that is considered in weighing eligibility for the credit is the combined income of all persons actually residing in the dwelling except those who are dependents according to the Internal Revenue Code or those living in the dwelling who pay reasonable fixed charges, such as a boarder.

Your wife's application and her own income tax return should be sufficient to determine her eligibility for the credit. If this does not work, write to me again.

Q. Recently, I paid my property tax bill and had to borrow money to meet the full amount. I paid the tax rather than waiting in order to take advantage of the discount.

Now I have received a second bill which shows the tax credit. What should I do with this?

A. Your inquiry is similar to many that have been received since the tax bills have been mailed. I am printing yours because you said that you had to borrow money to pay the bill, and there may be others in similar circumstances.

Your tax bill was apparently prepared before your application for the Homeowners' Property Tax Credit could be processed. Generally, if you get the application in by May 1, the credit will be included on your tax bill, and you would then only pay the net amount. You will eventually receive a check for the figure that is shown on your tax credit statement, which should be the difference between the tax bill that you have paid and the one that you have just received. Keep the revised tax bill until you receive this check. You should get it within thirty to sixty days.

I hope that the local governments will refine their system of processing applications so that persons who are in similar situations will not be forced to borrow money in order to pay their taxes and to get the advantage of the discount that is offered for prompt payment. I hope also that The City and the counties will review their system of discounts. Most of the schedules were developed many years ago when the interest paid on savings was no more than one or one and one-half percent per annum. The one and two percent discount meant something at that time. Now, it is not unusual to get six or seven percent interest on savings. In other words, I think the taxpayers deserve a better discount break for paying their taxes earlier than a mere one or two percent.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to 'Assessment Answers — James Burley' in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

FSC Schedules Four Productions, Two Dinner Shows

The Department of Speech and Theatre at Frostburg State College, in cooperation with Dramatis Personae, will present four stage productions and the Lane Center will sponsor two dinner shows this semester.

The first of the four stage productions will be Ben Jonson's Comedy, "The Alchemist." It will be directed by Dr. David R. Press and presented on October 12, 13, and 14.

A tragedy, "The Duchess of Malfi," by John Webster, is the second show of the season and will be directed by Dr. Jack W. Vrieze on November 30 and December 1 and 2.

"The Member of the Wedding," Carson McCuller's poignant drama, is scheduled for production on February 22, 23 and 24. Dr. Press is the director.

Final production of the year will be the festive musical, "Godspell." Written by John-Michael Tebelak with music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz, the show will be presented April 26, 27 and 28 under the direction of Dr. Vrieze.

All performances will be in Compton Auditorium and curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

An added attraction for the 78-79 productions will be opening night events to be held at the Lane College Center. Dinners will be served prior to the openings of "The Alchemist" and "Godspell," October 12 and April 26, respectively. Social hours will precede the openings of "The Duchess of Malfi," November 30, and "The Member of the Wedding" on February 22.

As in previous years, the Department of Speech and Theatre is offering season reservation cards which enable patrons to attend all four performances at a reduced rate.

Two lively comedies have been selected by the Lane College Center for its dinner shows. Murray Schisgal's "Luv" is set for September 28, and Raymond Hull's version of the classic melodrama "The Drunkard," will be presented March 9. Both shows begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Lane Center.

FmHA Emergency Loans Now More Readily Available

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has given Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) state directors authority to make emergency loans to farmers as soon as loss from natural disaster is confirmed.

The secretary abolished a time-consuming system in effect for several years that required county governments and state governors to request disaster loan service, then for the Secretary to designate counties where FmHA emergency loans could be made. This course was followed when damage assessment reports indicated the need for 25 or more farm emergency loans in a county.

Under the new, less time-consuming procedure, State Director, John D. Daniello, will authorize the agency's county offices in Delaware and Maryland to make emergency loans to any number of farmers showing a need for emergency credit to offset substantial loss caused by storm, flood, drought or other natural disaster. The state director will act on the basis of available information and damage reports received from FmHA county offices. Designations of eligibility by the Secretary of Agriculture will no longer be required.

FmHA emergency loan services also are automatically available where a major disaster or emergency has been declared by the President.

Mr. Daniello said Bergland's action to cut red tape from emergency loan procedure was taken under a provision of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1978, signed by President Carter August 4.

FmHA emergency loans are made to farmers lacking other sources of credit for recovery from natural disaster. Beginning October 1, 1978, amount offsetting actual loss associated with production will be made at an interest rate of 5%, and additional amounts at higher rates. '79 Wheat Program Requirements Listed

The 1979 Wheat Program contains the same 20 percent set-aside requirement as the 1978 program, Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said.

Farmers complying with the program will be eligible for a wheat loan of $2.35 a bushel, and a target price of $3.40 per bushel, both the same as the 1978 program.

Program participants who reduce their 1979 wheat acreage for grain by 15 percent from the 1978 wheat acreage will be eligible for target-price coverage on 100 percent of the 1979 wheat acreage for grain. The 1978 wheat acreage will be the acreage harvested as grain, plus credit on 1978 participating farms for underplanted acreage, set-aside, and wheat grazing and hay acreage for payment.

"Unlike the 1978 program, the 1979 program does not provide payments for grazing out or haying of planted acreage. However, producers may graze their 1979 set-aside acreage for a six-month period."

The wheat reserve commitment will continue in the 1979 program. This includes the farmer-owned reserve and the special emergency reserve for food aid commitments.

Secretary of Agriculture, Bob Bergland, called the program "a stabilizing measure designed to benefit both producers and consumers." If farmers use the 1979 program as well as they did this year, we believe the farm wheat prices will be maintained. The program is designed to be anti-inflationary. Without the set-aside in 1979, U. S. wheat stocks would be well above needs, farm prices would be considerably lower, government payments would be higher, and wheat export earnings would decrease, Bergland said.

The 20 percent set-aside means that for every 100 acres of wheat planted for harvest as grain, 20 acres must be set aside.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 102 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1978 | PER COPY 20c | NUMBER 38

Thanks Jimmy . . .

It is a generally accepted fact that the job being done by Jimmy Carter as President of this great nation is somewhat less than adequate. His worst enemy seems to be his lack of experience, which is exactly what the skeptics predicted following Carter's incredibly rapid rise to the top of the political pinnacle. He has been unable to accomplish much of what he hoped he could. Several of his decisions have not been good ones.

However, President Carter should be highly commended by all of us for his organization of the recent peace efforts for the Middle East. He bravely placed himself squarely between two tough, opposing forces in hopes of reaching a settlement. A settlement was reached.

The real success of the summit meeting, if it indeed exists, remains to be seen. It's possible that the intense, 13-day negotiations will all be for naught. However, whether it is a success or a failure, the President deserves credit for the attempt.

Unlike many other Americans, President Carter fortunately realizes the value of peace in the Middle East. Many feel that a Middle East settlement is unimportant to the United States. However, the Middle East could easily become the setting for another Vietnam, or perhaps an even greater conflict.

Though Mr. Carter is inexperienced, at least he appears to be honest, he seems to be sincere, and he is definitely a religious man. That's three points in his favor (and in ours).

Ann Leighton and Paul Ammann, students at Southern High School, have been selected as Semi Finalists in the 1979 Merit Scholarship Competition.

Potomac Edison Files With PSC For Rate Increase

The Potomac Edison Company late last week filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission a "make whole" request seeking an increase in electric rates sufficient to provide the same return on rate base granted by the PSC in the company's last rate case.

PE in August, 1977, was granted an increase in base rates (excluding fuel charges) designed to permit the company to earn a 9.16% rate of return on its 1976 rate base — capital money spent for generation, transmission and other facilities needed to serve about 119,000 customers in Maryland.

The filing made by PE today says the company's rate of return on a more recent rate base for the 12 months ending April, 1978, had fallen to 6.31%.

"Inflation, attrition and generally higher costs have taken place since 1976 and have prevented the company from achieving the rate of return contemplated in the Commission's decision . . ." the filing says.

"The company's current financial condition is critical," according to PE executive vice president and general manager J. M. McCardell. "This has been recognized by the investment analyst, Moody's Investment Service, which recently downgraded the rating of all of the outstanding company bond issues from A to Baa. Of even greater concern is the company's inability to issue new bonds or preferred stock because it fails to meet the financial coverage requirements. The rate relief requested in this application is absolutely essential if the company is to continue as a viable operating concern."

Under a law passed by the Maryland General Assembly in 1977, electric utilities in the state are permitted to use a streamlined method to obtain rate relief if their rate of return drops below that authorized previously by the Commission. Issues in the first stage of the rate proceeding are more limited than in a full rate review and a decision by the PSC is expected more rapidly.

The fact that PE needs higher rates should come as no surprise to most of our customers," McCardell added, "as we have said repeatedly in response to press inquiries for nearly six months that our return on rate base has been dropping steadily." McCardell said the company has delayed filing the rate increase application during recent months because of uncertainty about how the Commission would implement recent fuel rate adjustment legislation.

The Company says an increase of about $18 million in gross revenue will be necessary to reach the 9.16% rate-of-return level. After taxes, which take about half of all Potomac Edison rate increases, annual net income for the company from Maryland customers would increase about $9 million.

For a residential customer using 580 kilowatt-hours of electricity a month, the increase would be $4.33 a month including fuel costs in September, taxes, etc.

FACE LIFT — The historic Casselman River Bridge, located on Rt. 40 near Grantsville, is undergoing restoration that will protect the nostalgic monument. At the time of its construction it was the longest single stone arch in the United States (80 feet), built to permit the possible passage of canal boats. Once part of the National Pike running between Cumberland and Wheeling, W. Va., it provided an improved method of transportation for drovers, freighters, waggoners, horsemen, stagecoach and pedestrians. When watching its construction people speculated that the bridge would collapse when the supporting timbers were removed. So as to avoid having the general public as an audience should the bridge collapse at the celebration planned for the removal of the supports, the contractor loosened them the night before the ceremony. The next day the contractor stood under the bridge during the ceremony to prove its worthiness. The graceful stone arch has stood for the past 164 years as one of the county's most historic sites. Built in 1813, the bridge was closed to traffic in 1953 and restored with funds made available by the State of Maryland. In 1964 the Department of Interior designated the bridge as a Registered Historic Landmark.

Commissioners Hold Hearing Monday On Group Home For The Retarded

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners held a public hearing at the Oakland fire hall Monday evening to present information on a proposed site for a group home for the mentally retarded on Broad Ford Road. Approximately 75 persons attended the hearing to present their opinions, but no one spoke against in opposition to the project.

The project is being sponsored by Garrett Crossroads, Inc., a private, non-profit corporation which provides support for the mentally retarded and their needs.

The proposal entails the construction of a group home which would house eight adult retarded citizens with full-time supervision.

The Garrett County Interagency Committee on the Mentally Retarded would initiate the groundwork on the project. According to figures brought out at Monday's meeting, there is a potential need for five homes of this type in Garrett County, and the one on Broad Ford would be the first of the five.

Construction and operating costs would be funded entirely by the state.

The Commissioners will now hold the record open for two weeks to take additional suggestions and comments. A state law requires that the Commissioners hold a public hearing wherever a potential group home would be located, in order to meet qualifications for state funding.

At Monday's Commissioner meeting, the commissioners agreed to keep their part of a bargain made with residents of Hamill avenue, Totten Addition. The residents had been told that if they brought their street up to county standards, the commissioners would accept the road into the county road maintenance system.

Herbert McCrobie, administrative engineer for the county roads department, reported that required improvements had been made and the roadway will now be part of the county network.

Board Proposes Resolutions For State Convention

A major item of business of the Garrett County Board of Education at its September 14 meeting was the review of resolutions being presented by different school boards for the Convention of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education.

The Board decided to present a resolution on Project Basic for consideration by members of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education. The intent of the resolution is to insure that the reading, math and writing concepts of Project Basic are thoroughly implemented prior to burdening teaching and administrative staff with the accountability for objectives in leisure time, world of work, survival skills, and the citizenship component of Project Basic.

Among the approximately 34 resolutions being considered, the Garrett County delegation is sponsoring a resolution calling for the Legislature and the State Board of Education not to mandate new programs without state finances to support them.

The Garrett County delegation is also sponsoring a resolution encouraging the State Board of Education and the State Department of Education to utilize the recommendations provided by the State Advisory Committee for funding transportation. This year Harford County has joined Garrett County in sponsoring a resolution calling for increased state aid with greater equity for current expenses in the state. An additional resolution supported by the Garrett County Board of Education this year calls upon the State Board of Education to develop a budgetary process which provides for greater input opportunities by the Maryland Association of Boards of Education and the local boards of education. Primary Election Results for Garrett County became official Friday, September 15, and showed the following results:

In the race for State Senator for the First Legislative District, Republican Edward Mason defeated William Wilson and in the General Election will face Democrat Philip Carolan, although F. Perry Smith took Garrett County's Democratic vote.

Voters nominated the following for County Commissioner: District #1 - Republican Truman Paugh will run against Democrat David Beard; District #2 - Republican Les Hunter will run against Democrat Earl Opel; District #3 - Republican Ernest Gregg will challenge Democrat Wayne Hamilton.

Joe DiSimone took the Republican nomination for Register of Wills and will oppose Democrat Franklin Finch.

Those elected to the Republican Central Committee were Cora Bowser, Susan Crawford, Gary Fitzwater, Paul George, Terrey King, and Richard Travis.

Results for the House of Delegates, although official, have been questioned by George Edwards who lost his bid to DeCorsey Bolden by a 19-vote margin. When the unofficial totals were added up last Tuesday night Edwards was in the lead with 76 votes, but once absentee votes were counted and after two discrepancies were found and corrected in the Garrett County vote, Bolden won the nomination. Edwards has officially petitioned the Garrett County Board of Supervisors for a recount which will be done Friday, September 22 at 1:30 p.m.

Correction!

In the Sept. 7 issue of The Republican, a paid political ad for Delegate DeCorsey Bolden regarding the construction of the county courthouse addition did not contain all the information it should have:

The ad should have said "Reprinted from the April 21, 1977, Republican."

We regret this omission and suggest that readers may wish to review their understanding of the ad in the light of this clarification.

Correction Of Accident Noted

A correction is to be noted in an auto accident listed last week in The Republican.

An accident reported last week, which happened on Green Glade Road, stated that Richard Tasker crossed the center of the road and struck the Willis car, but it was Jane Willis who failed to yield at least half the road. The charge against the latter is noted in the motor vehicle violations this week.

An apology is extended.

Mrs. Howard Now 103 Years Young

Mrs. Martha Howard, Bloomington, probably Garrett County's oldest citizen, celebrated her 103rd birthday on Sunday, September 17.

Born in Shawnee, Ohio in 1875, Mrs. Howard spent her early childhood in Cumberland and Mount Savage. She recalls when the electric lights were turned on in some of the streets of Cumberland.

Since her birth, she has lived under the guidance of twenty-three United States presidents and has watched the nation travel from the horse and buggy era to the age of the supersonic jet.

Over the years she has received birthday greetings from Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

Mrs. Howard believes that "being old is no excuse for being idle." Although her physical activity is limited, she spends many of her days working on rugs or whatever else she feels able to do. She says that each morning she awakes "with thankfulness" and each night she "thanks God for my many blessings and the long life I have enjoyed."

Mrs. Howard resides with her daughter Alice R. Howard. Her other living child, Mrs. James Maybury of Leesburg, New Jersey and her husband visited with Mrs. Howard over the weekend. Her grandchildren, great grandchildren and daughters-in-law celebrated her birthday with her by their visits, gifts and telephone calls. She remarked that each year she is always amazed that so many people remember her with gifts and cards.

If she were to give advice to the aged she would say, "Get interested in something, keep busy, and be happy."

"My sincere thanks"

My thanks to all for your support and vote in the Primary Election.

I look forward to the same in November.

Sincerely yours,

Earl E. Opel

Board Proposes

Garrett County Board of Education will share additional information on Project Basic and the resolutions which they are supporting with the public at the Special Board Meeting to be held in the Southern Middle School Cafetorium on Tuesday, September 26, at 3 p.m.

Following extensive work by a staff committee composed of William Carlson, chairman; Anna Bishop, Wayne Johnson, Mrs. Wilda Massi, Asa McCain, James Thomas, and Herbert Lambert, a proposed policy on the confidentiality of student records was presented to the Garrett County Board of Education at their August meeting.

Following minor adjustments in the policy, the Board of Education, upon the recommendation of the superintendent, adopted the policy at their meeting September 14. Dr. Buser indicated that much of the policy had been in practice in the schools of the county for some years. The purpose of the policy is to insure that the private and personal life of students is given the confidentiality required by federal law and the State Board of Education bylaw covering the same topic. A detailed report on the policy appears elsewhere in today's Republican.

In other business, the Board is hoping for a November 1 bidding on the new Grantsville Elementary School in addition to the Renovation of the Dennett Road Elementary School. In reply to an earlier bid request, only one bid was received for the Dennett Road Renovation. That bid was rejected by the Board as it was far in excess of available funding for the project. The Board decided to bid the Grantsville and Dennett Road projects as single project bids and also as a combined project bid.

Albert Ringer, Assistant Superintendent in Curriculum and Instruction, updated the Board on the current activities related to reading, language arts, spelling, math, social studies, art, and music.

The Board received a draft copy of a K-5 science curriculum developed during the summer by the science committee. The committee plans to make decisions related to text material to support the curriculum at its next meeting in October. Herbert Harman, president of the Board of Education, indicated his interest in having the staff look at areas of the curriculum that could be de-emphasized or possibly eliminated from the curriculum.

The report to the Board by Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Assistant Superintendent in Administrative Services, and Richard Buckingham, County Cafeteria Manager, indicated that all payroll was now being handled through a centralized process, that bread would be bid this month, and that a county cafeteria menu would be implemented in November.

Students Named

Program. They are Lois Filemyr and Clifford K. Graham.

Lois the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Filemyr, Mt. Lake Park. She is vice president of the Student Council, treasurer of the Senior Band, a member of the girls' basketball team, the yearbook staff, Quill and Scroll, Who's Who Among American High School Students, the National Honor Society and Distinguished American High School Students.

Clifford is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Graham, Oakland. His hobbies include reading and chess.

Students in the Commended group represent the top five percent of more than one million participants in the Merit Program. Although Commended students scored slightly below the level required for Merit Program participants who were named Semifinalists and who will continue in the competition for Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1979, each Commended student has demonstrated exceptional academic promise.

A spokesman for NMSC stated that the corporation believes "the high standing of Merit Program Commended students is an attainment that deserves their public recognition, because the nation as well as these students will be benefited by continued educational and personal development of their talents."

To increase their opportunities for college admission and financial aid NMSC has offered each Commended student an opportunity to have identifying information sent by the corporation to two higher education institutions selected by the student. In addition, NMSC makes it possible for regionally accredited U. S. colleges and universities to receive home addresses for Commended students, on a cost basis, so that an institution may contact any of these promising young men and women directly.

Letter to the Editor

REMINDER — Unsigned letters to the editor will NOT be printed under any circumstances. Letters exceeding 300 words will also not be printed.

Dear Sir,

I realize this letter is like the old saying, Why lock the barn after the horse is stolen. The damage is already done to the courthouse.

I was born and raised in Oakland. Although I now live in Baltimore, Oakland and Garrett County will always be home. I still care about what happens there.

I have visited there frequently this summer and I can't believe what they have done to the courthouse. It was one of the historical and beautiful sights of Oakland. Well, it isn't anymore. I can not see why this was allowed to happen. Progress is always needed, but it could have been handled in another way.

People fight to preserve landmarks all the time. This is certainly one time someone should have done something to preserve the beauty of this old courthouse.

I truly feel very sad.

D.A.R. Observing Constitution Week

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution had its first meeting of the season Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Ruckert. There were 27 members present for a covered dish dinner.

The chairman for the program, Mrs. Paul Calderwood, spoke on the writing of the Constitution, the care of this document for more than 200 years, and its near destruction during the War of 1812 when the British captured Washington, D. C. and destroyed many valuables.

In 1955 the National Society of DAR originated the idea of devoting an entire week to the constitution, by extending the period beyond the one day of September 17. This led to the approval in the United States Congress of a Joint Resolution authorizing the designation by the president of "Constitution Week" beginning September 17 each year.

Objectives of DAR are to perpetuate the memory of those who achieved American independence, to promote the development of an enlightened public opinion, to foster patriotic citizenship and to keep the Constitution as it was intended.

During this week, WMSG radio station will be broadcasting spot announcements concerning Constitution Week.

CONSTITUTION WEEK — Oakland Mayor H. D. Swartzentruber signed a proclamation Friday commemorating the United States Constitution and Constitution Week, September 17-23. The week-long observance is proposed annually by the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) both nationally and locally. Pictured above, Youghiogheny-Glades DAR members, Mrs. Paul Calderwood, left, Constitution Week chairman, and Mrs. Robert Ruckert, right, Regent, look on as the mayor signs the proclamation. The DAR chapter then met Monday for a covered dish dinner at the home of Mrs. Ruckert who presided with 27 members present. Mrs. Paul Calderwood presented at talk on the U. S. Constitution.

Oakland Mayor H. D. Swartzentruber signed a proclamation declaring the week of September 17 Constitution Week for that town. The proclamation noted that September 17 marks the 191st anniversary of the adoption of that document, and stated that it is of the greatest consequence that the citizens fully understand the provisions and principles contained in the Constitution in order to be able to support it properly as "the greatest document of human liberty in two thousand years of recorded history."

The proclamation also urges that the people of the U. S. be deeply grateful to their founding fathers for the wisdom and foresight displayed by them in writings and adopting the Constitution. The mayor urges all citizens to pay special attention during that week to the Federal Constitution and advantages of American citizenship.

Gormania Gets New Dial Tone

C&P Telephone Company of West Virginia has announced at the end of this week a new electronic dial tone system will become operational furnishing the Gormania exchange with "precision dial tone." As the new tone is received at the subscriber's set, it will sound more high pitched, stronger, and more constant.

The new electronic dial tone is designed to more adequately meet the tele-communication needs of the Gormania area and, according to Dave Hoffman C&P's Company spokesman for the Gormania area, "will provide a higher level of service to our customers."

How to have $185,000 for retirement and lower your taxes while you're getting there.

Sure, it's a staggering sum. But the great thing is, the First National Bank of Oakland can help you get it together painlessly. If you're not currently participating in a retirement plan, just open an Individual Retirement Account here.

You can put in 15% of your earned income up to $1,500 a year. Even if you save less—say $500 a year—you'll still be surprised by the amount you'll have when you retire. And these contributions, in turn, are deductible on your Federal Income Tax return. So you get a tax reduction while you save.

Drop by any First National office and ask about an Individual Retirement Account. Or, send in the coupon below for further information.

Either way, the sooner you open an IRA at First National, the richer you'll be for it. We add interest to your savings at an annual rate of 7¾% compounded daily.

Here's an example of how much you could save:

If you save for	Annual Contribution	★ Accumulated Interest	Total at Retirement (age 59½)
10 years	$1,500	$ 8,545	$ 23,545
15 years	$1,500	$ 21,707	$ 44,207
20 years	$1,500	$ 44,646	$ 74,646
25 years	$1,500	$ 81,991	$119,491
30 years	$1,500	$140,558	$185,558

Water Pump Stolen In 1975 Recovered

Law enforcement officers in this county recovered a water pump last week which had been stolen in July 1975 from a property on Bethlehem Road last week.

The pump is the property of Sprague and Henwood Construction, Inc. and had been taken from a job site. The pump had an estimated value of $1,500.

Charges are pending in the case, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Gas Thefts Reported At Chestnut Grove

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department are investigating several larcenies which occurred in recent days. Two of the cases involve the theft of gasoline from vehicles on Chestnut Grove Road.

A neighbor, Bernard Barnard, reported that during the night of September 17, someone removed $10 worth of gas from his vehicle.

Fitzwater Auto Sales, Route 135, Mt. Lake Park, noted a theft from one of the used cars on the lot September 13. Someone removed an eight-track Am-F'm radio from a van. The radio had a $150 value.

Mountain Top Has Cloudy Skies

Variably cloudy skies prevailed over the Mountain Top the past week. Other than a thunder shower Saturday there has been little rain. Mid-Summer temperatures were noted the last two days.

Wednesday and Thursday were overcast. Friday was mostly clear but giving way to cloudy skies with a late evening shower. Saturday began variably cloudy with an occasional shower. About mid-afternoon a heavy thunderstorm broke. The rest of the day was cloudy. Sunday was again variably cloudy with the sun popping out occasionally. Monday began foggy but with clear skies after the fog burned away. Clouds again gathered in the afternoon. Yesterday morning was overcast but with some breaks in the clouds in the afternoon. Light to fresh breezes were blowing most of the day. Light to dense fog covered the area this morning.

Temperatures for the week averaged 6.5 degrees above normal due to very mild morning lows.

Highs averaged 73.4 degrees or .9 degree below normal. The highs were 81 degrees, each, Monday and yesterday. Last Thursday had a cool high of only 63 degrees. Lows averaged 57.4 degrees or 12 degrees above normal. The low was 51 degrees last Thursday.

Yesterday's temperatures with a high of 81 degrees and a low of 67 gave the day an average 13.2 degrees above normal. The low itself was 19.6 degrees above normal. The normal high for this time of the year is 74.3 degrees.

Fall begins with the Autumn Equinox occurring at 5:26 p.m. EDT, Saturday.

State To Serve As National Model For Consumer Education Program

The Maryland Citizens Consumer Foundation and the Consumer Council of Maryland have just been awarded a $40,000 grant by HEW's Office of Consumer Education to develop a model training program that will educate Maryland consumers to be effective representatives on state licensing boards. The State of Maryland is contributing $17,000 in kind to the project.

MCCF is the tax-exempt arm of MCCC, a consumer education advocacy group which was formed during the meat boycotts of 1973. It is the only statewide volunteer consumer group in Maryland. The Consumer Council is the 10 member advisory group within the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office. Ellen Kandell of MCCC and Caroline Stellmann, Secretary to the Consumer Council, will be the directors of the project. These two groups were among 738 other organizations from across the country competing for the limited $4.0 million in fund money. The project, entitled Effective Consumer Representation, is one of 62 to receive the much sought-after grant and one of two grantees in Maryland. The project office and training site will be located in Baltimore.

The idea for this project grew out of a study conducted last fall by the Consumer Council of consumer representatives already serving on occupational and professional licensing boards in the Maryland Department of Licensing and Regulation. The study examined the participation and effectiveness of consumer representatives on their respective boards. It revealed that the representatives often lacked the training and expertise necessary to make them effective advocates of the consumer interest. The ECR program will address these problems by developing a two-day training program which will provide consumer members with assertiveness skills, a basic knowledge of the regulatory process and consumer protection in Maryland.

There are presently seven cancer patients in the county receiving help from the Garrett County unit.

With the addition of the division at the Grantsville shopping center, the bank now has eight branch offices to serve the public in Garrett and Allegany county.

James White, Kitzmiller, will be manager of the branch, with Mary Jane Broadwater, Grantsville, and Lisa O'Brien, Swanton, as tellers.

Construction of the new facility started in May.

The bank branch will offer full services, including a loan department, and will be open Friday evenings and Saturday mornings in addition to regular hours.

Working at the new Grantsville Garrett National Bank branch will be, left to right, Carol Miller and James Moore, who will be helping the regular staff for this first week; manager James White, and tellers Mary Jane Broadwater and Lisa O'Brien. Beall Plans To Reduce Taxes And Limit Government Growth ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Republican gubernatorial candidate J. Glenn Beall said Monday his plans to limit government growth and cut taxes represent more of a break from the past than does Democratic gubernatorial candidate Harry Hughes.

Beall told a news conference on the steps of the State House the principal issues in the governor's race are who can best govern the state and who most represents a change from the past eight years of increasing state bureaucracy and declining industrial growth.

"I would put finite limits on growth of state government and...reduce taxes," Beall said.

He said Maryland has one of the highest per capita tax burdens in the country.

Beall said Hughes is "weak on the issues" and was in the administration of suspended Gov. Marvin Mandel when government growth began rapidly escalating.

"He's the candidate of the other party," Beall said. "He was a member of the cabinet (as a former state transportation secretary) and is tied to the programs and policies.

"We truly have no ties to anybody in state government."

Beall said a "total shake-up and reorganization of government" is needed.

He called on the League of Women Voters to schedule a series of televised debates between him and Hughes.

"It's important that the voters of Maryland have a clear perception of the issues," he said.

Beall refused to appear in several televised debates during the primaries.

He said there were no clear issues at the time.

Beall also said he will hold a news conference every Monday until the Nov. 7 general election to maintain the maximum amount of communication possible with voters.

A series of fund raisers are being planned for Baltimore, the Eastern Shore, Western Maryland, Anne Arundel County, and Montgomery County, he said.

Beall said he would like to raise $300,000 for his general election campaign, but does not know whether that will be possible.

He has only $28,800 left from his primary campaign, Beall said. The money is his share of a fund raiser that featured former President Ford.

Beall said Ford told him he would be glad to help Beall in his general election campaign.

He said Hughes' victory in the Democratic primary was a surprise.

"I thought (acting Gov. Blair) Lee would win," Beall said. "Hughes' victory demonstartes the frustration felt by a large number of Democrats. I think Hughes won because he was the least objectionable; he was not known."

He said Baltimore County Executive Theodore Venetoulis' defeat in the Democratic primary leaves a large number of groups, such as labor, up for grabs.

Beall said Democrats tend to vote independently "in times like these" and he is hoping for Democratic support in Baltimore, Baltimore County, Western Maryland, and Montgomery County.

Only about 40 percent of the Democrats voted in the primary and of those, 37 perecent voted for Hughes so 80 percent of the Democrats in the state comprise a pool from which he hopes to draw some support, Beall said.

He said Ocean City Mayor Harry Kelley appeared at a Beall meeting in Ocean City last week and was "effusive" in his praise.

CHANCES ARE ONE IN THIRTY THOUSAND that two young women from the same beauty shop could be winners of all-expense paid trips to California, when they were competing with more than 600 other cosmetologists from the tri-state area. But that's what happened when Sharon Porter, owner, second from right, and three of her operators from her Hair n' Phernalia shop recently attended an educational seminar for Jhirmack Enterprises, Inc., September 10 and 11 at the Marriott Hunt Valley Inn. Attending the seminar were, left to right, Karen Friend, Donna Sharpless, Sharon, and Vickie Berry. At the conclusion of the seminar on the latest techniques in hair conditioning, tinting and permanent waving, four names were drawn from the more than 600 attending, and two of the four were from Hair n' Phernalia. Sharon and Donna will be attending a training course at Jhirmack Enterprises Lyceum, Redding, California.

Cosmonauts Break World Record— Orbit In Space 96 Days, 10 Hours

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The record flight of two cosmonauts aboard Salyut 6 comes at a time when American spacemen have been grounded for three years and won't return to space for at least another year.

Two Soviet cosmonauts, Soyuz 29 cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalenok and Alexander Ivanchenkov orbited their way into the record books today, breaking the world manned spaceflight endurance record of 96 days, 10 hours — more than a quarter of a year.

They equaled the old record, just short of 14 weeks in orbit, at 9:17 a.m. (2:17 a.m. EDT).

The Soviet manned spaceflight activity and the American hiatus are indications of the different courses in space the superpowers have taken in the past decade.

Following the then-unprecedented long-duration orbital flights of three Skylab space station crews in 1973 and early 1974, the United States changed gears and opted for "easy access" to orbit. The Soviet Union decided to aim toward long stays in space.

To do this, the Soviets have been using Soyuz spacecraft based on 1960s technology as both manned and unmanned ferries to Salyut space stations. Each Soyuz is launched by conventional rockets and both booster and spacecraft are used only once.

For the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, "easy access" means discarding the old expendable rocket and spaceship idea and switching to the space shuttle, the reusable rocket plane that will serve as an orbital transport shuttling to and from orbit every two or three weeks.

The shuttle's initial flight test into space once was set for next March. It has been delayed by engine troubles and NASA sources report that the earliest the shuttle now could fly is next September. The agency reported Tuesday recent engine tests have gone well.

The shuttle, able to carry up to seven men and women, is designed to stay routinely up to two weeks in orbit. But once the shuttle begins operational flights carrying people and machinery to and from orbit, NASA is expected to start thinking seriously about extending its duration in space.

"What I think will happen to us is that we're going to begin to want to run longer and longer missions," NASA administrator Robert Frosch said in a recent interview. "There will come a point at which it is clearly more convenient to stay there than to go up and down, instead of commuting.

"The Soviets have decided they want to try for very long stays," Frosch said. "I'm not quite sure why. There are rumors that they're backing it up by working on a shuttle but I don't have any hard information on that."

Frosch said that with resupply flights from the unmanned Progress spacecraft, Soviet space officials have developed a fairly flexible system to keep men in space for many months.

He said the Soviets have said that permanent occupation of space is inevitable "and they seem to be following that scenario."

State May Construct Computer Warehouse

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The state is considering constructing a warehouse near Baltimore-Washington International Airport to consolidate and safeguard the state's computer systems, Deputy Comptroller J. Basil Wisner said Tuesday.

Wisner said the one-story structure would be built on land already owned by the state and would be built so that sensitive tax, criminal, educational or other records maintained by the state would be protected.

Wisner and other high state officials also told the House Appropriations Committee that consolidation of state-operated data processing systems is finally moving along after several years of legislative attempts to merge various state computer operations.

Robert L. Lally, secretary of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services, said his reservations about security of sensitive criminal records in a centralized data processing bank had, for the most part, been satisfied.

Budget and Fiscal Planning Secretary Thomas W. Schmidt noted that consolidation bills passed by the 1977 and 1978 General Assemblies were vetoed, respectively, by Gov. Marvin Mandel and acting Gov. Blair Lee.

But he said his department had implemented many of the measures contained in the consolidation bills anyway through normal department procedures.

Schmidt, Wisner, Lally, Commissioner of Higher Education Sheldon Knorr and other state officials testified before the committee about measures taken to insure the security of information in the state's data processing memory banks.

Lally, who is responsible by law for the safekeeping of criminal records, has resisted moves to consolidate the data processing systems, although he conceded before the committee that security measures have been improved.

Said Wisner: "I think we're taking more precautions now than the banks are taking."

A major phase of the consolidation is expected to be completed by July 1979, the officials said.

Wisner came under strong questioning from Delegate Frank D. Robey Jr., D-Baltimore, about the competence of state employees working the data processing field, cooperation among state agencies involved in the consolidation, security of the data, and reducing data processing costs.

"I don't think we've achieved any of these four," he said.

Wisner also responded to questions concerning recent news stories about confidential information on microfilm being found in waste baskets outside the state treasury building.

He said he thoroughly investigated the finding and concluded, "A disgruntled employee planted the (microfilm) tape and called the reporter to tell him where to find it. I can come up with no other explanation."

Later, Wisner said the "disgruntled employee" and one other worker had been fired.

Carter Explains Wage-Price Plan To Steelworkers

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — President Carter told a United Steelworkers convention today he will announce soon inflation-fighting measures — almost certain to be wage-price guidelines — that will be fair to business and labor.

"In the near future, I will announce a strengthening of our limited arsenal of weapons against inflation," Carter said in his prepared text.

The president said nothing about wage-price guidelines, but it is known that his economic advisers have recommended guidelines that will soon be unveiled.

In a response to AFL-CIO President George Meany, who told the steelworkers convention Monday that Carter should not impose wage price guidelines because workers would have to bear the brunt, Carter said:

"I can tell you today that what we do will be fair. It will not penalize labor or any other group in our society.

"At the same time," he added, "it will be tough. I will ask for restraint and some sacrifice from all."

Carter asked the steelworkers "to consider what I have to say with open minds and in a spirit of cooperation and patriotic concern."

He said he had no hesitation "in calling upon the conscience of the United Steelworkers of America and the American labor movement" to help fight inflation.

It is understood the guidelines will propose limiting wage increases to about 7 percent a year and price hikes on goods to 5.5 percent. The program would be voluntary, but the government would apply pressure through various sanctions to try to force business and labor to stay within the prescribed limits.

Carter has said consistently that he will never impose wage and price controls. But wage-price guidelines have been used in past administrations to curb inflation and have been recommended by Carter's advisers.

The president said he rejects "the policies of the past" in waging a war on inflation "by throwing millions of Americans out of work."

"Such a policy is morally wrong," he declared.

"To bring inflation under control, we must have cooperation among business, labor and government," he said. "This is indisputable."

He said that the nation has suffered from severe inflation for 10 years, but added, "Our current inflation is certainly not due to excessive wage increases or responsible government programs."

Carter arranged the flight to New Jersey for a groundbreaking ceremony for a Federal Aviation Administration experimental station, followed by the address to the United Steelworkers of America.

King Tut Exhibit Goes to New York, Tickets Selling Fast

King Tutamania is sweeping New York City.

Tickets for the "Treasures of Tutankhamen" at the Metropolitan Museum of Art went on sale Monday and since then, thousands of people have swooped down to the museum and Ticketron outlets in the area and around the country to stand for hours on slow-moving lines to grab their four-ducat limit of the 900,000 offered.

The spokesman said so far, about half the tickets have been distributed and he expected the remainder to go by Thursday.

The Tut exhibit, seen by over 5 million people in Washington, Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles and Seattle, will open December 20 and is expected to run through April 15. After that, it goes to San Francisco.

HEW Urges Second Opinion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government says millions of Americans facing routine gall bladder, cataract, uterus, tonsil and other operations should let a second doctor help decide whether the surgery really is needed.

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano announced Wednesday a major program — including a toll-free telephone number and media advertising — urging private and welfare patients to seek a "second opinion" when their doctors recommend non-emergency surgery.

Califano said the plan will protect both your pocketbook and your health. It follows recent charges by a House subcommittee that American surgeons performed 2.3 million unnecessary operations in 1974 at a cost of $3.9 billion.

The new program provides federal and state payments for second and even third opinions in Medicare and Medicaid cases. Private patients would bear their own costs, but many health insurance policies cover such second opinions.

Robert Derzon, chief of HEW's Health Care Financing Administration, told a news conference Wednesday that a recent survey of Medicare patients in New York City showed one out of four pateints got a different opinion on the need for surgery when they went to another doctor.

The American College of Surgeons said it has always "fought surgical abuses such as unwarranted operations," but it said the second opinion program should not be put into effect for Medicare unless the need is proved by pilot programs.

Derzon said statistics show major variances in the types of surgery done in different areas of the country. And he indicated concern with the rising number of hysterectomies (uterus removal) among women.

Carter's Energy Policy Nearing Passage By Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a mid-October adjournment date in view, the tempo of business is picking up sharply in the House, while in the Senate, President Carter's 17-month-old energy policy is a big step closer to passage.

The Senate, on a 59-39 Tuesday, rejected a motion to send back to committee a compromise bill calling for a phaseout of price controls on natural gas by 1985. That sets the stage for a final vote on the bill next week.

If it wins that vote, the legislation would go to the House, while two other energy bills held up pending action on the natural gas bill would be expected to slide through the Senate quickly later this month.

The House rolled through a series of votes Tuesday, including approval of a $1.8 billion authorization for international development and food assistance and $1.9 billion for the State Department and related international agencies, with only minor pauses for argument.

The House also passed a compromise bill appropriating $68 billion for the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

A bill increasing the amount of goods that Americans may bring from other countries into the United States duty-free, from $100 to $300, won final House approval.

Sent to the Senate was a $755 authorization bill for Amtrak, the semi-government agency which runs most of the country's passenger trains, and sent to the White House was a bill to extend the deadline for an experiment intended to make Food Stamp recipients work for their benefits.

But the House balked at a bill to extend a federal program designed to encourage creation of more farmers' markets where fresh produce can be sold.

In other action, the House passed legislation requiring that all the nation's slaughter houses — not just those selling to the government as in current law — knock out livestock before they are killed.

The final version of the $1.8 billion International Development and Food Assistance bill was worked out by a House-Senate conference, and now only needs a Senate okay. It provides $1.2 billion development aid to meet basic human needs in poor countries, but specifically prohibits funds from going to the Communist nations of Vietnam, Cambodia and Cuba plus the African nation of Uganda.

In committee hearings:

—The Senate Finance Committee voted to give business a tax break by increasing the amount of depreciation that can be taken for equipment from 20 percent to 30 percent.

—The Senate federal spending practices subcommittee was told by a federal strike force there is still "a hard core of crooks" in the scandal-ridden General Services Administration, and that only a fraction of the abuses may have been uncovered so far.

—A Secret Service official told the House Assassinations Committee the slaying of John F. Kennedy might have been averted if the FBI had shared with his agency its information on Lee Harvey Oswald.

Baltimore May Host International Meeting

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A plan to have the International Federation for Housing and Planning hold its 1980 convention in Baltimore depends on whether the city can raise enough money to cover expenses of the meeting, a spokesman said Tuesday.

Paul Samuel, an aide to Mayor William D. Schaefer, said the federation wants the city to pay for translators and interpreting services, an estimated cost of $40,000 to $100,000.

He said Schaefer must first see if the money can be raised before deciding if the convention can be held in Baltimore.

The group proposed plans to hold its 1980 meeting at the city's new convention center, which is scheduled to open in August 1979, during last week's convention in Hamburg, W. Germany.

Schaefer, who attended the convention in Germany, said the city's traveling display showcased at the meeting and talks by housing officials helped convince the federation that Baltimore would be an ideal location for the 1980 convention.

Women In Combat Tough Competitors

Americans will never accept the idea of women in combat, but women in the military do the men a favor by being tough competitors. That's the word from Brig. Gen. Margaret Ann Brewer, the first woman general in the U.S. Marine Corps. She took reporters on a tour of El Toro Marine Air Station in California Tuesday, telling them the corps' 4,400 female Marines will continue to be barred from infantry, artillery, tank and combat pilot positions. But she says since women study hard, they force their less scholarly male collegues to work harder, to keep from falling behind.

Rural Voters Say Baltimore Receives Too Much Money

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Rural voters in Maryland generally believe that Baltimore receives too much money from the state while city residents on the whole say Baltimore is not getting enough, a Baltimore Sun Poll released Monday showed.

The Sun said its poll of 764 registered Republicans and 760 registered Democrats showed that voters were evenly divided on whether Baltimore receives too little or too much financial support from the state. But the newspaper said geography was a larger factor in the voters' views.

The poll showed that 26 percent of the voters felt the state pays Baltimore too much; 28 percent said the state pays too little; 10 percent said the city receives what it should get, and 36 percent had no opinion.

Social Data Analysts Inc., which conducted the poll in late August and early September, said those with no opinion are either not concerned with the issue or are not familiar with it.

Among the Baltimore voters interviewed, 63 percent said they believed the state has given too little financial support to the city while 8 percent said the state gives too much. About 11 percent said the state gives the right amount and 18 percent said they were undecided.

In Baltimore County, 29 percent said they thought the state pays too much while 28 percent said the state pays too little. About 12 percent said the city receives what it needs and 30 percent had no opinion.

In Prince George's and Montgomery counties, 58 percent had no opinion. About 23 percent said the state gives the city too much, 10 percent too little and 9 percent the right amount.

Respondents in the western, southern and eastern parts of Maryland were the most critical of the amount of money Baltimore has received, with 44 perecent saying that the state pays the city too much. Nine percent said the city should get more.

The poll was weighted to reflect that there are nearly four times as many Democrats as Republicans in the state.

Vance Travels To Middle East

AMMAN, JORDAN (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance arrived in Jordan today on the first leg of an Arab tour to explain the Camp David peace accords.

Vance was sent to the Middle East by President Carter in a bid to gain Arab support and broaden the Camp David accords into a comprehensive peace in the volatile area.

The secretary of state arrived from Lajes air force base in the Azores where his plane stopped over briefly on a flight from the United States. Vance was on an uphill mission to persuade skeptical Arab moderates the Camp David summit accords were a step toward a peace they can accept.

Police Arrest 64 On Drug Charges

LA PLATA, Md. (UPI) — State police early today arrested 52 adults and 12 teen-agers indicted for distributing illegal drugs in Charles County and they expect more arrests, a police spokesman said.

Spokesman Bill Clark said 60 Charles County and four Prince George's County residents were arrested following an eight-month investigation by state undercover policeman in the rural southern Maryland area.

Clark said he did not know how many other persons would be arrested.

All but one of those suspects were taken to the La Plata National Guard Armory and booked. The other suspect was being held in Florida where he was arrested while vacationing, Clark said.

Clark said 61 state troopers gathered at the armory at 4 a.m. to receive the sealed indictments, which were returned Tuesday, and instructions for the arrests.

The suspects were charged with either distribution or conspiracy to distribute PCP, cocaine, marijuana, LSD, hashish and amphetamines.

Clark said a small quantity of drugs and several vehicles were confiscated this morning.

Bond hearings for the suspects were scheduled for later today.

He said three of the suspects were major drug distributers in the county.

"It's a pyramid thing," Clark said. "We get the people on the top and then the others along the line."

Mayor H. D. Swartzentruber signed a proclamation Friday stating that National Beauty Salon week will be observed in Oakland during the week of October 8 through 14. Pictured with the mayor are, president of the Garrett County Affiliate #219, Louise Martin, left, and first vice president and chairman of the Hair Fashion Committee, Elizabeth Shillingburg, right.

Clean-Up Operations Underway Following 14-Car Derailment

Railroad traffic was still being rerouted Monday around a site west of Bloomington where workers are attempting to clean up a 14-car derailment which occurred at 2:55 p.m. Friday.

It was reported that of the cars derailed, five were empty while nine were loaded. The entire train of 59 loaded cars and 26 empties were being pulled by five diesel engines, when the derailment occurred west of the Potomac River Bridge near Bloomington at the foot of a 17 mile grade.

The derailed cars included four loads of automobiles, but Chessie officials reported the cars were not damaged. Several other cars contained malt, lime and clay.

The train was headed from St. Louis to Philadelphia. The mishap sent a few cars down along the water and one landed partially in the water. Most of the derailed cars remained on the bridge and Chessie System officials expect the removal of the cars from the bridge to present a problem.

The train had just passed under Route 135 and was headed across the Potomac River when it derailed.

Bloomington firemen responded and checked all of the cars to determine whether they contained hazardous chemicals or substances.

Amtrak passenger trains as well as freight trains, both east and westbound, are being rerouted. Amtrak passengers are being bussed between Cumberland and Grafton.

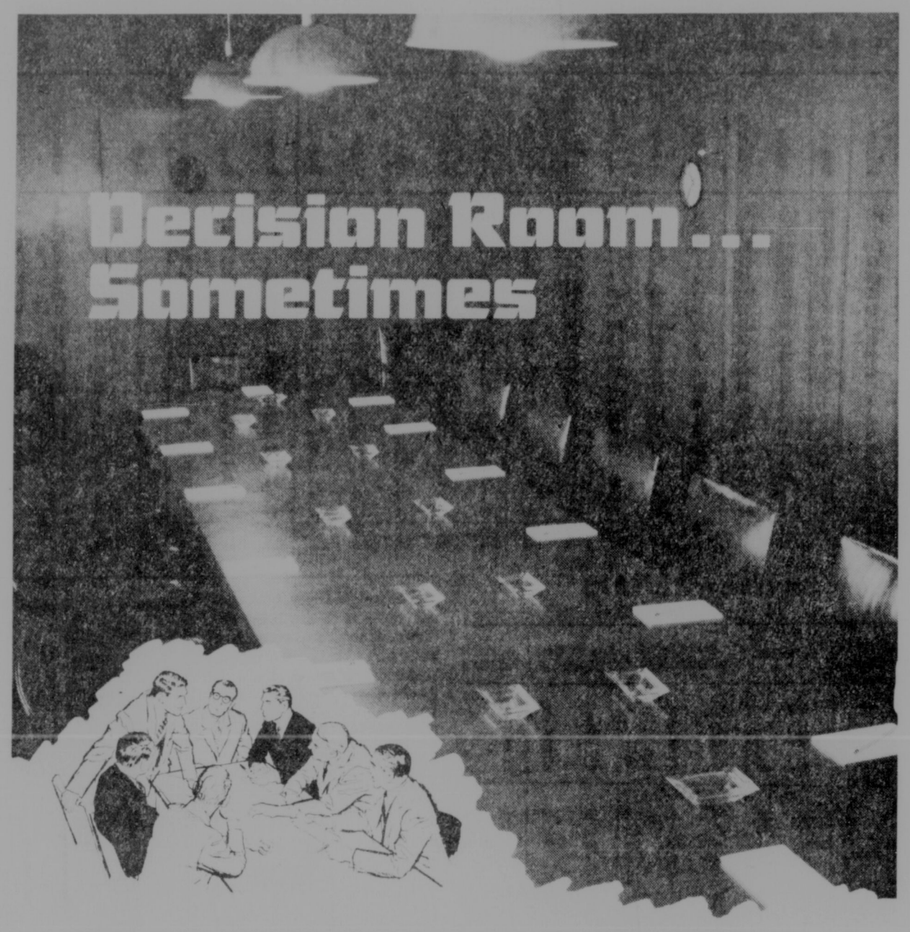
Directions:
Just a pleasant 5-mile drive from Oakland - 2 miles south, turn left off U. S. 219 on the Jasper Riley Road, and follow the signs, or turn off 135 at the Manor Mart and go through Loch Lynn to the Smouse Road, just 2½ miles and you're here.



The Board Room. Here the directors of the corporation make their decisions. Unless, of course, they already have made up their minds at home.

Decisions rarely wait for the man with the gavel to put the question. Conscientious people sort out the facts, weigh the merits, arrive at a decision.

In our homes we make the most important decisions affecting our lives. Here we decide the needs of our family, the values we cherish. Here we wrestle with the challenges of marriage, parenthood, commitment to volunteer service, dedication to causes we would embrace.

A local church is eager to welcome you into its membership, to provide religious education for your family.

Right here at home you'll decide your family's place in the spiritual life of the community.

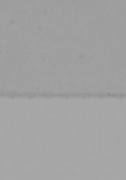
THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

OF WORDS AND POWER

Lesson for September 24, 1978

Background Scripture:
1 Thessalonians 1:2-10; 2 Peter 1:3-7
Devotional Reading:
John 13:31-35



Rev. Althouse

Halford Luccock tells us that the preaching of Charles Wesley in London was a matter of some discomfort to his fellow clergy of that city. For Wesley had been preaching, says Luccock, "not only as though he had believed what he was saying, but as though he expected those who listened to believe, and do something about it." It was that last expectation which was more than the other clergy could stand. "The last thing in the world they wanted around their comfortable parishes was something doing."

Not Only In Word

Charles and John Wesley had a reputation for that kind of preaching: the kind that resulted in doing something. They preached many sermons, wrote many treatises and Charles wrote many hymns, but the genius was in the action they provoked, not their words.

A Lutheran scholar recently conducted a joint Lutheran-Catholic study entitled, "Who Are The Unchurched?" The study was an attempt to determine why roughly 40% of the people in the USA prefer to remain outside the organized church. One of the most prevalent reasons, he found, was that many people outside the churches found a wide gap between what church people say and do about their faith.

Although we may question the degree to which that judgement is justified, we can hardly escape the admission that there is often far too great a gap between our words and our deeds. We tend to talk a much better religious game than we play; a vivid contrast to the model lifted up by Paul to the Thessalonians: for our gospel came to you not only in word, but also in power and in the Holy Spirit and with full conviction" (1 Thessalonians 1:5).

But Also In Power

Paul and his associates had spent a lot of time preaching and teaching in Thessalonica, but their effectiveness was not to be found merely in their words. "You know what kind of men we proved to be among you (1:5). The conclusive power of Paul's mission was the example they set before the new church there.

In return, the Thessalonians responded with deeds as well as words so that Paul could say with pride, "you became imitators of us and of the Lord...so that you became an example to all the believers in Macedonia and Achaia" (1:6,7).

Leslie Weatherhead tells the story of a little boy who tripped and fell while carrying a basket of eggs. A small crowd quickly gathered round the crying boy. "What a pity!" "Poor little chap!" were some of the expressions of sympathy. But a man stepped forward and, pulling a coin from his pocket said, "I care: half-a-crown." Turning to the man next to him, he asked: "How much do you care?" "In a little time," says Weatherhead, "they translated feeling into action." And beliefs are never faith until they are translated into action!

IN WHAT DIRECTION ARE WE HEADING?

Being sick has become a lot more complicated than it once was. But then our chances for recovering or being cured have also taken a sharp upturn. Diagnosis is more accurate, treatment is more effective and medicines are certainly more specific.

Your pharmacist has also taken on an increasingly new role. Where once most of the time was spent actually making up your medicines, now he or she must spend a great deal of time studying about the drugs he dispenses.

Your pharmacist must be able to give each patient important information about the medicines they take. We enjoy this new role.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

During the meeting the group presented Garrett Community College sophomore, Mary Kay Frantz, with a $150 scholarship. Mary Kay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Frantz, McHenry, is a Northern High School graduate and plans to attend Frostburg State to study Health and Physical Education. The AAUW scholarship is one of many club efforts to further the education of women. Pictured above, left to right, are Linda Freyman, AAUW Educational Foundation Chairman; Mary Kay Frantz, scholarship recipient; and Anna Bishop, AAUW President.

Heart Association Plans CPR Classes

The American Heart Association-Western Maryland chapter is offering "Heart Saver" classes to local residents, to teach the public the lifesaving technique of CPR.

CPR is a combination of mouth to mouth resuscitation and external heart compressions. A person trained in CPR could save the life of a victim of a heart attack, drowning, electrocution, suffocation, or drug overdose, helping keep the person alive until an ambulance arrives.

The classes will be held at several locations in Allegany and Garrett Counties and can be completed in one four-hour session.

For additional information contact the American Heart Association, 551 North Centre Street, P. O. Box 1114, Cumberland, or call 724-4011 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The amount of prize money awarded to local photographers in the Garrett County photo contest was incorrectly listed in last week's edition of The Republican.

First prize winners in both black and white and color divisions received $150, second place winners $100 and third place winners $75.

All photographs are presently on display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, prior to being moved to the Courthouse.

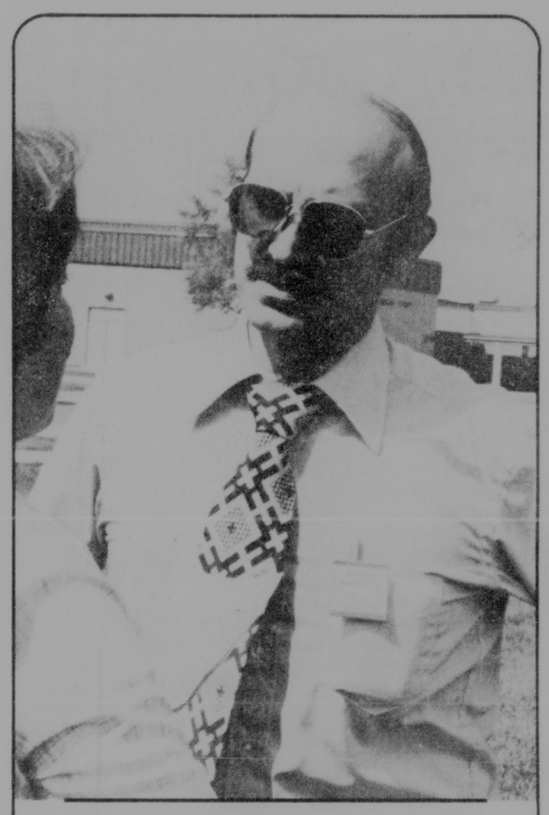
Elect Ernie Gregg

County Commissioner

My most heart felt thanks!



New Conservative leadership for Garrett County

The results of the voting Tuesday night gave my family and me one of the greatest thrills of our lives. We cannot find words appropriate to express our appreciation other than to say THANK YOU VERY MUCH.

During the primary, I promised a gloves off campaign on the issues. That is now my task, and every week from now until the election I will be keeping that promise. I consider the returns of last Tuesday night a mandate to continue the kind of straightforward approach begun in the primary, and I hope the issues will decide the election in November.

I pledge this: that my campaign will be open to every person in this county. We need your help. We need people to do all the things that make a grassroots political effort work. If you can help and would like to get involved in my campaign give us a call at 334-3818 or 334-2197.

I would like to add this word to those many Garrett County Democrats who are disenchanted with the performance of the incumbent during the past eight years and believe, as I do, that taxes must come down and better leadership is needed. We welcome you to our campaign and I ask for your vote in November. Good conservative government, efficiently run and responsive to the political character of the people, knows no labels. If elected, I mean to listen to all of the people of this county and to represent all.

Help me bring a change to Garrett County.

Thanks again and let's turn our eyes toward November

Ernie Gregg

DON'T FORGET FURNITURE IN THOSE CORNERS

Many people fail to make good use of corners when they furnish their homes. Here's one place where you can really help yourself in both a practical and a decorative way.

For instance, you might consider a cabinet of some kind in a corner. This is an ideal way to give yourself a piece to provide extra storage and display, and if you pick the right looking bacinet, you've also improved the looks of a room.

That's what's known as making the best use of the space in your home.

There are many other options for using the conrers in your rooms. You might want to think about a chest; or a desk in one corner if you don't have room for it elsewhere; or a chair-and-table in a corner.

Another good decorating ided for a corner is a console with perhaps a lamp on it and a mirror above it. This can add a beautiful spot to any room.

And, remember to think about using those corners not just in the living room but in any room of your home. Those corners give you the opportunity to increase the beauty and usefulness of your home, and we are here to give you a selection of furnishings for any or all of your needs.

So, please feel free to stop in and see us at your convenience. We're here to serve you.

Mr., Mrs. Selders To Celebrate 50th Anniversary In Bridgewater

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Selders will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception October 8 from 2 to 4:30 p.m. at the Church of the Brethren, Bridgewater, Virginia.

The Selders were married October 13, 1928 at Red House by the Rev. Charles E. Vought.

Mr. Selders is the son of the late Noah and Orlena Selders. Mrs. Selders is the former Pearl Virginia Fike, daughter of the late William and Elizabeth Fike.

Mr. Selders has a sister, Corda Sponaugle, Cumberland, and Mrs. Selders also has a sister, Bessie Shoemaker, Terra Alta, W. Va.

The couple feels their married life is divided into three time periods. From 1928 to 1952 they lived in the Red House vicinity; farming and also working at other occupations, driving a school bus and in the Produce Department of Browning's Market.

In 1952 they decided to migrate to a warmer climate and moved to Winter Park, Fla., where they lived for the next 20 years. Mr. Selders was employed by the Win-Dixie and Goodings Super-Markets, while Mrs. Selders kept busy with the Christian Ministry to the Migrants, through the Church Women United, sponsoring youth groups and teaching in the Church School.

In 1972, when retirement came, they again migrated, this time stopping at the Retirement Village in Bridgewater, Va. where they now live.

Mr. Selders raises a garden; works part time in the Crafts Department of the Bridgewater Home and is active in volunteer work. They are deacons in the Church of the Brethren and both have been involved in the life of the Church and community wherever they have lived.

Friends are invited to celebrate with them.

Terry Wilt, Timothy Ellifritz Wed June 17 At Crellin U. B. Church

Terry Lynn Wilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Wilt, Knoll Crest Heights, Oakland, and Timothy Ray Ellifritz, son of Mrs. Norma Ghustie and the late Don Ellifritz, Kingwood, W. Va., exchanged wedding vows on Saturday, June 17, at 2 p.m. The wedding took place at the Crellin U. B. Church. Rev. Charles Teets performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white silestia knit trimmed with floral Venise lace. The bodice was embellished with lace in a keyhole effect. Lace encircled the neckline and accented the long fitted sleeves. A drape of lace-edged silestia formed a hood. The circular skirt swept to a chapel train. Her bouquet was a cascade of yellow roses, daisies and baby's breath. She wore a headband of daisies and baby's breath.

Patty Hartley, Bridgeport, W. Va., was matron of honor. Her gown was of polyester knit in sea mist green. Bridesmaids were Nancy Bowmar, Tunnelton, W. Va.; Lisa Rawson, Parkersburg, W. Va., cousin of the groom; and Kathy Rhodes, Baltimore, cousin of the bride. They all wore gowns of yellow polyester knit matching the style of the matron of honor's gown. All carried long-stemmed yellow roses with ribbon streamers to match their gowns.

Junior bridesmaid was Jenny Wilt, niece of the bride. She also carried a long-stemmed yellow rose with streamers to match her gown of yellow gingham. Flower girl was Denise Slaubaugh, and ring bearer was Denny Wilt, nephew of the bride.

Best man was Bernie Sisler, Masontown, W. Va. Ushers were Terry Ellifritz, brother of the groom; Mark Barlow, Masontown; and Steve Wilt, brother of the bride. The best man's tuxedo was yellow, with ushers wearing matching mint green tuxedoes.

A medley of wedding music was played by Mrs. June Harvey, Deep Creek. "Evergreen" and "You Light Up My Life" were sung by Debbie Paige, Oakland.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Crellin School cafeteria. Guests were entertained by the band, "US."

Winona Lewis, Barbara Farmer, and Bonnie and Robin Wilt served refreshments.

The bride chose a light blue satin jumpsuit as her going-away outfit. Her corsage was of yellow roses, daisies and baby's breath lifted from her bouquet.

The couple honeymooned in the western states of Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and South Dakota. They are now residing in Kingwood, W. Va.

The bride is a 1975 graduate of Southern High School. Mr. Ellifritz is a graduate of Masontown High School and is presently employed by Republic Steel, Philippi, W. Va.

Rice-Bender Nuptials Held August 5

Miss Patty Lou Bender became the bride of Jeffrey Jay Rice on August 5 at St. John's United Church of Christ, Grantsville.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Bender, Grantsville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Rice, Penn Yan, N.Y.

The Rev. E. Lawrence Miller and the Rev. Douglas W. Garland officiated at the double ring ceremony and contemporary worship service with a celebration of Holy Communion, with the congregation participating.

Mrs. Patricia Zimmerman, Cumberland, was organist, playing a prelude of both traditional and modern wedding music. She was accompanied by James Michael, Grantsville, who served as flutist, and by vocalist Mrs. Linda Williams, Frostburg. Mrs. Williams sang "The Wedding Song," "We've Only Just Begun," Whither Thou Goest," "More," and "You Light Up My Life" prior to the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" during the service. The congregational hymn was "Now Thank We All Our God."

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white jersey knit trimmed with re-embroidered Venise lace. The empire-line bodice featured a sweetheart neckline defined with floral lace. The soft Bishop sleeves of chiffon were accented with lace motifs at the shoulderline and cuffs. Lace encircling the waist held an A-line skirt sweeping to a chapel train. A Camelot headpiece of matching lace held a fingertip mantilla of lace-edged illusion.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli, yellow pompons and baby's breath. She wore a pearl necklace with matching pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom.

Maid of honor was Miss Wendy Bender, Grantsville, sister of the bride. Mrs. Sherry Carey, Grantsville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Kathryn Aumiller, Harrisburg, Pa.

The attendants wore floor-length gowns of polyknit in yellow, peach, and mint green. A pleated jacket with cap sleeves was worn over the bridesmaid's gowns which featured a V-neckline with narrow straps and gathered bodice. Each wore a white picture hat accented with colored ribbon matching her dress, and carried nosegay arrangements of three shades of daisies and baby's breath, with yellow, peach and mint green streamers.

Miss Amy Beth Carey, Grantsville, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a floor-length peach dotted Swiss gown covered with a white pinafore and carried a white straw basket of daisies and baby's breath.

Craig Wengerd, Oakland, was best man. Ushers were John Carey, Grantsville, brother-in-law of the bride; and William Bender, Grantsville, brother of the bride. John Hughes, Grantsville, was ringbearer. The entire male party was attired in formal white tuxedos with ruffled shirts accented with boutonnieres.

Mother of the bride wore a floor-length gown of light blue polyester with a matching sheer elbow-length cape. She wore a wrist corsage of daisies accented with blue ribbon. Mother of the groom wore a floor-length gown of mint green polyester and corsage of daisies accented with green ribbon.

A buffet supper reception was held in the church social room following the ceremony. Mrs. Ellen Geis, Silver Spring, and Miss Connie Kamp, Grantsville, served the four-tiered wedding cake. Miss Susan Bender, Grantsville, cousin of the bride, served punch. Mrs. Joan Haug, Mt. Airy, registered gifts. Mrs. Linda Wengerd, Oakland, registered guests. Mrs. Deb Myers, Germantown, cousin of the bride, distributed the corsages. Miss Penney Durst, Buckhannon, W. Va., cousin of the bride, and Miss Elaine Rodeheaver, Accident, distributed worship programs.

Assisting with communion was Harry Murray, John Menges, Robert Bender and John Renner, all of Grantsville. David Bender and Dick Bender, Grantsville, cousins of the bride, assisted at the reception. Mrs. Cathi Renner, Frostburg, prepared the buffet.

The couple traveled to Williamsburg, Va., and Myrtle Beach, S.C., on their honeymoon. The bride wore a pink floral sundress with matching accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School and received her Bachelor of Science degree from Frostburg State College. She is presently employed by the Garrett County Board of Education as a third grade teacher.

The groom is a graduate of Penn Yan Academy. He received an associate degree in recreation supervision at Monroe Community College, and his Bachelor of Science degree in physical education at Frostburg State College. He also served in the U.S. Army. He is presently employed by the Garrett County Board of Education as a physical education teacher.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents in the Dunbar Room at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

A miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Gail Grant, sister of the groom, at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Rice, mother of the groom, in Penn Yan. A combination money tree shower and Tupperware party was given by Mrs. Sherry Carey and Miss Wendy Bender, sisters of the bride, at the home of Mrs. Helen Bender, mother of the bride, Grantsville.

Out-of-town guests were from New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland.

The couple resides at 110 West Grant Street, Grantsville.

June Wedding Ceremony Unites Ralph Wolfe And Celine Kelley

St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, was the setting for the June 9 wedding of Miss Celine Kelley to Ralph Wolfe.

The bride is a daughter of Benson P. Kelley, Table Rock, and the late Lula Kelley. Mr. and Mrs. Donald K. Wolfe, Pleasant Valley, are parents of the groom.

Rev. Bernard Carl performed the double ring ceremony. Miss Diane Gnegy was organist.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, MM First Class Charles L. Kelley, Norfolk, Va., the bride was attired in a floor-length gown fashioned in old lace over chiffon with a high split neckline made of lace with sheer chiffon and beaded pearls. The gown had a natural waistline with long lace button-up sleeves and ruffled cuffs. The skirt had ruffled pick-up sides and a full chapel train. The cap was lace trimmed with pearls and held one tier of illusion trimmed in lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations with a single red rose in the center.

Maid of honor was Miss Susan Kulak, Red House. Miss Debbie Ridder and Miss Mary Lou Moreland, Oakland, were bridesmaids and wore matching sun dresses.

Flower girl was Tracie Winning, niece of the groom.

Best man was Dan Ledden, Oakland. Ushers were Robert Lewis and Paul Liller, cousin of the bride, both of Oakland.

Ring bearer was a nephew of the bride, Jason P. Kelley, Oakland. Robert Mowery, Winchester, Va., nephew of the groom, carried the bride's train. Mike Berry, Gorman, nephew of the bride, registered guests.

A reception in the social room of the church followed the ceremony. A reception later that evening was given by a brother-in-law and sister of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Berry, Gorman.

The bride and groom drove away from the church in a horse-drawn carriage which had been restored by Dan Ledden.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

Most cat owners are very pleased to see their pets regularly using the litter box. But those with male cats should know that too many visits can be a sign of a serious urinary tract obstruction.

The problem begins when various factors, not all identified, cause minerals in the diet to form sand-like particles or stones in the cat's bladder. In female cats, the particles easily pass through the urethra (the outlet from the bladder) and are eliminated with the urine. In males, where the bladder outlet is more narrow, the mineral deposits are often trapped. Sometimes enough particles will collect to completely block the urethra and stop passage of urine.

The signs of discomfort are fairly typical and an alert owner should suspect the nature of the problem. At first the cat will make frequent trips to the litterbox or outside in response to bladder pressure. Urination may still be possible, but the frequent trips are a clue that trouble is brewing.

As the condition progresses, the cat will become more uncomfortable and strain to urinate for several minutes at a time. Little or no urine will pass and the owner may interpret the problem as constipation. Unfortunately laxatives offer no help and only waste valuable treatment time. As the pressure increases, the cat becomes very restless and may cry.

Complete urinary blockage is an emergency situation. Unless the blockage is removed, the animal will die of uremic poisoning as toxic wastes normally excreted in the urine accumulate in the bloodstream. At this point, professional assistance is desperately needed. Your veterinarian will anesthetize the cat, drain the bladder, and remove the obstruction.

In addition to treating the condition, your veterinarian will discuss with you steps to help prevent future urethral blockage. They include:

— Increasing your cat's water intake so that minerals are flushed from the bladder before stones form. If your cat refuses to drink extra water, the addition of ¼ teaspoon of salt to its food each day will increase water intake noticeably. Of course a bowl of fresh water should always be available.

— Revising your cat's diet. Foods with a high ash or magnesium content (those containing whole fish or ground bone) seem to aggravate the condition. Moist canned food should be fed in preference to dry food which contains only about 10% water or semi-moist food (25% water).

Very little is known about the exact cause of urinary blockage. High levels of minerals in the diet, previous urinary tract infections and a newly discovered virus seen in the bladder of afflicted cats may all contribute to the problem.

If your pet's condition does not respond to dietary or dru treatment, surgical correctio of the urethra may be re quired.

Milk Pooling Rule Suspended For Two Months

A milk pooling requirement under the Middle Atlantic federal milk marketing order will be suspended for September and October, a U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) official has said.

Herbert L. Forest, dairy official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the action suspends the requirement that a distributing plant sell at least 50 percent of its milk for fluid use before it is eligible to have all its milk pooled and priced under the order. The suspension has been in effect since April.

The suspension was requested by Michaels Dairies, Inc., and Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers. They told USDA that continuing downward trend in Class I — or fluid-use — milk sales means that some plants will not be able to meet the 50 percent pooling requirement. As a result, some dairy farmers' milk would not be priced and pooled under the order.

Notice that USDA was considering the suspension was published in the August 15 Federal Register. Comments were invited through August 22. One comment opposing the suspension was submitted, Forest said.

Copies of the suspension order are available from Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine, 300 N. Lee Street, Room 320, Alexandria, Va. 22313; or from the Dairy Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250.

Corn, Sorghum Loan Program Reopened

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) recently reopened its 1977 corn and sorghum loan program for producers who wish to put their grain into the reserve. The program will be open until September 29. Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland ASC Committee said the extra time will give farmers the opportunity to put additional quantities of grain immediately into the reserve. Record harvests of corn and sorghum are expected this year, and forecasts of a 6.5 billion bushel corn crop has caused some weakening in corn prices.

"Storing the corn will help strengthen these prices and encourage more orderly marketing of grain," Crowl said.

The reserve program takes grain off the market for a period of up to three years, or until market prices reach stated levels. It offers farmers short and long term benefits to counter the price depressing effects of surplus stocks. Farmers receive annual storage payments in advance and also reap the benefits of increased grain prices.

To keep the grain in good condition during storage, farmers are allowed to rotate stock. "If the producer wants to take out the old grain and put in new grain, he may do so with prior approval of the County ASC Committee, as long as he maintains quantity and quality."

The ASCS official said ample storage is important to the success of the reserve program. Farmers are encouraged to get their crop storage and drying units in shape so they can participate in the program. For details of the farmer-owned reserve program, contact the local county ASCS office.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

TOO MUCH NOISE HELD HAZARDOUS TO HEALTH

Noise is unwanted sound.

Our civilization may be the world's most advanced, but it also is the noisiest. Sometimes our surroundings are so noisy that our health can be affected.

Noise is no longer a problem confined to factories and airports. Homes are noisier today. Bigger and noisier appliances are being crammed into homes. There are more extensive heating and cooling systems, more TV and hi-fi sets, more of just about everything that adds to noise. And the children, as always, are often noisy.

Noise can rob us of sleep, make us tense and jumpy, and lower general efficiency. Some doctors speculate that there is a relationship between noise and stress ailments such as peptic ulcer, heart disease, colitis, high blood pressure and migraine.

The American Medical Association points out that there is little most of us can do about noises out of doors in the neighborhood, but that it is possible to lower the noise level in the home. You can't stop passing trucks and busses, airplanes overhead, the neighbor's power lawn mower or the factory whistle. But you can use air conditioning that will permit you to keep windows closed most of the year. Make sure windows are tight fitting and weather-stripped. Landscaping with trees and shrubs plus walls and fences has been overrated as a sound barrier, but might be of some help.

Indoors, carpeting on the floors, draping of large expanses of glass or hard wall surfaces, upholstered furniture and pillows all will soak up sound. An acoustical ceiling in the noisiest rooms, particularly the kitchen, can help.

Pneumatic door closers will eliminate slamming. A drop or two of oil will silence squeaking hinges. Properly installed and maintained plumbing will hold water sounds to a minimum. Cork or rubber mats under dishwasher, washing machine or dryer will reduce vibration.

Take a short tour of your home listing the potential noisemakers, and then work out a program of simple, inexpensive changes that will make your home a quieter and more pleasant place.

Dentist's Mailbox

By Harris Heyden

Q. How bad are sweet drinks for children? What juice do you suggest?

A. Sugar containing liquids are all about the same as far as their decay causing abilities. The more sugar they contain the greater their decay causing potential. Natural juices that have no sugar added are better than juices or drinks that have sugar added. Sugar free liquids would of course be best of all.

Any liquid with natural or added carbohydrates and sugars should never be held in the mouth or used to rinse the mouth. The use of a straw for drinking would also help decrease the exposure of the teeth to the sugar in the liquid.

Sugar in liquids are a lot less likely to contribute to tooth decay than sugar in foods that are soft and cling to the teeth. The consistency of the sugar containing food or liquid is more important than the amount of sugar in the foods.

The frequency that sugar containing foods are eaten is also important so that a lot of little sugary snacks are worse than one big sweet meal. Brushing immediately after eating anything containing sugar is always a good idea.

Q. I have a filling that is loose. Does it have to be "grinded" more to refill it?

A. Probably, because there is usually some tooth portions broken when a filling that has been in for any length of time suddenly becomes loose or breaks. New decay around or near a filling can also cause it to become loose which would require the filling as well as the tooth decay to be removed.

Lawyer Referral Service Announced

Vincent L. Gingerich, President of the Maryland State Bar Association has announced the introduction of a state-wide Lawyer Referral Service. He stated that any person in Maryland can obtain the name and telephone number of an attorney qualified to assist a prospective client by calling the toll free number 1-800-492-1993.

All attorneys participating in the state-wide lawyer referral service will furnish a one-half hour consultation for $10.00. Any additional work and the fee to be charged will be as agreed between the attorney and client. President Gingerich stated that this program will enable the public to obtain attorneys qualified to assist in all areas of the law. Some of the counties and Baltimore City have operated Lawyer Referral Services in the past and these services will continue. The new service will augment these services and furnish service state-wide. James D. Nolan, Towson attorney and Chairman of the State Bar Committee working on this project, pointed out that the attorneys signing up for this program have the opportunity to designate their areas of preference as to fields of law. Thus, prospective clients would be assured that the attorney to whom they are referred would be knowledgeable in these subjects.

Center Releases Policy For Free, Reduced Meals

The Garrett County Child Development Project, located at 104 East Center Street, Oakland, today announced its policy for free and reduced price meals for children enrolled in their child care center. Guidelines may be examined at the Child Development Center, according to Linda Wengerd, director.

The Child Care Center receives funding for meals from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Ms. Wengerd said. Receipt of this funding is dependent upon the economic level of the individual child in the center. Children from families whose income is at or below the eligibility guidelines are eligible for free or reduced price meal reimbursement. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30% of gross income, special education expenses due to the physical or mental condition of a child may apply.

Application forms and income guidelines have been sent to all Center parents. The information on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of eligibility, according to Ms. Wengerd. Applications may be submitted any time during the year.

If a family-size income changes, the family must file a new income verification form at the Center.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of the Child Care Food Program, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in the Oakland Center and may be reviewed by any interested party, Ms. Wengerd said.

Researchers at West Virginia University hope to devise an inexpensive solar collector that homeowners in this region may use to help heat their dwellings. Present collectors operate with water but WVU's collector would use air as a transfer medium to reduce costs and weight and to avoid water leaks and frozen pipes. The researchers also hope to design the collectors to supply hot water for household use in the summer. John L. Loth, foreground, directs WVU's solar research lab located on the roof of the Engineering Sciences Building. Project researchers in the background are G. Michael Palmer, left, and R. Srivatsan, aerospace engineering graduate students.

Two Are Injured In Auto Mishap

Two persons sustained injury and were admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a one-vehicle accident late Saturday night.

Officials at the hospital said Gregory A. George, 24, of Weirton, W. Va., was listed in "satisfactory" condition after being treated for a broken hand and clavicle. Monetta Stevens, also of Weirton, was listed in "fair" condition after treatment for a broken jaw. Both were released from the hospital Monday afternoon.

The accident, State Police said, occurred about 11:15 p.m., as the two were traveling east on Penn Point Road. George apparently failed to negotiate a curve, ran off the right side of the road, and struck a tree broadside.

The two were transported to the hospital by Southern Rescue Squad. Members of the Deer Park Fire Department were also on the scene.

George was charged with failure to control the speed of a vehicle while negotiating a curve, State Police said.

THE EVOLUTION OF YOUR MIND
By Janet C. Wunderlick

Do you know that your disposition and personality is the product of the development of several sections of the human brain? In fact, based on recent research, it has been learned that the human characteristics of empathy and altruism are actually a very recent product of the evolutionary development of the prefrontal cortex. In evolutionary terms, recent means during the last several thousand years.

As human beings we seem to be acquiring the mental stuff of which we imagine angels are made. That is the finding of Paul MacLean, MD, chief of the Laboratory of Brain Evolution and Behavior at the Poolesville, Maryland, facility of the National Institute of Mental Health. MacLean, noted as one of the world's foremost students of the mysteries of the brain, has been observing animals in different stages of evolution to learn about the human mind and the development of human personality.

Much of human behavior, in fact more than we had realized, is controlled by our primal (the R-complex) brain which was the first to develop and is exemplified in the lizard's brain. As lizards scatter wildly, running along branches, leaping from twig to twig, in his laboratory, Dr. MacLean explains that the lizard's brain, about the size of a small pea, has a counterpart in the human brain. It controls such reptile-like behavior as "place preference," expressed by Archie Bunker's gyrations when anyone else tries to sit in his chair; insistence on routines, obeisance to bureaucratic procedures and legal precedents, dependence on ritual and superstition, and slavish imitation of fads and fashion.

In some people this reptilian area of the brain appears to dominate. The result is "a will to power, a drive to be on top, to be number one, or the lizard on top; he is the one who does the most pushups." Look at the man running for president — from the standpoint of wanting to be the lizard doing the most pushups — where could you find a better example?

MacLean maintains that the second evolutionary phase was the development of the emotional mind or the limbic system, which first developed in early mammals. And finally, there is the "new brain," the neocortex, which evolved in later mammals and houses the intellect.

Human beings retain the features of each of these brains, giving us a "mind of three minds" — a primal, an emotional and a rational mind. To further complicate matters, although the two lower brains, like the lower animals, have no speech, they are quite capable of making their personaility felt most emphatically — in the manner of the lizard defending its twig. In fact, researchers are finding that the influence of the R-cortex and the limbic system may be even more important to personality and behavior than the neocortex or the rational mind.

The neocortex, then, "is the mother of invention and the father of abstract thought," says MacLean, "but it may not be the source of our basic personality." Laboratory experiments in which different portions of the brain are removed from animals from different evolutionary levels of development indicate that the non-verbal, non-rational parts of ourselves, the primal and emotional minds, play a much larger role in our behavior than we realize.

The reptile brain has its limit, "especially when it comes to learning new tricks," says MacLean. Over millions of years, a second brain appeared as reptiles evolved into mammals. With the emotional second brain, mammals developed a new relationship between mothers and their young. In the reptile world it is each animal for himself. The offspring of the Komodo dragon, a ten-foot relic of prehistoric times, still spend their first years in trees to avoid being devoured by their fellow dragons. In contrast, says MacLean, the first commandment of the mammal is "thou shall not eat thy young or other flesh of thine own kind." Thus, with the role of parent came a new brain, the paleomammalian brain — or to use MacLean's phrase, the limbic system.

Love is an invention of the mammal, according to MacLean. In this new unity of mother and children one can divine the "evolutionary roots of unity of the family, unity of the clan, unity of larger societies, as well as the emotional intensity of feelings attending separation, isolation and the threat of annihilation."

What happens when the limbic system is missing? Laboratory experiments bear out MacLean's theory that the loss of limbic tissue interferes with the ability to mother. In another experiment, a young female hamster, who had had a limbic portion of the brain removed, refused to play with her brother. The ability to play, MacLean says, is another innovation of the limbic system. MacLean seems to have a special feeling for the limbic brain since he learned that it was the seat of our emotions and the sense of identity.

Carol Kahn, in her article "The Animals of Your Mind," said that upon reading about MacLean's concept of the triune brain she felt that finally we have arrived at the explanation for the vagaries and contradictions of human behavior. "The co-existence of the beast and the angel in all of us is the answer to how the same machinery could design the unicorn tapestries and the neutron bomb, launch gaily colored air balloons and hunter-killer satellites, and build gothic cathedrals and gas chambers."

MacLean concludes that the thing that makes us individuals must be this blending, this combination of external and internal experiences. The fact that our power to empathize with others is the most recently developed must mean, in evolutionary terms, that we have reached a point in evolution where we must care for others as well as ourselves and that this altruistic power is increasing in our mental capacity.

Straight Talk About Aging

MR. JACKSON

By Dr. Matthew Tayback,
State Director on Aging

I recently heard of an inspiring person, a senior citizen who has suffered hardships and afflictions that would shatter many weaker — and younger — people.

Yet after all the adversities that have plagued his life, this extraordinary man has triumphed with a vigor and strength that are nothing short of inspiring. Mr. Jackson is his name.

Mr. Jackson was born in Kentucky over 90 years ago. His family was large and, at times, violent. He had four brothers, seven sisters and a preacher-father who occasionally directed his "hellfire and brimstone" fury toward his wife, Mr. Jackson's gentle and quiet mother.

Once when that happened, Mr. Jackson — then only a boy of seven — tried to defend his mother. His choice of weapons was a shotgun, and his choice of action was drastic: he determined to kill his father.

Realizing that her son needed a calming, anchoring influence, Mr. Jackson's mother took him to her own father. The old man had a profound effect on the boy and Mr. Jackson today quotes his grandfather often and well.

Mr. Jackson ran away from home at 11, first signing on with a circus as a barker, then joining the army (at 15!), then finding work as a lumberjack, coal miner, cowboy and farmer. At a more mature age he operated his own welding business.

At 19 he married a girl 16. They had a daughter a few years later, but soon after her birth his young wife died. Her death was only one of many sorrows to come.

Over all his years, Mr. Jackson had kept a journal of his experiences, thoughts and adventures. His intention was to compile its entries into a book, a book that, as he says, "would save the world." The book was not to be.

A year or so ago, a fire in his Fork, Maryland, apartment destroyed the journal, the work of years. It took with it his welding equipment, his tools . . . everything he owned. A few months later, cancer took his daughter.

Today, Mr. Jackson lives in a Baltimore housing complex for the elderly. Now he himself has cancer and is in constant pain.

Yet, somehow, it is as though these afflictions do not exist. He walks every day — "to keep in shape," he says. He joins noontime "Eating Together" gatherings. He has a great sense of humor, one which he uses to help him accept his condition.

"I'm getting so humpbacked I'd have a hell of a chest if I'd turn my head around," he once quipped.

And he's full of maxims forged over his decades of experience.

"Patience," he pronounces, "is of the essence. People in a hurry pass up more good things than they catch up to."

Naturally, Mr. Jackson is very concerned about death. "I expect to die every night," he admits. But still he treasures a sense of future.

He's not, for instance, a city person. He'd like to change his situation and he hasn't given up the hope that he can.

"I'd like to live as I damned please," he says. "Get a place of my own even if it was a shack; a place where I could walk on God's earth, not on this concrete earth; a place where I could see the squirrels run and hear birds sing. I still hope to have it happen. No specified time."

The need to nurture hope in the face of adversity is just one of the lessons others can draw from the life of this inspiring man, a man who has been able to call forth an immense capacity to maintain a dignified independent life despite great odds.

George Bird Grinnell, American writer and explorer of the West, was born on Sept. 20, 1849. This is actress Sophia Loren's 44th birthday.

On this day in history:

In 1519, Portuguese navigator Ferdinand Magellan began a voyage to find a western passage to the East Indies.

In 1873, financial chaos forced the New York Stock Exchange to close. It remained closed for 10 days.

In 1881, Vice President Chester Arthur became the 21st American president following the gunshot death of James Garfield.

In 1974, it was estimated 1,000 persons had been killed in Honduras by Hurricane Fifi. That figure was increased to 5,000 the following day.

A thought for the day: British philosopher John Locke said, "It is one thing to show a man that he is in error, another to put him in possession of the truth."

Tracks Constructed At Derailment Site

Tracks were built Sunday around the 14-car derailment which occurred shortly before 3 p.m. Friday near Bloomington so that normal rail traffic could resume.

Railroad crews were called out at 2:55 p.m. Friday when 14 cars of an 85-car train being pulled by five diesels left the track. The mishap occurred just west of the Potomac River Bridge at Bloomington, at the foot of the 17-mile grade.

Most of the derailed cars remained on the bridge, and crews began again Monday attempting to place the cars back on the tracks.

All railroad service had returned to normal, including Amtrak passenger service, after tracks were built around the derailment site.

Health Department Offices Are Moved

The Administrative offices of the Garrett County Health Department are now located 2½ miles north of Oakland on U. S. Route 219, in the former A. & A. Construction office building, according to a release from the Health Department.

Information pertaining to birth and death records may be obtained at this location.

All other services are provided at the Garrett County Medical Center at 311 North Fourth Street, adjacent to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

"School Night For Scouting" Scheduled Next Wednesday

Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America, including the Deep Creek District, is holding its biggest recruiting effort of the year, School Night For Scouting, in area schools on Wednesday, September 27, at 7 p.m.

Any boy who is eight years old or has completed the second grade can become a Cub Scout, and a boy who is 11 years old or has completed the fifth grade can sign up to be a Boy Scout. Any present Cub or Boy Scout that recruits a new boy during this recruiting drive will be awarded a Scouting-Frisbee.

Boys who want to get into Scouting should check the list below for the closest school where School Night for Scouting is being held. Boys should be sure to come with a parent.

The following is a list of schools where School Night for Scouting is being held and the hosting Scout Unit and Unit Leader:

Accident, Pack 80, Owen Dolan; Red House, Pack 34; Broad Ford School, Pack 31, Ben Thorne; Dennett Road, Pack 70, Ken Steyer; Grantsville, Pack 49, Wendel Wilburn; Friendsville, Pack 45, LeLand McGhee.

At each participating school a volunteer coordinator and representatives from the Pack and Troop in the area will be available to present a short program and answer questions about the Scouting program. Last year over 400 boys joined the Scouting program during "School Night" throughout the Council. This year's projections indicate the possibility of nearly 500 new members.

For more information about Scouting's year-round program of personal and mental fitness, character development, citizenship training and fun, contact the local school of the headquarters of Potomac Council in Cresaptown at 728-1300.

District Chairman, Pat Fischetti, said that this is an ideal time for boys who want to get into Scouting to sign up and get into a Unit since planning and activities are just beginning for another year.

Seniors Seeking Entry Into Academies Should Make Application Now

Maryland high school seniors interested in competing for Congressional nomination to one of the U. S. service academies should apply before October 31, Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has announced.

Applications should be mailed to Senator Mathias by students interested in entering the U. S. Naval Academy, the U. S. Military Academy, the U. S. Air Force Academy and the Merchant Marine Academy next year.

The nominations are strictly competitive and are based on the recommendations of the Senator's Academy Review Board which evaluates the merits of each applicant. College Entrance Examination Board (SAT) scores of 450 verbal and 600 math, or a composit total of 1050, are required to be eligible for an interview.

The Board makes its decision following a review of each applicant's academic record and personal interview. Ten nominations are made for each academy vacancy. The final decision on appointment is made by each service academy.

Students interested in obtaining further information and application materials should contact Ms. Linda Strine in Senator Mathias' Baltimore office — 1616 Federal Building, 31 Hopkins Plaza, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

Real Estate

INGREDIENTS FOR INVESTMENT

Housing prices have gone up steeply since the mid-60's for two basic reasons. First, the shortage of new savings made it difficult to finance private housing, and the number of new housing units built each year was far below that what it should have been. Since there is a steady growth in population, this puts pressure on our housing reserves and prices rise. Second, there have been inflationary increases in the labor and materials costs that go into building a house. In most urban areas, land values continue to go up each year, too. Historically, real estate values have always increased faster than the cost of living. Thus, it is an excellent inflation hedge. So here are the ready-made ingredients for a good investment. We all need housing of some kind, and according to the experts, the price of housing will continue to go even higher, though perhaps, not as dramatically as in the past few years.

Another Rathole . . .

As if inflation is not bad enough already, the federal government continues to create new unnecessary projects which cost millions of dollars. One such rathole making the news these days is the House Assassinations Committee.

It was reported just yesterday that this committee has spent $5,000,000, primarily on the John F. Kennedy assassination, and has now requested an additional $800,000 to continue its investigation, an investigation which so far has uncovered practically nothing significant concerning the case. The committee's request will no doubt be obliged.

Several points might be made about this expensive exercise in futility.

One is that there are many unsolved murders around the country. Each case involves the loss of a human life. John F. Kennedy was the President of the United States, but nonetheless, just another human life. Do not all of these other victims deserve such a thorough investigation? In fact, the JFK case could hardly be classified as unsolved.

Secondly, the victims in these cases are dead, and they will remain dead, regardless of the degree of investigative work. The results of the crime cannot be changed.

Another point helping to make the JFK investigation fruitless is the fact that the prime suspect is dead. Even the assassin's assassin is dead! In a manner of speaking, the government has a dead man on trial.

Finally, the government could surely find a thousand or so better uses for that five or six million dollars. There doesn't seem to be nearly enough money for things such as education, energy research, medical research, etc. It is a question of priorities. This money should be spent on the living. Or perhaps it should not be spent at all. Not spending that six million would be a small step in the right direction of reducing the federal budget and thus, taking a swat at the rampant inflation which touches the lives of all of us.

S. J. Groves To Relocate Rt. 46 For Dam Project

The S. J. Groves and Sons Company, Shiremanstown, Pa., has been awarded a $6.4 million contract to relocate a 3½-mile section of West Virginia Route 46 in connection with the Bloomington Dam construction.

A spokesman for the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers said Tuesday Groves is awaiting a notice to proceed with the work, which is expected to get underway any day now.

The section of the road, which begins at the dam quarry and continues until about one mile below Elk Garden, must be relocated because that area will be flooded when the dam reservoir is filled sometime in 1980.

Traffic on the two-lane road will continue by using an access road in the area during the relocation construction.

The Bloomington Dam is now about 40 percent complete. Other major projects remaining are a $2 million recreation facility and a contract to clear vegetation from the reservoir area.

The project's first major hurdle was to remove railroad tracks from the reservoir area before the dam construction could begin. The relocation of Route 46 was considered another major problem.

Once completed, the recreation work project will include a boat launch, picnic areas and camping facilities.

S. J. Groves and Sons are also doing work on the dam spillway and dike.

SHA Will Be Ready For Snow By October 15

All equipment used by the State Highway Administration to battle winter snows will be ready for use by October 15, according to William Goldsborough, resident engineer.

Maintenance and necessary repair work is presently underway on all equipment. SHA will be readying two large snowblowers, new last year, in addition to the three snow blowers attached to front end loaders.

Other equipment includes two ten-ton trucks with V-plows; three graders with V-plows and regular blowers; and 15 five-ton trucks equipped with snow plows and spreaders. The local crews may also call in as many as ten other trucks with plows, rented from private contractors.

Under construction now is a 40,000 square feet asphalt pad at Keyser Ridge for storage of sodium chloride. The state will be constructing a domed top over the storage area next year. Some 10,000 tons of chemicals will be stored at Oakland, Route 50 near Red House; Route 135 at the top of Backbone Mountain; Keyser Ridge, Finzel (along Route 46); Accident and Friendsville. State crews use only sandstone or limestone as abrasives.

SHA equipment from all over the state is on standby for use in Garrett County, when not needed in their own areas.

SHA employs 36 men for road and mechanic work in Garrett County.

Joseph McCaffrey To Be Featured Speaker To Kick Off Autumn Glory

Joseph F. McCaffrey, one of Washington's best known correspondents, will be the featured speaker at the eleventh annual Friends of Garrett County Dinner on Wednesday, October 11. The dinner, which will kick-off the 1978 Autumn Glory Festival, will begin at 6:00 p.m. at the McHenry House at the Wisp Ski Area, Deep Creek Lake.

Known as "Dean of Capitol Hill reporters," McCaffrey probably has made more radio-television appearances than any other network or local news person in Washington, D. C.

Last year Mr. McCaffrey was inducted into the Sigma Delta Chi Washington Hall Of Fame, along with columnist Joseph Alsop and Marvin L. Arrowsmith, Washington bureau chief of the Associated Press.

This year marks his 20th anniversary broadcasting "Today In Congress," the only program of its kind on the air devoted to floor and committee proceedings of the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Described by former President Gerald Ford as "one of the fairest reporters in the business" and by Speaker of the House Thomas O'Neill as "a man with the uncanny ability to look into the future," McCaffrey now appears exclusively on Washington's WMAL-AM (63) and as a much-in-demand after dinner speaker.

McCaffrey hosts a once a week Congressional interview program, "McCaffrey's Washington." As an observer and commentator McCaffrey appears each evening as a guest on the top rated drive time "Two For The Road" program and each Sunday night at 6:55 on his five minute feature "Eye On The Hill." His commentaries are frequently incorporated in regularly scheduled news programs on WMAL, both during the week and weekends.

While a television commentator and interview host, McCaffrey won five Emmys from the Washington Chaper of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. He has also been presented with the Academy's prestigious Ted Yates Award for outstanding reporting.

He has been president of the Radio/TV Correspondents' Association and Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Radio/TV Correspondents' Galleries of the Congress. The first non-network reporter ever elected to the office, McCaffrey is the only one ever chosen to serve two terms.

For tickets or more information about the dinner persons should contact Page Shanklin at 3900 Thayer Center, Oakland.

Mapco Plans International Ceremony For Mettiki Dedication October 5

The new multi-million dollar Mettiki coal mine of Mapco, Inc., based in Tulsa, Oklahoma, will be dedicated in an international ceremony Thursday, October 5.

The mine, which has cost an estimated $50 to $100 million to construct over the past two years, is located not far from the Table Rock area in the extreme southwest portion of the county.

Mapco will be joined in the dedication ceremony by representatives of both Nippon and Kobe Steel Companies of Japan, the beneficiaries of two-thirds of all the coal that will be produced at the mine, which is expected to be the most productive in Western Maryland's long coal history.

The Japanese steel firms, two of the largest six steel companies in the world, signed a contract with Mapco two years ago to use two-thirds of the metalurgical coal produced at the mine over the next 12 years.

Mapco, which operates five other coal mines in West Virginia and Kentucky, has also sent invitations for the dedication to the National Coal Association, state and local governments and railroad executives.

TOTAL LOSS — A tanker truck carrying kerosene was declared a total loss after it upset and rolled over several times last Thursday morning. The accident occurred at 10:30 a.m., according to Garrett County Central Alarm officials, on the Oakland-Sang Run Road near Deep Creek Lake. The driver, Floyd Taylor, 35, was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Mr. Taylor said the vehicle lost its brakes and he had the option of crashing through a garage or attempting to ditch the vehicle. He chose the latter. He was driving the truck for Gulf distributor J. P. Riley and Company. Deep Creek and Accident firemen responded to the mishap and remained at the scene for two hours. Southern Rescue and State Police were also on the scene and Cpl. R. S. Lawis investigated for the State Police.

Edwards Concedes House of Delegate Race To Bolden

George C. Edwards of Grantsville Friday conceded defeat in the September 12 Republican primary for the House of Delegates from District 1A when the official recount of the Garrett County voting machines left him 14 votes shy of Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden.

Edwards, 39-year-old county commissioner and chairman of the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland, gained five votes in Friday's recount in the Knights of Pythias building in Oakland where the 39 voting machines are being stored temporarily until the renovation of the Court House is completed. But that still left him 14 votes behind Del. Bolden, who has served in the House of Delegates for the past eight years.

The one mistake found in Friday's recount was a nine instead of a four on one machine which had been used at the Kitzmiller polling place.

Edwards said Friday night that after the recount was complete and he was still 14 votes behind he decided not to seek a recount in the Allegany County precincts between Shaft and Barton which also are in District 1A. He congratulated Del. Bolden, who also was present for the recount, and left.

When the unofficial totals were added up on primary election night, it was reported that Edwards was leading by 72 votes with 2,052 to Bolden's 1,980. Bolden had carried Garrett County but lost in Allegany County by a two-to-one margin.

Several mistakes were found in the Garrett County totals and after the canvass was completed Bolden moved up to 1,810 there to 1,451 for Edwards. In Allegany County, Edwards polled 654, to Bolden's 314. No mistakes were found in that county. Edwards received seven absentee votes there to two for Bolden.

Jacquelyn Shirer Is Named Member Of Hospital Board

The Board of Governors of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital announced this week the election of Jacquelyn L. Shirer to its Board.

As one of the charter employees of the hospital when it opened twenty-nine years ago, Mrs. Shirer, as a laboratory technician, helped set up both the laboratory and X-ray departments.

A resident of Garrett County since 1936, Mrs. Shirer has been involved in many civic and church activities throughout the years. She resides on Pennington Street in Oakland.

County Intake Tops $2 Million

Collections for August topped the $2 million mark according to Mrs. Arzella Parsons, County Treasurer.

A total of $2,407,308.71 was collected which is double that of July.

A breakdown follows: 1978-79 Real Estate taxes, $1,515,896.35; 1978-79 Personal Property, $8,381.59; 1978-79 ordinary business, $2,458.83; 1978-79 Public utilities, $243,254.38; 1977-78 taxes, $38,451.26; prior years taxes, $755.26; State tax collected, $152,617.34; interest received, $2,487.24; trailer park tax, $7,302.35; State income tax, $48,055.84; silo tax credit, $10,822.55, and 10% tax credit, $1,099.56.

County Preparing For Winter Storms

Snow storms won't catch the county roads department unprepared says Herb McCrobie, administrative engineer. Preparations for winter began several weeks ago, and should be completed in mid-October.

Powlen Equipment, Hagerstown, is the apparent low bidder for five graders and two new front end loaders, all with plows, to be purchased for the department. The bid should be awarded soon, with delivery scheduled for the loaders before winter and for the graders around January 1.

The State Highway Administration has donated 100,000 linear feet of used snowfence to the county, and hauling of the fence began two weeks ago. As the county usually buys approximately 30,000 feet each year, this would equal nearly three years' purchases. Snow fence erection will begin about October 15.

Of the 166 people employed by the roads department, 140 are involved in snow removal, including foremen, supervisors, truck drivers and laborers.

The county now has three blowers mounted on front end loaders, four truck-mounted blowers, 35 trucks with plows and eight front end loaders with V-plows. When it becomes necessary to use blowers, however, three V-plows must be removed from the loaders so the blowers can be mounted. The county also uses nine motorized graders with V-plows.

Stockpiles of cinders and sodium chloride are growing, so the county will have ready the approximately 30,000 tons of cinders and 900 tons of salt needed for road traction.

Truck routes are being assessed to determine new wind and snow drifting patterns for most efficient deployment of trucks and snowfencing, according to Mr. McCrobie. The county has been divided into four sections, and trucks in each section have been assigned approximately 25 miles to clear each day. Officials tried to devise each route so that each truck averages approximately 175 miles per day in total travel distance. Graders and front end loaders each have approximately 20 miles to clear.

Mr. McCrobie noted that the ancient vintage of several pieces of equipment make it difficult to keep up with repairs. Parts are hard to obtain for the four motor graders built in 1950 and 1951. At the present time one front end loader and one grader are down for repairs, but should be ready by winter. Two front end loaders were made in 1941.

Dan Beiler Named Among Maryland's Top 100 Scholars

Daniel Beiler, Northern High School senior, has been named one of the top 100 Distinguished Scholars in the state of Maryland.

These scholars will receive $500 scholarships to attend the post-secondary educational institution of their choice in the state.

Students were selected from an application pool of over 800 outstanding high school students on the basis of grade point average (better than a 3.70 on a 4.00 scale); the results of aptitude tests, curriculums studied in high school, and the recommendations of their high school guidance directors.

Two high schools, Seneca Valley and Thomas Wooton, each placed four students on the distinguished Scholar list. The 69 high schools represented by Distinguished Scholars cover all areas of Maryland. Fifty-five percent of the Distinguished Scholars are female, and 99 percent of all Scholars had straight A averages in all academic work for grades 9-11.

Based on scores which could range from 20-80 on junior year Scholastic Aptitude Test results, the median verbal score for the Distinguished Scholars was 67, and the median math score was 70. Two students had perfect math scores of 80.

Money Donated To Garrett Memorial Is Raised By Auxiliary

In the September 13 issue of The Republican, the cutline under a picture on the front page concerning a check donation of $5,000 by the Loar Auxiliary to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, stated that this money was received by the auxiliary from the county in the form of donations. However, it was learned this week that almost all of the $5,000 was raised by the auxiliary. Only about one percent came from donations.

In light of that fact, Mrs. Hazel Kennedy, member of the public relations committee for the auxiliary, stated that donations to the Loar Auxiliary Diagnostic Equipment Fund are indeed welcomed to help the auxiliary "continue to be able to donate money to the hospital for the purchase of more needed equipment."

Reclaiming Strip Mined Land Will Provide Exemption

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) co-sponsored legislation which provides a tax exemption to landowners who receive Federal funds to reclaim strip mined land.

Under the Rural Abandoned Mines Program (RAMP) authorized by the 1977 Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act, landowners are encouraged to reclaim abandoned surface mined land through cost-sharing payments provided by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. The Internal Revenue Service, however, has ruled that the payments are to be treated as taxable income.

As a result, landowners have been discouraged from participating in the reclamation program.

"The treatment of these payments as taxable income by the IRS conflicts with the intent of Congress, which was to encourage landowners to reclaim and conserve surface-mined lands," Mathias said. He noted that Maryland has nearly 3,000 acres of surface mined land eligible for reclamation under the SCS program.

"By exempting the SCS payments from taxation" Mathias said, "We will create a stimulus for returning acres and acres of land in Western Maryland to their original state, thereby eliminating some of the worst scars on the rural landscape."

St. Matthew's To Host Confirmation, Dedicate Building

A regional Confirmation Service and a dedication ceremony of a new parish house will be held this Sunday afternoon, October 1, at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland, it was announced by Rev. Manning Smith, pastor. The service will begin at 4:00 p.m.

Approximately 30 persons from eight Allegany and Garrett County Episcopal churches will be confirmed at the special service by the Rt. Rev. William J. Cox, Suffragen Bishop of Maryland.

The building dedication ceremony will be followed by a reception.

Movie On Russian Evangelism To Be Shown Tonight

The movie "To Russia With Love" is to be shown at the Ferndale Baptist Church on U. S. 219 this evening at 7 o'clock, and deals with evangelism in Russia.

The movie shows underground evangelism taking place in Russia. A professional photographer filmed these events inside Russia with a minimum of equipment. Underground Evangelism distributes tens of thousands of Bibles, printed in West Germany, and "smuggled" into Russia.

The public is cordially invited to attend. A free will offering will be accpeted to aid in the production of these Bibles.

The longest street in the world that runs through the same city is Figueroa Street, in Los Angeles, which runs for a distance of 30 miles.

Deputies Searching For Missing Items

Members of the sheriff's department are conducting searches for various items recently taken from area homes, including a power saw and hand tools valued at approximately $730.

Oliver Niner, Star Route, Oakland, reported September 23 that someone had entered his enclosed front porch and taken the saw and tools.

Money was taken from the coinboxes at Southern Laundromat sometime between September 15 and 18. Amount missing was estimated at $280.

James Sowers reported that during the night of September 24 someone had removed a metal plate from his trailer at the Silver Knob Block plant on Route 219 south of Oakland. No loss value was given.

A Lanham man who owns an A-frame on the Brenneman Road near Bittinger told police that someone had entered his home and made off with a Coleman heater and stove, and a scythe. Ernest Grossenbecker estimated his loss at $125.

Someone removed a tape deck from an automobile owned by Danny Cline while it was parked in the lot at Shorty's Tavern south of Oakland September 19. Value of the property was set at $50.

Deputies were also investigating three recent incidents involving destructions of property. Someone apparently threw rocks at a vehicle belonging to Gary Crosco at El Lobo's Restaurant in Mt. Lake Park September 12. Damage was set at $50.

Jay Roy Lipscomb, Aurora, told police that while his vehicle was parked at the intersection of Route 38 and 135 during the night of September 22 someone broke the window on the driver's side of the car.

Damage estimated at $115 was caused at the Garrett Mineral Sand Company on Hoyes-Sang Run Road during the night of September 24. A broken window and other mayhem was noted.

Several Injured In Past Week In Auto Mishaps

Auto mishaps during the past week injured several persons, two near Mt. Nebo.

Cars driven by Melainie F. Rodney, 27, PO Box, McHenry, and Peter C. Costello, Cumberland, were southbound on U. S. 219 following a third unknown vehicle. As all three entered a patch of fog, the unknown vehicle slowed down, as did the second car. Costello failed to slow and struck the Rodney car in the rear. Melainie Rodney panicked and tried to get out of her car before it stopped and fell onto the roadway while it was still in motion. She was apparently only slightly injured. Her car came to rest in a ditch. Tfc. E. J. Upole charged Costello with failing to reduce speed.

Late the following afternoon near the same spot one person was injured in a two vehicle mishap. Joanna Lou Harvey, 45, RD, Swanton, was taken to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad. She was following an unidentified vehicle, northbound on U. S. 219. As the unknown slowed to make a right turn, Joanna Harvey applied her brakes. She lost control on the wet road, ran off the left shoulder and struck a pick-up parked, unattended on the left shoulder. Tfc. L. R. Rosage charged Joanna Harvey with excess speed under road conditions.

A tire blow-out caused a wreck on U. S. 48 just east of the West Virginia state line shortly after midnight last Wednesday. Gary M. Dick, 43, Winchester, Va., sustained some injury. He stated that the left, front tire of the tractor, pulling a mobile trailer, blew out. This caused him to loose control of the vehicle, strike the guard rail in the median strip and overturn. Tfc. R. C. Georg investigated.

Other mishaps caused no apparent injuries.

Late last Thursday, George A. Cowgill, RD 1, Oakland, and Gregory J. Tressler, Shenandoah Avenue, Mt. Lake Park, were westbound on Broad Ford Road near the old Oakland-Deer Park Road. Tressler attempted to pass the Cowgill vehicle and another vehicle ahead of it. As Tressler got alongside of the Cowgill vehicle, it attempted to make a left turn and the two collided. Tfc. J. E. Foley investigated.

Friday shortly past noon, Robert F. Combs, Hambleton, W. Va., was in the entrance-exit road from the Fratz Market at Accident. Louise E. Younkin, Frank George Road, Accident, was southbound on U. S. 219 and making a left turn into the Fratz Market Road. Prior to making the turn, Louise Younkin stated she moved her eyes from the roadway momentarily and when this occurred, she struck the Combs vehicle in the front bumper. Tfc. Dale Williams made the investigation.

About 2 a.m. the following morning a one-car mishap occurred on the Finzel Road at the Sampson Rock Road. Barbara R. Whetstone, Cresaptown, was westbound on the Sampson Rock Road. She failed to obey a stop sign at the intersection of Md. 546, went across Rt. 546 and struck a tree on the roadside. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland charged her with failing to obey a stop sign.

About 1 p.m. on the 19th a one-car mishap occurred on Md. 135 near Altamont Road. Douglas R. Taylor, RD 4, Deer Park, was eastbound on Rt. 135 when his car went out of control, ran off the road, struck an embankment and overturned. Tfc. Foley investigated.

The evening before three passengers in a pick-up driven by Walter H. Hentschel, RD 2, Grantsville, were injured. They were Lucritia Stanton, Raccuel Gallardo and Sarah Gallardo, all of RD 2, Grantsville. A fourth passenger was apparently not injured. Daniel L. Miller, also in a pick-up and also of RD 2, Grantsville, was eastbound on Maynardier Ridge Road as Hentschel was westbound. Miller failed to keep to the right of center of the road and struck the Hentschel vehicle in the right front. Tfc. Gary Resh investigated and made the charge against Miller.

Thank You!

I would like to congratulate all the winners in the recent Primary Election and also wish to thank all those who voted for and supported me.

REMINDER — Unsigned letters to the editor will NOT be printed under any circumstances. Letters exceeding 300 words will also not be printed.

Dear Mr. Editor:

It is truly marvelous to occasionally hear of the many new findings concerning the assassination of President Kennedy. This excellent work is being performed by the Congressional Assassination Investigation Committee at the cost of only millions of dollars annually.

Would it not be in our country's and state's interest to go further?

The Aaron Burr-Alexander Hamilton duel at Bladensburg in 1804 needs more investigation because of persistent rumors that Hamilton survived and (by means of a British plot) lives now on the Riviera and is seen frequenting posh restaurants, palaces and casinos.

It is of little consequence that Burr was tried by the courts three times. We must not let "apparent" facts blind us. Truth must be uncovered.

This horrible incident occurred in Maryland. Our Congressman, in effort to erase this blot on the honor of our state, might submit a bill allowing us to investigate at government expense (no salary).

Will you not join me, Mr. Editor, in this patriotic duty?

If this bill is passed, you and I can sacrifice the rest of our lives ferreting out the truth in the places mentioned.

Cumberland Hosts Energy Conference

More than 60 representatives of industry, utility companies and labor gathered Tuesday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club near Cumberland for the Mid-Atlantic Energy and Economic Development Conference.

The conference, sponsored by the Allegany County Economic Development Company and hosted by co-chairman Del. Casper R. Taylor and ACEDC Executive Director Richard Mappin, featured three panel discussions. Topics for discussion were "An Energy Program for America," "Coal for Development," and "Mid-Atlantic Economic Development."

"HOW LONG DO YOU THINK YOU CAN GET AWAY WITH THIS?"

Of primary importance to residents here was the second discussion which dealt almost exclusively with problems faced by the coal industry in Allegany and Garrett Counties. The discussion began with a presentation by Marsha Freeman, director of industrial research for the Fusion Energy Foundation on magnetohydrodynamic coal-burning plants, a new development in the field. Ms. Freeman explained the process is twice as efficient as coal-burning processes now in use, and eliminates sulfur emissions more effectively than scrubbers, the device now used.

Matthew Skidmore, president of the Western Maryland Coal Operators Association, said the coal industry is being severely hurt by overregulation, as federal regulations are too complex to understand and are also unrealistic.

Technical Director George Diales of the Mining and Reclamation Council of America echoed Skidmore's sentiments, saying the regulations for clean air standards are a detriment to the industry. He asked the help of coal operators in efforts to change the direction the Department of Interior bureaucracy is taking.

"We've got to learn how to burn sulfur coal in a way that is environmentally acceptable," the conference was told by Richard S. Lashley, director of fuels for Allegany Power System. Lashley emphasized the cost of implementing clean air and water standards was ultimately paid by the consumer and not by coal operators or utilities.

Jan Gilbertson, nuclear safety engineer from the Fusion Energy Foundation, said nuclear energy would eventually replace fossil fuel, but the transition will be slow and cannot be made without coal.

Legislative solutions, unity and communication among all concerned parties were stressed in the final discussion of the day. Panelists included Herbert Cahan, secretary of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development; State Senator Harry McGuirk, chairman of the senate committee on economic affairs; State Senator Edward J. Mason, Fred Esbrandt, Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, and Marsha Freeman.

Earlier in the day, an address by Del. Taylor called for establishment of "bi-state or multistate joint public service authorities that will eliminate any competitive disadvantage our citizens and our industrial users might have with adjoining states.

"The arbitrary drawing of a state line cannot be allowed to cause two separate rates of return to the same utility company for the same service," Taylor said. He added the four percent export tax imposed on Potomac Edison by West Virginia for energy manufactured in West Virginia and used in Maryland, when incorporated in the Maryland rate, puts Marylanders at a disadvantage.

An additional five percent disadvantage is imposed on Maryland users by the sales tax not imposed in West Virginia.

Poet's Podium

By Jim Willis

The following free verse expresses a young girl's reaction to the Garrett County scenery. It was written by 17 year-old Carol Reed of Bel Air, MD.

Carol Reed

Not poets, or musicians,
or artists of the world, could put together a masterpiece like God himself has done.

Not dancers,
or sculptors,
or craftsmen and all their trades, could give me the falls and the colors of the forest, the tiny little fellers, that hop about the leaves.

Greens of the forest,
Reds from the mushrooms,
the browns of the soil,
and the blue of the sky are splotches of color on the canvas of the world.

Delicate ferns sway with the breeze and curl as if a ballerina, and, oh, how the mighty falls are so rigid like the wire and clay of the sculptor's masterpiece.

Not an architect of the finest church could bring us a finer altar, than to sit upon this mountaintop and look at all there is to offer —
Peace and grace,
Serenity and love.

There's not much more needed that doesn't come from Heaven above!

Edwards Concedes

With the five votes gained from Kitzmiller, Edwards' total now stands at 2,110 to Bolden's 2,124.

The 54-year Bolden faces a general election challenge from Democrat Richard C. Browning of McHenry.

WVU To Conduct Study On Energy

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (UPI) — Energy and its relationship with the environment come under study again in West Virginia, this time with a $75,000 grant to a team of researchers at West Virginia University.

Anchored by the school's Dr. Donald Menzel, the group includes engineers, economists, and environmental and public administration specialists.

WVU's grant ranks as the largest among 19 grants bestowed nationwide by the Ford Foundation for such projects.

"Most state agencies react to problems after they occur," said Menzel, an associate professor of political science.

"We want to take stock of existing managerial capabilities within the Department of Natural Resources now and estimate what future stress and strain might be placed on the department."

Both WVU and the DNR have matched the grant in part.

The DNR's issuance and review of surface mining permits, a process that includes the federal government, will attract the attention of Menzel's researchers.

Before any firm strips for coal in West Virginia, it needs state and federal permits outlining the effect on watersheds, stream flow and forests.

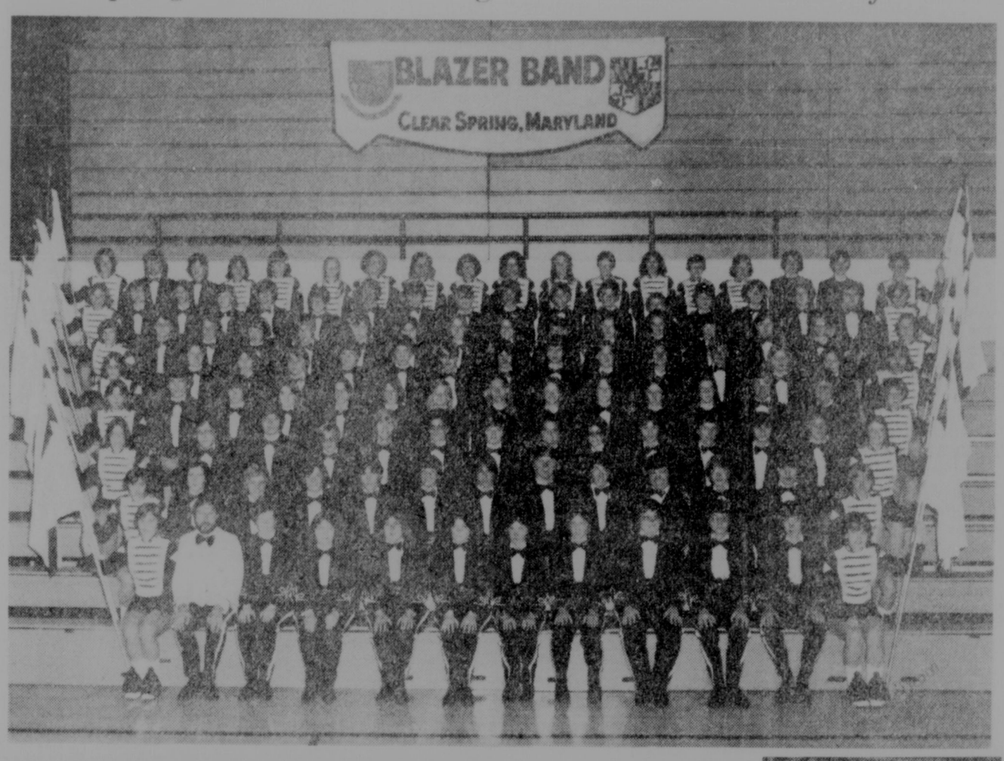
Clear Spring Blazer Band Among Entries In Tournament Of Bands



The Clear Spring Blazer Band, under the direction of Noel T. Kunkle, will be one of several outstanding high school bands competing in the first annual Western Maryland Tournament of Bands on Saturday, October 14, at the Southern High School football field. (see story on front page)

The Clear Spring band is beginning its twelfth year. In those twelve years the Blazer Band has participated in all Washington County parades, such as the Williamsport Tag Day Parade, the Sharpsburg Memorial Day Parade, the Hancock Halloween Parade and the Hagerstown Mummers Parade. The group has also sponsored Clear Spring Band Day every May.

The Blazer Band has grown from an original membership of 42 to its present 149 members.

The band traveled to the Kentucky Derby in 1971 and placed first in the parade, which earned them an invitation to return in 1973 as the Honor Band. While there in 1973, the group won the Cavalcade of Bands championship in its very first appearance on a football field. That same year, the band was the Maryland State Honor Band at the Inaugural Parade for President Nixon.

Noel T. Kunkle

In 1974 the Concert band won second place at the Apple Blossom Concert Band Competition in Winchester, Virginia. In 1975 the band participated in the Philadelphia Gimbels Parade, placed second in the Maryland State Field Show Competition, third in the Naval Academy Field Competition, and took first at the Apple Blossom Concert Band and Field Show Competition. The honor of playing for President Gerald R. Ford also occurred that spring.

In 1976 the Blazer Band was chosen as the Official Bi-Centennial Band for the State of Maryland and participated in Maryland Day in Washington, D. C. They also were State Field Show Champions that year and traveled to St. Petersburg, Florida, for the "Festival of States" and "Disney on Parade."

The band won first place in the 1977 Preakness Parade and an invitation to be the 1978 honor band at Pimlico.

The band also made a trip to San Antonio, Texas, last spring for that city's Fiesta Flambeau. While traveling through the South and Midwest, the Blazer Band played concerts, marched in two parades and participated in a field show competition, resulting in its being awarded the Fiesta Silver Cup, representing the overall finest performance in the entire competition.

The official Garrett County Republican Primary Election returns carried in last week's issue of The Republican were not entirely "official," as an error occurred in the absentee vote totals. The correct absentee count appears in the table above.

Also, five more votes for George Edwards in the House of Delegate race were discovered by the Board of Election Supervisors in a recount of that race last Friday. Those five votes were found in a District 13 (Kitzmiller) machine. The correct totals in that race are also in the above table.

Reading Conference Set For Saturday

A Western Maryland Reading Conference is scheduled at the Emma K. Doub Elementary School, Hagerstown, September 30, beginning at 8:30 a.m., with registration.

The conference is jointly sponsored by the Hagerstown-Frederick and Garrett-Allegany councils of the International Reading Association.

Garrett County representatives will present two of the workshops, "Functional Reading in Today's Schools; Materials, Stations, Flaps," and "Parents as Helpers in the Teaching of Reading." In charge will be Edna Wheeler, reading teacher at Northern Middle School, and Hilda Lee, reading resource teacher.

Speaker will be Dr. Paul R. Daniels, professor of education and acting coordinator of programs for exceptional children for the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

Eight workshops are planned, with the conference scheduled to end at noon. For additional information, contact either Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Lee, or Mrs. Barbara Flinn.

The International Reading Association, with 70,000 members in 75 countries, is a worldwide nonprofit education association devoted to reading. There are now more than 970 councils and affiliates working actively to improve literacy on all levels. In 1977, more than 11,000 persons attended the 22nd annual convention.

Current committees are examining basic education, classroom management, migratory children, teacher education, and the relationship of paraprofessionals and parents to reading instruction.

Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Flinn, reading resource teacher for Title I, attended a retreat and leadership conference sponsored by the Maryland International Reading Association Council held at Meushaw's Motor Inn, Baltimore, September 15 and 16.

Workshops were conducted by Dr. Oliver Patterson, IRA Eastern Regional representative. Luncheon speaker was Anne Richardson, specialist in reading and learning problems with the Maryland State Department of Education.

The state convention will be March 8-10, 1979, at the Baltimore Hilton, Baltimore.

A legislative conference will be held November 17 and 18 at Annapolis.

Northern Continues Scoreless Streak

A Highland Conference clash Friday evening at Lonaconing ended in a disappointment for the Northern High Huskies as Valley stole the contest 28-0.

Joe Lewis scored two touchdowns, both on runs from scrimmage of one yard, and Chris Shertzer capped the scoring with a 25-yard run with a pass interception.

Quarterback Terry Broadwater broke free for a 27-yard TD run in the third period to break the ice following a scoreless first half. Lewis' two TDs and Shertzer's interception opened the contest in the final period.

Jeff Rhodes led Valley with 117 yards on 25 carries. Northern valiantly battled to the Black Knight's ten yard line but was not allowed to close in.

Vic Clark and Don Ross were the Valley defensive standouts and Neil Garlock excelled for the Huskies who closed this third contest still remaining scoreless.

Music To Highlight Autumn Glory

A wide variety of music, from country to a German-style "oom-pah" band, will be some of the highlights of the 11th annual Autumn Glory Festival to be held October 12-15.

Billie Jo Spears

The firemen's parade Thursday marks the first of the many musical events for the event. The parade begins at 7 p.m. in downtown Oakland.

Something new has been added to the festival this year with the Oktoberfest, sponsored by the Oakland Volunteer fire department. Oktoberfest, featuring a lively German-style band of local musicians and German-style sandwiches, will be held at the fire hall immediately after the parade. Admission is free.

Cal Smith

Also Thursday night, there will be a teen dance to be held at Southern High School following the Autumn Glory bowl. The dance, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Civic Club, will feature DJ Terry King. The dance will benefit the Autumn Glory Court.

The Maryland Five-String Banjo championships will be held Friday, October 13, at 8 p.m. at Southern High School, with competitors expected from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and Ohio. Tim Custer, Somerset, Pa., was first place winner in last year's contest.

Cal Smith and The Country Bumpkins will perform immediately following the Banjo contest. Cal recently received "Song of the Year" and "Record of the Year" awards from the Country Music Association and the Academy of Country Music with the song "Country Bumpkin." He also recorded the number one singles, "The Lord Knows I'm Drinking," "I've Found Someone of My Own," and "It's Time to Pay the Fiddler."

Tickets for the banjo contest and the Cal Smith Show are $4.50 for adults and $3.50 for children.

Another new event for the Festival is the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, planned Saturday, October 14, from approximately 9 a.m. to noon at the Southern High School Athletic field. Outstanding bands of the region will compete for trophies with their displays of field show skills. Admission will be $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for students. The Tournament is co-sponsored by the Southern Band Boosters and the Autumn Glory Festival.

The Autumn Glory Grand Feature parade is slated Saturday, October 14, at 2 p.m. in Oakland. Many outstanding units such as Ursina Band, Salem Jane-ettes, Keyser High School, the Golden Majorettes, and many more units, clowns, floats and drum and bugle corps will be marching.

Fiddlers from several states will be vying for the honor of champion in the Maryland state fiddlers' contest at Southern High School Saturday night at 8 p.m. Basil Hare, Streetsboro, Ohio, winner of last year's contest, will be back to defend his title.

Country music star Billie Jo Spears will follow the championships, singing her hit "Blanket on the Ground" as well as her more recent songs such as "Misty Blue" and "'57 Chevrolet."

Cost for the championships and the Billie Jo Spears show will be $4.50 for adults and $3.50 for children.

A rock dance is scheduled Saturday night, October 14, from 9 p.m. to midnight at the Wisp, McHenry. Featured entertainment will be "Spitfire" and the dance is limited to the first 200 persons. Tickets will be available at the door. The dance is sponsored annually by the Junior Woman's Civic Club.

Railway Strike Paralyzing Nation

United Press International

Striking rail clerks — ignoring back-to-work orders — held the country's trains at a standstill again today, imperiling the nation's grain arvest, raising the spectre of widespread industrial layoffs and opening the prospect of government intervention.

At dawn today in the East, the situation remained virtually the same as Tuesday's first day of the expanded the 2-month-old strike by the Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks against the Norfolk & Western Railway Co. The issues in that dispute involve job protection.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall called a news conference for mid-morning for what he called a "major announcement" on the administration's efforts to restore service.

Marshall met throughout Tuesday with labor and railroad officials including clerks' president Fred Kroll, officials of the National Railway Labor Conference, and the United Transportation Union.

Industry sources said they expected Marshall to unveil a new plan to get BRAC and the N&W back to the bargaining table. Formal talks broke off Thursday.

Much of the Northeast — including the Boston-New York-Washington corridor — was spared because those lines are owned by Amtrak or Conrail, the government operated passenger and freight carriers.

Elsewhere, Amtrak said the situation remains virtually unchanged from Tuesday.

Where trains were moving — and they were moving almost normally on the West coast — supervisory personnel were running them. The Norfolk & Western runs trains as far west as Kansas City, Mo.

"The vast majority of freight is being held up," a spokesman for the American Association of Railroads said early today. "Within two weeks, if the strike continues on this scale," he said, "economic losses to the nation would represent 5.8 percent of the Gross National Product" — a multi-billion dollar impact.

The AAR said a two-week strike of this size would double unemployment — boosting it as high as 12 to 14 percent. About 350,000 railroad workers are directly affected by the walkout, but the ripple effect would prompt tens of thousands of layoffs. The automobile industry pointed out that production could halt by week's end if shipments do not resume.

General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. officials said they already had cut back operations and laid off workers at some facilities where parts shipments had not arrived.

And right now, the AAR spokesman said, 70 percent of the grain movement in the country has "stopped." Virtually all movement of industrial products — 70 percent of coal production — ground to a halt.

Chicago appeared to the the hardest hit city with tens of thousands of commuters forced to find other means of transportation. Mayor Michael Bilandic placed police on emergency standby to help move traffic. One commuter line, the Milwaukee Road, had resumed normal operations into Chicago, however.

As for court action, federal judges across the country granted railroad requests for new temporary restraining orders to get the clerks back to work. But the carriers "have reported difficulties in serving those notices on union chairmen in their areas," the AAR disclosed.

On Tuesday, several hours after the expanded strike was under way, Chief Justice Warren Burger gave the clerks further leeway, lifting an earlier injunction that had prevented picketing against other railroads that helped N&W financially during their strike, which has been going on since July 10.

Coal Industry Hurt By Railroad Walkout

(UPI) — Weakened by the longest-ever United Mine Workers strike, the coal industry faces even harder times with the burgeoning rail walkout. Some coal operators already are predicting the worst.

Trains stopped on almost every track Tuesday in West Virginia as picket lines sprang up at Chessie System yards by employees sympathizing with clerks engaged in a labor dispute with the Norfolk & Western Railway.

Two coal officials in Huntington called the development as another setback.

"It's going to ruin the coal business," warned Clyde Pinson, president of Pinson Coal Co.

"It's going to paralyze this area," offered John Chafin, Jr., vice president of Chafin Coal Co.

Chafin said operators were just starting to get back on their feet following the lengthy UMW contract strike last winter. Chafin said he hoped the N&W would settle its differences with the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, which has broadened its efforts to include 43 railroads involved in a mutual aid pact.

Those railroads have furnished N&W with as much as $800,000 each day of the 12-week strike.

Willis Cook, Chessie's public relations director in West Virginia, said train service beyond the Tuesday morning runs was uncertain. He was unable to say when supervisors would take over.

In Cleveland, Chessie branded the extended strike "totally illegal."

The firm includes the Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, and Western Maryland lines, covering 3,460 miles of track and employing 7,720 people in the Mountain State.

Two-fifths of its transport is coal. Freight makes up the balance.

The mushrooming strike also has affected service on three Amtrak passenger lines in West Virginia, the Penn Central line and several smaller, private coal carriers.

Rail passenger service is miniscule in the state, but coal and freight are major concerns. Pickets in Martinsburg stopped all commuter service between Washington, D. C., and Western Maryland, affecting about 1,900 commuters.

Roy Green, planning coordinator for the West Virginia Railroad Maintenance Authority, said smaller coal carriers will be affected since they won't be able to move coal to main railroad lines.

"These are short lines owned or leased by coal companies, usually to haul coal from the mine to the main line," he said.

Railroads include the Nicholas, Fayette and Greenbrier Railroad, owned by Chessie and Conrail; Beech Mountain Railroad; the West Virginia Northern, tied to the B&O Railroad in Preston County; and the Monongahela Railroad, an interstate carrier, west of Morgantown.

Senate Votes Today On National Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has cleared its desk of several more pieces of legislation, while the slower-moving Senate prepared today for a vote on the key to President Carter's energy plan: the natural gas bill.

On Tuesday, the Senate rejected a last-ditch attempt to kill the bill by sending it back to the conference committee, clearing the way for this afternoon's up-or-down vote.

The House, meanwhile, passed legislation making suffragette Susan B. Anthony, whose image will appear on the new $1 coin the first woman thus honored.

The House also adopted a bill prohibiting union membership in the armed forces, although it changed a portion to allow certain civilian technicians in the reserves to belong to a union.

Among other bills passed by the House Tuesday was one requiring foreign owners of U. S. farmland to register with the federal government. It has been estimated that foreigners bought $800 million to $1 billion worth of U. S. farmland last year. The bill would not limit purchase of U. S. farms.

The House also let it be known it is displeased with the Justice Department seeking court orders for forced busing in schools.

Congressmen last year ordered the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to stop using its powers to force busing in school districts where segregation existed. When they found HEW was turning over some of its desegregation cases to the Justice Department for court action, the members extended the ban to Justice on a 235-158 vote.

In the Senate, a bill was approved allowing more states to offer offtrack, interstate betting only when the track where the races are held is compensated, and only if the track has obtained the consent of the Horsemen's group involved in the race.

The bill, now on its way to the House, exempts existing interstate offtrack betting in New York and Connecticut.

The Senate also passed a $35.2 billion defense authorization bill without the $2 billion nuclear supercarrier President Carter vetoed. The House was expected to act today or Thursday on a bill that is almost identical to the Senate bill. The two versions must go to a conference committee for compromise.

In other developments, House-Senate conferees are considering a compromise in the president's civil service reform legislation that could result in a lid on government civilian employment.

The House version of the bill calls for the civil service to be kept at the level of employees it had on January 1, 1977, while the Senate version has no such limit.

And the Senate Finance Committee refused to cut business tax rates from the current 48 percent to 44 percent by 1981, saying the bill is already being criticized as being too generous toward business.

VFW Embezzlement Under Investigation

BALTIMORE (UPI) — An investigation is underway into the embezzlement of more than $71,000 from the Maryland Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Baltimore News-Amercian reported Tuesday.

Deputy State's Attorney Mary Ann Willin refused to confirm or deny the report and state VFW commander Peter Doone said he would not comment until the state's attorney's office comments.

According to the News-Amercian, sources in the VFW said the group's checking and savings accounts are empty and it cannot pay many of its bills.

"It's the worst financial setback we've ever had," one VFW official was quoted.

Sources said $23,000 in checks were written against the VFW's account and another $48,000 was withdrawn from the savings account.

At least part of the $71,000 was believed to have been spent at race tracks and on The Block, Baltimore's pornography district.

Authorities Search For Third Plane

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Federal aviation authorities searched today for a "mystery plane" that may have confused a jetliner pilot, setting up an in-flight collision and blockbuster crash that took at least 151 lives, the worst aviation disaster in U.S. history.

"There are strong indications ... there was a third plane" that may have contributed to the crash, Phillip Hogue, head of the National Transportation Safety Board's investigation, told a news conference late Tuesday night.

FAA officials reportedly were contacting airfields in the area, trying to get information on light planes that may have been flying in the same area at the time of the crash.

A Pacific Southwest Airlines Boeing 727 collided at 3,000 feet with a Cessna 172 Monday morning and then plunged flaming into a residential neighborhood, exploding through a city block of homes and apartments.

The grim work of assembling pieces of mangled and charred bodies proceeded through the day Tuesday and authorities warned the death toll of 151 — all 136 on the airliner, two in the light plane and at least 13 on the ground — could go higher.

Authorities said it was possible more bodies were in the rubble of more than a dozen homes, estimating it could take weeks to identify all those killed in the inferno.

At least one witness saw a third small plane in the sky at the time of the collision, Hogue said.

If so, the pilot of the jetliner may have thought the "mystery plane" ahead of him was the aircraft the control tower at Lindbergh field was warning him to beware of — not realizing the tower meant the Cessna, boring in from the right on a collision course.

Recordings showed the tower alerted the pilots of both the jetliner and the Cessna to look out for each other, and both pilots apparently acknowledged the advisories, Hogue said.

At one point, the jetliner pilot radioed the tower: "He's passed," apparently referring to a light plane.

"We don't know who passed," Hogue said. "It doesn't seem logical it was the airplane he collided with."

A little more than two minutes later, the Cessna flew "virtually head-on" into the jetliner, tearing through the jetliner's right wing.

Hogue said earlier reports that the third plane was a twin-engine Cessna — explaining the pilot's confusion — had not been confirmed.

"There is some question about whether the third plane was a Cessna," Hogue said. "There are strong indications there was a third plane ... but we don't know how close it was. We may find that the third plane is no factor whatsoever ... it may have been out of the traffic pattern."

Hogue, who heads a nearly 100-member team of investigators under the direction of the National Transportation Safety Board, told a news conference the board plans to question "one or more" witnesses who said they saw the "third plane."

The last words from PSA's Flight 182 Capt. James McFeron, a 17-year PSA veteran, were: "We're going down." By that time, the jetliner was rolling over, its right wing aflame, into a 3,000 foot dive.

"It was the most unbelievable routine transmission," Hogue said, although it must have been obvious to the flight crew the plane probably was doomed. "The pilot said 'we're going down' like he was leaving one altitude for another. I cannot believe the transmission."

Mathias To Propose To Restore Funds For Aid Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., said Tuesday he will offer an amendment to a fiscal 1979 appropriation bill to restore $56 million to the federal Impact Aid Program.

Mathias said if the amendment to the Labor and the Health, Education and Welfare appropriation bill is adopted by the Senate, Maryland would receive $810,950 for the support of students attending schools in areas designated to receive impact aid funds.

Last week, Mathias joined 18 senators in urging President Carter to reconsider his opposition to continuing payments for students from low-rent housing projects under the program.

The senators told Carter they viewed "this element of impact aid as a vital component of the administration's priority on programs to solve urban problems."

Mother Calls Child "God's Miracle Baby"

CHICAGO (UPI) — Catherine Donatello calls her new daughter God's miracle baby and doctors say the infant had only a one in 45,000 chance of being born.

Angelina Rose was carried inside her mother's abdominal cavity instead of the womb.

The little girl weighed 3 pounds, 8 ounces at birth in mid-September when she was surgically removed two weeks premature from her mother's abdomen.

"This has to be God's miracle baby," exclaimed Mrs. Donatello, 25. "We really wanted a baby."

Mrs. Donatello was admitted to Resurrection Hospital because of bleeding and there doctors discovered the odd placement of her baby.

"This is a distinct rarity," said Dr. Warren Pearse, executive director of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

An abdominal pregnancy is a rare form of ectopic pregnancy — in which the baby is carried outside the womb, doctors said. Most ectopic pregnancies occur inside the fallopian tubes where the female egg is fertilized. They cause the tubes to rupture, ending the pregnancy and sometimes endangering the mother.

But in cases like Angelina's, doctors said, the fertilized egg goes back up the tube rather than down into the womb and makes its way to the abdomen. There it begins to divide and attaches itself to organs in the abdomen. The placenta draws nutrients from the mother's blood just as it does in the womb.

Mrs. Donatello left the hospital Tuesday. Hospital officials said her daughter is doing fine too. She is expected to remain in the premature baby nursery for about a month.

"OF COURSE I KNOW THE VALUE OF A DOLLAR. THAT'S WHY I'M ASKING FOR TWO."

Large Grain Surplus Expected This Year

NORTH EAST, Md. (UPI) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland should provide farmers with more information to plan for their 1979 production because a large grain surplus is expected this year, Maryland Farm Bureau officials said Tuesday.

F. Grove Miller, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau, said Bergland should provide early information to farmers on provisions of a 1979 feed grains program.

"Grain surpluses pose a serious threat to agriculture and farmers need more information to plan for their 1979 production," Miller said.

He said a 6.8 billion bushel corn crop in 1978 coupled with a surplus from last year is expected to make prices drop.

GREENER PASTURES — This amiable pony was spotted last week in a thicket of wildflowers south of Jennings. The only problem was, he was on the wrong side of the fence, wandering down the road with a companion, another pony. It was reported that the two generally make a habit of leisurely roadside strolls . . . perhaps they're in search of greener pastures.

Debra Sisler Weds John Shaffer August 12 At Oak Park Church

Miss Debra Kay Sisler became the bride of John H. Shaffer August 12 at 2 p.m. in the Oak Park Church of the Brethren.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Don Matthews. Wedding selections on the organ were played by Miss Diana Dean, and soloist was Trina Rumer, Aurora.

The complete wedding ceremony was written by the bride and groom, and was highlighted by the solo, "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sisler, Aurora. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shaffer, Barton.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, was attired in a sheer, ruffled daisy lace and seed pearl gown featuring full-length sleeves, a scoop neckline and a chapel train of sheer ruffles and a bow.

Her hair was styled in an upswept ringlet of curls and surrounded by daisies. A Camelot headpiece of lace and seed pearls, with a three-layered veil trimmed in daisy lace, completed the ensemble.

The bride wore a small white gold heart set with a diamond, with earrings to match. She carried a silk bouquet of white roses and daisies with long white ribbons.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Peggy Fenloch, Baltimore, a cousin of the bride. She wore a long baby blue gown with a V-neckline and belled sleeves, with a long tie-belt in back to set off the waistline. The gown was trimmed in blue lace and had a long train. She carried a bouquet of daisies and mums with blue ribbons.

Bridesmaid Miss Kathy Shaffer, sister of the groom, wore a mint green gown, and bridesmaid LaDeana Hauser wore a light yellow gown, both styled similar to the matron of honor's.

Hairstyles for all the feminine members of the wedding party, including the bride, were by Mrs. Sue Warren, of New York, a cousin of the bride. Mrs. Warren also made all the silk flowers carried by the bride and her attendants.

Train carriers of the bride's gown were twins Brenda and Barbara Baker, Aurora. Their gowns were the same as the bridesmaids', without trains, and each girl carried a bouquet of silk daisies and mums with ribbons to match their gowns.

Carole Jean Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Baker, Aurora, was flower girl. Her dress was white and styled similar to the matron of honor's. She carried a basket trimmed in daisies and wore a veil of sheer lace and daisies in her hair.

The bride's mother chose a turquoise blue gown with a short, sheer lace cape to match. The groom's mother chose a light green gown with a ruffled neckline and belled sleeves.

Tom Nair, Pennsylvania, was best man. Ushers were Paul Sisler, brother of the bride, and Larry Shaffer, cousin of the groom. They were attired in white Tuxedo jackets and black tuxedo pants with blue, green, and yellow ruffled shirts and black bow ties. The groom wore a white tuxedo.

David Hernandez of North Carolina served as ringbearer. He carried a square-shaped pillow made of white satin and lace.

Connie Nicklow of Aurora tended the guest book and gift table at the reception held in the basement of the church. Members of the bride's family decorated the basement and served the food. Jean Hultman, Erie, Pa., cut and served the cake. An outdoor dinner party was held by the bride's parents at their home following the reception.

The couple had a honeymoon at Alpine Village at Deep Creek Lake, and on Sunday drove to Aurora to attend the annual Shaffer Music Jamboree which was dedicated to the late Harold Shaffer, grandfather of the groom.

The couple is presently living in Aurora.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of East Preston Senior High School. The groom is a 1975 graduate of Aurora High School and is employed with Union Coal Co. in Barton.

It's A Small World

Ever run into a friend in Tokyo, or meet one of your neighbors in Amsterdam? Maybe not—but such things are happening every day!

It makes you stop and think—the way this world is shrinking. It makes you wish that the men and women who live on opposite sides of the globe had more things in common.

There can be no more unifying force in the world than a common belief in God. And toward that ideal we are rapidly progressing. Christians the world over are feeling and expressing their unity of faith and purpose.

Sunday is World-Wide Communion Sunday. On that day, within the space of a few short hours, Christians in every land will reverently participate in the Lord's Supper which has been a mark of Christian faith for almost two thousand years.

Worship with the World in the Church of your choice!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

BEHIND THE LAW

Lesson for October 1, 1978

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 5:1-5;
Jeremiah 31:31-34;
Matthew 5:17-20; 7:28,29.
Devotional Reading:
John 5:43-47.

In Israel today one finds a continuing controversy of gigantic proportions over the Jewish religious law. A minority of ultra-conservative Israelis would make the state of Israel a theocracy, a nation strictly and uncompromisingly governed by its ancient laws as interpreted by its legalistic rabbis. The majority, however, believe that these religious laws would make it virtually impossible for Israel to exist as a nation.

Rev. Althouse

A Stone Or A Tree?

The problem is not with religious laws, but with the ways in which these laws are regarded and interpreted by men. These divergences might be depicted in symbolic terms in the difference between a stone monument and a living, growing tree. For some, the religious laws constitute an unchanging, inflexible once-given reality. For others, the laws of God are a living, growing entity that is as vital and contemporary as the God who created them.

The approach of Jesus to God's laws was certainly the latter view. His dynamic rather than static approach brought him into conflict with some segments of the religious establishment. He was accused by some as seeking to abolish the law because Jesus tended to put people ahead of legalistic principles.

Yet, instead of abolishing the law, said Jesus, his God-given mission was instead to fulfill "the law and the prophets." His approach was to accomplish the purpose behind the laws. The purpose of the sabbath, for example, said Jesus, was to help people, not hurt them. To interpret any law or commandment in such a way as to deny love to anyone would be a denial of the purpose for which the law had come into being.

A New Covenant

Jesus' approach to the law was not as radically new as it may have seemed. Other Jewish leaders had regarded the commandments in much the same manner. As far back as Jeremiah (7th century BC), there was anticipated a new approach to the covenant: "Behold, the days are coming, says the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah. I will put my law within them, and I will write it upon their hearts" (Jeremiah 31:31,33).

What both Jeremiah and Jesus recognized was the dangerous tendency to allow the law to become a substitute for God himself. As William Temple once put it, "... no law, apart from a Lawgiver, is a proper object of reverence." Jesus did not come to abolish the law, but to point people to the Lawgiver and his purpose. His approach to the law was not less than but more than: "...unless your righteousness exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven" (Matthew 5:20).

One must always look behind and beyond the law to the Lawgiver.

YOU NEED ALL THE HELP YOU CAN GET

Every year there are about five to ten million adverse drug reactions in this country. And, sad to say, a good many of them are preventable. Your pharmacist is in a good position to advise you when two drugs you might be taking are incompatible. Prescription drugs react with non-prescription drugs and even common aspirin and antacids cannot be safely taken with many prescription medications.

Our pharmacy is anxious to help you watch out for adverse drug reactions. So, please ask us about the medicines you are taking.

Workshop Slated For "Caregivers" To Help Handicapped

Home care service for the handicapped is a program sponsored by the Easter Seal Society and funded in Garrett County by the Maryland Mental Retardation Administration. Through this program, families with mentally retarded children and adults are able to locate baby sitters and companions for their handicapped family members.

Persons in Garrett County who wish to become caregivers-baby sitters and companions in this program are invited to attend a training workshop October 21. Interested persons need no special educational background. Caregivers are persons who are dependable, caring individuals motivated by the desire to serve the handicapped and their families.

Professionals in the Health Field will provide traning in the "Care of the Handicapped" at the daylong workshop, from 9:30 to 3:00 p.m. in Garrett Community College at McHenry. At the close of the workship applications will be provided to those who wish to become caregivers. There will be an opportunity to talk with the program coordinator in an individual interview to be scheduled shortly after the all day workshop.

Families with mentally handicapped family members may obtain the service of a caregiver by contacting the Easter Seal Society through the Appalachian Adult Activities Center at 334-8146. The cost for the service is $1.50 per Hour. However, through funds furnished by the Mental Retardation Administration, families are offered the services at costs based upon financial income.

Voting for your County Commissioner

Fiction vs. FACT

On

THE COURTHOUSE PROJECT

Fiction: Without the Courthouse Project, your County tax payments would have been lower.

FACT: The Courthouse Project saves your County tax dollars! Your Federal taxes — already paid — are being brought back to Garrett County.

Fiction: We could have saved tax money by renovating the old jail.

FACT: The State of Maryland and the Garrett County Grand Jury demanded that our jail be brought up to required standards. Re-modelling the old jail would have cost more than a million dollars. Garrett County taxpayers, alone, would have had to pay at least half if not all of the cost. The Courthouse Project gives us a new jail with the County paying only the Architect's fees. This new jail meets minimum State and Federal standards only.

Fiction: "Everyone" opposed the Courthouse Project.

FACT: The plans for the Project were presented to numerous community organizations, including Rotary Clubs, Lions Clubs, Merchants' Association, Chamber of Commerce, Church groups, Oakland Town Council, and others. No opposition was voiced at these meetings.

Fiction: The general public was not consulted about the Courthouse Project.

FACT: An architect's drawing and a written description of the Project were published in The Republican, and the description also was printed in The Cumberland News. Public hearings were held; few persons attended, and none opposed the Project.

Fiction: Our historic Courthouse will be demolished.

FACT: Our historic Courthouse will NOT be demolished. It is being preserved — both as a historic structure and as the continuing center of local justice and County government. Official approval of the Project by the Maryland Historical Trust was stated as follows:

"The State Historic Preservation Office for Maryland commends your proposal to rehabilitate the Garrett County Courthouse . . ."

Fiction: Spending for the Courthouse Project doesn't benefit Garrett Countians.

FACT: To date, the Courthouse Project has paid more than a quarter-of-a-million dollars in wages to Garrett County citizens, plus nearly as much spent locally to purchase supplies and materials. These expenditures of "outside" dollars have a substantial and positive effect on our local economy.

Fiction: Garrett County taxpayers will be paying for the Courthouse Project for years to come.

FACT: The Courthouse Project will be completely paid for the day it is occupied, without any remaining debt. No other Maryland county can show such an achievement!

Health Department Seeking Those Who Attended Convention

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The state health department said Friday it is looking for more than 100 Maryland residents who attended a Veteran of Foreign Wars convention in Dallas last month to determine if they may have contracted Legionnaire's Disease.

State Health Secretary Neil Solomon said the search began after three state residents returned home from the August 18-25 convention and were hospitalized with symptoms resembling the disease.

In July, 1976, 29 people who attended an American Legion convention in Philadelphia died from the mysterious illness.

Solomon said earlier this week the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta asked all state health departments to locate VFW members who may have attended the convention.

The CDC confirmed that at least two of the 36,000 convention delegates had the disease.

Veterans and their guests from Maryland who attended the Dallas convention will be contacted by physicians from the department's Communicable Disease Division, he said.

He said doctors from Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health are also helping in the telephone survey, which has revealed 12 suspected cases of Legionnaire's disease.

The department said most of the persons being sought are members of the VFW, but that several other organizations sent representatives to the meeting.

The incubation period for the illness is from two to 10 days. The pneumonia-like symptoms include a temperature of 102 or above, headaches, a cough, weakness, chest pains and diarrhea.

Solomon said people who attended the Dallas convention and have not been contacted should consult a physician if they contracted any flu-like illness prior to September 10.

The secretary said only persons displaying symptoms on or before September 10 will undergo intensive diagnostic screening to determine a possible diagnosis of Legionnaire's disease.

Earlier this month, the department announced that four cases of Legionnaire's disease had been confirmed in Maryland this year, including one death.

Grantsville Community Park Dedicated Saturday

Playground equipment, volleyball courts, a baseball diamond and various other recreation facilities are all to be found at the newly-dedicated Grantsville Park. The park, which covers a total of eight acres, was funded by Project Open Space, assisted by a $23,000 contribution by the Grantsville Lions, a $2,000 Rotary contribution, and help from other fund-raising organizations.

Officiating at ceremonies for the new park in Grantsville Saturday were Dave Wineland, project officer for Open Space; Sen. Edward J. Mason, principal speaker; and Commissioner George Edwards, park chairman.

A full day of activities marked the dedication of the Grantsville Community Park Saturday. Actual dedication ceremonies were scheduled at noon and featured remarks by State Senator Edward J. Mason.

Representatives from the American Legion and State Department of Natural Resources also participated.

Activities began with a chicken barbecue at 11 a.m. served by the Grantsville Lions Club and all proceeds from the barbecue were donated to the park fund.

The eight-acre park is located two streets north of U. S. Route 40 behind Guy's Tire Shop. The project was financed with Open Space funds obtained from the state. Total purchase price and cost of development was approximately $130,000. Open Space funds bought the land, for $32,000, and paid 75 percent of the development costs.

Work on the park began in 1973. The park replaces the former baseball diamond which was located across Route 40 from Penn Alps but was eliminated with the construction of Route 48. Land was purchased from Dave Broadwater and Robert Speicher.

Horseshoe pitching began at 1 p.m., volleyball and other games at 2 p.m., sack races at 3 p.m., and additional contests at 5 p.m.

Teams from the Island Creek League of West Virginia and the Fellowship Center of Pennsylvania met at 2 p.m. while teams from Oakland and Grantsville met at 3 p.m. Island Creek was first, Grantsville second, Oakland third and Fellowship Center fourth.

A list of those who have contributed in the efforts to make the park a reality follow:

State of Maryland, Garrett County, town of Grantsville, Rotary, Legion Post 214; Harbison Walker, Delta Mining, Finzel Coal Company, Northwest Coal Company, M&S Stone Quarry, Willard, Tom and Odell Broadwater; sheriff's department, Maryland State Police.

Congratulations Garrett County

I believe the people of this county should be congratulated on the recent primary election. For the first time in several years 50% of the county's eligible voters turned out to support the candidates of their choice.

I'm truly happy to be one of those chosen candidates and I thank you for your support.

It was a close race and that goes to show that the voters are sincerely concerned about their representation - and rightly so. I believe that my record is a strong indication that I will continue to faithfully represent the citizens of this area.

Your continued support will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
DeCorsey E. Bolden

Real Estate

A BETTER BUY

Sure mortgage interest rates are higher than they were, but so are the market values of homes and land. Please believe me when I say that even at today's inflated prices and interest rates, real estate is a better buy than anything else you can go after with borrowed dollars.

Financing for other purchases often costs twice as much - and these things depreciate while a house usually grows in value. Check the trade-in value of your car when you turn it in for a new one. Also for the past ten years, real estate values have doubled the increase in the Dow Jones average.

In this sense, real estate is the most worth-while investment you can make, and your best protection against inflation. And don't forget the priceless dividends your family will enjoy as you live in your growing investment.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, plase phone one of our office:

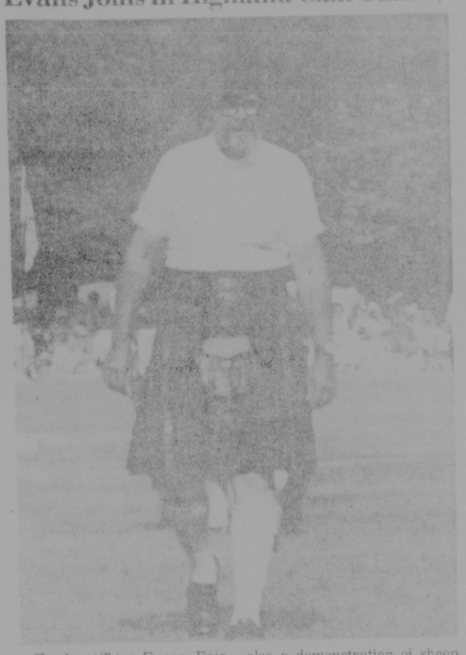
Evans Joins In Highland Clan Games



Charles (Chip) Evans, Fairview Church Road, joined fellow clansmen in activities at the Highland Games held at Ligonier, Pa. September 9.

Scottish games are held there every year on the first Saturday in September, with pipe bands, dancers, and competitions in games of caber and sheath toss, hammer throw and tug of war. There is also a demonstration of sheep herding with border collies. Competitors come from all over the United States, and owners of Scottish shops featuring articles made in Scotland set up sale booths.

Mr. Evans, a member of the Chisholm clan, has been attending the Games for ten years, but this was his first year in any competitions. He participated in the tug of war.

Fall Friendship Meeting Is Held By Alpha Alpha

Alpha Alpha Chapter of Garrett County and Eta Chapter of Allegany County of Delta Kappa Gamma Society held their regular fall friendship meeting Saturday, September 23, at the Will o' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

Evelyn Watson, president of Alpha Alpha, welcomed members of Eta. President's pins were then presented to the past presidents of both chapters. Evelyn Watson presented out-going president of Alpha Alpha, Jean Wolfe, with her pin and Rebecca Millar, current president of Eta, presented a pin to out-going president of that chapter, Mary Calemine.

Dorothy Frame received a traditional red rose to mark the occasion of her retirement from teaching. Elizabeth Randol made the presentation.

Anna Bishop of Alpha Alpha led the program for the meeting, titled "Project Basic." Participating in the program were Jane Fox, who presented the elementary school principal's view of "Project Basic;" Jean Grose, who discusssed the secondary school teacher's pint of view; Mildred Wucik, who presented the secondary principal's point of view; and Charleen Thomas, who discussed "Project Basic" as seen from the supervisor's point of view. Anna Bishop presented the guidance counselor's point of view of "Project Basic."

Business meetings were then conducted by both chapters, with Evelyn Watson presiding over the meeting of Alpha Alpha. Major item of business was voting on new members.

Alice Snyder, chairman of the Professional Affairs Committee, reported on that committee's attendance at recent meetings of the Garrett County Women for Progress, a coalition of women's groups who have decided to monitor Title 9.

Barbara Flinn presented a report concerning the Scholarship Committee. Alice Snyder reported on the nominee for the Recruitment Grant, a $150 scholarship which is presented to a young woman in Garrett County who wishes to further her career in education.

UNLIKELY FRIENDS — This German shepherd named "Husky" is not a normally friendly dog, so his acceptance of a long-eared domesticated rabbit as a pal was very unexpected, to say the least. The two became friends last winter at the Scott Sisler property south of Oakland, and the friendship lasted until "Bunny" disappeared not too long ago. "Husky" is not saying where "Bunny" went, but Mr. Sisler feels certain the rabbit found a new home with some neighbors and their children. Meanwhile, "Husky" the dog appears to be grieving for his cottontail buddy, says Mr. Sisler.

Life Flight To Provide Emergency Service

1st In Northeast

A Life Flight helicopter, part of the emergency transportation service based in Pittsburgh, was landed recently at the Accident Station of the Northern Rescue Squad to acquaint the squad members with the machine and the emergency procedure.

The Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, in cooperation with Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, announced the inauguration of Life Flight, an emergency helicopter transportation service for critically ill or injured persons.

This 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week medical transportation service is the first of its kind in the Northeastern United States. With the concurrence of the appropriate medical directors, Life Flight will be available to serve all hospitals, rescue units, ambulance services, search and rescue teams, commercial or industrial plant or disaster units within a 130-mile radius of downtown Pittsburgh, which includes Garrett County and parts of Allegany County, West Virginia and Ohio.

Life Flight Emergency Health Service will provide:

1. On-the-scene and inflight emergency medical attention by a professionally trained and equipped medical-care team.
2. Air-borne service for critically ill persons to any hospital or medical center within the area, specified by the referring physician or patient.
3. Rapid, air-borne transportation for critically injured persons from the accident site to an emergency center or designated hospital.
4. Emergency transportation for critically ill patients from one health-care institution to another institution within the service area.

Life Flight is being initiated in cooperation with the Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, which is required by act of Congress to develop a means of secondary emergency medical transportation.

Life Flight will augment existing primary ground transportation systems. It will provide hospitals and emergency-care centers with an opportunity to transport or receive their critically ill and injured patients in a vastly shortened time interval. During that interval, the patient will receive the most sophisticated care possible by Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team.

Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team will consist of physicians (as needed) and registered nurses specially trained in intensive care techniques used in coronary, respiratory, neonatal, trauma and other life threatening emergencies. While in flight and at the scene, emergency medical command will be provided by Allegheny General Hospital physicians.

Medical emergency equipment on board the Life Flight helicopter includes electrocardiography monitors, oxygen, defibrillators, suction apparatus, endotracheal intubation equipment, intravenous fluids, transport isolettes, emergency medical and other vital life-support supplies.

For the next several weeks, Life Flight will be running training filghts for its crew, and will be flying the aircraft to the various health-care institutions that will be using the service.

Life Flight became fully operational on September 22.

Preston Livestock Plans Club Calf Show And Sale

The Preston County Livestock Association is sponsoring the Third Annual Club Calf Show and Sale on Saturday, October 21. The show will be at 3:00 p.m. and the sale will be at 7:30 p.m. Both the show and sale will be held in the Cow Palace on the Buckwheat Festival Grounds, Kingwood, WV. At least 50 select steers and 10 breeding quality heifers will be offered for sale.

The purpose of this sale is to provide 4-H and FFA members an opportunity to purchase calves for their baby beef projects, and to provide area beef producers an opportunity to market their best calves at a premium price. These calves will be fed out and raised as baby beef projects by the club members to be shown and sold at the Buckwheat Festival or similar shows in the area. This sale provides the club members with a chance to see and purchase calves that will grow out to grade prime or choice. It also provides learning experience for these junior livestock producers, by participating in an auction sale and bidding on the calf of their choice.

Calves will be grade or purebred Hereford, Angus, Shorthorn, or any of their crosses, as well as exotic crossbred calves — such as Simmental, Limousin, Charolais, Maine Anjou, or any other exotic cross.

The Reserve Grant Champion Steer at the 1978 West Virginia State Fair was purchased at the 1977 Club Calf Sale. If any steer bought at this year's sale is a Grand Champion at any show in 1979, the buyer will receive $100 off the purchase price at next year's club calf sale. If any steer is Reserve Grand Champion, the buyer will receive $50 off.

As a bonus, the Reserve Grand Champion heifer (a Shorthorn-Simmental cross) at the 1978 Jackson's Mill Demonstrational Show and Sale will be awarded to the winning buyer at this year's club calf sale. This heifer will be shown at the Buckwheat Festival September 28-30.

The Icelandic language has remained unchanged since the 12th century.

Life Flight To Provide Emergency Service

1st In Northeast

A Life Flight helicopter, part of the emergency transportation service based in Pittsburgh, was landed recently at the Accident Station of the Northern Rescue Squad to acquaint the squad members with the machine and the emergency procedure.

The Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, in cooperation with Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, announced the inauguration of Life Flight, an emergency helicopter transportation service for critically ill or injured persons.

This 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week medical transportation service is the first of its kind in the Northeastern United States. With the concurrence of the appropriate medical directors, Life Flight will be available to serve all hospitals, rescue units, ambulance services, search and rescue teams, commercial or industrial plant or disaster units within a 130-mile radius of downtown Pittsburgh, which includes Garrett County and parts of Allegany County, West Virginia and Ohio.

Life Flight Emergency Health Service will provide:

1. On-the-scene and inflight emergency medical attention by a professionally trained and equipped medical-care team.

2. Air-borne service for critically ill persons to any hospital or medical center within the area, specified by the referring physician or patient.

3. Rapid, air-borne transportation for critically injured persons from the accident site to an emergency center or designated hospital.

4. Emergency transportation for critically ill patients from one health-care institution to another institution within the service area.

Life Flight is being initiated in cooperation with the Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, which is required by act of Congress to develop a means of secondary emergency medical transportation.

Life Flight will augment existing primary ground transportation systems. It will provide hospitals and emergency-care centers with an opportunity to transport or receive their critically ill and injured patients in a vastly shortened time interval. During that interval, the patient will receive the most sophisticated care possible by Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team.

Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team will consist of physicians (as needed) and registered nurses specially trained in intensive care techniques used in coronary, respiratory, neonatal, trauma and other life threatening emergencies. While in flight and at the scene, emergency medical command will be provided by Allegheny General Hospital physicians.

Medical emergency equipment on board the Life Flight helicopter includes electrocardiography monitors, oxygen, defibrillators, suction apparatus, endotracheal intubation equipment, intravenous fluids, transport isolettes, emergency medical and other vital life-support supplies.

For the next several weeks, Life Flight will be running training filghts for its crew, and will be flying the aircraft to the various health-care institutions that will be using the service.

Life Flight became fully operational on September 22.

Preston Livestock Plans Club Calf Show And Sale

The Preston County Livestock Association is sponsoring the Third Annual Club Calf Show and Sale on Saturday, October 21. The show will be at 3:00 p.m. and the sale will be at 7:30 p.m. Both the show and sale will be held in the Cow Palace on the Buckwheat Festival Grounds, Kingwood, WV. At least 50 select steers and 10 breeding quality heifers will be offered for sale.

The purpose of this sale is to provide 4-H and FFA members an opportunity to purchase calves for their baby beef projects, and to provide area beef producers an opportunity to market their best calves at a premium price. These calves will be fed out and raised as baby beef projects by the club members to be shown and sold at the Buckwheat Festival or similar shows in the area. This sale provides the club members with a chance to see and purchase calves that will grow out to grade prime or choice. It also provides learning experience for these junior livestock producers, by participating in an auction sale and bidding on the calf of their choice.

Calves will be grade or purebred Hereford, Angus, Shorthorn, or any of their crosses, as well as exotic crossbred calves — such as Simmental, Limousin, Charolais, Maine Anjou, or any other exotic cross.

The Reserve Grant Champion Steer at the 1978 West Virginia State Fair was purchased at the 1977 Club Calf Sale. If any steer bought at this year's sale is a Grand Champion at any show in 1979, the buyer will receive $100 off the purchase price at next year's club calf sale. If any steer is Reserve Grand Champion, the buyer will receive $50 off.

As a bonus, the Reserve Grand Champion heifer (a Shorthorn-Simmental cross) at the 1978 Jackson's Mill Demonstrational Show and Sale will be awarded to the winning buyer at this year's club calf sale. This heifer will be shown at the Buckwheat Festival September 28-30.

The Icelandic language has remained unchanged since the 12th century.

My sincere thanks to all who supported me in the Primary. I would appreciate your continued support in the coming election.

Life Flight To Provide Emergency Service

1st In Northeast

A Life Flight helicopter, part of the emergency transportation service based in Pittsburgh, was landed recently at the Accident Station of the Northern Rescue Squad to acquaint the squad members with the machine and the emergency procedure.

The Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, in cooperation with Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, announced the inauguration of Life Flight, an emergency helicopter transportation service for critically ill or injured persons.

This 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week medical transportation service is the first of its kind in the Northeastern United States. With the concurrence of the appropriate medical directors, Life Flight will be available to serve all hospitals, rescue units, ambulance services, search and rescue teams, commercial or industrial plant or disaster units within a 130-mile radius of downtown Pittsburgh, which includes Garrett County and parts of Allegany County, West Virginia and Ohio.

Life Flight Emergency Health Service will provide:

1. On-the-scene and inflight emergency medical attention by a professionally trained and equipped medical-care team.

2. Air-borne service for critically ill persons to any hospital or medical center within the area, specified by the referring physician or patient.

3. Rapid, air-borne transportation for critically injured persons from the accident site to an emergency center or designated hospital.

4. Emergency transportation for critically ill patients from one health-care institution to another institution within the service area.

Life Flight is being initiated in cooperation with the Emergency Medical Services Institute of Southwestern Pennsylvania, which is required by act of Congress to develop a means of secondary emergency medical transportation.

Life Flight will augment existing primary ground transportation systems. It will provide hospitals and emergency-care centers with an opportunity to transport or receive their critically ill and injured patients in a vastly shortened time interval. During that interval, the patient will receive the most sophisticated care possible by Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team.

Life Flight's Emergency Medical Care Team will consist of physicians (as needed) and registered nurses specially trained in intensive care techniques used in coronary, respiratory, neonatal, trauma and other life threatening emergencies. While in flight and at the scene, emergency medical command will be provided by Allegheny General Hospital physicians.

Medical emergency equipment on board the Life Flight helicopter includes electrocardiography monitors, oxygen, defibrillators, suction apparatus, endotracheal intubation equipment, intravenous fluids, transport isolettes, emergency medical and other vital life-support supplies.

For the next several weeks, Life Flight will be running training flights for its crew, and will be flying the aircraft to the various health-care institutions that will be using the service.

Life Flight became fully operational on September 22.

At least 50 select steers and 10 breeding quality heifers will be offered for sale.

The purpose of this sale is to provide 4-H and FFA members an opportunity to purchase calves for their baby beef projects, and to provide area beef producers an opportunity to market their best calves at a premium price. He served in this position until October 1955. Following an assignment as a service foreman in Hagerstown and commercial manager in Chestertown, Dayton returned to Cumberland in 1962.

He has been a member of the board of directors of the Greater Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and also has served as first vice president and member of the executive committee. He has served as job developer for the National Alliance of Businessmen; vice president of the Allegany County Economic Development; president of the Cumberland Rotary Club and member of its board of directors; a committee member of Boy Scout Troop 10 in La-Vale; vice president of Nemacolin Trail District of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts; member of the Salvation Army board of directors; co-chairman of the Classified Division of the County United Way; committee member of Kelly-Springfield Explorer Aviation Post, and president of Allegany Flying post.

Dayton also is a member of the Cumberland Soaring Club; Potomac Lodge 100, AF & AM; Ali Ghan Shrine and is a member and chairman of the finance committee of Centre Street United Methodist Church.

He and his wife, Irene, have two daughters, Charyl, who is married and lives in Catonsville, and Kay, a sophomore at Eastern Kentucky College, Richmond, KY. Their son, Gary, is a senior at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Daytona Beach, Fla.

The Daytons presently reside at 531 Henry Drive, LaVale, and will be relocating in the Salisbury area.

Student Records Policy Adopted By School Board

The Department of Pupil Services of the Garrett County public schools announces that the Garrett County Board of Education has adopted a Student Records Policy, according to Albert A. Coviello, Supervisor of Pupil Services. The records policy was developed through the cooperative efforts of local school counselors and principals to meet the requirements established by the Federal Family Rights and Privacy Act and State Bylaw.

Mr. Coviello said that the purpose of this policy is to inform parents and eligible students (18 years old or older) of their right to inspect and review the educational records of the student, the right not to have personally identifiable information from the student's records released without prior written consent, the right of the parent or eligible student to see the log of requests for and disclosures of personally identifiable information maintained by the school, the right of parents and eligible students to seek the correction of educational records through request or by hearing, and the right of the parent or eligible student to have a copy of the policy or student records.

The educational records of students are maintained at the student's home school and in some instances in the Pupil Services office at the Garrett County Board of Education.

A mini-guide to the policy which lists the responsibilities of the school principal in implementing this policy is as follows:

Types of Data In a Pupil Record

Information collected for all Garrett County Public School pupils includes (1) name of pupil and siblings, (2) birthdate, (3) names and addresses of parents or guardians, years of education and their employment, (4) minority group membership, (5) enrollment and attendance data, (6) grades and courses completed and level of achievement, (7) standardized test results, (8) routine health information. Information collected about individual pupils required to develop the most effective educational program may include reports such as (1) results of personality tests, (2) evaluative reports by teachers, (3) medical and/or psychological evaluations, (4) referrals to Pupil Services and outside agencies and information received from Pupil Services and outside agencies.

Review of Records

Records are reviewed at the end of the pupil's fifth, eighth and twelfth grade school year, prior to their transfer to another school, and upon withdrawal for any other reason.

Access to Records

Access to student's records is granted to parents, eligible students and to the professional staff of the Board of Education who are directly involved with the educational process of the individual student in a teaching, guidance/counseling, or consulting situation without a release of information being needed. Other persons or agencies will need a signed and dated release of information form stating specifically what kind of information they seek except in cases where consent is not required by state or federal bylaws. Requests for, and disclosures of personally identifiable information to parties not exempted by State Bylaws, will be logged in the student's records.

Challenging Contents of Records

Records can be amended or changed informally through mutual consent of the parties involved. If agreement cannot be reached informally, the parent(s) or eligible student has a right to a hearing to challenge the educational record(s) in question.

Cost of Reproduced Copies

There will be no charge to the parents or eligible student for copies of school records being contested through the hearing process. In other cases, a fee will be charged.

Directory Information

Directory information is a student's name, address, telephone number, date and place of birth, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended. Directory information can be released without parental or eligible student permission.

Any parent or eligible student, who does not want the school to release directory information without the prior written consent of the parents or eligible student, must annually, in writing, notify the custodian of the education records within 30 days after the advertisement of the categories of directory information. This notification by the parent must be submitted initially and annually on an official directory information form which is available from the school principal.

Other Rights and Requirements

Other rights and requirements, not mentioned above, are set forth in the county policy regarding student educational records. For more detail, interpretation, review of the original policy, or a copy of said policy, persons should contact the local school or the Garrett County Board of Education, Pupil Services office, 334-8121.

This policy also provides that a principal may release records without written consent:

- to employees of the Garrett County Board of Education who must use them,
- to comply with a judicial order or a subpoena,
- to state and Federal government agencies who administer educational or educationally-related programs,
- to persons or organizations conducting studies for the education agency,
- to appropriate persons in connection with a health or safety emergency, and
- to officials of another school or school system in which the student seeks or intends to enroll, upon condition that the student's parents be notified of the transfer.

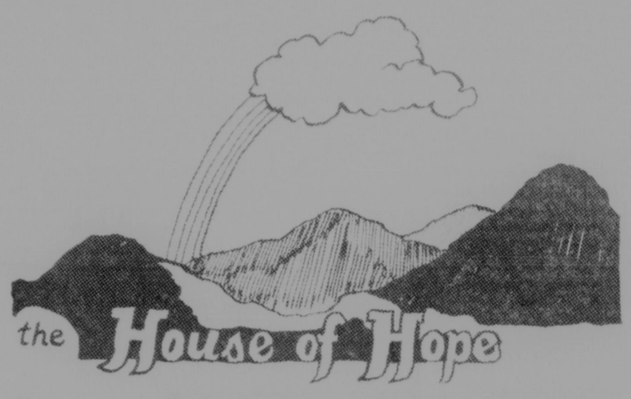
From the Glimmer of An Idea To a Full-Fledged Rainbow...



House of Hope Opening Doors October 1

By Carol Canan

A ray of promise and encouragement has now touched the lives of many people here, especially women who have been battered by their spouses, children who have been abused by non-caring parents, foster children "between homes," those made homeless by fires or other natural disasters, or eviction, will be offered a place for shelter and nourishment until they can make more permanent arrangements.

The appropriately-named House of Hope will be a caring community's answer to needs which, until now, were not met by any agency or group. The House will officially open October 1 with an open house during mid-day hours.

A volunteer network with members throughout the county forms the basis for the House's foundation. The entire concept is based on living the Christian outreach message from the Gospel that says "For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you took me in, Naked and you clothed me..."

The present network is the end product of several metamorphases, from a single idea to St. Peter's parish council, from council to committee and committee to the present network.

A most appropriate saying graces the entrance hallway at the House of Hope, symbolizing that the House will be a center for shelter and physical and spiritual nourishment for all.

The idea was born during a discussion by several church members on unmet needs in the county in September 1977. After discussion with such agencies as Social Services and the Health Department, the group noted that the most pressing need seemed to be a shelter for the abused, neglected and homeless.

They took their idea to St. Peter's parish council, which helped conduct further investigations and then placed the expanding idea into the hands of a community service committee, which comprised interested people from all over the county. Funding for operation and maintenance expenses has been obtained from the Archdiocese of Baltimore for a period of two full years.

In additon to providing food and shelter, the planners want the House of Hope to also serve as a center for reflection, prayer and social awareness, for pondering on the Gospel and how it may relate to an individual's life.

Although the idea has been germinated by groups with religious affiliations, the House of Hope will be totally non-sectarian and will offer shelter to all those who are in need, whether or not they are church members.

The House also will provide necessary transportation when existing agencies cannot. In addition, the House also plans to maintain a network of volunteers who can help by doing grocery shopping for shut-ins, organizing an emergency pantry and distributing food; being a friendly visitor or making telephone visits to shut-ins; preparing foods, serving as craft instructors or home handymen, helping with laundry and mending, or doing clerical work.

Anyone who would like to assist the project may call the House at 334-2357. Needed also are intake persons, who coordinate calls requesting assistance from their own homes (call will be transferred from the House of Hope number). Training for intake volunteers is set October 8 at the House, so that full services, including all of the above, may begin October 16.

The House of Hope is located at 202 S. Fourth Street in Oakland (at the corner of Alder and Fourth) beside St. Peter's Catholic Church. Full-time staff members will be Catharine Arata and Susan Plews, School Sisters of Notre Dame.

The house itself is a two-story, white frame dwelling which can comfortably accommodate up to ten people. In addition to the rooms which will house the two permanent staff members, there are two bedrooms, each with a capacity of four people, on the second floor. A living room, dining room, televison room and kitchen are located on the first floor.

Since the facility is intended to provide short-term lodging, a person or family may generally remain for a maximum of two weeks. Requests for the hospitality of the House will be considered whether they originate from a government agency, a private agency, an interested private citizen, or directly from a person or family.

Hospitality is given with the understanding that the person helped will act as a part of the House of Hope family, and help with a fair share of the household chores. A few house rules must also be followed for the contentment of all.

Through involvement of the House of Hope committee and a volunteer program, every effort will be made to find resources for any referrals made which cannot be handled directly by the House.

The House has been furnished entirely by contributions of furniture, bedding and housewares given by people in the county, and the committee noted it was "pleasantly surprised at the generosity" of those responding. Duplicates of items will be stored in case of need at some future time, or to help those who have lost possessions in such disasters as fire.

The House will also keep a supply of non-perishable foods on hand to help in emergency situations, as a supplement to the Community Action Committee's three-day food supply packet.

Lines from Genesis which make reference to a rainbow — "I set my bow in the clouds to serve as a sign of the covenant between me and the earth" — were aptly chosen as part of the logo which is used on House stationery and for the sign which will be hung in the front yard. The sign will depict a rainbow and a cloud above hills, signifying the "rainbow of Hope" which will now be available to all in need.

Members of a community committee which saw a need, then went to work to create a House of Hope to fill the need are, left to right, seated, Mrs. Dorothy Straub, Sister Catherine Arata, Sister Susan Plews, Rev. Martin Feild, Joe DiSimone, and Kay Carlson and daughter Ingrid. Standing are Clarence Stem, Marc Oliver and Al Coviello. Others involved but not pictured include Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Coviello, Kathleen Barrett, Eric and Mary Ammann, Mel Hamill, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Brandes, and Esther Yoder.

The sitting room downstairs features one corner for the Good Book so prayer and reflection are a natural part of everyday living. All furniture was donated by area people to furnish the center for the needy and homeless. A television room at the rear of the house will give residents the opportunity to join in conversations in the living room or watch their favorite programs.

Eglon Man Keeps Pilots Informed On Weather Conditions Over Atlantic

Navy Petty Officer Second Class Don Frantz, Eglon, W. Va., records weather readings while on duty at the U. S. Naval Station, Keflavik, Iceland. Navyman Frantz is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Frantz, Eglon, W. Va.

"I have to make sure weather conditions passed on to pilots are accurate," says Navyman Don Frantz while at work on a teletype machine at the U. S. Naval Station, Keflavik, Iceland. He is a 1969 graduate of Aurora High School.

By Jerry Babb

An unforeseen cold front sweeping down from the polar icecap could spell disaster for a pilot, his crew and passengers flying routes across the North Atlantic Ocean.

Don Frantz of Eglon, W. Va. has the job of making sure military pilots are alerted to such a cold front, and any other adverse weather conditions.

"It's a real challenge for a person to learn about the weather in this critical area," explained Petty Officer Second Class Frantz, on assignment with the Navy in Iceland.

"My job is to supervise other aerographer's mates working here," continued the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Frantz of Eglon. "I have to make sure weather conditions passed on to pilots are accurate."

Iceland, about the size of Ohio with a population of some 223,000, is located 200 miles off the southeastern coast of Greenland in the North Atlantic Ocean. In an extreme northern section of the country, when the sea is at low tide, one can walk to the water's edge and find himself standing inside the geographic boundary of the Arctic Circle.

Known as the land of "frost and fire," Iceland is a 1,100-year-old island nation of glaciers, periodic volcanic eruptions, rugged rocky shorelines and a hearty Nordic people.

The NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) Base at Keflavik provides an effective headquarters for Navy anti-submarine warfare patrol and Air Force fighter-interceptor aircraft, and combined radar and communications facilities. Some 2,900 military men and women are serving here — accompanied by approximately 2,000 spouses and children.

"I volunteered to come here," said 28-year-old Frantz, a 1969 graduate of Aurora (W. Va.) High School. "I wanted to see the country and learn more about the Icelandic people."

Icelanders — unlike some Americans living here — have tailored their lifestyle to the long days of summer and long nights of winter common to this part of the world. During June there's daylight 24 hours, while December glimpses a dimly glowing sun four to five hours each day between late morning and early afternoon.

"The short and long hours of daylight during the year haven't been difficult for me to accept," noted Frantz who has served here since May, 1976.

Living here with him is his wife, the former Neva Harsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Harsh of Eglon, and their three children, Donnie, 6, Melvin, 2, and Melissia, 1.

Living in an isolated area like Iceland doesn't really present any problems, Frantz stated. "Once you're settled in, it's no different than living in any other country."

The base is served by a hospital, a dental clinic, radio and television stations, movie theater, restaurants, a commissary (supermarket) and a general merchandise retail store.

There's also a heated indoor swimming pool, hobby craft shops, 18-lane bowling center, gymnasium, and weather permitting, softball, tennis and golf.

The six-foot four-inch former baseball and basketball player for the Aurora Bears said he spends a lot of his off-duty hours bowling, playing basketball and traveling around Iceland.

Rest and relaxation flights to Scotland, England, Denmark, Spain, Germany and The Netherlands are available to base residents on a regular basis.

"We have some friends living in Spain and we plan on going to see them this winter," he concluded, "and also just to look around the country."

HSA Governing Body Examines Recommendations

Several committee recommendations were studied during a recent meeting of the governing body of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland in Hagerstown.

John H. Lloyd, Jr., state and federal certification advisory committee chairman, reported that his committee had found the following:

That the Dennett Road Manor continues in conformance as approved (the new 100-bed nursing home in Mt. Lake Park with an estimate cost of $1,467,000); that the stores building portion of Sacred Heart's expansion and renovation project estimated at $4,989,000 conforms to the approval; that the grant application of the Maryland Health Planning and Development Agency for determining long-range need for health services not be endorsed.

The committee also recommended that the Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville, not be required to submit a new application because of increases in cost of its expansion and renovation project since the per diem is reasonable.

Mrs. Adele M. Donnelly, special health services advisory committee chairman, reported that the committee endorsed four grant proposals, including Appalachian Activities Center and Sheltered Workshop, fifth year, funds, $148,409.

In reference to the Health Planning Council of Appalachia Maryland merging into the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland, Ms. Agnes Kemerer reported that a proposal is under development by the council and a final resolution will be made by October 31.

Ms. Kemerer announced the public hearing on the Acute Care Bed Need Projection Supplement to the Health Systems Plan of Western Maryland, originally scheduled for October 2, has been rescheduled for a date, time and place to be announced soon.

Two new governing body members, Kenneth A. Richmond and Ross B. James, of Garrett County, were welcomed at the meeting. Other Garrett County representatives there were Thomas Earley and Mrs. Mary Friend.

The next meeting will be held at 1 p.m. October 18 at the Will o' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

District Court Finds Three Guilty Of Battery Charges

Three persons were found guilty of battery charges, as the result of a fight in Oakland, by Judge Lewis R. Jones in District Court last week.

The three involved in the argument were Garry Ferris, Victor Liller and Douglas M. Smith, all of Westernport. Ferris pleaded not guilty of assault and battery on Ellis Cogley and Lonnie Marsh. Liller and Smith pleaded not guilty of battery on the same two persons. Judge Jones found them guilty of all charges noted and ordered a presentence investigation.

Bobby Wilburn Smith, RD 4, Deer Park, pleaded guilty of malicious destruction of property of William Joe Smith at Deer Park in July. He was ordered to pay costs but a 30-day sentence was suspended. He was placed on probation for one year and to make restitution.

A surprise birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Sweitzer recently in honor of Mr. Sweitzer's 65th birthday. Entertainment was provided by Neal Sweitzer on the guitar and Bill White on the fiddle. Birthday cake, sandwiches, punch and coffee was served to the 41 guests who attended the festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sweitzer and son Dale spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Butler of Berlin, Pa.

Mrs. Goldie Twigg spent last week with Mrs. Ildra Frantz. She returned to her Cumberland home Sunday.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

There are many reasons for providing adequate medical care for your pet. We have a responsibility toward those animals we choose to bring into our lives. More selfishly, pets are more fun when they are healthy and active. And last but not least, we protect ourselves by keeping our pets free from disease.

Fortunately, there aren't many diseases that are easily transferred from pets to people. The most dangerous is rabies, usually fatal to humans.

Rabies is a viral infection that can be carried by dogs, cats, bats — all warm-blooded animals. Since humans and dogs live in close contact, the dogbite is a common source of human infection.

There are excellent rabies vaccines available that can provide your dog with as much as three years' protection with a single injection. The injections are a preventive measure and must be given before the pet is exposed to the disease. Each pet owner helps to protect the entire community as well as family members when pets are vaccinated against rabies. Some pet owners question the necessity "in this day and age" for a rabies vaccination, but vaccination itself is the reason we don't see this life-threatening disease more often.

A less threatening but more embarrassing condition that can be transferred from pets to humans is ringworm. Caused by a fungus — not a worm — the infection produces circular scaly patches on the pet's skin, with redness and hair loss. Your veterinarian can provide ointments or shampoos to control the infection, and may clip the pet to remove fungus remaining in the hair. A person whose pet has a confirmed case of ringworm may want to contact a physician for a ringworm examination. In the meantime, keep children away from the affected animal until healing progresses.

Parasites can also be transferred from pet to owner. The most common examples are ticks and fleas. Ticks are eight-legged round or oval parasites that resemble seeds. They are slow moving and attach themselves to the skin surface. Fleas are smaller, fast-moving insects that scurry through the pet's coat when exposed to light. Both these pests feed on the blood of the host animal and may carry serious disease, such as Rocky Mountain spotted fever. The parasites can be controlled on the pet by flea and tick collars, pesticide dusts and shampoos. The type of control that is most effective will vary. Most pets do well with the pest control collars, used according to directions. Some dogs and cats spending much time outside or having heavy coats may require shampoos to reach all the parasites in their fur.

One more human health problem related to pets in the house is allergy. An individual human being's chemistry may find a pet's hair or dander an irritating agent and respond accordingly. Wheezing, sneezing, watery eyes and itching skin are examples of allergic reactions.

With the exception of allergy, which is a very individual situation, pets normally offer no major health threat to human beings. If your pets are well-groomed, their living quarters kept clean and family members observe the rules of good hygiene, pets in the family will add to everyone's enjoyment of life.

Tobacco, Alcohol Tax Revenue Totals Nearly $7 Million

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced recently that the August 1978 alcohol and tobacco tax revenues amounted to $6,999,644. The three types of alcoholic beverage taxes, distilled spirits, wine and beer, each displayed growth in comparison with August of last year. Revenue from the distilled spirits tax totaled $1,358,360, up 11.24%; the wine tax increased 20.13% to realize $248,972 and the beer tax receipts of $841,302 reflected a 1.78% growth.

The August 1978 tobacco tax revenue of $4,551,894 trailed the August 1977 receipts by $737,283, a decline of 13.94%.

For the first two months of Fiscal Year 1979 alcohol and tobacco tax revenues total $11,810,600, down $337,607 from the amount collected during the corresponding period of Fiscal Year 1978.

"Revenues from distilled spirits, wine and beer taxes increased over the identical two months of the previous fiscal year, but tobacco tax revenues posted a decline," Mr. Goldstein said.

Prices Invited To Anniversary Service At Fairmont Church

Dr. and Mrs. Walter W. Price, Mt. Lake Park, were among special guests invited to Golden Anniversary Services held on Sunday morning in the Highland Avenue United Methodist Church at Fairmont.

The church building was first dedicated on Sunday, September 23, 1928, when Mrs. Price's father, the late Rev. S. C. Dotson, was pastor. She was soloist at that service and her sister, now Mrs. Calora Gustafson, of Dearborn, Michigan, directed the church orchestra. Their younger sister, Virginia, now Mrs. Paul W. Koenemund and her husband, of Glen Dale, W. Va., attended the anniversary services on Sunday. The present Highland Avenue building had replaced the original Barnesville Methodist Episcopal Church which was built in 1894.

Bishop D. Frederick Wertz, of the West Virginia United Methodist Conference, preached on "God Speaks to us Though the Sermon" and offered the "Prayer of Dedication" at Sunday's 50th Anniversary morning service. Four other celebrating services were planned to follow and end with one on Thursday evening of this week.

The pastor of Highland Avenue Church, Rev. Graham Robertson, welcomed Bishop and Mrs. Wertz and the Reverend Keith Clarke, Fairmont District Superintendent, to the opening service on Sunday. Rev. Clarke brought greetings from all the district churches and also sang a solo by request. He was accompanied by Mrs. Clarke at the piano.

Following the Golden Anniversary Service on Sunday at Fairmont, Bishop and Mrs. Wertz came to the Emmanuel United Methodist Church Route 40 West in Garrett County for a Mortgage Burning Service in the afternoon.

Hagerstown Mental Retardation Center Open To Residents

The State's first Mental Retardation Center in Western Maryland has opened its doors to residents.

Located at 1380 Marshall Street in the western part of Hagerstown, the facility, on 20 acres of land, creates a country-like setting for the residents. The complex has been constructed at a cost of $6 million and will serve primarily the Western Maryland Counties of Frederick and Washington. Residents of Allegany and Garrett Counties who may require the type of service provided at this facility will also be considered as clients.

Dr. Neil Solomon, Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene, said residents of Western Maryland now being cared for in other residential centers for the mentally retarded can be brought closer to their families and communities. The first group of 12 residents to move to the Center was composed of Rosewood Center residents whose homes are located in the western counties of the state.

John F. Monaghan, Director of the Mental Retardation Administration, said, "the Hagerstown facility is the realization of eight years of planning as a community conceived idea. Emphasis will be placed on a normal living environment to assist residents in advancing to maximum potential and greatest degree of independence. Deinstitutionalization is the ultimate goal of a program created and implemented according to the individual needs of residents and adjusted in relation to progress."

At full capacity, the facility will provide living space for 125 mentally retarded citizens, many of whom will have multiple handicaps. The complex of ten attractive brick buildings includes an infirmary with a 25-bed capacity, two buildings housing an administration and maintenance functions, a client recreation center and an activity center. Five cottages, each housing 25 persons, have sufficient area for independent living.

Robert DeHaven, Facilities Program Director, indicates that within six months the remaining residents will be admitted and the Center will be in full operation. Present plans call for staffing the facility with 198 persons when the full complement of clients is in residence.

Federal Foresty Aid Carried Out On 111 Farms

Federal cost sharing of forestry improvement was performed on 111 farms in Maryland in 1977, Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said.

Tree planting and timber stand improvement work was carried out by 113 participants in 20 counties as part of the Forestry Incentive Program (FIP). The farmers received $148,650 which is 50 to 75 percent of the costs of the work as provided by FIP, Crowl said. Nationally, 9,443 farms in 1,393 counties were in the program and $10.3 million of program funds were paid to the farmers in fiscal 1977. The program is designed to cost share the tree planting and timber stand improvement work with producers to assure the future generations that wood products will be available to them for their needs.

Questions regarding participation in the FIP should be directed to the local county ASCS office, Crowl said.

New Annual Tax Credits Offered

Deadline for filing tax rebate applications under the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program is October 1, Del. Elizabeth S. Smith (R. AA Co.) announced this week.

Del. Smith explained that a major feature of the program enacted by the General Assembly in the 1978 Session is that "for the first time property tax credits are being provided for qualified homeowners who are under age 60. If a homeowner is not yet 60 years old," she said, "he or she may be able to receive an annual credit of up to $450."

Smith said that "the Homeowners Tax Credit Program replaces the existing Circuit Breaker program and incorporates all homeowners 60 years or older, or the disabled homeowner regardless of age, in the new tax plan starting this year. These people may receive a higher tax break than under the old circuit breaker. They may now receive a credit on their property tax of up to $900."

Eligibility depends upon a formula contained in the new law which compares the size of the property tax bill with a household's income.

Del. Smith further revealed that "probably one out of four homeowners are eligible to receive a tax credit of some amount."

Applications for the new tax credits may be obtained from local libraries, postoffices or a tax assessment office.

In addition, information on the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program is available from the Maryland Department of Assessments and Taxation, Investment Bldg., Towson, Md.

The Mental Health bell, which is the symbol of the mental health movement, was cast from shackles, chains and other restraints used in earlier years when mentally ill were treated as criminals and hopeless humans. The bell weighs 300 pounds and is inscribed "Cast from shackles which bound them, this bell shall ring out hope for the mentally ill and victory over mental illness."

Four State Parks To Remain Open In Winter Months

Camping facilities in four Maryland State Parks are slated to remain open and available during the winter to accommodate campers, hunters, fishers and nature lovers. Assateague, Elk Neck, Patapsco-Glen Artney and Deep Creek Lake will remain open.

Most other parks will shut down camping facilities according to a schedule that was developed by the Park Service in an effort to provide accommodations for as many campers as possible. "We've tried to keep enough camping facilities open," Jim Mallow, deputy director of the Park Service said; "but we've also tried to keep a cautious eye on fuel economy and staffing requirements."

Campers should note the following schedule:

October 15 - New Germany will close to campers and will re-open, weather permitting, on April 12, 1979.

November 15 - Fort Frederick, Patapsco (Hollofield and Hilton), Susquehanna, Swallow Falls, Tuckahoe and Washington Monument State Parks will close.

December 15 - Big Run, Cedarville, Cunningham Falls, Gambrill, Greenbrier, Janes Island, Martinak and Pocomoke (Milburn and Shad Landing), Point Lookout, Rocky Gap will close.

Most of the Parks listed will reopen on April 12, 1979. Day use of all parks in the State system will continue on a weather permitting basis and only camping facilities will be shut down.

TIME

My name is Time. I haven't always been and I won't always be.

Genesis 1:1 - In the beginning, GOD created the heaven and the earth. This is the beginning of TIME. Right now I'm on the move, measuring out life.

Men wait for me, submit to me, fear me, but no one can stop me, except GOD. He is in control and He says I'm running out.

Matt. 24:22 - But for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened.

Revelation 10:6 - And sware by him that liveth for ever and ever who created heaven and the things that therein are, and the earth and the things that therein are, and the sea and the things which are therein, that there should BE TIME NO LONGER.

Most men think I will be forever, but as GOD has said, I am going to stop but Eternity will keep right on going for ever and ever.

Then it will be too late for Repentance, too late for getting SAVED by BELIEVING on the LORD JESUS CHRIST as GOD says in Acts 16:31.

Too late to ask JESUS CHRIST to come into your heart. Rev. 3:20.

Just for ever left for waiting and gnashing of teeth. Matt. 13:42.

PS 89:47 - Says, Remember how short my time is!

In Proverbs 3:1-2 - We read, To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under heaven. A time to be born and a time to die.

Hebrews 9:27 - And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment.

If you have not been BORN AGAIN by the SPIRIT OF GOD through FAITH in the LORD JESUS CHRIST as Jesus said in John 3:3, 5, 7, you will die a second DEATH according to GOD'S WORD in Rev. 20:14-15 and be cast into the LAKE OF FIRE forever.

God says in 2 Corinthians 6:2 - Behold now is the accepted time, behold now is the DAY OF SALVATION!

ISA. 55:6 - Seek ye the LORD while he may be found, Call ye upon Him while He is near.

Romans 10:13 - Says FOR WHOSOEVER shall call upon the name of the LORD SHALL BE SAVED. Not maybe or possibly, but surely shall be. Call upon Him TODAY.

Recent Juvenile Cases Are Listed

Three juvenile cases were disposed of by Judge Fred A. Thayer last week.

A male 17 years old was found to be delinquent because of destruction of property at Kitzmiller. He was first committed to the custody of the Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene but this sentence was suspended.

He was placed on probation under the Department of Juvenile Services. He was also to pay $100 fine and costs and to seek and obtain employment.

A 14-year-old male was found to be in need of supervision due to truancy, being absent from school 31 days as of May 15. This hearing was held in July and he was sent to the Maryland Children's Center for 21 days. Last week he was placed on probation for an indefinite period.

A 15-year-old male was found not to be delinquent having been charged with striking another boy with a chain at a youth home in Northern Garrett County.

GCC Will Offer Food Sanitation Management Course

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department will offer a new training course on Food Service Sanitation Management. The course will consist of ten sessions beginning on Thursday, October 12, (7:00-9:00 p.m.) and will conclude on December 21. The course will meet each Thursday evening at the Oakland Center of the college.

Upon completion of the course and a comprehensive examination the Maryland State Department of Health will certify students as a Food Facilities Certified Sanitation Manager or Worker.

The State has stringent new requirements and enforcement policies on food handling and sanitary practices. Many states are now requiring a certified sanitation manager on duty in food establishments.

Students may register at the Oakland Center until Monday, October 9. Class size will be limited to twenty-five students. For further information persons should contact the Oakland Center of the college.

Scholarship Board To Tackle Delayed Awards Problem

The Maryland State Scholarship Board voted recently to take emergency action to help students caught in the present Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) problem of delayed awards, according to a release from the Board.

Entire payment of state grants will be made immediately to those students requesting such payment on their General State or Senatorial Awards provided they are waiting for action on a delayed BEOG Award.

Hundreds of Maryland students have encountered a major problem in paying first semester bills due to delays in BEOG application processing. Students normally receive one half of an annual General State or Senatorial Award on the first semester and one half on the second semester. Under this special Board action, which applies only to the 1978-79 school year, the college will be allowed to credit the entire year's award to the first semester provided the student approves of the action. Excess funds remaining after payment of tuition and fees can be turned over to the student for buying books, paying for transportation, etc.

Since no payment will be made during the second semester by the State for the students requesting this emergency action, it is hoped that the delayed BEOG award will cover the second semester payment problems.

Finan Mental Health Center Dedicated Sunday

Acting Governor Blair Lee III told the crowd "I hope this will be the model for this type of facility for many years to come," while officiating at dedication ceremonies for the $13 million Thomas B. Finan Center at Cumberland.

The mental health Center is on a 52-acre site on Country Club Road. Special guests included Mrs. Isabel N. Finan, widow of Thomas B. Finan, Sr., and her sons Timothy and Thomas B. Finan, Jr. Mr. Finan was a former Maryland Secretary of State, Attorney General and Judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Introductions were made by Dr. Robert R. Grooms, director of the Center, who also gave a year-by-year progress report of efforts leading to completion of the center.

Land for the center was donated by the Allegany County Commissioners. The sprawling complex will provide mental health, mental retardation and alcoholism rehabilitation services to residents of Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties as well as serving, on an optional basis, residents of Frederick County.

Programs will be available to children, adolescent, adult and aged individuals with mental disabilities and to alcoholic and mentally retarded persons.

The center has ten cottages for patients, a 12-bed infirmary, four buildings with administrative and personnel offices, maintenance building and a 50-bed mental retardation center which has an administration building and two cottages.

When fully operational, the facility will have a staff of 357 persons.

The Almanac

Today is Wednesday, September 27, the 270th day of 1978 with 95 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

American patriot Samuel Adams was born September 27, 1722.

On this day in history:

In 1825, in England, George Stephenson operated the first locomotive to pull a passenger train.

In 1939, after 19 days of resisting heavy air raids and artillery bombardment, the heroic defenders of Warsaw, Poland, surrendered to the Germans.

In 1961, Syria broke away from the United Arab Republic in a revolt led by army officers.

In 1973, Vice President Spiro Agnew, who had pleaded no contest to tax evasion charges, said he would not resign (but did on October 10).

A thought for the day: Early American patriot Samuel Adams said upon hearing gunfire which opened the American Revolutionary War, "What a glorious morning for America."

SOLAR ECLIPSE

Monday at 2:41 a.m. a solar eclipse will be in progress and Scandinavia to Siberia and China. Of course this eclipse will not be visible to Garrett Countians. Two weeks ago a lunar eclipse occurred. Eclipses occur only when the sun and the earth are in line with the points on the moon's orbit which are along the ecliptic. These two points are called nodes of the moon's orbit. The ecliptic is the path of the earth through the solar system around the sun. When the geometry is right for eclipses to occur, both solar eclipse and a lunar eclipse occur two weeks apart at New Moon and at Full Moon.

MOON

New Moon phase occurs at 2:41 a.m. Monday. At this time the moon is directly between the sun and the earth. Moonrise varies from 2:39 this morning to 8:30 a.m. next Tuesday as this week passes.

VISIBLE PLANETS

Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn are visible planets this week. Venus is very low in the southwest at sunset. On Tuesday at 6:00 p.m. this planet will be at its greatest brilliancy. Mars is among the stars of Libra. It sets about an hour after the sun sets. Jupiter rises about five hours before sunrise as do the stars of Cancer. Saturn rises about two hours before sunrise with the stars of Leo.

DAYLIGHT DECREASES

Fifteen fewer minutes of daylight are available at the end of this week. Sunrise was at 7:09 this morning. Sunset will be at 7:07 p.m. Next Tuesday sunrise occurs at 7:15 a.m. followed 11 hours 43 minutes later by sunset at 6:58 p.m.

NOTICE

PROPOSED FLOOD ELEVATION DETERMINATIONS FOR THE TOWN OF LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND

AGENCY: Federal Insurance Administration, HUD.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (100-year) flood elevations listed below for selected locations in the Town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland.

These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

DATES:

The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in the above-named community.

ADDRESSES: Maps and other information showing the detailed outlines of the flood-prone areas and the proposed flood elevations are available for review at the Loch Lynn Heights Town Hall, Loch Lynn Heights, Maryland 21550.

Send comments to: Honorable Charles H. Tressler, Mayor of Loch Lynn Heights, 1610 Route 135, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland 21550.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Richard Krimm, Assistant Administrator, Office of Flood Insurance, (202) 755-5581 or Toll Free Line (800) 424-8872, Room 5270, 451 Seventh Street, SW, Washington, D.C. 20410.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Federal Insurance Administrator gives notice of the proposed determinations of base (100-year) flood elevations for the Town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland in accordance with section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448)), 42 U.S.C. 2001-4128, and 24 CFR 1917.4(a).

These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 1910.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or regional entities. The proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents.

The proposed base (100-year) flood elevations for selected locations are: in respective order, Source of Flooding, Location, Elevation in Feet National Geodetic Vertical Datum, Little Youghiogheny River, Upstream Corporate Limits, 2,392; Downstream Corporate Limts, 2,391.

MOTORISTS BEWARE — This attractive tenth grade student driver, Connie Wiley, is ready to go on the road in this new driver's education car, a 1979 Ford Granada, at Northern High School. The car was furnished by Grantsville Ford, which has provided cars for both Northern and Southern High Schools for the second consecutive year.

Archery Club Offers Lessons

Dale Paugh, Chief Instructor for the Garrett County 4-H Jr. Archery Club has announced that a series of Archery lessons will be given at the North Glade 4-H building on October 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31 from 7 to 9 p.m.

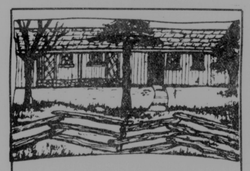
The newly constructed indoor archery range can be reached by taking Route 495 from Swanton 3.2 miles to the old North Glade School at Curt's Corner, located at the intersection of the North Glade and Mellinger Roads.

Mrs. Becky Friend will work with those youth who are new to the sport of archery. Becky will instruct on how to string a bow, parts of the bow and arrow; drawing, aiming, shooting, follow through, as well as the safety aspects of using the bow and arrow properly.

Mr. Paugh will work with those youth who have previous archery experience to develop their competitive archery interests. He will cover the finer points of field archery and bow hunting.

To defray the costs of bows, arrows, targets and shooting accessories the club asks a donation of 50 cents for youth and $1.00 for adults for each weekly session. The club will furnish all archery equipment, or participants may bring their own.

The age range of the 4-H Archery program will encompass all interested persons nine years-old and over. All interested youth and adults are invited to attend. To reserve a place in the 4-H Archery class persons should contact Dale Paugh, Becky Friend or the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-2145.



Sure, we brag a little

But just think. If we feel justified in bragging about little things like the complimentary carafe we serve with every dinner, and our complete appetizer and salad bar, and our gracious service, just think how much care and pride goes into the preparation of every dinner we serve at The Mountain Village Inn.

But we've earned it!

Municipal officials from throughout the State will meet in Rockville at the Sheraton Potomac Inn on October 5-7 for the Maryland Municipal League's annual legislative conference.

Thursday's schedule includes sessions on insurance protection for law suits against local officials, Proposition 13 and property tax limitation and relief in Maryland, and the State police desire to extend their jurisdiction within municipalities.

On Friday morning conference delegates will be welcomed to Rockville by host Mayor William E. Hanna, Jr. and Montgomery County Executive James Gleason. The welcoming remarks will be followed by State Senator Harry J. McGuirk's keynote presentation on the 1979 General Assembly.

Three proposed issues for possible inclusion in MML's 1979 legislative program will be explained to the delegates on Friday. Issues to be considered include safeguarding local officials from frivolous law suits, the State's program for providing police aid to local government, and the State's formula for distributing highway money to local governments. On Friday afternoon the municipal officials will meet in small groups, by population size, to discuss in detail the items being considered for MML's legislative program.

The theme of Friday's luncheon is the future of county-municipal relations. Speaking on this subject will be Francis B. Francois, President of the Maryland Association of Counties, and Jayne H. Plank, President of the Maryland Municipal League.

Two issues sessions will be held on Saturday morning: one on requiring Maryland's cities to pay the prevailing wage and the other on requiring local officials to follow the same financial disclosure requirements as state officials.

Both J. Glenn Beall, Republican gubernatorial candidate, and Harry R. Hughes, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, have been invited to speak to the municipal officials at a luncheon meeting on Saturday.

A final decision on which proposals will become a part of the League's 1979 legislative program will be made by all the conference delegates at the business meeting on Saturday afternoon.

The Maryland Municipal League is a non-profit, nonpartisan federation representing 134 municipal governments throughout Maryland. The League works to strengthen the role and capacity of municipal government through a program of services including legislation, research, and technical assistance. The League is headquartered in Annapolis.

Board Transfers Cafeteria Funds

While formalizing the FY 1979 school budget for this school year the Garrett County Board of Education transferred about $50,000 in county-state dollars from the cafeteria account to be spent in other parts of the budget. As a second major step in this process, a county-wide menu will be utilized beginning Monday, October 2, 1978. The menu for that week was prepared by Richard Buckingham, County Cafeteria Manager, from suggestions given by the local cafeteria managers. Local menus may have substitutions due to purchased items already on hand.

A Dangerous Kick . . .

Because Garrett County is so rural, it is true that most of the major problems which face metropolitan areas do not exist here. That is the main reason life is so enjoyable on the mountaintop. However, a few of these problems, though not to such a great degree, are just as real right here in Garrett County as they are in downtown Greenwich Village.

In today's issue we carry a rather in-depth feature article concerning the extent of the drug culture in Garrett County. The article is the result of many weeks of research and investigation. It is not meant to alarm, nor was it written for the sole purpose of sensationalism. The article is meant only to inform and help make people aware of a reality which exists even in Garrett County.

For some, the article will be a rude awakening. Some will choose not to accept it or believe it. Some will undoubtedly be angered that we even dare print such an article. However, we feel it is part of our job to make such situations known to the general public.

We hope the article is read with open minds. We do not want to imply that all young people take drugs. The article also does not mean to suggest that there is a degeneration of youth occurring. Kids today are not that much different from kids 50 or 100 years ago. It's just that drugs are available today like they never were before. Y ung people have always sought out new "kicks," regardless of the possible negative consequences. Unfortunately, besides being one of the most popular "kicks" right now, drugs are also among the most dangerous.

It will take a tremendous amount of understanding and patience to deal with this problem. In fact, much drug use would have never begun had there been understanding and patience in the first place.

Shenandoah To Keep Running Due To Legislation

Senator Paul Sarbanes announced late last week that service on Amtrak's Shenandoah train will be extended as a result of final action this week by Congress on the Amtrak authorization bill, S. 2081.

The Shenandoah is the only train now providing rail passenger service to Cumberland and Oakland.

Senator Sarbanes, in a letter to Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams last year, had urged that service on the Shenandoah be continued. The bill sent to the President this week will require the Secretary to evaluate service on the Shenandoah, as well as all other Amtrak lines, by December 31, 1978. The bill assures that service on the Shenandoah will continue through October 1, 1979, regardless of the Secretary's evaluation. Congress has 90 days in which to disapprove the final system plan.

Senator Sarbanes, in commenting on the legislation, said, "I am pleased that this bill will result in a systematic evaluation of passenger rail service and will require for the immediate future the continuation of passenger service to Cumberland and Oakland."

Garrett County Memorial Hospital Finishes Fiscal Year "In The Black"

Coopers and Lybrand, an independent Certified Public Accounting firm, has just completed and presented the Garrett County Memorial Hospital's audit for fiscal year ending June 30, 1978, according to Kenneth A. Richmond, administrator.

Mr. Richmond said that an independent audit is required of all businesses to serve as an unbiased third party investigation of a companies accounting system to determine that the financial statements present fairly and accurately its financial position and operating results. The audit is done in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

The official and final audit reports show that the hospital closed its fiscal year with a profit of $1,684.00. Mr. Richmond said it should be noted that on January 31, 1978 (seven months into FY 1978) the hospital was experiencing a year to date loss of $187,721.00. Directly related to a declining census, this picture was reversed through a reduction of expenses, an increase in revenues and an upswing in census for the subsequent months remaining, he said.

Last year's audited report (fiscal year 1977), showing a profit of $28,812.00, and this year's figures mark the third consecutive year the hospital has ended up in the black. However, no county monies were allocated to the hospital this past year nor have they been budgeted for the current fiscal year.

A complete breakdown of the audit report may be seen on page 38 of today's issue.

Wheelbarrow, Ham And Cash Taken In Area Larcenies

Several larcenies are under sheriff's department investigation this week following complaints from various parts of the county.

The proprietor of Chubby's Inc., Route 219, Deep Creek Lake, told the investigating deputy that during the night of September 25, someone had entered the building by forcing a lock on a window. Some $480 in cash was taken, along with a large ham. Total loss value was set at $500.

Andrew Shaffer, Route 5, Oakland, told police that sometime between September 23 and 28, someone had entered the basement of his home on Fingerboard Road. Missing was a wheelbarrow valued at $65.

A larceny occurred in the parking lot of Par-Matt Lanes Sunday, October 1. Jesse Gregy reported that someone had taken a CB antenna from his vehicle while he was inside the bowling lanes. Loss value was set at $32.

Commissioners Plan Meeting To Discuss State "Mis-Distribution"

The Board of Commissioners for Garrett County is planning a meeting Monday, October 9, at 7 p.m., at Garrett Community College with representatives of the county's municipalities. Topic will be mis-distribution of highway users tax revenue by the state.

According to a spokesman for the commissioners' office, the state had distributed the taxes, but had mistakenly given too much to the county and not enough to the towns.

The commissioners will seek input from the town officials on how the monies should be repaid, and over what time period.

The amount involved is $203,658.

The mis-distribution of funds occurred because of an error in the formula used to dole out state highway user funds to counties and municipalities. The formula error, discovered by the Maryland Department of Transportation, stems back to 1969, when DOT began disbursing the funds, rather than the State Comptroller's office.

When DOT began distributing the funds, which come from the gasoline tax each month, an interpretation was made as to the formula to be used to provide the municipalities' share of the money. The Secretary of Transportation has now ruled that the formula was wrong. In some cases, counties have not shared enough of the money with cities, while in other cases, municipalities were given too much and now owe the counties.

In other business at Monday's commissioner meeting, Robert Stemple was appointed to serve with the Merit Board for another term.

The Commissioners voted to recognize the Broad Ford site for a group home for the mentally retarded, at the request of the Inter-Agency Committee on Mental Retardation. James Stanton is chairman.

The board also recommended that land acquisition begin for construction of the group home which would be operated by Garrett Crossroads, Inc.

Miss Deborah Lawton was appointed the county representative to the Maryland Energy Policy office, which helps devise ways to conserve energy in the county and state.

Dan Elmlinger, chairman of the Garrett County Committee to Promote the Employment of the Handicapped, requested the commissioners to sign a proclamation declaring the week of October 1-7 as "National Employ the Handicapped" week. The commissioners unanimously agreed to comply with Mr. Elmlinger's request.

Mrs. Barbara Flinn, president of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club, and Mrs. Carol Casani, chairman of the BPW National Business Women's Week Committee, asked the commissioners to sign a proclamation declaring October 15-21 as "National Business Women's Week" to recognize the accomplishments of working women.

The commissioners unanimously agreed to comply with their proclamation request also.

The commissioners voted to accept a bond ordinance for the county roads, which would allow the county to participate in a $1.3 million transportation bond issue. Funds directed to this county would be used as the local matching share for safety projects, asphalt overlaying, and purchase of equipment.

Firemen Approve Insurance Plans

The Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association approved a new group insurance plan at a meeting Sunday in Lonaconing.

The plan provides $25,000 in death benefits and $10,000 in medical benefits. The plan was approved over another which would have provided $10,000 and $5,000 in benefits respectively.

Introduced at the meeting was Dale L. Hill, recently named as an additional fire investigator for the two counties. Mr. Hill is from Hagerstown, where he served as fire marshal three years. He was introduced by Bob Shipner, investigator for the two counties for the past 12 years. Hill has been a volunteer fireman ten years.

A total of 24 companies and 13 past presidents were present. Robert Stevenson, president, was in charge of the meeting and Mike Walters, chaplain, opened the meeting with prayer.

It was reported that 1,174 firemen were injured last year while on duty in Maryland. A total of 24 of the firemen injured were from Allegany and Garrett Counties — seven from Garrett and 17 were from Allegany. This year so far, there have been 15 accidents including one fatality.

The Allegany-Garrett fire prevention queen will be selected this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Midland Fire Hall. So far six departments have entered contestants. Only one department has entered the junior fire queen contest.

The annual Firemen's Ball will be held Saturday, October 28, at the Clary Club with music provided by Wally Ginger's Orchestra.

Reservations may be made by calling 724-1096.

A fire prevention film has been purchased by the association and will be stored at the resource center on McMullen Highway. Anyone wishing to use the film is asked to contact any member of a volunteer fire department.

The group decided to invite the new commander of the State Police Barracks at LaVale, First Lt. R. G. Yinger, to attend the next meeting of the association November 5 at the Eastern Garrett Fire Department in Finzel.

Charles Smith of Civil Defense and James R. Roberston, state fire marshal, will also be invited.

Several fire departments and rescue squads in the area will receive funds for new equipment. Flintstone fire department will receive $15,400 for the purchase of a light duty extraction truck and equipment. Cresaptown fire department will receive $5,109 for extraction equipment improvement. Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad will receive $5,400 for vehicle improvement and Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad will receive $10,400 for vehicle improvement.

St. Matthew's Has Confirmation, Dedication Services

A PLAQUE DEDICATION was one of several special events at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland Sunday afternoon as part of the dedication ceremonies of that congregation's newly constructed parish building. The plaque was dedicated in the honor and memory of the late William A. Shirer, local contractor, who died July 18 of this year. Mr. Shirer was the contractor and builder of the new parish building. On hand to lead the dedication was the Rt. Rev. William J. Cox, Suffragan Bishop of Maryland, pictured at right. Pictured center is Mrs. William (Jacquelyn) Shirer and at left is Rev. Manning L. Smith, rector of St. Matthew's. In part, the plaque reads "To the Glory of God and in greatful thanksgiving for the life of William A. Shirer."

Twenty-six persons from eight area Episcopal churches were confirmed Sunday afternoon at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland by the Rt. Rev. William J. Cox, Suffragan Bishop of Maryland, and Rev. Manning Smith, rector of St. Matthew's. The special service was conducted in conjunction with a dedication ceremony of St. Matthew's newly constructed parish building, which is located adjacent to the church building on Liberty Street.

The ceremony also included a plaque dedication to the late William A. Shirer, the local contractor who built the building (see above photo).

Local persons who were confirmed included Patricia A. Callis, Diana R. Geare, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan E. Thayer and Mr. and Mrs. William G. Welch.

A reception was held in the new parish building following the dedication. Mrs. Mary Browning served as hostess. Over 200 persons attended the service and dedication.

September Is One Of Driest On Record Here

September was one of the driest months on record with less than half the normal rainfall. Temperature-wise it was about normal, being only slightly above because of mild nighttime readings.

Rainfall for the month was only 1.47 inches, or 1.81 inches below the normal. Most of the rain, .73 inch, fell during a series of thunder storms on the 12th. Other than the 12th and 3rd, amounts were less than a tenth of an inch. The only thunder storms were on the heaviest rain days mentioned. Some rain fell on nine days. Even though the light rainfall was light, skies were mostly cloudy.

Temperatures for the month were 1.8 degrees above normal. Highs averaged 73.7 degrees or one half degree below normal. The high was on the 20th with 84 degrees, followed by the next day with 83 degrees. It was in the 80's six other days. The mercury stayed in the 60's on 11 days. The first day of Autumn, the 23red, the mercury only got up to the 60-mark, the coolest day.

Lows averaged 51.5 degrees or 4.1 above normal. The lowest reading was 29 degrees on the 29th followed by 30 degrees on the following morning. These were the only official below freezing readings. The first light scattered frost occurred on the 26th, the official reading being 33 degrees. Temperatures were generally above normal until the 24th, then after that below normal. The mildest morning was the 19th with 67 degrees. The two following mornings were also in the 60's as was the 9th.

Statistics are derived from information given by Logan Weber, local observer for the National Weather Service.

The largest mushroom farm in the world is located near West Winfield, Pa., in an old limestone mine. The farm produces about 14 million pounds of mushrooms each year.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

FIND YOUR FAMILY DOCTOR BEFORE ILLNESS STRIKES

You need a family doctor before illness strikes. Tragedy can befall those who wait to get a physician "until he is needed."

The physician traditionally provides medical care to anyone in need. However, he has priority responsibilities to his own patients; unless you are among them he may not be able to serve you at a moment's notice. By having a physician before you are ill and by having periodic checkups, emergencies can often be anticipated and averted through preventive medical care.

How do you select a doctor for your family?

Start by calling your local medical society for the names of several physicians in your neighborhood or within convenient traveling distance. If there is no society office in your community, call your nearby hospital, ask friends for their recommendations, or check the pharmacist for his suggestion.

The American Medical Directory, published by the American Medical Association, is available in most public libraries and hospitals. This volume will give the age, professional education, state of licensure, type of practice, teaching affiliation and medical organization membership for all physicians.

Is the prospective family doctor's office convenient for your family? What are his office hours? Do you prefer an older or younger physician? Will he make house calls? Do any of your family members have physical handicaps or disabilities which might require the care of a specialist?

Once you select your physician, call for an appointment for a physical examination. This will give the two of you the opportunity to get acquainted before you become ill. Does he impress you favorably? Are you "comfortable" with him or her? In discussing family health needs, keep in mind your budget. Ask the doctor about his fees; not all charge the same. He may not be able to give you an exact price for every kind of service but he can tell you approximately what his basic fees are.

For your own good — and the health of your family — why wait until illness strikes to choose a doctor? Select him now so he can have advance knowledge of your family's medical problems and give you the kind of protective care you expect from both a good doctor and a good friend.

the ROCKPILE

by Cathy Helbig

In January of 1905, the St. Marks Lutheran Church was destroyed by fire. Hardly a month had gone by when fire was once again discovered in Oakland.

Destroyed were the West Hotel, an old landmark built prior to the Civil War, the Hesen Saloon, a two-story dwelling owned by Mrs. D. H. Loar and a house owned by Mr. Gilmor S. Hamill in which a cobbler shop was operated by Hampton McRobie.

There were no injuries and "the buildings burned, with the possible exception of the Hesen saloon, were practically of little value, being extremely old and out of repair."

Due to the lack of water in the boiler, the furnace of the local Catholic Church was burned out on a Saturday night; "Hence, the church was extremely cold for service Sunday."

Bet that was one time when Moses' burning bush would have been welcomed!

"John Kazuke, an Italian employed as a trackman on the Swallow Falls extension of the Kendall railroad, was found in the miners shanty a few miles north of Oakland with his feet badly frozen.

"Kazuke had evidently gone into the shanty and laid down, going to sleep. While sleeping, the frost king nipped him."

Going through one week's issue in March, I found this "Want Ad" listed nine times: "Wanted — One hundred wives." Concluding that times must have indeed been hard, I went on to find what might have been an explanation: "See one Hundred Wives at the opera House Thursday night."

A local Reverend, wearing a rubber suit, was in the process of baptising three persons. "A large hole was made in the ice which had not yet gone from the river and the candidates, one at a time, were immersed in the ice cold water. Ten persons, witnesses to the ceremony, crowded on the ice which suddenly gave way and all were precipitated in the water, going over their heads. Great excitement prevailed, but all were rescued. One, a woman of large avoirdupois, with considerable difficulty."

This final item was reprinted from an article that was found in the Barnerville Republican: "If anybody has the left hind leg of a rabbit caught in the graveyard in the dark of the moon by a red-haired colored man he ought to send it to B. Zitzman. He is the victim of a hoodoo. Recently he was found lying almost frozen to death in the snow near his home; later when he recovered sufficiently to leave his bed his night clothing took fire from a gas stove and he was badly burned before the flames could be extinguished, and only a few days ago as he was descending from the haymow in his stable he slipped and fell, and in his rapid flight downward a ring which he wore on the fourth finger of his left hand caught on a nail and the flesh was literally stripped from the bone." Some people have all the luck!

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Having been advised by the Festival Committee to make an early reservation for lodging, the response from the motels was absolutely unbelievable. None said they were fully reserved, only a weak "I don't believe we will have anything available." This attempt for rooms was made immediately after Labor Day weekend, as we had been instructed.

Most ironic is the fact that others called as late as last week and were accepted immediately.

However, a contingent of twelve will be in Oakland for the Autumn Glory Festival to cheer on our own American Legion Post #38 Honor Guard, Dundalk, Md. that yearly leads your parade.

Our money will be spent in the neighboring state — too bad Oakland — you do have poor manners. Please include that in your 'National Coverage'.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. A. Vrhovac
61 Kinship Road
Dundalk, Maryland

Dear Sir:

The System strikes again in July of '78. My son had a bad leg injury that kept him out of school until after Thanksgiving. He had a full leg cast that was removed the first of November, after which he had surgery on it the second time and then had to have physical therapy twice daily at the hospital. We realized he would have to have his senior portrait taken if it were to appear in the year book, so we made an appointment with a local photographer and after a P.T. session had it taken. The photographer told us a black and white would be sent to the high school for the year book.

Well, the 1978 year book is out and my son's picture isn't in it.

Two weeks before graduation the school told my son they didn't have it, they called the photographer and he said he had sent it, but sent another. My son called, he said it was sent.

It's anyone's guess who is to blame, it's recorded in the files the photo was sent, yet the school insists it wasn't.

Who loses? It only matters to us; funny, we received every notice the money was due for the announcements, cap, gown, etc.!

Your child's high school graduation picture will appear only once, — or will it?

POET'S PODIUM

By Jim Willis

The following selection by Donna Lee Shaffer, Oakland vividly captures the glory of Autumn. It is reprinted from Donna's Poetry Corner.

Autumn Glory

I soak up the warm, lingering early Autumn sun, knowing well that I will need its warmth when winter soon sends its chilling finger down my spine.
Until then I shall savor it with the taste of its crisp, juicy apples, tangy apple cider, and spicy pumpkin pie.
I'll tune my ears to the sound of crackling Autumn leaves abounding with color under my feet.
My eyes envision a city's bright lights reflected in the bonfire's dying glow and purple mountains bathed in a haze of Autumn smoke.
High in the bleachers the crisp, cool air increases the excitement of the competition on the football field below.
Come with me while we make a date with our childhood to romp in the leaves and bob for an apple at least once before the chill winds of winter whip 'round the corner.
Awaken! Enjoy Autumn in all her glory!

What Is A Small Town

A small town is where you don't have to guess who your enemies are. Your friends tell you.

A small town is the only place on earth where people past middle age are called by their first names when they saunter down the street.

A small town is where everyone knows everyone else's car by sight, and also where and when it goes.

A small town is where you can get a wrong number and you can still talk for 15 minutes, if you want to.

A small town is where the ratio of really good people to really bad people is something like 100 to one.

A small town is where it is hard for anyone to walk to work for the exercise because it takes too long to stop and explain to people in cars who stop, honk and offer a ride.

A small town is somewhat like a big family, including ornery distant cousins, renegades and all.

A small town is where city folks say there is nothing to do, but those who live there can't find enough nights in the week to attend all the meetings and social functions.

A small town is where everyone becomes a neighbor in a time of need.

A small town is where many teenagers complain because there is nothing to do, and then are surprised to learn their big city peers are saying the same thing.

A small town knows all the news before it's published, but they buy the hometown newspaper to make sure the editor gets it right.

A small town, when all is said and done, is a nice place in which to live.

The above was submitted by Mrs. Alice Walter Archer, of Melrose Park, Ill., formerly of Oakland. It is reprinted from Oak Leaves newspaper, of Oak Park, Ill.

Last-Minute Rush Nets Rams A 14-7 Victory Over Musselman

With 1:03 remaining in the game, Paul Cornish scrambled 14 yards for a touchdown boosting Southern High School to a hard-fought 14-7 Potomac Valley Conference victory over Musselman Friday evening on the Ram's gridiron. The win evened the Ram's season tally to 2-2.

The Rams began the final scoring rush at its own 45 yard line with two and one-half minutes remaining.

Musselman seized the opportunity in the first quarter when Bob Lambert scored from five yards away. Steve LeFevre kicked the extra point.

The Rams challenged the score moments later as quarterback Frank Lewis scored. John Sanders booted the one-point conversion.

Cornish gained 101 yards on 12 carries and Mike Bolding had 94 yards on 18 carries. Southern's defensive stars included Doug Devlin with 12 individual tackles, Bolding and Jim Simms.

Skip Riner led the Musselman onslaught and John Boyd did most of the ball carrying. Bill Spiker led defense for the losers.

The Southern Rams challenge Hampshire High School Friday evening at 8 p.m. on their opponents home turf near Romney.

The Rams repeated the performance in the closing seconds of the second half to win the contest 14-7. (See story.)

PRETTY AND POWERFUL — The Southern High School Girls' Volleyball Team began its third inter-scholastic season recently. This year's team features three returning letter-girls, five seniors, four freshmen and AFS student, Sibel Gundem. The girls play a vigorous form of the sport called "power volleyball' which is exacting, with legal and illegal hits. The current season is composed of six tri-matches with each team attempting to capture two out of three games. In their most recent tri-match the girls defeated Allegany but were defeated by Beall in Frostburg. The team challenges Flintstone this evening and returns home to host Bruce and Northern High School, October 11, at 7 p.m. Pictured, left to right, they are, back row, Kim Trickett, Lisa Stark, Sue Mason, Patti Harsh, Sibel Gundem, Cindy Gnegy, Sue Snyder, Denise Grimm, and Carla Holland, manager; kneeling are Linda Gnegy, Christy Herring, Elizabeth Neary, Sue Shaffer, Sharon Lasek, Mary Nelson, Debbie Miller, and Jane Pritt.

Final Week Contest Winners Announced

Winners of the final week, ending October 1, of the Fishing Contest were announced by co-sponsors of the event, Johnny's Bait House and the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Inc.

Carl Flanigan of Grantsville caught the prize winning Largemouth Bass which weighed six pounds, nine ounces and measured 23 inches.

Local Racers Still Going To Tracks

Two local racers are still going around the tracks in the final days before the season ends.

At Elkins Speedway Saturday night, Frank Lewis won his first heat and came in second in the first feature race. He started eighth in the second feature and finished third.

In the semi-late division at Elkins, Randy McCartney won his heat, placed first in his first feature, but did not finish in the second feature.

At Hagerstown Sunday, Frank Lewis took second in his heat, grabbed an early lead in the feature and was out in front most of the race until his car stopped running, thus placing him last.

A big invitational race is scheduled at Elkins this Sunday, after time trials on Saturday as part of the Forest Festival entertainment.

Mrs. Mabel Hauser presided at the business meeting.

Chairmen of various committees gave reports. Mrs. Fances Riley reported that plans are progressing for the Antique Show and Sale at the National Guard Armory during the Autumn Glory Festival. There will be 25 booths featuring antiques, flowers, crafts, and baked goods. A handmade quilt will be given away Sunday, October 15.

Garrett County's Grim Fairytale

By Jim Willis

Once upon a time there was a scenic rural community which had everything. People travelled from all over to sail on its lake, hike in its forests, stay in its resorts, photograph its scenery and visit its tourist attractions. Yes, that picturesque area had everything — including drugs.

That utopian paradise is Garrett County, Maryland.

Garrett County has always been special. As a resort area it has much to offer. But what most people don't realize is that it also offers just about every illicit, illegal and controlled substance under the sun.

Projected figures of drug usage are often erroneously compiled from arrest records and hospital reports. When looking at these figures on a local level one must not ignore the fact that our rural area offers the drug user the anonymity and seclusion he wouldn't find in a more populated area.

Kenneth A. Richmond, director of Garrett County Memorial Hospital reports that in calendar year 1976, 15 persons were admitted to the hospital for drug overdose. In calendar year, 1977, 14 persons were admitted, and in the first six months of this year, two were admitted.

These figures are for admitted patients and do not include out-patient treatment or those transported to other nearby hospital facilities. The figures indicate a downward trend in drug overdose. What they don't reveal is an increase in drug usage.

Perhaps a more faithful representation of drug usage can be gleaned from hospital emergency room records. Again, these statistics don't present a complete picture but they indicated the rising number of drug abuse cases not necessarily resulting in overdose.

Joyce Andrews, emergency room supervisor for Garrett Memorial Hospital, reported that in 1974, four persons were treated for drug abuse/overdose. In 1976 that figure jumped to 30, and 1977 also showed 30 persons treated. As of August, 1978, Garrett Memorial had treated 28 persons and there is every indication that this year's total will top that of the two previous years.

Mrs. Andrews stated, "one interesting thing about what we get here . . . . . a kid will take something that another kid has given him without really knowing what he took, — they take it and get scared." At that point the youngster shows up for emergency room treatment.

Drug abuse is usually a problem of the teen-age years, yet Mrs. Andrews reports that during one six-month period, three 12 year-olds were treated for drug abuse. One youngster had used a parent's nerve medicine liberated from the family's medicine chest. The two others had received potentially dangerous substances at school from classmates.

The types of drugs abused are many and varied. Mrs. Andrews explains, "with the older adults, it is usually tranquilizers and sometimes 'across-the-counter' medication. What really scares us is when they begin to mix different kinds of drugs. With younger children it is usually something stolen out of the medicine chest."

She reiterated that most of the younger children don't realize what they've taken . . . . . in fact, when a child obtains drugs from his family's medicine chest and distributes them to classmates, he himself may not realize what the drug is.

As for the reasoning, Mrs. Andrews pointed out that peer pressure is often the cause. In the older patient, a drug abuse/overdose incident may follow an emotional crisis. These are recorded as suicide attempts at the hospital although she added that many times, "they aren't really — they're to get attention."

Sociologists predict that as America's drug culture becomes more knowledgeable and better educated in its "hobby" the incidence of overdose will fall, but the figures for drug usage will rise.

Arrest records are misleading too. Like any business, the drug merchants are not naive. They pour hundreds of thousands of dollars into marketing research which designs and manufactures paraphernalia that conceals their product. "Roach clips" which hold a burning marijuana joint are created in the guise of ordinary household items such as a house key. Cocaine is transported in hollow bowling balls. Special cannisters are welded under the bodies of transport vehicles to haul illegal substances . . . . . the list is endless.

So when local State Police report, "one month we might have six or eight drug arrests, one month we might not have any," we must realize that only the tip of a large iceburg is being uncovered.

Garrett County Sheriff, John Evans Jr., reported that drug related offenses in this area are definitely on the increase. He stated that his department occasionally confiscates "downers," cocaine, "bennies," Darvon and several prescription substances, "but 90% of it is marijuana."

Sheriff Evans explained that most offenders are placed on probation and/or fined for possession of marijuana exceeding one ounce, which is a misdemeanor. The majority of the offenders are of high school and college age.

As a part of the research for this article, I contacted both local high schools and asked that students with knowledge of drug usage in their school contact me. Their comments show that drugs and narcotics are no stranger to their age group.

"People think we're hicks down here, but my cousin goes to school in Baltimore and I can get better stuff here a lot easier and a lot cheaper than he can down there."

"I guess we do have enough of it here (at school). I don't do pills . . . . . I just smoke grass (marijuana). I could get just about anything I wanted if I wanted it and had the money . . . . . you just have to know the right people."

One teacher reported, "every once in awhile a kid will come to class 'high.' Most of the time they get away with it, but I recognize the effects of marijuana. The kids are pretty careful though; they know which teachers are 'cool' and which aren't."

A Growing Problem

Children are great mimics and when they turn to drugs it is usually due to peer pressure. Marijuana is the panacea for their generation's ills, just as caffeine and valium are for their parents.

Robert L. DuPont, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse stated, "For most Americans, it comes as a surprise to realize that much traditional drug use around the world has been, and continues to be, work-related, rather than recreational. Contrary to expectations based on modern pharmacology, this is true of such things as Cannabis, opium, tobacco, and it is even more characteristic of the coca leaves. In fact, the most compelling analogy to an Andean chewing coca is an American drinking coffee as a work adjunct. In most cultures over most of history, use of such substances as coca, Cannabis and opium has existed in a cultural context, that tended to moderate and restrict use."

America is locked on a one-way path towards self-destruction and the culprits are not long-haired dope-smoking "hippies." We have well-dressed conservatives and indiscriminate physicians to thank for the popularity and availability of a drug induced stupor.

Consider Valium, a godsend to millions of Americans who need its sedatives to cope with the day-to-day rat race. The Playboy Institute, one of the world's foremost drug research centers, recently reported that:

- Valium is the largest selling prescription drug in the United States and has been number one every year since 1969, when it topped Librium.
- From May, 1976 to April 1977, approximately 57,084,000 prescriptions for Valium were written in the United States.
- Valium and Librium account for half of all tranquilizers sold in this country.
- One share of Hoffman-LaRoche (the manufacturers of Valium) stock is worth around $40,000, making it the most valuable share of stock in the world, if you can find one to buy. Admittedly, that price is down from the record high of $73,000 in 1972.
- The wholesale cost of a two-milligram tablet of Valium is 6.9 cents. That works out to $1,072.95 per troy ounce. Valium costs six times as much as gold by weight.
- "Fortune" magazine describes Hoffman-LaRoche as "the world's largest ethical drug manufacturer, undisputed world market leader in vitamins and psychopharmaceuticals — and a company that is currently one of the most profitable enterprises on earth.

In addition, Americans used some $11,000,000,000 worth of prescription drugs and $4,000,000,000 non-prescription

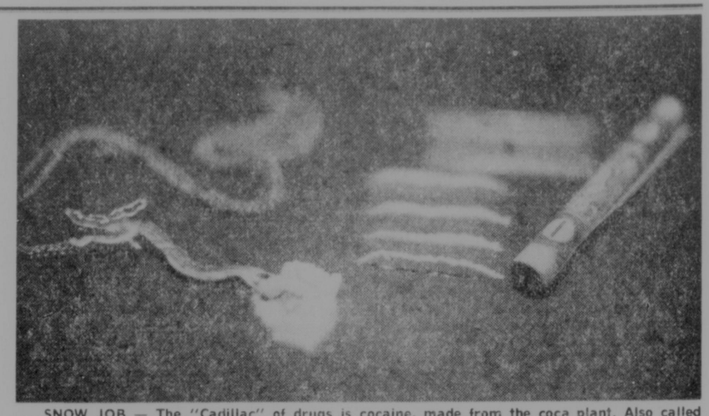
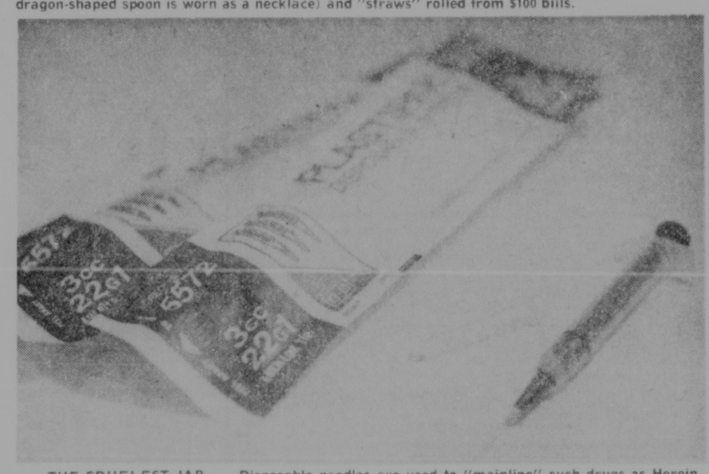
ALL-TIME FAVORITE — Cannabis or marijuana is still the drug of choice with an estimated 16,210,000 users in the United States. Its affordability and availability make it popular with local teenagers who claim it is "easier to get than beer." The above Columbian variety was grown and distributed locally. Although proponents stoutly maintain the herb produces no harmful side effects, marijuana's active ingredient THC produces confusion of time sense, inability to carry out mental tasks, sense of strangeness and unreality about self and surroundings, and unwelcome introspection. Pictured above, a pipe, make-shift "roach clip" and rolling papers are the smoker's staples.



SNOW JOB — The "Cadillac" of drugs is cocaine, made from the coca plant. Also called "coke" or "snow" the above cocaine was purchased locally and is "street pure" - 53% to 63% pure. Cocaine is used legally as an anesthetic for eye surgery but in the drug culture, users enjoy its ampetamine-like qualities when inhaled through the nostrils. The drug causes profound overstimulation and harmful side effects may include possible convulsions, acute stomach pain, circulatory failure and respiratory collapse; death from overdose is rare. Pictured above, "lines" of cocaine have been laid out with a razor blade with each line having a street value of $15 to $20. Two popular means of administering the drug are a sterling silver "coke spoon," left, (the above dragon-shaped spoon is worn as a necklace) and "straws" rolled from $100 bills.

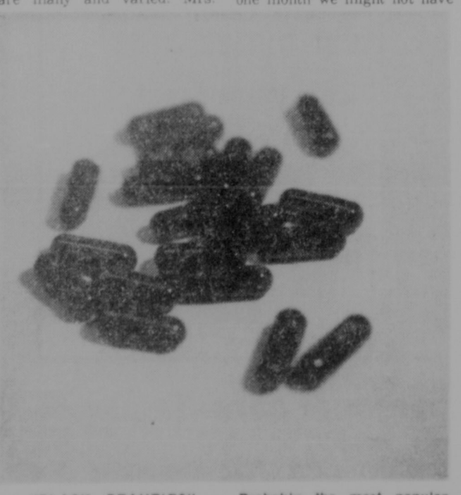


THE CRUELEST JAB — Disposable needles are used to "mainline" such drugs as Heroin, Methadone, Morphine, Opium and Phenobarbital. Better education of the drug culture has lead to the demise of such hard, physically addicting narcotics and barbituates. Although these drugs are rarely seen in the area they remain moderately popular in large metropolitan areas.

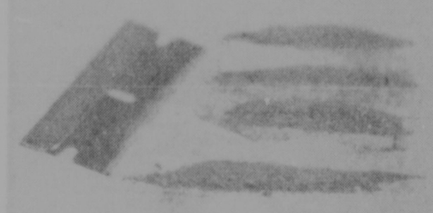
POPULAR MOTIFS — The drug culture has become such an integral part of our American society that such common themes as marijuana leaves are used to create anything from jewelry and fabric designs to a custom paint job such as this vehicle spotted on Second Street in Oakland displays.

"SPEED KILLS" — As a result of the 1960's "Speed Kills" campaign, the use of amphetamines has dropped across the United States. However, there are still an estimated 1,780,000 users of "uppers" in this country. Pictured above are "reds," a common amphetamine often used as a recreational drug or to induce weight loss. Reportedly, a nearby physician called "Dr. Feelgood" distributes amphetamines and barbituates indiscriminately.

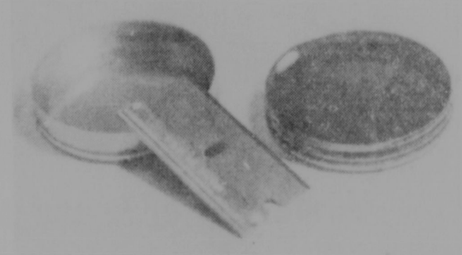
TOOLS OF THE TRADE — A "power hitter" and a clay pipe are just two examples of the drug paraphernalia offered at any "head" shop. A marijuana smoker places a joint inside the power hitter to magnify the herb's effects. The clay pipe can be filled with ice and placed in the freezer to cool the marijuana smoke. The drug paraphernalia industry is so huge that last year it cleared $250,000,000. Consider that 160,000,000 packages of rolling papers were sold in the United States last year. Allowing 50 papers per package and a reasonable amount of coordination on the part of the roller, that adds up to eight billion joints!



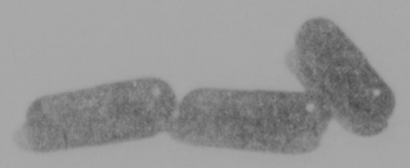
"BLACK BEAUTIES" — Probably the most popular amphetamines offered in this area are "Black Beauties" such as those pictured above. The drug is legitimately used to combat fatigue, depression, narcolepsy and hyperactivity in children. Local students find its effects enticing: dramatic increase in alertness and confidence, mood elevation, improved physical performance and concentration. On the other side of the coin is the drug's detrimental effects: acute paranoia, agitation, insomnia, fear, irritability, chest pain, headache, chills and stomach distress.



"DEAD ON ARRIVAL" — DOA is one of a multitude of nick-names for PCP or phencylidine. Originally created as a potent animal tranquilizer, the drug is often inhaled, injected directly into the bloodstream, or rolled with marijuana and smoked. At $60 to $75 per gram it is one of the more expensive illicit substances and rarely used locally. The PCP pictured above is distributed to the Garrett County area. Users report various reactions ranging from a pleasant dreamlike state to confusion, paranoia, sense of dying, losing touch with their body, psychotic states and assaultive behavior. Recent horror stories indicate that unstable personalities can be driven to violent acts while under the influence of PCP.



EASTERN IMPORT — Finely ground opiumnated black hashish such as that pictured above has a street market value of $150 in the Garrett County area. The highly concentrated herb/narcotic mixture is added to marijuana to increase the "high." The importation of illegal contraband from the Far East is increasing rapidly as the United States market grows.



LOVE DRUGS — "Blues" such as those pictured above are difficult to obtain because of their increased popularity as a supposed aphrodisiac. They belong to the barbituate family, producing mild intoxication, loss of inhibition, decreased alertness and muscle coordination. They may also cause unconsciousness which can give way to coma and death.

last year. Is it any wonder our youth turn to drugs and alcohol to "escape?" Learned patterns are hard to break.

A Complete Menu

Almost every student interviewed for this article echoed the fact that "just about everything," was available in the area. One enterprising student prepared a list of available drugs at Southern High School and the current prices for each:

Marijuana - $30 to $40 per ounce. Columbian, $400 - $500 per pound. Aculpulco Gold, $1,000 per pound.

Hashish - "Blond," $5 to $10 per gram; "black," $8 to $12 per gram. Hash oil, $100 and up, (amount not specified).

PCP or Angel Dust - available but no price listed.

"Speed" - 60 cents to $1 per tablet.

"Acid" - (type not specified), "Used to be $10 for a four-way hit."

Mescaline - $10 for a four-way hit.

Thai Stick - $15 per stick.

The students commented that most of the illicit substances are "imported" from Washington, D. C., Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Morgantown and even Florida.

Further research also uncovered reports of:

- a physician near Pittsburgh frequented by local drug users. He has been nicknamed "Dr. Feelgood" because of his indiscriminate prescribing of diet pills (amphetamines) and tranquilizers (barbituates).

- cocaine from Pittsburgh and Uniontown is brought into the county and stored for future distribution to the southern states. One shipment had an estimated value of $200,000.

- during the height of the tourist season, suspected "underworld" figures from Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Washington, D. C. meet near Deep Creek Lake to plan "arrangements" for drug trafficking.

In many cases the validity of such privileged information could not be ascertained — but the frequency of the reports and the adherence to the same "facts" implies a modicum of truth. If one could believe only half of the supposed transactions, then the drug market is truly alive and well, and operating in Garrett County.

The Leaders

Marijuana: Marijuana is the all-time favorite among today's young people. It is relatively inexpensive, easy to obtain, — and if one would believe its proponents, it has no harmful side-affects.

The availability is probably its biggest selling point. Local students report, "you can get 'weed' a lot easier than you can get beer. You have to be eighteen to get beer — nobody asks your age when you buy marijuana."

"It should be legalized . . . . . it doesn't hurt you and everyone does it. I know two or three teachers here that do it and there's probably a lot more I don't know about."

"All my friends do it — I probably know more kids that smoke (marijuana) than don't. In fact, most us smoke marijuana and almost nobody smokes cigarrettes. Cigarrettes will kill you, marijuana won't."

Not withstanding the intoxicating effects of the drug, marijuana smokers now have the additional worry of Gramoxone or paraquat poisoning. The United States government was kind enough to spray Mexican marijuana fields with this potentially dangerous herbicide. The tainted "pot" was then quickly harvested and distributed to the U. S. where users now risk lung damage by smoking it.

But never fear — Uncle Sam, when pressed with a lawsuit by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) switched to another defoliant, 2,4-D, which was used to create the DMZ in Vietnam. This time the herbicide is a known carcinogen.

Cocaine: As new wave comedian, George Carline said, "a couple of hits of cocaine makes me feel like a new man. The only problem was, the first thing the new man wanted was a couple of hits of cocaine."

Cocaine or "coke" is fast becoming the Cadillac of the drug culture. At 53% to 63% pure on the street market, the drug sells from between $80 and $150 per gram. Add to that another $30 for coke paraphernalia, such as gold-plated razor blades and sterling silver coke spoons. Thankfully, the price range puts it out of the reach of most local students. They stated: "no, I never do Coke, who can afford it?"

"I tried it once or twice, but I wan't impressed. I like marijuana better, and it's a heck of a lot cheaper."

"(I've tried it) one time. It burned a lot. I didn't like it."

Speed: As a result of the 1960's campaign, "Speed Kills," drugs in this category have fallen in usage. Most speed purchased on the street isn't even legitimate, but merely caffeine or one of the decongestants labelled "May Cause Difficulty With Sleep." Much of the "speed" in this area is dexadryll or dexedrine obtained from the aforementioned Pittsburgh area physician as diet pills. The particular doctor in question, nick-named "Dr. Feelgood," reportedly issues prescriptions for drugs which are then filled by a pharmacy near his office. Quite a racket.

Speed is used by local students only rarely.

"I just use it to study for tests. I learn better and I guess I get better grades. I hate crashing though." (Note: "Crashing" is slang for coming down from the effects of speed).

"I do 'Black Beauties' every once in awhile. Sometimes for tests and maybe before a big game."

Hallucinogens: According to the National Institute on Drug Abuse, 10,000,000 Americans have tried hallucinogens with approximately 1,000,000 still involved in regular usage. For most, that means LSD with a recent trend towards mescaline or psilocybin.

The movement is towards much milder doses, with today's "acid" about 100 micrograms per dose as compared to the 250 micrograms per dose which was popular in the Sixties.

Many contemporary youngsters opt for a natural hallucinogen known as the Psilocybin Cubensis mushroom. A "magic mushroom" growing kit is available legally from a Colorado firm for $15. The kits are legal because the spores are inactive when the kits are shipped and Psilocybin is not on the controlled drug list.

When I quizzed area students concerning "magic mushrooms," and other hallucinogens, they replied typically:

"No way . . . . . I don't trust that stuff."

"I've done mescaline, but never LSD — what's a 'magic mushroom'?"

"I kind of like to trip once in a great while, but they take too long to wear off. It's hard getting away from the house long enough."

PCP: Phencyclidine, Angel Dust, Dead on Arrival, Krystal and a score of slang expressions brand this up-and-coming substance.

PCP and its cousin Ketamine Hydrochloride, have been receiving a lot of bad press lately, and rightly so. "Sixty Minutes" recently did 20-minutes worth of horror stories on the effects of this drug. However, PCP is not new — it was first introduced in the 1960s. The "trip" it causes is not unpleasant, — in the beginning. After the user passes through the anesthetic phase, he goes into a hallucinogenic phase often characterized by anxiety, panic and fear of death. If the user has an unstable personality this could throw him over the brink into a bizarre world of violence and death.

Students are generally uninformed of the dangers of PCP.

"I've heard it can cause bad head-trips. I've never taken it straight . . . . . sometimes we mix it with grass and smoke it — then it's a real kicker."

"It makes me mad when someone rolls it in a joint and doesn't tell anybody. I like to know what I'm doing. I've had bad surprises."

The Solution

It is always nice to offer a solution after one expounds on the problem. Unfortunately, there are few pat answers to combatting the drug problem.

Tighter police crackdowns may or may not help. We've been shown that the stricter the law enforcement the more evasive the drug culture becomes.

Perhaps part of the solution lies in the family unit itself. Teen-agers use drugs for a multitude of reasons, — peer pressure, good feelings, escapism. Whatever the reason, they need to be educated from very early on about the dangers of drugs and alcohol.

As parents, you must learn to recognize the signs of drug use and open the lines of communication between you and your child.

Does your child spend an excessive amount of time by himself? Do you notice marked changes in his eating and personal habits? Is he suddenly making a lot of new friends? Does your child have more money than you can account for? Does your child suddenly need more money? Does your child exhibit physical or emotional changes — red, watery eyes, dilated pupils, listlessness, manic-depressive behavior?

If so, you need to talk with your child. Above all, never make accusations before you know the facts and never ignore a problem hoping it will resolve itself. It won't.

Parents must also understand the nature of the drug culture. Your children may be using drugs purely on a recreational level. This does not make them a "drug addict." It is merely a product of the times; when you were in school a cheap bottle of wine and a six-pack of beer enhanced your weekend. For today's teen-ager that no longer suffices.

You may never accept it, but an honest effort to understand the peer pressure your child faces will go a long way towards preventing a problem from developing.

Often turning to drugs is a cry for help. Listen, and maybe this unpleasant fairy-tale can have a happy ending.

ILLEGAL SMORGASBORD — Marijuana and assorted paraphernalia complete the confiscated collection at the Garrett County Sheriff's office. Sheriff Evans reports that marijuana is behind 90% of local drug arrests. The above collection is relatively small as the sheriff's department recently incinerated two large garbage bags of the confiscated herb.

ITALIAN INGENUITY — The problem of drug abuse is ages old, and likewise the means of secreting illicit substances. Pictured above is an antique Italian opium table, in the guise of several large books. This hiding place was used in the early 1900's to store the narcotic. Although relatively obsolete it is a forerunner of elaborate secret caches offered to the drug culture to "stash" drugs and paraphernalia.

Frank is one of four sons of Kathleen and Bill Finch of Altamont, formerly of Kitzmiller. His father worked as the custodian at the Courthouse for many years and then retired after several years at the Garrett County Roads Department.

Frank's brother, Bill, worked for about 8 years at the roads department, but now is employed at the North Branch Coal Mine. He is now living in the Gortner area.

Frank's brother, Bob, a former Deputy Sheriff of Garrett County, is now employed at the Laurel Run Coal Mine and is living in the Bethlehem area.

Frank's brother, Jim, is presently self-employed as owner and operator of Finch's Discount Carpet Store, north of Oakland, and lives in the Red House area.

Frank also has one sister, Betty Jo Finch Brown, who has lived away for several years but has now moved back to Garrett County. She worked for seven months as a cook at the county jail and is now employed at Bausch & Lomb.

Frank is 33 years of age. After high school and four years in the U.S.A.F., in 1968, he started working for the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

New Method May Date Shroud

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) - Scientists at the University of Rochester say a new carbon-14 technique may enable them to determine the age of the Shroud of Turin, a 14-foot long cloth believed by many to be the burial linen of Jesus.

Harry E. Gove, director of the university's Nuclear Structure Research Laboratory, says artifacts such as the shroud cannot be carbon-dated using conventional methods because it requires too much cloth. However, a new technique developed last year at the upstate New York school requires only a small sample of the material.

"At our laboratory, we could establish the age of the shroud to within about 100 years or better using a single thread about 20 centimeters long," Gove said.

The shroud, now on public display in celebration of the 400th anniversary of its discovery in Turin, Italy, has attracted thousands of spectators and great scientific interest.

Its age now cannot be traced back further than the 14th century using conventional methods.

The archbishop of Turin must approve the new carbon-dating procedure.

The university's association with the project resulted from a request by Father Peter Rinaldi, vice president of the Holy Shroud Guild, and the Rev. David Sox, general secretary of the British Society for the Turin Shround.

The men first contacted Gove after reading about the new method.

Post-Graduate Offerings For Teachers Increase

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — State education officials have joined for the first time in an attempt to increase the educational opportunities for teachers.

The Department of Education, which handles primary and secondary schools, and the Board for Higher Education, which oversees state colleges, have formed a committee to determine how colleges can offer more training for teachers.

The average age and education of state teachers has risen in recent years as student enrollments have declined and the teacher force has stablized.

Almost 65 percent of Maryland teachers have completed postgraduate courses.

State teachers are required to complete 30 hours of postgraduate work, the equivalent of a masters degree, within 10 years or face the loss of their certification.

Now that many teachers have completed that work, the Education Coordinating Committee is looking into other forms of graduate work that could be made available to teachers.

When you've spent a lifetime building a farm, you don't want estate taxes breaking it up.

Estate settlement can be very expensive and land value estimates can far exceed what you may expect. Your wife or children might be forced to sell to pay estate taxes. Why risk all your years of toil and planning for your family?

It's happened to many other families, but it doesn't have to happen to yours. We have a plan to protect your farm and your family should the unexpected happen to you.

We can provide you with the amount of insurance needed to leave your farm intact and supply immediate operating capital for your family.

Americans Abroad Feel Impact Of Sagging Dollar

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — "The American ordered a cup of coffee," the restaurant manager said. "As an afterthought, he asked the price. Then he canceled the order for coffee. I've never experienced that before."

Since the dollar hit a record low price against the Deutschmark Tuesday, a lot more American visitors in Germany will find the price of a cup of coffee is too much to bear.

In a sit-down restaurant or coffee house frequented by the ordinary middle-class German "burgerliche" family, a cup of coffee costs 1.80 marks. Add in a 20-pfennig tip and it costs $1.04.

And that $1-a-cup price buys no refills. The "bottomless cup" of American diner lore is unknown here.

Drinking alcohol is more fun and less expensive, as long you avoid the hard stuff. A small beer costs 68 cents. A quarter-liter — a generous pint — of either white or red wine costs $2.34.

Eating, however, can be expensive. The McDonald chain, expanding throughout Europe, charges $1.69 for one Big Mac.

Americans visiting Germany usually stumble over the telephone tolls. They get off their jet, go to a hotel and phone home to Columbus or Kansas City. Only when they pay their bills the next morning do they discover hotels in Germany, as in most of Europe, triple the cost of phone calls as a service charge.

A three-minute call from a German hotel to the United States can cost as much as $40.30. The line at the hotel cashier's office each morning usually jams while some unfortunate American traveler learns the hard way his telephone bill really is larger than his hotel bill.

Some people think they will save by using credit cards as often as possible, to avoid exchanging cash from one currency to another. The credit-card strategem has its disadvantages, however.

By the time the credit card company's Germany office has sent the bills on to the United States, the exchange rate of the dollar may decrease further, so once again the size of the bill will be greater than anticipated.

The answer is to use all of your American dollars to buy German marks the moment you reach Germany. Do not buy small amounts of marks in anticipation of an upward turn. It will not occur.

How can you tell what will happen to the dollar? Experienced international observers believe they have found a link between world events and currency exchange rates.

Take the Bonn economic summit last July, for example. Participants and observers alike declared the meeting of the leaders of the world's seven largest industrial democracies was a success. The dollar fell immediately.

President Carter brought Egypt and Israel together at Camp David. As a result, the dollar fell.

Saudi Arabia said it will stick with the dollar for its oil pricing. Naturally, the dollar fell again.

Switzerland took action to reverse the appreciation of its currency. The dollar sagged some more.

The answer is clear: whatever happens, the dollar goes down.

Gulf Stream Stops "Swimming Nun"

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — It was the Gulf Stream, not the shark packs, poisonous jellyfish, the cold, or fatigue that finally whipped Stella Taylor, the "Swimming Nun."

She was almost in sight of realizing her dream to swim from the Bahamas to Florida Tuesday, but had to quit.

After 51 hours in the water and 114 miles, helpers convinced the 46-year-old marathon swimmer she lacked the strength to free herself from the northward pull of the Gulf Stream. She didn't want to quit.

"I found out I had to go five miles an hour for five hours to get there, so I stopped," Miss Taylor told reporters in a hoarse whisper. "I didn't really want to stop, but I knew I had to. The currents were just too fast. I am disappointed. I worked very hard for this."

It was nonetheless a record for women's endurance swimming, only nine hours short of the men's record.

She paid a painful price. A robust woman, she hobbled ashore hunched over, barely able to walk. Her face and tongue were swollen, lips blood-red from chapping. Scabs surrounded her mouth. Deep wrinkles showed in her hands from long exposure to water.

But she refused a trip to the hospital and medical treatment. "I'm going to go home and go to sleep for a long time," she said.

Besides the physical punishment from the elements and stings from numerous jellyfish, Miss Taylor endured a psychological pounding from fatigue-induced hallucinations and the ever-present threat of sharks. She swam without a shark cage.

Two divers paddling surfboards flanked her throughout the swim to protect her from sharks. Other attendants stood guard with rifles and "bang sticks" on the lead boat.

Three times Monday, Miss Taylor was hauled onto a surfboard or onto the lead boat's dive platform while her aides scared away as many as six sharks at a time. Once, a 10-foot tiger shark approached to within 10 feet of her. Observers on the press boat noted that the jellyfish — once she screamed loudly in pain — and the shark scares visibly unnerved her.

"I won't try this again this way," Miss Taylor croaked Tuesday. "Maybe next time from the Keys to the Bahamas. Maybe someone else could make the swim this way. I couldn't."

Handicapped Bowler Discriminated Against

CINCINNATI (UPI) - A crippled man who had traveled 500 miles to participate in a national bowling tournament was not allowed to bowl as scheduled because tourney officials said his wheelchair would distract other bowlers and disrupt the event.

"The excuse is about as skimpy as you can get," complained William Warren, 29, of St. Charles, Mo.

Warren had pre-registered to bowl Sunday at Cincinnati's Western Bowl in the $47,000 Hoinke Classic, a 38-week tournament that attracts 40,000 entrants from across the country.

But when he showed up, officials refused to let him bowl that day.

"We told him he couldn't bowl at that time because it would be a distraction to other bowlers," said bowling alley manager Erwin C. Hoinke, Jr. "We said we would arrange for him to bowl on a weekday when there aren't as many bowlers, but he apparently wasn't interested."

Asked if he considered the banning of Warren on Sunday as discrimination, Hoinke said, "Not really. I guess it's no different that the city bus pulling up and a man in a wheelchair can't get on. Is it discrimination? I don't know.

"It's also a question of being fair to other bowlers. There's such a thing as bowling etiquette.

Pope John Paul Laid To Rest

By JACK PAYTON

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul I, the humble bricklayer's son whose smile illuminated the world during his 34-day-reign, today was sent to his final rest in an outdoor funeral Mass in the shadow of St. Peter's Basilica.

Resplendent in their crimson robes, those of the 127 Cardinals already in Rome escorted the plain cypress coffin bearing the body of the late pontiff from the massive basilica.

John Paul's reign was so brief that never as pontiff did he celebrate a mass in the baroque basilica, the largest in Christendom.

John Paul, the Roman Catholic Church's 263rd pontiff, died last Thursday night at the age of 65 of a sudden and massive heart attack while reading in bed.

Tens of thousands of mourners ignored threatening skies and a cold drizzle to pack the immense cobblestone square between Bernini's Doric columns for Pope John Paul's final rites.

Following the practice set by the wishes of the late Pope Paul VI, John Paul's coffin was lifted from the catafalque on which it had lain inside St. Peter's and was placed on a Persian carpet on the stone slab in front of the church.

The Sistine Chapel Choir led the hymn singing during the Latin language mass concelebrated by all cardinals present and read by Cardinal Carlo Confalonieri, 85, the dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals who performed the same services for Paul VI only last Aug. 12.

Dignitaries from 114 nations including Mrs. Lillian Carter, the mother of the U.S. President, sat in special roped off chairs to the left and right of the altar.

Once the funeral mass ended Cardinal Confalonieri read the funeral service itself — intoning a brief homily and sprinkling holy water on the coffin.

Throughout the service police helicopters circled the square and police sharpshooters eyed the crowd from positions along the 151-foot high facade of the basilica. More than 7,000 police were assigned to security.

As the bells of St. Peter's knelled, the coffin was carried back inside the basilica.

Walking down the central nave, accompanied only by the pontiff's immediate family and a half dozen cardinals, the pallbearers moved to the left of the main altar and slipped out the "Door of Death" to reach the grottoes beneath the church.

Down inside the grottoes John Paul's cypress casket was placed in a lead liner weighing 880 pounds. This in turn was placed in a more massive casket of oak.

The coffins were then lowered into a marble sarcophagus and covered with a large stone slab. The tomb was only a few steps away from those of John XXIII and Paul VI, the two pontiffs from whom he took his name.

"And now, brethren, let us give in accordance with what we reported on Form 1040."

Cosmonauts In Orbit For Record 111 Days

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet Progress cargo transport roared into space today with 5,000 pounds of supplies for Soyuz 29 cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalenok and Alexander Ivanchenkov, who have been in orbit for a record 111 days.

Informed Soviet sources said Kovalenok and Ivanchenkov, who began their record-breaking mission on June 15, will return to earth later this month after stowing the fresh supplies and mothballing their Salyut 6 space lab.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said Progress 4, carrying a 2¼-ton cargo of fuel and supplies, was launched at 2:09 a.m. (7:09 p.m. EDT Tuesday). If all goes well, the unmanned capsule should dock with the orbiting Salyut 6 space laboratory approximately 48 hours after its launch.

"The Progress 4 spaceship was launched for purposes of bringing fuel for the engines and different cargos to the Salyut 6 station and to further perfect elements of the design of onboard systems and equipment of the automatic transport ship," Tass said.

The cargo capsule was already in orbit, circling the earth every 88.8 minutes with an orbital height ranging from 118.6 miles to 165.2 miles. The Soviet news agency said all systems were functioning normally.

The arrival of the latest Progress capsule will allow Kovalenok and Ivanchenkov, who set a new record for manned spaceflight endurance each minute they remain in orbit, to recharge their Salyut lab's jet and rocket engines and life support systems.

Last month they smashed a 96-day, 10-hour endurance record established in March by two of their Soviet colleagues.

Gold Tooth Bandit Charged

BALTIMORE (UPI) - A federal grand jury in Baltimore has indicted the "gold tooth bandit" on charges of taking more than $3,000 at gunpoint from a savings and loan association and a Baltimore bank.

U.S. Attorney Russell Baker said Tuesday the grand jury indicted Monroe Wright on charges he stole $2,353 from the Vermont Federal Savings and Loan Association in Baltimore Sept. 20 and $1,023 from the First National Bank of Maryland, August 23.

Police said Wright, who has a gold front tooth with the letter "M" inscribed on it, is suspected of robbing at least seven other financial institutions in Maryland and one in Virginia.

CALLING ALL Homemakers

THINK ABOUT CONVERSATION GROUPINGS

Probably nothing is more important when arranging your living room furniture than to make sure it's arranged properly for conversation. Even if you have the most beautiful furniture in the world, if it's not arranged to allow easy conversation between two or more people, you haven't made your home all it could be.

Try to place some chairs and sofas so that people can see each other with a minimum of turning their heads.

Conversation is inconvenient if people are lined up in a straight line, and have to crane their necks to see those they're talking to.

Conversation groupings should also have the seating pieces close enough together so people can talk easily. On the other hand, you want to leave enough space between pieces for comfort and movement.

Every living room should have at least one basic conversation grouping; if necessary, you might also want to consider two or more such groupings.

It's helpful for you to have enough tables on which you and your guests can easily place refreshments.

Try to have one conversation grouping more-or-less permanent so you don't always have to move chairs around each time guests come.

To see the perfect furniture to help any conversation group, stop in here.

So, please feel free to stop in and see us at your convenience. We're here to serve you.

Knights of Norwin

Knights Of Norwin To Participate In Western Maryland Tournament

The Knights of Norwin, who ranked sixth in the nation among high school marching bands last year, will be in competition in the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, October 14.

The band, from Norwin, Pa., is under the direction of L. J. Hancock and consists of 110 musicians, 41 colorguard members and six majorettes.

This year the Knights have captured 1st place at the Steel Valley Invitational, and have successfully defended their titles at the Latrobe Wildcat Review and the Tri-State Championship in West Liberty, W. Va.

The colorguard, now in its eleventh year, is the West Penn Colorguard and VFW State Champions, as well as being in the top ten of the Midwest Colorguard Circuit for the past nine seasons. In addition, the colorguard is a charter member and finalist in the newly formed Winter Guard International Circuit.

The band, from a high school of 2,000 students, will appear in Syracuse, N. Y., Baldwin, Pa. and Hempfield, Pa. as well as in Oakland during October.

The Knights' field show features a combination of precision marching, choreographic design, and symphonic-like sound with integrated work by the colorguard and majorettes. The percussion section is a highlight of the show with its utilization of a wide variety of audio and visual techniques and effects which create a percussion ensemble sound within the framework of the entire playing unit.

Fabulous . . . that's the view from the Golden Gate. Linking Oakland and San Francisco, the majestic sight of this famous bridge has thrilled the hearts of weary travellers, inspiring all with its promise of new opportunity.

Catching the morning sun or the evening twilight, the Golden Gate whispers its own welcome to those who near its watch. "Welcome to my beautiful city," or "Come again, old friend," it sighs. It seems to know and understand the problems of each human heart, and like a true friend, it is always there for all to share its strength and beauty.

There is another bridge of inspiration and truth where burdens may be lightened and courage renewed. People everywhere have drawn from its stabilizing influence, and you, too, will always be welcome within the fellowship of the Church. Find out for yourself this week.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE GODS OF 1978

Lesson for October 8, 1978

Background Scripture:
Exodus 20:3-7;
Joshua 24:14-15;
Matthew 5:33-37, 6:24;
Luke 4:8; John 4:24.
Devotional Reading:
John 5:19-24.

"You shall have no other gods before me" (Exodus 20:3).

These words seem to have a strange and archaic ring to them. "Other gods"? To be sure, we realize that primitive men in some far corners of the world are still polytheists. But the major religions of mankind that account for the vast majority of the world's believers — Christianity, Judaism, Islam, Buddhism and even Hinduism (which to the uninformed appears to be polytheistic) — all these are essentially monotheistic. If the adherents of these faiths disagree, it is not over the question of whether there is one God or many, but what is the most accurate representation of the one God.

Rev. Althouse

A "Jealous God"

The first commandment in Exodus forbidding the worship of "other gods" (20:3) seems, therefore, to have little meaning or relevance for us today. We may not serve God with the devotion he seeks, but neither does he have any competitors in this modern age.

Or does he?

Are there not some subtle gods that contend with the Lord of the universe for our worship and service? Theologian John Bright once wrote:

For that to which a man looks for his ultimate well-being, his salvation no less, and that from which he derives his standards of conduct — that is his god. And we have no lack of them. (THE KINGDOM OF GOD. Abingdon Press, 1953)

If Bright is right — and I am convinced he is — then God still has good reason to be the "jealous" deity depicted for us in the Old Testament.

The God Of Mammon

Nor is this strictly an Old Testament concept. On the Mount of Temptation following his baptism, Jesus cries: "Begone, Satan, for it is written, 'You shall worship the Lord your God and him only shall you serve'" (Matthew 4:10). Later, in the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus updated the first commandment so that even his nominally monotheistic countrymen could understand its challenge:

No one can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon. (6:24)

Baal, the Canaanite god, is long-forgotten, as are Melak and Astarte, but Mammon is still with us! An Arabic word meaning "wealth," Mammon is very much worshipped today for it is to material wealth that many of us look for our ultimate well-being, our salvation "no less," and even our standards of conduct. One does not have to be a theologian to realize that in this year of 1978 there are still "other gods" who vie for the worship and service that belongs to the Lord alone.

CHICKEN POX IS USUALLY A MILD DISEASE

Probably caused by a virus, it generally attacks children between two and six years old. After exposure its incubation period averages 16 days during which time a slight fever, headache or backache may occur. Then comes a series of rashes.

It is important to call a physician. For scratching can cause an erysipelas infection or an abcess. Mouth lesions may affect the larynx. An adult attack can be more serious, so grown-ups should avoid exposure.

Licenses To Wed Drop Last Month

Marriage licenses for September showed a decided seasonal drop from August. There were only 84 issued against 118 the previous month. Last week, 22 were issued according to records in the office of Richard L. Davis, Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Applications numbered 83 for September. Of the 84 issued, 39 or 46 percent were civil ceremonies. Last week, one of the 22 issued was not to be published. Where a person is under 18 years old, parent's consent was given.

POLICY + PERFORMANCE = LEADERSHIP

Talk is cheap. A candidate can hire ad-writers to make his promises look good - but true leadership can only be proven by the test of time. Wayne Hamilton has stood that test.

In his eight years as your County Commissioner, Wayne Hamilton has become known and respected throughout Maryland. This respect was earned because he has built a solid record of performance for a better Garrett County.

As a leader Wayne listens to people. He responds to the views of his fellow citizens and taxpayers, his fellow farmers and business people. He studies the facts, he formulates clear policies, and he works hard to deliver performance. That's leadership that can be proven with examples.

This ad, and others to follow, will list some of the many examples of Wayne's accomplishments.

TAXES

His Policy:

We must continue to reduce the burden of county taxes on our homeowners, our farmers, and our business people. Despite inflation we must persist in controlling the cost of government, but without sacrificing vital services.

His Performance:

Wayne's two terms in office have been a period of relentless inflation. Nevertheless, vigorous cost-control by the Commissioners "held the line" to avoid any increase in the tax rate. In fact, in the past two years, the county tax rate has been cut by 11% - a 28 cent DECREASE! Also, Garrett Countians are eligible for the most generous early-payment tax discount in Maryland.

•For the Farmer —
Wayne supported continuation of the agricultural land assessment law and the tax credit on silos.

•For the Businessman —
Wayne helped eliminate the oppressive county inventory tax.

•For the Elderly —
Wayne supported lowering the eligibility for the circuit-breaker tax to age 60.

•For all Taxpayers
Wayne has worked to change tax laws so that industry pays its fair share of the tax burden.

JOBS

His Policy:

Every Garrett Countian should have the chance for productive employment. We must encourage private enterprise to provide more jobs - to reduce our unemployment, to give our young people a way to remain and raise their families in Garrett. We should not subsidize industry, but we should make Garrett attractive for new, small industries. We must also help our young people be fully prepared and qualified to fill these jobs.

His Performance:

In the past eight years, private sector jobs in Garrett County have increased by 45% - more than 2,000 new jobs! This willingness to invest in the future of Garrett County is a vote of confidence by private enterprise in our progressive, sensible county government.

•Working through the Garrett County Development Corporation, the Tablelands Milk Producers, Inc., was organized to help 125 dairy farmers rescue their livelihood when the Carnation plant closed.

•The Commissioners have moved to make sites available, at no cost in local taxes, for new industry seeking to locate in Garrett.

•Vocational education facilities and programs have been expanded making maximum use of Federal and State resources. Wayne has helped Garrett Community College secure funding for a new vocational center and for unique programs, such as Wildlife Management, that have become a national model.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The Stemple Ridge Cemetery Association was organized several years ago to clean up and maintain the cemetery. Since that time, through the efforts and generous contributions of many people, we have been able to keep the cemetery in a condition we can all be proud of.

In recent years, the cost of mowing and up-keep has greatly increased and our contributions have not increased accordingly. Therefore, we are asking those who have relatives or friends buried here to help us.

Contributions should be made to the Stemple Ridge Cemetery Association, and mailed to Mrs. Maxine Hauser, Treasurer, Route 1, Aurora, West Virginia 26705.

Anyone wishing to establish a trust or will the Cemetery Association an amount, can do so by naming the Stemple Ridge Association as the benefactor.

Thanking you in advance, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Dechant To Deliver Columbus Address

Virgil C. Dechant, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus, will deliver a special Columbus Day address to be heard over Radio Station WMSG Monday, October 9, at 5:15 p.m. Mr. Dechant, executive head of the more than 1.2 million-member Catholic family fraternal service organization, will speak on "A Time for Courage."

Mr. Dechant's talk is being sponsored by Oakland Knights of Columbus Council 1771. Henry George Gregory is grand knight of Oakland Council.

In commenting on the program, Gregory said, "Four hundred eighty-six years ago, Christopher Columbus completed one of the most daring exploratory sea voyages recorded in the annals of mankind - the discovery of the North American Continent. All Knights of Columbus members join together this week in observing the anniversary of Columbus' epic voyage."

Mills Found Guilty Of More Charges In Cooper Murder

David Bruce Mills, who was convicted of murdering Mrs. Ida Mae Cooper in January, pleaded guilty to additional charges of kidnapping and armed robbery in the case last Tuesday in Mineral County Circuit Court in Keyser, and received another life sentence.

The life sentence given by Judge Donald C. Hott will run consecutively to the murder sentence and had the additional phrase, "with mercy." Another 20-year sentence to run concurrently was given for the armed robbery.

Mills had been found guilty of murdering Mrs. Cooper, who was the wife of Davis Mayor Martin (Red) Cooper, during a trial in July. He was then given a life sentence with no hope of parole.

It was noted that Tuesday's second trial for the kidnapping and armed robbery was conducted in case a high court would reverse the murder conviction. The additional sentences would give a minimum of ten years in prison, but mean nothing unless the murder conviction is overturned.

Testimony in the July murder trial showed that Mills had kidnapped Mrs. Cooper in a plot to spring Fred Hamilton from Tucker County Jail.

Attorney Delroy Harner has filed an appeal for Mills in Circuit Court, but has asked to be relieved of further duties in the case. Tucker County Prosecutor J. Pat Nichols appeared for the state in Tuesday's trial, which had been moved to Keyser because of a change of venue request due to alleged pretrial publicity.

Wye Oak Seedlings Available Now

This year only one thousand Wye Oak seedlings are being offered for sale on a first come, first serve basis by the Maryland Forest Service, Department of Natural Resources.

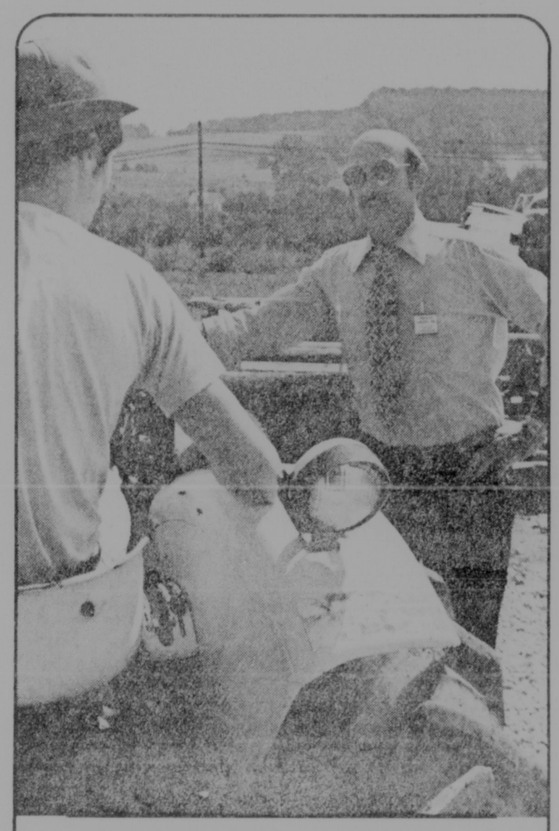
Elect Ernie Gregg

County Commissioner

This Week on Farming



New Conservative leadership for Garrett County

Garrett County is basically an agricultural community and farming is one of our most important industries. Our county government must be more responsive to the needs of county farmers.

I was born and raised on a farm and was an FFA star farmer. I treasure our land and farming industry and consider them the bedrock of this county. If elected, I mean to see that county government gives our farmers the support they need.

On the Issues

Tax Burden. Increased government spending has been supported by higher and higher assessments. The higher tax burden on farming land makes it harder for farmers to make a decent living. Agricultural land should never be assessed or taxed on any basis other than on its ability to produce crops. Reduced government expenditures will help relieve this burden.

Fair Assessments. I mean to use my position as commissioner to assure that assessments are fair and equitable to all.

Government Control. Farmers need more help, not government interference with their property rights. The Democratic incumbent supported a confiscatory subdivision regulation plan. When farmers and property owners tried to petition it to referendum, the incumbent opposed the right of the people to vote on the proposal. Thus, citizens had to spend thousands of dollars to defeat it. The support for confiscation of property in the Yough Corridor is another example.

Inheritance Tax. These taxes have broken up many family farms. If elected, I will use my influence to further reduce or eliminate this destructive tax on farms.

County Services. The Federal Department of Agriculture has become little more than a food stamp administration. Let's not allow that to happen here. Our County government has increased its welfare budget, but has all but ignored services for the farmer. In the 1978-79 budget, for example, the budget for public welfare, the bulk of which is for food stamp administration, increased from $37,878 to $46,645. During the same period, the budget for the local share of the Agriculture Extension Service actually decreased from $40,227 to $35,976. I would rather spend the money to help the farming industry.

Ernie Gregg

The Gregg campaign is open to everyone. If you have the time to help us, please call 334-2197. Watch these ads each week for a complete discussion of the issues.

A Forum On Public Issues

THE IMPACT OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

By Janet C. Wunderlick

Economic development is a major concern in Western Maryland with our high unemployment and high level of poverty. In 1975, Allegany County had 27% of the population living below the poverty level and unemployment during recent years has averaged as much as 16% annually. In Garrett County, 28% of the population were living below the poverty level in 1975 and unemployment has ranged up to 18% of the population.

The attraction of new industry and business is on the minds of community leaders, politicians and citizens. New growth and economic development make most of us think in terms of population increase, a greater money flow, and decreased public assistance programs. A second look at industrial growth and new business brings to mind concerns about the changing landscape, a change in population mix, an increase in demand for other public services and the effect that the growth of these businesses will have on existing business and the existing tax structure.

A still more sophisticated analysis includes a realization that some services will increase and other decrease. Certainly there is a cost to new growth and that cost usually takes the form of expanded need for water and sewer, roads and educational facilities. A question for public policy makers is whether a real savings would be realized in a diminution of less needed services such as unemployment, welfare, food stamps, and medicaid, or if those services would in fact remain at the same level of cost at a time when expanding services increase the tax burden.

An important question, and one to which community officials need to address themselves, is the nature of the financing of economic development and who will ultimately pay for the new services. The ideal situation is that the new industry and new families in the community would bear much of the increase in cost of services, or that those businesses that most benefit from the new growth share in the increased tax burden as opposed to the new expense being borne primarily by the pre-existing community.

The institutional arrangements (revenue sources) used by local government will determine in large part who pays the new taxes. For example, three institutional arrangements are often used to finance the extension of public services such as water and sewer. One of these is to float revenue bonds to raise the money for capital construction. The essence of revenue bonds is that the bonds will be redeemed by revenue collected from the water and sewer authorities.

A second method of financing public service construction is to float tax bonds. These bonds are repaid from the tax receipts of the governmental units.

A third method is to float a bond issue that is also based on taxes, but the taxes are levied only on those to whom the service is provided and not on all taxpayers in the local governmental unit. If a new water system is required to open up a new area for urban development, a special assessment will be made on property of landowners in the new area and the existing residents of the community will not pay for the new services.

If revenue bonds are used to finance the construction of public services, it is reasonable to expect that the existing users will pay part of the cost of extending the services to new customers. If tax bonds are used to finance the extension of a public service system, the cost of the new system is paid for by all the taxpayers in the community. On the other hand, if the special tax assessment is used, the cost of extending the system falls largely upon the users who will benefit from that system.

It is very important to keep in mind the types of revenue sources used to finance services for two reasons. One, the sources of revenue do affect who will pay for the new services, and two, the sources of revenue should not be taken as given by a community which is attempting to reach a decision on whether or not to allow a type of economic development to take place. The community can specify that it will allow the economic development only if the method used to finance the new services is one that will require the new plant and new families to pay for the services or that the segment of the community most benefiting from the new facility will pay.

The impact of economic development on grants received by the local government can be either positive or negative. For example, the local community may have had substantial unemployment before the new plant came in and was, therefore, eligible for certain types of state and federal grants, such as counter cyclical funds. If the new plant reduces unemployment to a level where the community is no longer eligible for these grants, the impact on economic development and revenue is negative, although the sources of revenue are more economically sound. On the other hand, if economic development is sufficient to stimulate the level of economic activity in the region to such an extent that the tax revenue of the community is increased, the community may receive more grants under the federal revenue sharing program.

Going through this list of taxes and making an honest attempt to evaluate the changes in revenue will provide a reasonably good estimate of the impact of economic development on revenues. Even though some of the estimates will be rough, the major reasons for error would be overlooking one of the sources of revenue or failure to identify the people who actually pay the tax.

Landscape changes resulting from economic development can be an asset or a detriment depending on the location, design of plant, and nature of business and industry attracted to the community. Positive improvement in local scenery could result from an increased economic base. New revenues could produce community beautification programs if taxes expand beyond the amount necessary to provide basic services.

Another interesting aspect of economic development is the potential for changing the population mix within the community. A 1977 survey of buying power conducted by S&MM identified that 39.5% of Allegany County had a household buying power of less than $8,000 per year. Only 22% of the households earned $15,000 and over, while 52% of Maryland households and 45% of U.S. households earn more than $15,000. In Garrett County, 43% of households had less than $8,000 while only 22.8% had incomes over $15,000.

Clearly the community could benefit from new jobs at all levels but, in particular, jobs which raise the standard of living for Allegany and Garrett county citizens.

There are many other indirect spin-offs from economic development. An increase in population would be beneficial to Western Maryland because it would allow for a broader range of services, both public and private, to exist within the community. Philosophers since Plato and contemporary urban planners are in remarkable agreement that the optimum population for a city is between 50,000 and 100,000.

America's planned "New Towns" (Columbia, Maryland, and Reston, Virginia) were designed for an average population of 73,000 and similar limits have been set for new communities in Great Britain, China, the Soviet Union, Israel and the Netherlands. So writes Kirkpatrick Sale, a writer specializing in politics and government. He maintains that U.S. law makers have an "unshrinkable obligation" to encourage settlement in smaller cities. Federal urban aid programs should favor smaller cities in the allocation of funds and offer incentives for business investment.

Surveys show that Americans want to live in smaller cities and this fact alone will be most beneficial to Western Maryland in promoting new investment and economic growth. What is important to our community is that the nature of financing, the aesthetic environment and the population, both in size and character, be considered as important factors in determining what kind and how much growth we want.

Janet C. Wunderlick, Community Resource Development Agent for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, is preparing a series of articles to inform the public in Western Maryland of various legislation, programs, laws, services and general issues that may, at one time or other, affect the lives of everyone. More detailed information is usually available on request. Ms. Wunderlick may be contacted through the Garrett County Extension office (334-2145) or at her Cumberland office at 11 Prospect Square (724-3320). She visits the Garrett County office at least once a week.

GROOMING YOUR HORSE

Grooming your horse provides a number of benefits besides a good-looking mount. Brushing stimulates circulation, distributes oil from glands under the skin, and maintains muscle tone. It also gives you a chance to get to know your horse a little better. Properly done, a good grooming job takes at least a half hour, and is hard work.

For a novice, the tendency is to start with the back and sides and work down toward the feet. Unfortunately, by the time the feet have been reached, fatigue may have set in and the temptation becomes great to rush to finish the job. This can be a costly error; foot trouble in a horse can be an expensive illness to correct. So begin grooming with the feet while you're fresh.

To start, face your horse, lean your shoulder against his left side, and push against him. The pressure will become a cue for him to pick up his foot. Until he gets the idea, slide your hand down the leg and pull up the hoof. Hold the hoof at the level of your knee and use a pick (a special pointed tool) to dig out all foreign matter until the entire sole becomes visible.

Each hoof should be carefully cleaned so there is no debris to bruise the "frog," the soft undersurface of the hoof. As you work, check for a foul odor or flaking of the frog. These are signs of thrush, a condition that develops after a horse stands in a damp, dirty stall or muddy pasture for a long time. A horse with an undetected case of thrush will rapidly go lame and need veterinary attention.

After you finish the horse's feet, gather together the basic tools you will need for grooming the body: currycomb, dandy brushes, sponges and toweling.

The currycomb is used to loosen and remove dirt from the horse's coat. Start behind the ears at the left side (usually called the "near" side) and move the currycomb against the lay of the hair to bring the dirt to the surface. Progress down the neck and toward the tail until most of the coat is free of dirt.

Pay special attention to areas where riding tack rubs against the skin — behind the ears, the middle back, the middle belly and between the front legs.

For tender areas like the face, rear belly and legs below the knee, a softer brush (the dandy brush) is necessary. A stiff dandy brush can also be used to smooth out the mane and tail.

After you have gone over the entire skin surface with a dandy brush again to remove any soil left behind, spread the skin's natural oil through the hair with a soft clean towel.

Last, wipe around the eyes and nose with a small damp sponge. Use a second sponge to wipe down the dock, or area at the base of the tail.

All this attention to your horse's coat may lead you to discover small cream or yellowish ovals glued to individual hairs on the horse's legs, shoulders or face. These are the eggs of irritating flies known as bots. Left undisturbed, the eggs hatch into small worms or maggots which enter the horse's mouth and migrate down to the stomach. The parasites cause tenderness and sores in the mouth, digestive upsets, and contribute to a dull coat. They can be eliminated by briskly rubbing the area with a cloth dipped in an insecticide approved for use on horses.

If despite all your efforts, your horse appears listless and his coat dull, consult with your veterinarian. A poor general appearance can be an indication of parasites or nutritional problems.

Scott Glotfelty Is One Of Thirteen Chancellor Scholars

Mrs. Ruth Glotfelty and son, Scott, of Bittinger, were among the guests at a dinner and reception September 19, at the home of Chancellor and Mrs. Robert Gluckstern, of the University of Maryland, College Park.

Scott is one of thirteen Chancellor scholars honored by the University in a program which started last year. Chancellor scholarships provide $500 a year for four years to outstanding students.

Also attending the dinner were other Chancellor scholars, parents and sponsors of the various scholarships, along with administrators involved and the selection committee.

Sponsor of Scott's scholarship was Mack Truck Company, Hagerstown. Robert Gorman was the company representative attending the dinner.

Scott was one of 1,200 students nominated from their respective high schools for Chancellor scholarships. He was also awarded a Dresser scholarship, based on results from the National Merit test, and is one of 30 students in the United States to receive a Dresser award. He also won an Elks scholarship and was the outstanding Elks male scholarship winner in the district.

Scott is a 1978 graduate of Northern High School, where he was class valedictorian. He was active in band, managing editor of The Viking newspaper, and a member of student government. He is also active in 4-H and church projects.

CURIOSITY SEEKERS

If you intend to implant a "For Sale by Owner" sign in your front yard, be prepared for the inevitable "CURIOSITY SEEKERS." You'll probably spend more time tramping through the house with curiosity seekers than showing it to firm prospects.

Your "For Sale by Owner" sign leaves you open to all types of people and problems. For example, a visitor may present an offer to buy on which he doesn't intend to follow through. You may make plans based on accepting it, only to learn that the "prospect" had no intention of completing the agreement.

A Realtor has the experience to unmask the insincere offer and turn it away before it does any harm. In fact, the presence of a Realtor usually will discharge any attempts of that sort. He will qualify prospects in advance and allow only those who are definitely prospective buyers - not curiosity seekers - to inspect your home.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

DNR Sets Waterfowl Hunting Regulations

Maryland's Department of Natural Resources announced this week that migratory waterfowl have begun to arrive in force in the state. Observers have reported large flights of Canada geese settling on both shores of Chesapeake.

Last year's wintering population totalled approximately 504,000, and totals have not been below 435,000 in this decade.

The state is divided into two regions — eastern and western. Eastern region (Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Caroline, Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester) has an October 20 opening date while the western region (all other parts of the state) has a November 3 opening date. Bag limit is three per day in both regions.

Seasons and limits are as follows: Canada geese, eastern region, October 20-November 24 and December 4 to January 26 — daily limit 3, possession limit 6.

Canada geese, western region, November 3-November 24 and December 4-January 20, daily limit three, possession limit six.

Snow geese November 3-November 24 and December 4-January 20, daily limit two, possession four.

Brant season is closed.

Maryland will use the point system for ducks, but canvasbacks and redheads may not be taken.

Ducks, coots and mergansers — November 9 through November 24, and December 4 through January 6; Bag limits — when the hunter bags the one duck that puts him at 100 points or over; possession — the maximum number of birds of species and sexes which could have been legally taken in two days.

Points and species:

Seventy point ducks — hen mallard, black duck, wood duck, and hooded merganser.

Ten point ducks — blue-winged teal, green-winged teal, pintail, gadwall, shovelers, scaup, mergansers (except hooded), and widgeon.

Twenty-five point ducks — all other ducks which in Maryland would include drake mallard, ring neck duck, common goldeneye, bufflehead, and ruddy duck.

Coot have no point value, but the daily bag limit is 15 and the possession limit is 30.

Scaup (special season in the seaduckzone only) November 25-December 2. Daily limit 5; possession limit 10.

For those sportsmen who will be hunting waterfowl using raptors (birds of prey) the falconry seasons for waterfowl are as follows:

Canada goose (Eastern Shore): October 12-January 26.

Canada goose (Western Shore: October 6-January 20.

Snow goose: October 6-January 20.

Ducks: October 6-January 20.

There is a bag limit of three and a possession limit of six for all permitted migratory game birds singly or in the aggregate.

All waterfowl hunters in Maryland must purchase a state waterfowl stamp, sign it and affix it to the hunting license. A Federal stamp also is required in Maryland.

Waterfowl hunting is permissible during the prescribed seasons from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset. There is no Sunday hunting.

Apple Harvest Festival Slated October 6 - 8

The 1978 Burlington Old-Fashioned Apple Harvest Festival will be held the weekend of October 6-8 on the grounds of the United Methodist Children's Home. The Electric Light Orchestra, better known as ELO, welcomed thousands of exuberant fans from the tri-state area to Pittsburgh's Civic Arena last Monday evening.

Led by multi-talented Jeff Lynne, the group's music literally charmed the savage beast. Pittsburgh's sell-out concert crowds are generally not well-behaved, but ELO's cello solo by Hugh McDowell, "Flight of the Bumble Bee," and violin solo by Mik Kaminski, "Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairies," lulled the crowd into appreciative submission.

The only disappointment of the evening was the ommission of ElO's "space ship" stage set which highlights their 1978 tour. The sixty-foot aluminum alloy and fiber glass set is transported in eight tractor trailers and requires a 45 member crew to erect. Reminiscent of "Close Encounters," the ship was designed and constructed by Tele-Stage of England at a cost of $300,000.

But who needs spaceships? The only glittering trappings present at the Pittsburgh concert were lasers used to project dazzling designs in the air. Everything else spectacular emitted from the group's instruments.

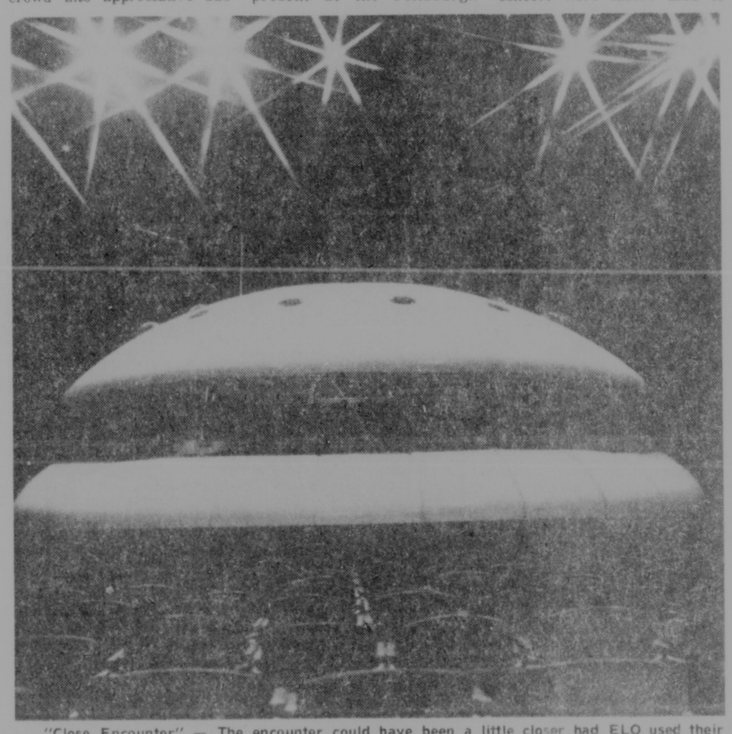
"Night in the City" — The Electric Light Orchestra, ELO, lit up the Steel City for tri-state fans Monday evening. Their eighth album, "Out of the Blue," had advance sales of $47 million in retail orders before the album had even been released. Pictured above, ELO's members are Mik Kaminski, violin; Hugh McDowell, cello; Richard Tandy, keyboards; Jeff Lynne, lead vocals and lead guitar; Kelly Groucutt, bass and vocals; Melvin Gayle, cello; and Bev Bevan, drums.

With faithful renditions from their eighth album, "Out of the Blue," the group's repertoire included, "Standing in the Rain," "Night in the City," "Turn to Stone," "Can't Get It Out Of My Head," "Tightrope," "Telephone Line," "Rockaria," "Strange Magic," "Showdown," "Mr. Blue Sky," "Sweet Talking Woman," "Evil Woman," "Do Ya," "Living Thing," "Ma Beil," and "Roll Over Beethoven."

Unlike other groups, ELO dedicated this concert to the education of its fans. In deference to the group's dislike of having their music branded "Classical rock," it suffices to call it "classy rock." As always, the beloved favorites were performed eloquently and elegantly without the high-jinks others employ to excite their audience.

Pure music is enough and the over-dubbing, layering and expressive vocals gilded the lily admirably.

Electric Light Orchestra had not appeared in the area for 18 months, and well-satiated fans blissfully left the arena humming the strains of an electric violin.



"Close Encounter" — The encounter could have been a little closer had ELO used their famous star-ship stage set during the Pittsburgh concert. As it turned out the ship's special effects would have been wasted on the thoroughly enamored audience. It is, however, interesting to note that the sixty-foot ship constructed of aluminum and fiberglass was the $300,000 creation of Tele-Stage of Bury-St. Edmunds, England. The extravagant set is manned by a full crew as lasers are projected through the glass portals producing the ELO logo in full color. The control board is an 80 channel lighting console which surrounds the ship in myriad rings of light. Portable generators produce the necessary 525,000 watts of power and a custom flying sound system of aluminum alloy completes the effect.

Probably the best job benefit I have is the fact that I can usually get into things that others can't (like trouble). Take rock concerts for instance. Even if they are sold out I merely call the group's manager, tell him I'm with the press and I'm home free. Almost.

My favorite group in the whole world is the Electric Light Orchestra which appeared in Pittsburgh Monday evening. When I learned all of the "good" tickets had been sold out, I just knew I'd die if I didn't get into that concert . . . . . so, I called New York.

"Fine, no problem, we got you covered babe," a recording-executive type assured me over the phone. "Where did you say you're from?"

"Oakland, Maryland," I replied.

"Oh yeah, Oakland, Maryland. (?)"

I received my press-kit in the mail a few days later with a letter telling me to pick up my tickets at the box office the night of the concert. So with high hopes, my friends and I set off for Tinsel Town humming the strains of "Roll-over Beethoven."

The trip up was uneventful and we made it to the Civic Arena in the nick of time. Of course I looked the part — my oldest blue jeans, my newest shirt with a navy blue sweater casually draped over my shoulders, tape recorders, cameras, strobe lights and lenses hanging from every available limb.

And right in front of me a big, sloppy, double-chinned security guard standing next to a large sign — "ABSOLUTELY NO CAMERAS OR RECORDING EQUIPMENT ALLOWED IN THIS ARENA."

"What's happening?" I asked him, (that's rock 'n' roll lingo).

"Grunt," he said pointing to my array of photo equipment.

"Oh, yes . . . . . I'm from Oakland, Maryland, and I'm here to cover the concert for the newspaper.

"Where'd ja say you're from?"

"Oakland, Maryland," I offered.

"Oh yeah, Oakland, Maryland. (?)" Stare.

"Uh," I stammered, "I'll bet you think these are cameras! Well — they aren't. They're Dolby Decibel Detection equipment. You see I have perforated eardrums and if the group gets above 110 decibels this equipment will warn me so I can get out in time.

Stare accompanied by frown.

"Ha, ha, ha," I chortled weakly, "just a little industry joke. You see I'm allowed to have these cameras — I'm with the press and if you'd be so kind as to allow us to get to the box office I'll just pick up my press passes and we'll be on our way."

Mr. Personality led us to the box office.

"High. — I mean Hello, I'm Jim Willis, from Oakland, Maryland, and there should be press passes reserved in my name from ELO's production manager."

"Where did you say you're from?"

"Oakland, Maryland."

"Oh, yeah, — Oakland, Maryland. (?)"

Miss Efficiency hunted everywhere.

"Sorry," she offered, "nothing here with your name on it. Try Gate Two, that's where the group and their guests enter."

"Thanks," I said. With my friends in tow I finally found Gate Two.

I bounced up to the doorman with cameras jingling, looking like the bionic man with a colostomy.

"Good evening," I gasped. "I'm Jim Willis from Oakland, Maryland and I should be on your guest list.

"Where are you from?" he asked.

"Oakland, Maryland."

"Oakland, Maryland. (?) . . . . . nope, sorry."

"Look buddy," I said, "we just drove 2½ hours to see this concert and I would really like to find my press passes."

No response.

About that time I decided to employ my best Woodward and Bernstein investigative reporting technique — lying.

"Sir, do you know who the lead singer of Electric Light Orchestra is?"

"Sure," he countered, "Jeff Lynne."

"Right, — how perceptive of you! And do you notice a certain resemblance between myself and Mr. Lynne?"

"Not the slightest."

"Well, we had different mothers of course, but isn't there something? That certain curl of the lip, a hint of sophistication perhaps? — the hair color? — the moustache?

"Nope . . . . . Look, no tickets, no see concert, capeesh?"

"Ah-hem. Thanks, you've been just wonderful. I hope . . .

"Tickets! You-all get your tickets here!"

"Hey, how many tickets do you have for sale?" I asked.

"Foh."

"Four. Perfect! We just drove all the way from Oakland, Maryland and we can't get into the arena," I explained. "How much do you want for them?"

"Fifty dollars, man."

Gasp, Choke.

"Oh well, here you go. Thanks a lot." I called as we started for the entrance.

"Hey man, where'd you-all say you from?"

"Oakland — Oakland, Maryland."

Yeah man, I can dig it. Oakland, Maryland.(?)"

BIG TELESCOPES

Why are bigger telescopes important to astronomers? Telescopes are designed to gather light. The bigger they are the more light they can gather. Astronomers use light to gain information by breaking it into its component parts of the spectrum. By doing this, they can learn about a star's distance, physical properties, and chemical composition. The light from distant stars is so weak that with present telescopes it takes long periods to gather enough information for analysis. Bigger telescopes immensely speed-up this observation process, and also enables astronomers to gather light from more distant stars.

MOON

Moonset will be at 8:35 this evening. Next Tuesday the moon will set at 59 minutes after midnight. Monday at 5:38 a.m. the moon passes through its First Quarter phase. A waxing moon is in our sky this week.

Pension May Cause Benefit Reduction

A new provision of the social security law may have an important effect on the retirement plans of working couples if one of them works in public employment not covered by social security, James E. Robertson, Social Security District Manager in Cumberland, Md., said recently.

Under the old law, the spouse of a person whose work was covered by social security could get a benefit as a husband or wife regardless of his or her pension income from sources other than social security.

Under the new law, the person's social security benefit as a dependent or survivor will be reduced by the amount of any pension he or she receives based on his or her own work in public employment not covered by social security. This work could be for the Federal government or any State or local government.

Under an exception in the law, a governmental pension will not affect a social security dependent or survivor benefit if the person becomes eligible for the pension before December 1982, and at the time the person applies for or becomes entitled to a social security benefit as a dependent or survivor, the person could have qualified for that benefit under the law as it was in 1977.

In January 1977 men had to prove they were actually dependent on their wives to be eligible for benefits as a husband or widower, Mr. Robertson said.

A governmental pension will have no effect on a person's social security benefit based on his or her own work covered by social security.

More information about the effect of governmental pensions on social security benefits can be obtained at the Cumberland Social Security Office, located at 316 Paca Street. The telephone number is 724-0970.

WITH A CHEERY WAVE OF HIS TOPHAT, chimmeysweep Earl H. George, of Swanton, prepares to demonstrate his craft. Mr. George has been involved in chimney cleaning since March of this year, but first became interested in the possibilities of such a business as early as 1955, when he read a magazine article which stated that there were only three sweeps in the United States at that time. This March he saw an advertisement for the August-West cleaning system, which includes a vacuum cleaner, and was in business. He has cleaned approximately 60 chimneys so far, and says knowledge of how flues are built is essential to his work. Cleaning can be done from the roof, or from the inside fo the house. He cautions fireplace users to burn only dry, seasoned wood and to let the fire get really hot for at least five minutes each day to help prevent buildups which cause flue fires. Mr. George plans to add the traditional tuxedo to complete his working costume very soon.

"Stress" Is Topic Of Institute On Medicine, Religion

The 12th annual Institute on Medicine and Religion, sponsored by Memorial Hospital, has been scheduled for Wednesday, November 8, and will be held at the new Thomas B. Finan Hospital Center.

Selected as the topic for this year's program is "Stress: Fighting the Wear and Tear."

The Institute on Medicine and Religion is held annually by Memorial Hospital to bring together members of the medical, religious and related professions for discussions on contemporary human concerns.

Rev. Ralph C. Ciampa, Memorial Hospital chaplain who is serving as general chairman, said an outstanding program has been planned to acquaint a broad range of workers and leaders in the medical and religious communities with an understanding of the role of stress in normal life, in undermining health, and in meeting the demands of the helping professions.

Speakers on the Institute program are Wayne E. Oates, Th. D., professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences at the School of Medicine, University of Louisville, Ky.; Albert M. Powell Jr., M.D., clinical director of the Finan Center, and Samuel Trychin, Ph. D., director of psychological services at Finan Center.

The Institute will begin at 8:30 a.m. with registration and coffee and donuts, with program introductions scheduled for 9:15.

Dr. Oates will open the morning session at 9:30 with a presentation on "The Creative and Hazardous Aspects of Stress." Following a question-and-answer session and break, he will discuss "The Professional and Personal Management of Stress."

Lunch will be served at noon, then Dr. Powell and Dr. Trychin will present a two-part segment beginning at 1:00 p.m. on "Stress, Some Clinical Aspects."

At the conclusion of the Institute Program, persons attending are invited to tour the Finan Center.

The Institute is accredited for post-graduate certification for physicians and continuing education certification for nurses.

Persons planning to attend may register by calling the office of Chaplain Ciampa at Memorial Hospital, 777-4297.

The registration fee, which includes lunch, is $8.00 per person if received by Wednesday, November 1, or $10.00 payable at the door.

Three Sentenced After Investigation

One man received a three-year suspended sentence and three others received sentences, following presentence investigations, in Circuit Court. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided.

Russell Edward Tasker, Dennett road, Oakland, pleaded guilty of receiving stolen goods, the property of Roy Gregory on Ben DeWitt road in June. Judge Thayer presided at the trial and sentenced Tasker to three years to the Commissioner of Correction. The sentence was suspended and Tasker was placed on supervised probation for three years. He was also fined $250 and court costs. He is also to return the TV set after having made the necessary repairs. The case was transferred from District Court in July.

Michael Lee Kasecamp, James Howard Finzel, and Thomas Edward House, all of Cumberland, had pled guilty of storehouse breaking at the Rt. 40 School in February, at a trial August 7. Judge Thayer then ordered a presentence investigation. Last Wednesday, all three were sentenced to 18 months to the Commissioner of Correction to run consecutively with a sentence imposed in Allegany County the same day. Each is to pay one third of the restitution to the Parole and Probation Department on release from serving the terms.

Heart Association Chapter Seeking CPR Trainees

The American Heart Association-Western Maryland Chapter is seeking clubs and organizations whose members would like to be trained in CPR. CPR (cardiopulmonary-resuscitation) is a combination of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart compressions. If it is properly done, CPR could save the lives of some victims of heart attack, drowning, suffocation, electrocution and drug overdose, according to Robert H. Longnecker. CPR project coordinator.

Mr. Longnecker said CPR can be learned in one four-hour session. Classes for clubs and organizations can be scheduled on most weekday evenings.

Students in the course will also learn how to recognize the early signs of heart attack and how to prolong their own lives through prudent living.

For more information persons should write to the American Heart Association, 551 North Centre Street, P. O. Box 1114, Cumberland, Maryland 21502 or call 724-4011 any weekday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Tips On Home Fire Prevention

National Fire Prevention Week is October 8-14. In light of that fact, A-T-O Inc., the world's largest integrated manufacturer of fire-protection equipment, has released the following article on home fire prevention.

Nearly every minute of the day, a fire breaks out in a dwelling somewhere in the United States.

Thousands of fires erupt each year as the result of careless use of tobacco and household chemicals, defective heating equipment, and overloaded electrical wiring. Nearly 9,000 lives are lost annually in U. S. fires.

Observance of a few common-sense precautions can greatly reduce the risk of a household fire. To be safe at home, William G. Gilmore, senior vice president of A-T-O Inc., the world's largest integrated manufacturer of fire-protection equipment, recommends that you:

—Keep a supply of large, deep-dish ashtrays throughout the home and be sure that all cigarettes are crushed out. When guests leave or before retiring, check each room for burning cigarettes. Most importantly, never smoke in bed.

—Cover all combustible materials such as gasoline, cleaning fluids, and paint thinners before storing. Keep them in a safe place. When using volatile materials, be sure there is adequate ventilation to carry away the fumes.

—Install a fire extinguisher in the kitchen and on each floor of a multi-level dwelling. Be sure all members of the family know where each extinguisher is located and how to use it. The extinguisher must be filled with the correct chemicals and fully charged at the proper level. Some extinguishers have a pressure gauge that you may have to check periodically, even if they have not been used. But in most models, refilling and recharging is necessary only after use. To be certain that all members of the family know how to use a fire extinguisher, it is suggested that the head of the family demonstrate its operation outdoors after buying it.

—Have your heating system and chimney checked before each winter season, and keep oily rags, newspapers and other combustible materials far away from heating equipment and stoves.

—Keep young children out of the kitchen when no adults are around, and keep matches out of their reach.

—Avoid overloading your electrical system. If your electric appliances are slow in warming up, they may be starved for current by overloaded or inadequate wiring. Circuits forced to carry too much current can burn white hot, searing insulation and touching off hidden wall fires which can burn for days, emitting deadly fumes. Be sure your fuses are of the proper amperage. Many electrical fires are caused by overfused fuse boxes.

—Conduct family fire drills periodically so that everyone knows what to do in case of fire and the best routes for evacuating the premises.

—Sleep with bedroom doors closed. If you smell smoke and the inside surface of the door is warm to the touch, do not open it. Instead, try to exit by another route or through a window.

—Consider installation of fire and smoke alarms to alert the family in time to escape a blaze.

—If it is necessary to call the fire department, give all pertinent information clearly and succinctly. If the fire cannot be reported by telephone, turn in an alarm at the nearest fire box. Be sure that all members of the family know where the nearest fire alarm is located.

—Call your local fire department to arrange an appointment for a fire-safety inspection. In many communities this service is provided for residents without charge.

"Fire safety precautions, together with early warning and knowledge of what to do in case of fire, are the best ways to make sure you and your family are safe at home," Mr. Gilmore concluded.

Summer Gasoline Use Up 4.5 Percent

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced last week that gasoline use during the months of June and July 1978 exceeded consumption during the same months of 1977 by nearly 15.3 million gallons, or 4.5 percent, pointing toward a possible record gasoline use for the summer of 1978.

"Maryland differed slightly from the national picture during the month of July 1978, when oil industry figures show the nation set a record in its demand for gasoline," Comptroller Goldstein said. "The 175,930,257 gallons of gasoline used by motorists in Maryland during July 1978 is the fourth highest amount ever used by motorists in a single month, but it also continues the recent trend of larger than normal increases in the use of gasoline."

The record for gasoline consumption in Maryland for a single month was set in August 1977, when 180,425,979 gallons were used.

"Because the months of July and August traditionally have the heaviest gasoline use, it is entirely possible that the summer of 1978 will break records for gasoline consumption and reflect the fastest growth in gasoline use in recent years," Mr. Goldstein said.

Motor vehicle fuel tax revenue also continues to grow at faster than usual rates. Total net revenue from fuel taxes for the months of July and August 1978, which reflect sales made in June and July, amounted to $35,142,993, up 5.08 percent over the $33.4 million collected during the same months of the previous year. A total of $34,663,534 has been distributed to the Transportation Trust Fund administered by the Maryland Department of Transportation. Part of this revenue is redistributed to Maryland subdivisions.

Small Farmers Recommend Solutions To Problems

TWELVE MARYLAND DELEGATES were among farmers from twelve states who attended the Northeastern Regional Small Farms Conference in Maine September 26-28, to discuss major farm problems and recommend needed reforms in government support to small farms. The conference was sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture, action, and the Community Services Administration, three government agencies, and was one of five regional conferences held across the nation. Maryland delegates are, left to right, front row, Ruth Ann Johnson, Mae Custer, Marie LeBark, Vivian Jordan; back row, Philip Perdue, Philip Johnson, Hubert Custer, Pauline Routzahn, Jay Hull, and Alfred Jordan. Absent from the photo are Sam and Alice Beattie, of Caroline County.

Farmers called for zoning guidelines and cooperation and financial support from national, state and local governments in keeping agricultural land available for production and improving soil fertility. These were solutions in answer to problems facing small farms in the Northeast.

The Northeast Regional Small Farms Conference held September 26-28 in Poland Spring, Maine, was the forum for farmers from 12 states to discuss their major problems and recommend needed reforms in government support to small farms.

Attending the conference from Garrett County were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert G. Custer, Deer Park.

The conference was sponsored by three federal agencies, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, ACTION (the volunteer agency which includes Peace Corps and VISTA), and the Community Services Administration, and was the last of five regional conferences held in the United States.

Among major problems identified by the delegates were difficulty in obtaining FmHA loans, increasing production costs, too much influence of big producers on government regulations affecting small producers, discriminatory estate taxes, inability of farmers to compete for agricultural land against more affluent sectors of the economy, and lack of sources of additional on-farm income.

Additional recommendations included increased help from FmHA in obtaining guidance on the types of loans available and speedier processing of loans once they are granted.

In addition to the group discussions delegates met with Federal decision makers and heard three keynote addresses given by Pat Sackrey, the Northeast Regional Coordinator, and Federal agency representatives Mary E. King, Deputy Director for ACTION, and Alex Mercure, USDA Assistant Secretary for Rural Development.

Mercure defined a small farmer as one whose gross income is $40,000 or less. Of the two million farmers in this category, 75% have incomes of $15,000 and work outside the farm, Mercure said. Only a half million small farmers earn their entire primary income from the farm, he added.

Ms. King called farmers the "last of the rugged individualists." Although individualism is a strength, small farmers must have a unified voice in presenting their concerns to government, she said.

The 12 states represented at the conference were Maine, New York, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia.

Nina Bishoff Is Honor Student At Hood College

One hundred thirty-five students received Convocation Honors at ceremonies marking the beginning of the 86th academic year at Hood College. In addition, 72 students were named Hood College Scholars. Among the Scholars is Nina Bishoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bishoff, Oakland.

Convocation Honors are awarded to students who took at least 24 credits and earned a 3.5 grade point average during the 1977-78 academic year. The grade point average is computed on a 4.0 scale.

Hood College Scholars have achieved Convocation Honors for two consecutive years.

Farmers Responsible For Grain Quality

"We hope Maryland farmers are checking the quality of their stored grain, under the farmer-owned reserve program," Paul A. Crowl, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said.

Because the farmers maintain ownership and responsibility of their reserve supplies, they are encouraged to check the grain regularly during the storage period, Crowl noted.

"We will spotcheck the grain and if we observe any problems, we will call them to the owners attention," Crowl said. "However, we emphasize that our inspections should not be relied on as a substitute for the farmer's regular inspections. Anytime farmers are in doubt as to the quality of the grain, they should contact the local ASCS county office at once."

"If farmers need more adequate structures, they also have the opportunity to obtain storage facility loans through ASCS to update or replace the structures, which also includes drying equipment," Crowl said. The loans carry a 7% interest rate and are repayable over an 8-year period if requested by the producer.

Cub Scout Leaders To Hold All-Day Training Session

Cub Scout Leaders from Potomac Council's three districts met at the Keyser Primary Middle School recently to plan an all-day training session called "Pow Wow" to be held at the Keyser Primary Middle School on Saturday, November 4. The "Pow Wow" is the largest training event of the year for Cub Leaders and offers new ideas and information from all parts of the Cub Scout Program.

Mrs. Audrey Liller and Mrs. Erthel Hinkle, both of Fort Ashby, will be serving as coordinators this year. They will be assisted by Mrs. Jane Schwab, Cumberland, who has served for several years on the "Pow Wow" staff.

During the day Cub Leaders will view and exhibit Cub Scout crafts and games representing all the different packs in the council. Six workshops will be conducted by volunteer trainers on the following topics: Pack Committee administration, Cubmasters, Webelos Leaders, Cub Scout Games, Cub Scout Crafts, and Skits.

The noon meal will follow the format of a model Blue and Gold Banquet, similar to the annual dinner each pack holds during February to celebrate the anniversary of Scouting. Potomac Council President David Nuzum, Keyser, will be the guest speaker.

Each of the workshops will be presented twice during the day, giving all leaders the opportunity to become familiar with more than one area of the program. Following the last workshop, members of the Pow Wow staff will present a model pack meeting.

Every Cub Scout pack in Potomac Council has been invited to attend the November event. Any persons interested in learning more about Cub Scouting are welcome. A pre-registration fee of $3.50 will be charged to help defray the cost of the literature and the meal. A limited amount of tickets will be available at the door at $4.00 each. Leaders have been urged to make reservations at least one week in advance.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. Our home, which we built ourselves after much struggle and sacrifice, is on a corner. We have lived here twenty-seven years.

The local school, a relatively modest facility in the beginning, was conveniently distant from us. Over the years, it expanded until now there are several school buildings, and it has grown into a school complex. The school grounds abut ours at the side rear of our property. On the front street side, there are two houses between us and what has become the school access and egress.

Due to the problems of traffic, noise, trespassing, littering, lights, dust, and pollution that this kind of situation causes, these two homes have deteriorated drastically in recent years. The present owners do not maintain their homes well, and they have also contributed to the problem by their own misuse and abuse of their properties. Their properties are, to put it mildly, unsightly.

We have tried to maintain our home properly, and each year the assessment on it goes up reflecting, we are told, market trends.

We know that property values have risen through inflation and other factors, but we fear the situation in our immediate neighborhood would definitely have a negative affect on the sale of our home were we to decide to sell. We feel this fact should be taken into consideration when our property is assessed.

We look to retirement in a few years, but the shadow of increasing assessments and greater taxes hovers over us, and we fear we may not be able to meet our expenses. Can you advise us? Thanks.

A. The way you have described the situation, you have enough evidence that should be considered in evaluation. One of the purposes of a periodic physical review of property, which is mandated by law, is to enable the assessor to observe and weigh these except ional influences.

Therefore, contact your assessments office and request that the assessor make an on-site investigation. He should be made aware of and recognize these problems.

No doubt, consideration has been given to depreciation, but obsolescence should be considered just as much as normal depreciation.

The economic obsolescence factor that is external to your property line is apparent through the encroachment of the school environment and the peripheral problems that ensue.

Another factor affecting the value of your property is recognized through what is called the principle of regression which simply means that, whenever there are dissimilar properties of the same general classification and within the same area, the better property will be adversely affected and its market value will fall. The condition of the adjacent and neighboring properties suggests this situation prevails. You should not have to sell your home to prove it.

The market analysis will only tell the assessor that, all conditions being normal, this is what the property should sell for; but an allowance should be given for these detracting factors which are problems that are not inherent to the property. Any competent assessor recognizes this. If, in a court case, the assessor could not prove an acknowledgement of this influence, the assessment, most likely, would not be upheld. The undesirable aspects of the school influence and degenerating condition of your neighbors' properties should entitle you to an appropriate allowance for loss in value after the theoretical market value has been established.

The property tax is not designed to be a punitive tax, and those who keep their property up should not be taxed at full replacement value under these conditions. Good luck in your meeting with your assessor.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to 'Assessment Answers-James Burley' in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

It was a record-smashing year for Suzuki's GS-1000.

First year bike shatters Pro-stock world records.

It didn't take long for Suzuki's new GS-1000 to become King of the Superbikes.

When it hit the streets, riders and writers raved about it. And when it hit the tracks, racers like Terry Vance set records on it.

Recently, Terry and his RC Engineering GS-1000 blistered the quarter in 9.24 seconds and reached a top speed of 144.92 mph! Both numbers are now IDBA Pro Stock world records.

Yet, it is not the bike's blazing speed that has folks buzzing. Rather, its all-around performance.

For instance, it corners like a factory road racer. Not surprising, with air forks up front. And five load settings plus four damping adjustments in back. Result: the most advanced suspension system around.

Go-power is supplied by the mighty 4-stroke DOHC 4-cylinder mill. And stop-power is provided by big disc brakes front and rear.

In short, the GS-1000 has it all. And that's why it can do it all.

AGENCY: Federal Insurance Administration, HUD.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (100-year) flood elevations listed below for selected locations in the Town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland.

These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

DATES:

The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in the above-named community.

ADDRESSES: Maps and other information showing the detailed outlines of the flood-prone areas and the proposed flood elevations are available for review at the Loch Lynn Heights Town Hall, Loch Lynn Heights, Maryland 21550.

Send comments to: Honorable Charles H. Tressler, Mayor of Loch Lynn Heights, 1610 Route 135, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland 21550.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Richard Krimm, Assistant Administrator, Office of Flood Insurance, (202) 755-5581 or Toll Free Line (800) 424-8872, Room 5270, 451 Seventh Street, SW, Washington, D.C. 20410.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Federal Insurance Administrator gives notice of the proposed determinations of base (100-year) flood elevations for the Town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland in accordance with section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448)), 42 U.S.C. 2001-4128, and 24 CFR 1917.4(a).

These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 1910.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or regional entities. The proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents.

The proposed base (100-year) flood elevations for selected locations are: in respective order, Source of Flooding, Location, Elevation in Feet National Geodetic Vertical Datum, Little Youghiogheny River, Upstream Corporate Limits, 2,392; Downstream Corporate Limts, 2,391.

Eagle Marching Band of Francis Scott Key High School

Eagle Marching Band To Compete In Local Field Show Competition

The "Eagle" Marching Band of Francis Scott Key High School, Union Bridge, will be one of the bands to compete in the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, October 14.

The band, which first entered into competition in the fall of 1977, will participate in field competition for the first time at the Autumn Glory Festival. The band consists of 63 musicians, a band front of 30 and a drum major.

Last fall the band won first place in the Junior-Senior High School Division of the Alsatia Mummer's Parade in Hagerstown. A second place was awarded the band in its second competition, the Govans VFW Memorial Day Parade of 1978 in Baltimore.

The director of the band, Susan H. Paxton came to Francis Scott Key in 1976. She received her BS degree in Music Education from Western Maryland College and is presently completing a Master's degree in the same from Towson State University. While at Western Maryland College, she was the Director of Halftime Activities and the Band Drum Major for two years. Ms. Paxton taught in the Baltimore County school system until the fall of 1976.

Francis Scott Key is a rural high school located near Union Bridge in northern Carroll County. Near the birthplace of Francis Scott Key, author of our National Anthem, it is surrounded by some seven small communities and is attended by approximately 978 students in grades 9 through 12.

Mr. And Mrs. John Wolf Receive Life Membership In Heart Chapter

Life memberships were granted to three volunteers of the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Chapter at a recent board of directors meeting, according to Dr. Harold J. Cordts, president.

Receiving designation as life members were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wolf, of Oakland, and G. Louis Spoerl Jr., of Cumberland. The new life members join Mrs. Mortimer M. Nehring, elected in 1972, and James W. Bishop, who was named in 1974. All have received the Gold Heart Award for distinguished service to the Heart Association.

Life membership is granted to persons who have given "unselfishly of their time and talent over many years of volunteer activity." The designation grants the right to fully participate and be a voting member of the Heart Association.

Mr. Wolf is a retired personnel and general operations manager for H-P Stores Inc., and is active in school, church and civic affairs. He served as general campaign chairman for Southern Garrett County in 1969 and has maintained a close liaison with Heart Association activities since that time. He is presently serving on the executive committee and is a member of the policy and chapter relations, fund raising advisory and budget and finance committees.

Mrs. Wolf became a member of the board of directors in 1971 and served as her husband's campaign chairman in 1973. She is a member of the fund raising committee.

The local Heart Association was founded June 26, 1948, by Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson and a group of local service and civic club members. The first officers were Dr. Jacobson, chairman; F. Allan Weatherholt, co-chairman; Mrs. Arthur C. Bright, secretary, and Gilbert Rehbeck, treasurer. The first executive director was Mrs. Betty Kirk, RN, who served from 1948 to 1955. Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, the present executive director, is completing her 23rd year of service, having been hired November 11, 1955. Dr. Jacobson, president-elect, will assume the office of president again in June, 1979.

The Heart Association has grown to full chapter status and is a member of the American Heart Association-Maryland Affiliate and the American Heart Association.

Festival of Opportunity

Several months of hard work by numerous individuals will culminate this week with four days of festivities. The Autumn Glory Festival has indeed improved over the years and, with the addition of a few new activities this year, perhaps the 1978 festival will be the finest ever.

The Autumn Glory Festival does not just happen. The success of anything depends directly upon the amount of work and planning which goes into it. In fact, the persons responsible for the ground work and most of the decision making, such as members of the promotion council, will begin work in the next month or two for the 1979 festival. It is this planning and organization that makes the difference between a good festival and an uneventful one.

The Autumn Glory Festival does indeed provide an abundance of opportunities, such as, the opportunity to promote our county and to show outsiders that we can truly entertain, the opportunity for many "foreign" dollars to be spent in Garrett County, the opportunity for civic and service organizations to raise money for worthy causes, the opportunity for many people and organizations to work together, forming a common bond and a common goal between them, the opportunity for families to get together and collectively delight in the various activities. The festival gives each and every one of us the opportunity to "get away from it all" and settle down for some real fun.

Autumn Glory offers something for everyone. Our best advice is simply to enjoy.

Barbara Flinn BPW "Woman Of The Year"

Mrs. Barbara Flinn, president of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's club, will be honored by that group October 17 as its "Woman of the Year" during special festivities to observe National Business Women's Week.

Mrs. Flinn, employed by the Garrett County Board of Education as a Title I resource teacher, has been a BPW member for more than 20 years, serving once before as president. In addition to club and work activities, Mrs. Flinn is a willing worker for St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, where she and her husband Eugene are members of the choir.

Each year the local Business and Professional Women's club honors women who have distinguished themselves in their careers and communities. Presentation of the award is generally scheduled to coincide with National Business Women's Week the third week in October, to help call attention to the contributions women make in the business world.

Mrs. Flinn and the other 29 state "Women of the Year" will be guests of honor at a banquet at the Washingtonian in Gaithersburg October 21. Miss Mildred Wucik is chairman of this year's "Woman of the Year" committee.

Members and their guests are invited to honor Mrs. Flinn at the October 17 meeting of the local club, beginning with dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Will o' the Wisp.

Public TV To Tape Shows Here During Autumn Festival

"Maryland Weekend" and "In Person," two popular programs broadcast weekly on TV 22, 28, 31, 67 — stations of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting — will be in Garrett County this month for the taping of programs that will be aired in November, according to Adele Emas, producer for the State's public TV system headquartered in Owings Mills, Maryland.

"For 'Maryland Weekend' we're going to record highlights of the Eleventh Annual Autumn Glory Festival, held in Oakland October 12th through the 15th," said Ms. Emas. "We want to show the rest of the State's citizens how much they're missing in beautiful Garrett County, including the brilliant Fall colors that make our Western Maryland mountains look like a spectacular Joseph's Coat. We'll focus on the major features at the Festival, too, including the Five-String Banjo Competition, the Fiddlers' Championships, the Tournament of Bands, the Antique Show and Sale, and the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade."

"In Person," a weekly half-hour interview program hosted by Rick Breitenfeld, executive director of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, will tape two programs on October 16. One guest will be Alta Schrock, Ph. D., the Garrett County biologist and as painting of structures that as painting of structures that does not increase the visibility teacher at Frostburg State College who has made significant contributions to the preservation of the heritage of Appalachia. The other guest will be Frederick Augustus Thayer III., former Garrett County State's Attorney (1962-74) and currently associate judge on the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court.

METTIKI MINE DEDICATED — Robert E. Thomas, founder and Chief Executive Officer of MAPCO, pictured left, unveils a dedication plaque at official opening ceremonies of the huge Mettiki coal mine last Thursday. The mine is located between Kempton and Table Rock on the Kempton Road. Assisting Mr. Thomas are three Japanese Steel company executives whose companies will be purchasing most of the coal mined at Mettiki. They are, left to right, S. Tanabi, Executive Vice President of Nippon Steel; K. Toji, representing Kobe Steel; and Y. Hashimoto, of Kanematsu-Gosho Steel. When the mine is in full operation in 1980, it will employ 500 persons and have an annual payroll of $12,000,000. (See story on page seven).

State May Approve Changes for Yough Corridor Rules

Emergency regulations which would reduce the Youghiogheny River scenic corridor from 11,000 acres to 8,000 acres and make other changes in land use restrictions may be implemented soon by the state.

Louis N. Phipps, Jr., deputy secretary of the Department of Natural Resources, has asked the Joint Standing Committee on Administrative Executive and Legislative Review to implement the regulations as soon as possible.

Support of the regulations by DNR comes more than a year and a half after the Youghiogheny guidelines were advertised for public hearings. Despite a hearing on the regulations in Garrett County in the summer of 1977, the state has yet to act on the rules.

Changes in the emergency regulations, particularly narrowing the corridor by approximately 3,000 acres, are proposed to make the rules more palatable to property owners along the Youghiogheny.

In a letter to Del. Carter M. Hickman, chairman of the joint legislative committee, Phipps said DNR feels it is imperative to enact the regulations for two reasons.

Although hearings were held some 16 months ago, DNR believes the testimony is still valid.

Some landowners have filed requests for exception to the regulations and it is difficult for DNR to evaluate their requests while proposed revisions are pending.

According to State Sen. Edward J. Mason, the new regulations not only will reduce the corridor size but they will also affect 69 properties, as compared to 112 which would be covered if the corridor remained at 11,000 acres.

One section of the revamped regulations states that the rules will not require plans or approval for:

Placement of signs pursuant to Regulation 16.

Operation of a home professional office and home occupation pursuant to Regulation 07E.

Change of interior color and interior configuration of structures.

Routine maintenance, such does not increase the visibility of the structure from the river.

Minor changes in road alignment or other routine road maintenance activity that does not increase the visibility of the road from the river.

Another section of the rule changes states that land acquired within the scenic corridor before May 28, 1976, which does not meet the development and use specifications of the regulations, such as minimum set-back and lot size requirements, will be treated as a special circumstance under the regulations.

Phipps' letter to Del. Hickman asking that the regulations be approved was sent to the joint legislative committee this past week.

Commissioners Postpone Decision In Railey, Inc. Rezoning Request

The Garrett County Commissioners have agreed to postpone until the end of the month a decision on rezoning land owned by Railey, Inc. along Deep Creek Lake and Route 219.

The commissioners discussed the matter at Monday's meeting with W. Marshall Rickert, county administrator; attorney Jack Turney, Tim Dugan, county planning director, and Railey's attorney Thomas Dabney before deciding to postpone the decision.

Raileys have requested that a portion of their property north of the Route 219 bridge be re-zoned from lake residential to town center. The commissioners have conducted two public hearings on the request, and will continue to evaluate statements made during these hearings prior to making their final decision.

Two weeks ago, Tim Dugan presented the Planning Commission's recommendations regarding the property rezoning, saying that at this time the Planning Commission feels insufficient grounds have been presented to approve the zoning change requested.

Mr. Dabney requested that the Commissioners further evaluate the original conditions leading to the decision in 1975 to classify the land as lake residential, arguing that the original zoning ordinance contained a mistake regarding lake residential classification of the firm's property.

Railey's Inc. wants to permit development of a small shopping complex on the property.

Mr. Dabney also requested that the commissioners defer action until his clients could be present. The Commissioners acceded with the request and will consider the matter for final action October 30.

In other events Monday, the commissioners were notified that the Department of Natural Resources has indicated it will publish a notice of intent in the October 20 Maryland Register, to issue a draft discharge permit for the new Deep Creek Lake sewer system.

Design for the system, which will provide a sewer treatment station for approximately one-fifth of the Deep Creek Lake area, is being prepared for the Garrett County Sanitary Commission by the consulting firm of Rummel, Klepper and Kahl.

Trout Unlimited, a sportsmen's group dedicated to preserving fishing habitat, had expressed concern about the project and its effect on the lake and the Youghiogheny River delaying it for one year, but had made no further remarks about this draft discharge permit prior to the October 9 deadline.

Dick Nace, representing the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, advised the commissioners that the standards of the permit were feasible from an engineering standpoint and met the verbal conditions negotiated at a meeting in Baltimore six weeks ago. Also attending the meeting at that time were Mr. Rickert and Jack Turney.

The Commissioners unanimously voted to endorse the draft permit as presently worded by DNR.

Tim Dugan then presented a memorandum from the Planning Commission outlining amendments to the draft of the Garrett County junkyard ordinance as presented at a public hearing August 28. The August 28 meeting was the second of two held by the commissioners to hear statements concerning the new ordinance.

As a result of the input received from the two hearings, and after the county attorney had reviewed the draft ordinance for legal sufficiency and advised that the ordinance met desirable standards, the commissioners Monday unanimously voted to adopt the ordinance, effective November 6.

Commissioners, Town Officials Decide Terms of Gas Revenue Repayment

The Board of Commissioners met with representatives of county municipalities at Garrett Community College Monday evening to decide ways to repay the towns for revenues which had mistakenly been given to the county by the Department of Transportation.

All towns except Mt. Lake Park were represented at the meeting, and all were agreeable to a plan to repay the monies over a four-year period beginning with the next fiscal year. The county owes the towns $203,658, which would be paid back at approximately $50,000 per year.

The commissioners told the town representatives that they would be able to repay the amounts without loss of services. Currently the county has budgeted $1.2 million anticipated from gasoline tax revenues.

The county owes Accident $1,477; Deer Park $1,144; Friendsville $38,175; Grantsville $32,589; Kitzmiller $13,995; Luch Lynn $7,992; Mt. Lake Park $23,522; and Oakland $98,665.

The proportion of gasoline tax revenue divided between the county and the towns is determined by a DOT computer, which had apparently made an error in 1969 which was not found until the beginning of the fiscal year 1978. Various other counties in the state also must pay funds to municipalities, and in some instances, towns owe the counties for mis-distributed funds. Cumberland owes Allegany county $31,000.

Gasoline tax revenues are used by the various towns to pay for road maintenance, sidewalk repair, street signs and stop lights.

The Maryland Municipal League and the Maryland Association of Counties are meeting this week to see what alternatives may be worked out on a statewide basis. If no more acceptable solution is forthcoming from these organizations, the county plans to proceed with the four-year, $50,000-a-year plan devised Monday evening.

Firemen Respond To Two Fires Near Deep Creek

Deep Creek firemen were called out Monday to two fires located in residences near Deep Creek Lake.

At 12:17 p.m. Deep Creek and Accident firemen went to the residence of Mark Nichols, a student, on Deep Creek Drive. The fire was caused by an overheated oil stove.

Robert H. Shimer, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties said damage was confined to the attic area. He added that the flue pipe was installed too close to combustible materials.

At 5:44 p.m. a trailer fire was reported on old Route 219, near Deep Creek Lake.

The trailer, owned by Leon Sites and rented to Cheryl Peterson, sustained moderate damage to the kitchen. The fire reportedly started when the oven in the gas stove malfunctioned.

Parking Lot To Use Honor System Of 10c An Hour

The Liberty Street parking lot in downtown Oakland will operate on an "honor system" as the result of cooperative efforts by the Oakland Mayor and Town Council and the Downtown Merchants' Association.

The parking lot, formerly the location of Naylors Hardware & Appliance stores, and Mammy's Restaurant, was leased this past Spring by the Mayor and Town Council to provide additional parking in the central business area. Conditions of the lease called for an annual rental equal to the amount of local taxes that would have been paid by the previous owners, and that the parking lot realize revenue for the Town of Oakland.

James R. "Smokey" Stanton, president of the council, stated that one of the frequent suggestions Oakland taxpayers made on a questionnaire was the addition of more parking spaces in the business district. The "Kwik-Park" spaces located throughout the shopping area were the first step in providing easy parking, and the Liberty Street lot in addition to the Municipal parking lot provide much needed spaces for merchants, businessmen and their clients.

Funds for the lot were donated by members of the Downtown Merchants' Association to purchase an automatic gate. However, the cost of such a gate, combined with Oakland's severe winters, made a mechanical gate impractical. Other methods such as meters, gate attendants and a numbering system were considered. These options included problems with snow removal, and maintenance costs, or increased costs due to heating and manpower.

The funds donated by the Oakland Merchants will be used to erect a sign stating that the lot is available for downtown users and customers and will utilize an Honor System of ten cents per hour or a portion thereof, with a maximum of four hours parking. In addition, any remaining funds will be used for improvement to the parking lot such as the installation of a time ticket unit early in the Spring.

Rentals for reserved spaces will continue on a monthly basis for a charge of $15. Persons wishing to rent a space should contact the Town Hall.

The Merchants' Association approved the parking lot system at their regular meeting held last Thursday.

Letters to the Editor

Sir:

During a recent visit to my home town, Oakland, Md., I was shocked to miss a beautiful old landmark that set on the side of a hill. A building that proudly stood for many, many years overlooking the city of Oakland (the Oakland Courthouse).

It is sad to think this beautiful building with its eagle perched atop, that gave the appearance of a protector over the city, "will be no more". The eagle now will be looking over a modern building. A fancy (hotel) jail, housing prisoners, that it was trying to protect the Oakland citizens from.

I have met a few people here in California that got married in Oakland. They mentioned how they will always remember the courthouse and how beautiful it looked standing on the side of the hill.

The people of the United States are constantly fighting to preserve the old landmarks/buildings. I do not understand how a decision could be made to destroy a piece of art like the courthouse. To hide it from view, by adding a modern building to its front.

The party and/or parties that made the decision to destroy the courthouse, also destroyed Oakland. It will never be the same. Here is hoping the parties involved can sleep at night, knowing that the courthouse has been relieved of its post overlooking the city of Oakland.

David A. McRobie
Reseda, California

Dear Sir:

In last week's paper one of the candidates running for County Commissioner ran an ad which has me a little more than perplexed.

He states that he will "use my position as commissioner to assure that assessments are fair and equitable to all." The assessment rate has been set by the State of Maryland at 50% of the property value. The commissioners control the tax rate not the assessment. As a commissioner he will be able to do nothing about the assessment — this is controlled by the State.

Concerning inheritance tax he states "if elected, I will use my influence to further reduce or eliminate this destructive tax on farms." Inheritance tax is controlled by the State and Federal governments. Again, as a commissioner he would have no control over it.

I would like to know does Mr. Gregg think we are uninformed enough to believe that a county commissioner directly influences either of these areas or does he not know who controls assessments and inheritance tax. In either case, I think it would behoove him to "bone up" on the duties and authority of a commissioner and also reassess his thinking concerning the intelligence of the Garrett County voter.

Sincerely,
Not As Ignorant
As Some Think

Dear Sir:

The complete turnabout of Maryland's Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor on the issue of state-facilitated Medicaid funding for abortions was not only more "politics as usual", it was morally reprehensible. Having staked out a firm anti-abortion position only a few days earlier with the statement, "I'm certainly not going to deny my conscience for four years, just because I'm Harry Hughes' lieutenant governor", Samuel Bogley caved in to the pressure placed upon him by the pro-abortionist Hughes and a coterie of militant feminists who had been pressuring Hughes to "silence" Bogley for his anti-abortion views. And once again the strident demands of a vocal minority were met with the firm resolve of the proverbial wet noodle, as Bogley obsequiously agreed to set aside his anti-abortion views for at least the next four years! What courage! What devotion to principle!

In retrospect, however, it is fortunate that these feminists exerted this pressure on Hughes, forcing his pro-abortionist views into the limelight. Otherwise this political parvenue who shot to political stardom almost overnight could still mask as a political moderate. Nor, without it, would we have learned of the crass shallowness of principle embodied in the Hughes-Bogley ticket.

It is now required that Mr. J. Glenn Beall, Hughes' Republican gubernatorial opponent, declare his position forthrightly on this issue, so that Marylanders can know whether he represents a choice or an echo on this truly life or death issue. For when all euphemisms are set aside, abortion is pure unadulterated murder!

Sincerely yours,
Anna Hohl

Dear Sir:

Your editorial of September 27, "Another Rathole" concerning the House Assassinations Committee and unnecessary projects is in line with the Liberty Analysis Committee — U.S.A. Their project, House Joint Resolution #23, is known as the Liberty Amendment. This is more extensive than Proposition 13 in California and extends from New York to California. This is a nation-wide effort, through petitions, to have Congress pass the Amendment.

This amendment will force the Federal Government to eliminate all of its 700 government corporations and Federal Agencies. It will return to the states and the private sector, activities such as HEW, which were unconstitutionally usurped by the Federal Government. It will reduce the cost of government and remove the unconstitutional restrictions on private business. It will repeal the Federal Gift Tax, Federal Inheritance Tax, and Federal Income Tax. It will increase the take-home pay of every wage earner and it will put the Constitution back into full force and effect.

Now, I know there are those who will ask, "How are we going to operate our government if we eliminate the income tax?" This is taken care of in the U.S. Constitution. Read it and study it!

More information on the Liberty Amendment can be found on petitions which have been placed throughout the county. Make an effort to acquaint yourself with this amendment and with your signature help Congress pass on this important piece of legislation. This, in turn, will reduce our Federal Government to a size which we can live with.

Petitions are located at the following places: Grantsville Ford, Buckel's Market, Casselman Motor Co., U & W Cloverfarm, Schlossnagle's Store, Fratz Mart, Matthews Food Store, Walt's General Store, Hawkinson Tread Service, Craig Motor Service, Ahern's Barber Shop, Oakland Auto Parts.

If more information, or more petitions are needed, please call 387-5830.

Respectfully yours,
Charles H. "Skeeter" Bowman

Drug Conviction Brings Five-Year Sentence To Man

A Millersville man received a five-year sentence on a drug conviction, as levied by Judge Fred A. Thayer last week in Circuit Court. Another received a suspended sentence for passing a forged document.

John Jeffrey Hall, Millersville, pleaded guilty of possession with intent to distribute phencylide, a narcotic drug. He was sentenced to the Commissioner of Correction for five years. This sentence is to run concurrently with a sentence he is presently serving as the result of a conviction in Worcester County.

The incident involved, occurred at the intersection of U. S. Routes 50 and 219 last November. Tfc. L. N. Smith M.S.P. investigated a stopped car with the lights on and found the subject passed out at the wheel. Drugs were found in the car when it was searched at the time it was stored for safety. Hall had been released from jail after posting a $20,000 corporate bond, following the arrest.

Curtis Richard Clary, Holley Lane, Mt. Lake Park, received a three-year suspended sentence following a presentence investigation. At an August trial he pleaded not guilty of passing a forged document, public document U. S. Currency. He was found guilty by Judge Thayer and the investigation was ordered. The incident involved the altering a one-dollar bill by pasting '20' over the 'one.' The bill was passed at Wynlyn's Edge in April. Clary's pleas of 'not guilty' of forgery was sustained.

Two Injured In Previous Accidents

Two auto mishaps injured two persons last Tuesday and Wednesday, one near Bloomington and the other near Friendsville.

David Allen Conant, PO Box, Bloomington, was driving east on Maryland 135 just west of Seldom Seen Road about 8:15 a.m. Wednesday. He had started to pass a slow moving truck. In doing so, Conant lost control on the wet road, spun around and struck the embankment and rolled over. He was apparently slightly hurt. Tfc. E. J. Upole investigated.

Just past noon last Tuesday, the driver of the pick-up, one of two vehicles, received slight injury in a mishap about two miles east of Friendsville. Mattzon Miller, RD 2, Accident, in his pick-up, was headed east on the Accident-Bear Creek Road at the same time David D. Uitel, RD 1, Addison (Md.), was westbound in a heavy duty truck. Miller crossed the center line of the road and struck the truck driven by Uitel. The heavy truck then continued on to the right and struck an embankment. The pick-up then went off the road to the left. Tfc. Gary Resh charged Miller with driving while in an intoxicated condition. Both vehicles were considerably damaged.

Two less serious accidents were noted as happening Thursday.

About 10:30 a.m. Gurney E. Rosenberger, RD 2, Frostburg, was northbound on Md. 495 about two miles south of Glendale Road. The driver went off the road to the right and lost control of the vehicle. When he attempted to get back on the road the car crossed the road and ran off the road on the left side and struck a wire fence. He was charged with failing to keep to the right side of the road by Tfc. L. N. Smith.

Another accident occurred on the Accident-Bear Creek Road at County Road No. 341 about 8:40 in the morning. James W. Lininger, Walnut Street, Friendsville, was westbound, rounding a sharp left curve. Robyn L. Garlitz, RD 1, Salisbury (Md.), failed to yield the right-of-way and the two vehicles collided.

Parking Topic Of Merchants' Meeting

Parking spaces were the chief topic of discussion Tuesday at the meeting of the Downtown Oakland Merchants' Association.

First on the agenda was approval of an honor system, at ten cents per hour, for use at the Liberty Street parking lot. Funds previously donated by the Oakland Merchants will be used to erect a sign stating the lot is available for downtown users and any remaining funds will be used for improvements such as installation of a time ticket unit, possibly early next spring.

The second discussion centered around the proposal to ask the town of Oakland to re-erect parking meters on spaces on the east side of Third Street, from Western Auto to Third Street. Although this is part of the State Highway System, the town retains the right to erect meters at its own discretion.

Mettiki Mine Is Officially Opened In Ceremonies Held Last Thursday

Dedication of the huge Mettiki Mine of MAPCO Inc., of Tulsa, Oklahoma, between Table Rock and Kempton, took place last Thursday, October 5, at 11 a.m., with approximately 500 people attending.

Those present included the mine superintendents, officials of MAPCO, Japanese buyers of the metallurgical coal that will be mined there, railroad and public officials, miners employed in the multi-million dollar complex and their families. Some of those individuals are pictured above. The Southern Highlander Band also performed.

A luncheon, catered by an Oakland restaurant, was served following the ceremony in the eight-story high preparation building. MAPCO president Robert E. Thomas then led those attending on a tour of the facilities.

Mettiki is expected by 1980 to produce 1.8 million tons of coal a year which will be shipped to Nippon and Kobe steelmakers of Japan through the Port of Baltimore via the Western Maryland Railway.

Some coal has been mined to date at Mettiki to test the cleaning plant. On September 21 a trainload of coal was shipped from the plant, with the tipple able to load an 80-ton hopper in only three minutes.

William P. Colliton — President of Western Maryland Railroad.

The first shipments to Japan are expected to begin later this month.

The dedication of Mettiki Mine marked the first opening of deep mines in Garrett County in many years. Three years ago another Tulsa energy company, Anchor Coal Company, took leases on mineral rights to 6,000 acres south of Grantsville, but after spending nearly $25,000 on engineering and at various governmental hearings, temporarily dropped the project.

MAPCO will mine the Upper Freeport Seam which runs up to eight feet in thickness. Continuous miners, machines with cutters that move horizontally along the coal face, load coal into shuttle cars, and then move it to the preparation plant where it is cleaned.

Presently, 125 miners are on the payroll, but when full production is reached in 1980 there will be 500 on the payroll. This will create an annual payroll of nearly $12,000,000.

MAPCO has named its mine Mettiki because it will be producing metallurgical coal. This is in keeping with the firm's five Kentucky mines which have names like Dotiki and Martiki. "The legend of the Tiki" is a Polynesian good luck tale, MAPCO said.

Final Plans Made For Road Rally

The Garrett Association for Retarded Citizens has made final plans for its Sunday, October 15, 1978 Autumn Glory Festival Road Rally.

The Rally combines the features of a Fall Sunday drive with the driving and navigational skills required in an auto competition. The Rally route is designed to take the participants past many of Garrett County's natural and historical points of interest.

A Road Rally is a competition to determine which car comes closest to the actual mileage of the route. Each car must have a licensed driver and a navigator. Directions for the route will be in the form of written clues. An entry fee of $5.00 per car will be collected and registration for the Road Rally will be from 10:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m.

Cars will be started on the Road Rally route from 11:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. The Road Rally will end promptly at 6:00 p.m.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three cars that finish the route. In addition, each participant will be presented with a practical souvenir.

If any of the contestants get lost, they may open the sealed envelope that contains the final destination point of the Rally. Automobile and driver safety will be emphasized throughout the Road Rally.

Proceeds from the Rally will be used to pay expenses and finance the Garrett Association for Retarded Citizens activities in promoting the rights of and assisting in providing services for the mentally impaired people in Garrett County.

The trophies for the winners are now on display at Helbig's Sport Shop in Oakland.

Theft Reported For Shock Value

A thief must have had a change of heart, or the items did not fit, according to a report made by a Crellin woman to the Garrett County Sheriff's department.

Mrs. Lillian Jordan, Crellin, reported to deputies that someone had taken shock absorbers from her Dodge Dart during the night of September 27. Mrs. Jordan did not report the theft, however, until October 3. On the evening of the 3rd, she had gone to her door in response to a knock and found, not a visitor, but her missing shock absorbers. She also found several other small items which also apparently had been taken from her property.

Thomas B.
DABNEY, JR.
for State's Attorney

Re—Drug Problems

Dear Fellow Garrett Countians—

Drugs in our schools and community continue to be a problem. Four years ago when I ran as the Democratic candidate for State's Attorney, I promised the voters that, if elected, my top priority as State's Attorney would be to crack down on the sale and distribution of drugs.

Four years ago when I campaigned, the drug issue was one everyone agreed should immediately be dealt with. During the campaigns, I personally talked with parents, teachers, police officers, school officials and civic leaders all over the county.

Little has changed in four years. Our youth continue to be exposed to drugs at school and in the community. Parents and teachers continue to complain, some even in anger, about the total lack of action and concern.

Police officials are also concerned, but they need the cooperation and assistance of the State's Attorney's office. They need the State's Attorney to help coordinate and plan in the enforcement procedures to be used. They know that drug dealers are devious and that drug dealers will use all legal and illegal methods available to avoid detection and arrest.

I renew my promise to you now — the arrest and conviction of drug sellers and distributors will be my number one priority.

Drugs are a danger to you, your family and your neighbors. A vote for me on November 7th will be a vote for vigorous enforcement of the drug laws.

Sincerely,

Thomas B. Dabney, Jr.
Democratic Candidate for State's Attorney

Grantsville School Plans Halloween Social October 27

Grantsville Elementary School is planning its annual Halloween Social Friday, October 27 as a community effort under the direction of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Judging of costumes will take place promptly at 6:30 p.m. in the Grantsville Fire Hall. Trophies will be awarded in four categories: scariest, funniest, prettiest, and most original. Children will be divided into age groups as follows: pre-school; kindergarden and first grade; second and third grade; fourth and fifth grade; and, there will also be a prize given in the adult category this year. Immediately following the judging, a parade will leave the fire hall and proceed to the school.

The social will consist of a white elephant sale, bake sale, spook house, games and prizes. This year there will also be raffle prizes donated by local businesses. Harvest Basket winners will be drawn that evening. The school students will be selling these Harvest Basket tickets prior to the social. There will be tickets on sale at the school that evening for games and refreshments. They will sell seven for $1.00 or 15 cents apiece. All the proceeds from the social go to the Parent-Teacher Association and are used for school improvements.

Community support is encouraged for the success of the Halloween Social, since children in Grantsville do not go door to door trick or treating because of the weather and unsafe conditions such as the lack of street lights. Boxes have been placed in local businesses for contributions for anyone interested.

Huskies Defeated 42-7 By Shade

Galen Kamp raced for his second long kickoff return for a touchdown in as many games, averting a shutout as the Northern High School Huskies endured a 42-7 loss Friday evening at the hands of Shade at Northern. Shad High School is located near Uniontown, Pa.

Northern, swallowing their fifth defeat of the season, were amply defended by Tom VanSickle and Neil Garlock, both of whom registered numerous individual tackles and assisted on others.

Kamp's kickoff return for a touchdown covered 90 yards and it came in the final minutes of the fourth quarter following the visitor's 42nd point.

Shade's John Kolonich scored two touchdowns, on runs from scrimmage of seven yards and one yard. Shade led at halftime by a 23-0 score.

SHADE RUNNING BACK, Dave Tomlinson, crashes through the Northern Huskie defense and across the goal line for one of six Shade touchdowns last Friday night on the Northern field. The Huskies have yet to win a game this season. Also identifiable in the photo are Huskies' Tom VanSickle, #60; Neil Garlock, #61; and Dave Durst, #74.

NORTHERN HUSKIE, Larry Edgar, #21, looks for running room behind a host of Huskie blockers in last Friday night's contest against the Shade High School Panthers. The visitors proved to be too tough for the Garrett Countians, defeating them 42-7. Also in the photo are Huskies Phil Workman, #12; Ron Keisten, #24; and Galen Kamp, #32.

LET HOUSE CUT TAX BILL

Your home should be, besides your nest of dreams, an income tax saver. From the moment you take title to the day you turn over the key to the next inhabitants, you are endowed with opportunities to minimize your tax bill.

While you own the home, your two major annual deductions are property taxes and the interest on the mortgage. These can be considerable deductions.

Keep in mind that it doesn't matter whether you pay property taxes directly or through an escrow account held by the bank. In either case, you deduct the sum actually paid to the local taxing authority.

Also, using part of your home for business purposes constitutes a deduction for that portion of the home expenses used for the business. It is based on the square footage of space used for business. However, it must be used exclusively for business.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

Bowling League For Handicapped Formed Recently

The Appalachian Adult Activities Center has announced the formation of a Handicapped Bowling League. Jodie Bennett of the Appalachian Adult Activities Center stated that the league's formation has been possible due to the cooperation of the local community.

"There have been a number of cases recently reported sighting discrimination with handicapped bowlers. Recently there was a news article in this newspaper stating a case of accused discrimination concerning a handicapped bowler in Cincinnati, Ohio. We are extremely fortunate to have the fine cooperation that we do in the county. Our community has always been open and attentive to the needs of the handicapped." Ms. Bennett said.

The Handicapped Bowling League will consist of six teams which will bowl at Par-Matt Lanes twice monthly.

The team members are as follows: 1. Southern States, consisting of Gary Shafer, Virginia Simon, Dorothy Rounds, Bill Faulkner and Pat Foley; 2. Browning's Foodland, consisting of Ruth Speicher, Ralph Friend, Abbott Stiles, Lyn Dean and Roberta Barnard; 3. Gregg's Pharmacy, consisting of Margie Bell, Jean Dill, Michael Mance, Patty Beckman, and Paul Rounds; 4. Pizza Pub, consisting of Ronald Cosner, Ben Broadwater, Don Tasker, Vauda Legeer, and Helen Stemple; Pepsi Cola, consisting of Eleanor Wilson, Doug Bender, Margaret Ashby, Theresa Perry, and Johnny Thomas.

Staff members from the Appalachian Adult Activities Center will provide supervision and scorekeeping for the bowling participants. Lee Shaffer and Chris Poland will serve as league statisticians.

Trophies and a luncheon will climax the bowling season.

Hampshire Storms Over Rams, 27-6

In a 27-6 decision, host Hampshire High rolled over Southern last Friday evening.

Trojan Quarterback, Steve Brock connected with Jeff Cunningham on a pair of touchdown plays and Kirby Smith gained 65 of his 141 yards rushing on a first quarter TD run.

Hampshire overwhelmed the Rams by a 288-152 total offense yard margin. In the game's opening, Kenny Adams scored on a 40-yard run, but the Rams retaliated as Mike Bolding dove from the one to even the tally, 6-6.

Smith then broke loose with a 65-yard spree and in the second quarter, Brock hit Cunningham for a three-yard TD pass play to settle Hampshire in a 20-6 halftime advantage.

The Brock-Cunningham combination was utilized again in the third period to achieve the final scoring play.

Smith gained his 141 yards on 19 totes while Adams tallied 84 yards on 13 carries and Brock was 31 for eight. Steve Haines and Duane Heishman led defense for the victors.

God Created The Redwoods . . .
Dehus Makes Redwood Creations

IT'S NOT DRIFTWOOD — Mike Dehus stores most of his wood in his workshop. This pile of burled Redwood root is used mainly for table bases. Mike stated that all of his wood has been exterminated to prevent insect infestation of a home.

By Beverly J. Sincell

The Redwoods of California — giants in their own right which date back over 130 million years when dinosaurs still roamed the earth — some standing today are 3800 years old, some reach 360 feet in height, the champion stands at 367.8 feet. They hovered over the Indians when they roamed free over the countryside, they watched as the early settlers settled on the land, many fell by the saws of the loggers in the mid to late 1800's.

Near the Russian River in California, the great Redwood Forests were cleared at the turn of the century to make way for vineyards. The roots, considered useless debris, were hauled to a deserted stretch of seacoast where craftsmen found them 100 years later. These craftsmen found a value in the wood — using their skills and creativity they used the wood to make various items such as clocks, wall sculptures and cocktail tables. Mike Dehus, of Oakland, is one such craftsman.

Mike, a native of Uniontown, Pa., was first introduced to the handcrafted Redwood furnishings three years ago but did not develop an interest in the craft as a profession until later. He and his wife, Oakland-born Jan (Jones) Dehus, bought pieces of the wood to refinish for themselves making a coffee table and clock. This past April, after many requests from friends to build similar pieces, Mike and Jan launched into the business of building furniture from Redwood and opened Redwood Expressions, their shop located at the Bottling Plant in Oakland.

A JUMBO SLAB — Mike says the Redwood root slabs come in small, medium large, extra large, and jumbo sizes. When Mike bought the slabs they were measured from point to point and priced accordingly. This slab measures 7'3" from point to point; Mike estimates it to be 300 years old.

Woodworking was nothing new to Mike now 24 years old who came from a line of woodworkers. His grandfather was a craftsman in making cabinets and did intricate wood work for church pieces. His father continued the tradition by working with wood as a hobby. "I learned the basics from them," Mike said. He went to Philadelphia for two weeks to study some of the specialized techniques needed in his craft used at a company that builds Redwood pieces. Philadelphia is also the eastern center for Redwood shipped from California and where Mike buys his wood.

In his workshop, located behind his house on Oak Street, Mike begins the process of creating a piece which will take approximately two weeks to complete. "You can put in around 100 man hours for one large table," he said.

Mike starts with the unfinished cut pieces of wood which he may cut down further, depending on his intended use for the wood. After planing the wood, he uses a specialized process of sand blasting to completely sand the edges of the wood. Next comes a series of eight different types of sanding followed by handrubbing six to ten coats of Urethane into the wood. For the finishing touches, as Mike described it, he waxes "the piece with the finest imported pastewax, giving it a lustrous finish, resistant to alcohol and water.

Mike enhances the natural wood in every way possible, even to preserving natural cracks in the wood. He inserts a butterfly-shaped piece of metal on the underside of the crack to prevent it from further cracking.

In constructing a table, Mike works to complement the base with the tabletop, which sometimes means taking pieces of the burled root and cutting away or adding to it to shape it to the top. He uses an epoxy to seal the base to the top, which Mike calls "rat seal" and guarantees will always hold secure.

Mike's finished product is not to be confused with many redwood items found in furniture stores that are thickly coated with plastic resin. "My main objective is to offer high quality furniture made specially to suit each individual's needs and tastes," said Mike.

Mike concentrates on making tables, planter stands and clocks, but he says there is no limit to what he can make. "Just use your imagination," he said.

The burled redwood root Mike uses has a special beauty because of the one hundred years of exposure to ocean spray. "The chemicals from the water," Mike explained, "produced a unique range of colors — from blonde to touches of deep purple — in the wood. The surface of the burled roots, which may be 20 feet in diameter and weigh several tons, is dirty grey. But laterally slicing the roots reveals swirling elemental forms and the different colors, which are brought out and enhanced by sanding and finishing."

Although Mike works mainly with the burled root of the redwood trees, he also uses three kinds of walnut — English, French and Black — and one of the rarest hardwoods in the United States, myrtle wood. But his supply does not end there, he also can use India Rosewood, imported from India, Buck-eye Burl and, well, about any type of wood available.

THE FINISHED PRODUCT — Mike primarily builds coffee tables, planter stands and clocks, although he says he is not limited to these.

AND NOW, THE NEXT STEP — After planing the slab of wood, Mike begins the process of sanding. By sanding it eight times with eight different grades of sandpaper Mike ultimately exposes the grain and coloring in the centuries-old wood.

A CENTURIES-OLD CLOCK — At least the wood is. Mike built this clock out of black Redwood. The wood turned black as a result of being burned in a forest fire and then exposed to ocean spray for one hundred years. Holding the clock is Mike's wife, Jan Dehus, a native of Mt. Lake Park.

Fire Prevention Association Gives Rules For Coal, Wood Stove Users

As a result of the energy shortage, many people are using or seeking alternative sources of energy. In some cases their purpose is two-fold: to provide supplementary heat to offset the scarcity of the fuel they normally use, and to provide for standby heat during an emergency, such as a power outage in an ice storm.

Since the fuel crisis includes a shortage of fuel oil and kerosene, many people are turning to coal and wood burning stoves and fireplaces as alternate sources of heat.

Unfortunately, very few people know how to select, install, operate and maintain solid fuel heating equipment. Safety depends on knowing all of those things, and safety is of the utmost importance, according to the National Fire Protection Association. In an attempt to eliminate potential losses from the misuse of coal and wood fuels, The Republican is cooperating with the state fire marshal's office in presenting information on the selection, installation, use and maintenance of coal and wood burning equipment as well as their chimney connectors (stove pipes) and chimneys. In addition, specific fire hazards associated with solid fuel burning equipment will be reviewed.

This week's article reviews selection of equipment.

SELECTION OF EQUIPMENT

Many homes already have fireplaces; thus the question of what to use as an alternate heat source in those instances can be easily answered. (Tests made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering, indicate, however, that an ordinary fireplace is only about one-third as efficient as a good stove).

But in the absence of a fireplace the homeowner must turn to some other heating device for backup warmth. Unfortunately, there may be little to choose from, since the fuel shortage has caused a "run" on the available supply of solid fuel stoves. Therefore, unless a prospective purchaser is willing to wait several months, his selection of equipment will be severely limited.

Nevertheless, there are several factors that affect safety and that should therefore be considered in the selection of an alternative heating source. These are:

1. the condition of an existing fireplace and its chimney;
2. the condition of an available stove;
3. the available means for venting; and
4. whether coal or wood is to be used as fuel.

EXISTING FIREPLACE AND CHIMNEY

Some fireplaces are merely for "show" as part of the decor; they may or may not have a chimney flue. Naturally, a false "fireplace" which has no chimney flue must not be used, unvented toxic products of combustion are deadly. The same thing is true, of course, though less obvious to many householders, regarding unvented solid fuel grills, etc. But even a real fireplace that has never been used, together with its chimney, should be thoroughly inspected for compliance with Chimneys, Fireplaces and Vents (NFPA No. 211 — 1972). Unfortunately, chimneys with walls too thin and without flue linings or without proper clearances from combustible structural members of the building have been built in many areas.

If the fireplace has been previously used, it and its chimney should be inspected before being reactivated to see that the chimney is clean; that the damper is in working order (if there is a damper — some chimneys have been built without a damper); that the chimney, fireplace, and hearth are in good repair (there may be loose mortar, etc.); and that no alteration to the structure has been made in the immediate vicinity of the fireplace, such as partition changes, the addition of cabinets or bookcases, and similar alterations that will affect heat transfer from the fireplace to combustible materials. The fireplace must have a tight fitting screen to prevent sparks and hot coals from popping out.

STOVES

A used stove should be checked for cracks or other defects that may require repairs with stove cement, as well as for more obvious defects, such as faulty legs, hinges, draft louvers, etc. If there are severe cracks, they should be welded by an expert; or, preferably, a stove in better repair should be sought. If the stove is for use with coal, it must have grates in good repair.

A new stove should be made of sturdy, suitable materials, such as cast iron, and preferably purchased from a reliable dealer that has stove experts on his staff. Several types of stoves are illustrated in Figures 1 through 3. They are made in various sizes.

FLUES AND CHIMNEY CONNECTORS

Venting must be provided for the stove selected. Maybe an existing chimney with a blocked off flue entrance is available. Otherwise, a complete chimney in addition to a chimney connector will be needed.

TYPE OF FUEL

Although fireplaces and stoves can usually be adjusted or altered to burn either coal or wood, the stove selected must either be suitable or altered so that it will be suitable for the fuel to be used. For example a stove and chimney connector equipped to burn coal may need a heavier flue lining if used to burn wood; and a fireplace or stove must be equipped with grates if coal is to be burned. (A wood burning fireplace usually has andirons).

Firemen Will Inspect Heating Systems During Annual Fire Prevention Week

During the fall and winter seasons, area residents will be putting into use their furnaces and wood and coal burning stoves. As this is National Fire Prevention Week, members of the Oakland and Deer Park Volunteer fire departments are urging all residents to check their heating equipment to be sure it is in proper working order and will operate in a safe manner.

During fire prevention week, residents in the Oakland and Deer Park running areas are urged to have firemen to give free inspections of their heating equipment. Inspections may be arranged by calling 334-9402.

The local firemen suggest home owners check filters in their furnaces regularly, and clean and replace dirty filters as needed.

Those with wood and coal heaters are asked to make sure flues are effective, properly vented and the flue pipe placed away from combustible materials. Only seasoned wood should be used, and flues cleaned at least twice a season to make sure residue does not build up inside.

Additional suggestions to help prevent home fires as listed by the firemen and the National Fire Prevention Association, include:

Defective electrical wiring and appliances account for 36 per cent of residential fires. Installing or extending home wiring is not a do-it-yourself job. Call in a qualified electrician.

Have a family escape plan which includes a pre-arranged meeting place outside the house. Many parents have died in fires as a result of rushing back into a fire after a missing child. The child, in the meantime, may have been safely outdoors on the other side of the house.

Nearly half of all residential fires begin as a result of cooking accidents. Grease should always be cleaned from the range. Curtains should not be near enough to the range to blow into or near the flame. Dishcloths, potholders and other flammable materials should not be placed carelessly near a flame.

Leave a door or window slightly open when using a portable gas or oil heater. This allows the oxygen it uses to be replaced. Do not leave the heater burning during the night.

Do not clean clothing with benzine or gasoline. It's better to spend a little money at the local cleaner than risk losing your home in a fire.

Never use kerosene or other flammable liquids to start a fire in a furnace, fireplace, or wood burning stove.

Do not use your basement, closets and attic as a storage spot for newspapers, old furniture and other trash which may easily catch fire.
